DIALOGUE XIV.

ASPASIO was employed in preparing for his Journey. Theron, free from Business, and disengaged from Company, had the greatest Part of the Day to Himself. Which he spent in reviewing the Substance of their late Conferences; not without intermingled Aspirations to GOD, for the Guidance of his Divine SPIRIT.

At Evening He went, like the Patriarch of old, *into the Field to meditate: amidst the Calm of Nature, to meditate on the Grace of the Gospel.—The Sky was peculiarly beautiful, and perfectly clear; only where the fine Indigo received an agreeable Heightening, by a few thin and scattered Clouds; which imbibed the solar Rays, and looked like pensile Fleeces of purest Wool.—All Things appeared with so mild, so majestic, so charming an Aspect, that, intent as He was upon a different Subject, He could not but indulge the following Soliloquy.

* Gen. xxiv. 63.

“ How delightful are the Scenes of rural Nature !
 “ Especially, to the philosophic Eye, and contemplative “ Mind.—I cannot wonder, that Persons in high Life, “ are so fond of retiring from a conspicuous and exalted “ Station, to the Covert of a shady Grove, or the Mar“ gin of a crystal Stream. Are so desirous of quitting
 “ the smoky Town, and noisy Street ; in order to breathe “ purer Air, and survey the Wonders of Creation, in “ the silent, the serene, the peaceful Villa.

“ 'Tis true, in the Country, there are none of the “ modish, I had almost said, meretricious Ornaments “ of that false Politeness, which refines People out of “ their Veracity. But an easy Simplicity of Manners, “ with an unaffected Sincerity of Mind.—Here, the “ solemn Farce of Ceremony is seldom brought into “ play ; and the pleasing Delusions of Compliment have “ no place. But the Brow is the real Index of the “ Temper, and Speech the genuine Interpreter of the “ Heart.

“ In the Country, I acknowledge, We are seldom “ invited to see the mimic Attempts of human Art. But “ We, every where, behold the grand and masterly “ Exertions of divine Power.—No Theatre erects its “ narrow Stage ; surrounds it, with puny Rows of as“ cending Seats ; or adorns it, with a shifting Series “ of gorgeous Scenery. But Fields extend their ample “ Area ; at first, lightly clad with a Scarf of springing “ Green ; then, deeply planted with an Arrangement “ of spindling Stalks ; as a few more Weeks advance, “ covered with a Profusion of bearded or husky Grain ;
 “ at last, richly laden with a Harvest of yellow Plenty.

“ Meadows disclose their beautiful Bosom ; yield a “ soft and fertile Lap for the luxuriant Herbage ; and “ suckle Myriads of the fairest, gayest Flowers. Which,
 “ without any vain Ostentation, or jealous Anxiety, “ rival each other in all the Elegance of Dress.—Groves
 “ of various Leaf ; arrayed in freshest Verdure, and “ liberal of their reviving Shade ; rise, in amiable, in “ noble Prospect, all around.—Droves of sturdy Oxen, “ strong

“ strong for Labour, or fat for the Shambles; Herds of “ sleeky Kine, with Milk in their Udders, and Violets
 “ in their Nostrils; Flocks of well-fleeced Sheep, with “ their snowy Lambkins, frisking at their Side; these “ compose the living Machinery.—Boundless Tracts of “ bending Azure, varnished with inimitable Delicacy, “ and hung with starry Lamps, or irradiated with solar “ Lustre, form the stately Cieling.—While the early “ Breezes, and the Evening Gales; charged with no “ unwholesome Vapours, breeding no pestilential Taint;
 “ but fanning the humid Buds, and waving their odo“ riferous Wings, dispense a Profusion of Sweets, mingled “ with the most sovereign Supports of Health.—This “ is the School of Industry! This the Magazine of “ Plenty! And are they not incomparably more delight- “ ful, as well as infinitely less dangerous, than those Se“ minaries of Lewdness and Impiety, where Sin and “ Ruin wear the Mask of Pleasure? Than those Tem“ ples of Profuseness and Debauchery, where Belial is “ daily or nightly worshipped with, what his Votaries
 “ call, modish Recreation, or genteel Amusement?

“ Here indeed is no tuneful Voice, to melt in Strains
 “ of amorous Anguish, and transfuse the sickening “ Fondness to the Hearer’s Breast. No skilful Artist, “ to inform the Lute with musical Enchantment; to “ strike infectious Melody from the Viol; and sooth “ away the Resolution and Activity of Virtue, in wan“ ton Desires, or voluptuous Indolence.—But the Plains
 “ low; the Hills bleat; and the hollow circling Rocks echo “ with the universal Song. Every Valley remurmurs to “ the Fall of silver Fountains, or the liquid Lapse of gur“ gling Rills.—Birds, when the chearful Morning rises, “ or the gentle Evening descends, perched on a thou“ sand Boughs, play a thousand Airs, wildly yet sweetly “ harmonious. And did ever Music exceed their un“ taught sprightly Warblings? Or can any Colours out-“ vie their gay and glossy Plumage?

“ Charmed therefore with the finest Views; lulled
 “ with the softest Sounds, and treated with the richest

“ Odours ; what can be wanting to complete the De“ light ? Here is every Entertainment for the Eye ; the “ most refined Gratifications for the Ear ; and a perpe- “ tual Banquet for the Smell ; without any insidious “ Decoy, for the Integrity of our Conduct, or even for “ the Purity of our Fancy.

“ O ye blooming Walks, and flowery Lawns, sur“ rounded with dewy Landscapes ! How often have “ Patriots and Heroes, laid aside the Burden of Power,
 “ and stole away from the Glare of Grandeur, to enjoy “ themselves* in your composed Retreats !—Ye mossy “ Couches, and fragrant Bowers, skirted with cooling “ Cascades ! How many illustrious Personages, after all “ their glorious Toil for the public Good, have fought
 “ an honourable and welcome Repose in your downy “ Lap † ?—Ye venerable Oaks, and solemn Groves !
 “ Woods, that whisper to the quivering Gale ! Cliffs,
 “ that over-hang the darkening Flood ! Who can num“ ber the Sages and Saints, that have devoted the Day
 “ to Study, or resigned a vacant Hour to healthy Exer“ cise, beneath your sylvan Porticos, and waving Arches ?
 “ That, far from the dull Impertinence of Man, have “ listened to the instructive Voice of GOD ; and con“ templated the Works of his adorable Hand, amidst “ your moss-grown Cells, and rocky Shades.—How “ inelegant, or how insensible is the Mind, which has no “ awakened lively Relish for these sweet Recesses, and “ their exquisite Beauties !”

But whither am I carried ? Is not this rural Enthusa- stasm ? I find myself talking to Trees ; and forget the momentous Question, which waits for our Decision.

* ————— Mibi me reddentis Agelli, says Horace of his little Country-seat.

† Virgil was so smitten with the Amiability of these Scenes, that He assigns them as an Habitation for happy Spirits, in the Regions of Elysium.

————— Lucis habitamus opacis,
Riparumque Toros, & Prata recentia Rivis
Incolimus.

Here then let my Rhapsody cease, and my Enquiry proceed.—Does it betray a Want of true Delicacy, to be insensible of Nature's Charms? My Aspasio thinks, it argues as wrong a Taste in practical Divinity, not to acquiesce in the imputed Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST.—To this Doctrine I have always been extremely averse. I set myself to oppose it with Objections drawn from the Reason of Things, and from various Passages of Scripture. To all which my Friend replied. And though I was scarcely convinced, yet I was silenced by his Answers.

I pleaded for the Sufficiency of our sincere Obedience. Especially when accompanied with Repentance, and recommended by the Merits of CHRIST.—Neither was this Attempt successful. His Arguments, somewhat like the flaming Sword, planted at the Entrance of Paradise, *turned every Way; and precluded all Access to Life, on the Foot of our own Duties.

At length, Aspasio quitted the defensive, and attacked me in his Turn. He explained the Precepts, and enforced the Threatenings of the divine Law. So exact its Tenour! That it demands a perfect and persevering Conformity to every Injunction.—So extensive its Authority! That it reaches the inmost Thoughts; and requires Obedience, not barely in the Actions of the Life, but the very Intentions of the Heart.—So inexorable its Severity, That it condemns every the smallest Offence, and curses every the least Offender.

This Remonstrance had some of the Terror, and almost all the Effect, of a masked Battery.—It was quite unexpected, and alarmed me considerably.—To push his Advantage, He enlarged upon the infinite Purity of GOD. A GOD glorious in Holiness: Who cannot look upon Evil, with any Connivance, or without the utmost Abhorrence. Who will assuredly destroy, either the Sin, or the Sinner, from before his Face.

* Gen. iii, 24.

To complete his Victory, He played off the Doctrine of original Guilt, and original Depravity.—That I am, by Nature, a Child of Wrath. Fallen from GOD by the Apostacy of the first Adam. Dead in Trespasses and Sins. My Will, Enmity against GOD: all my Faculties corrupt: every Imagination evil!

After all, He bid me consider—What Fruits must spring, from such a Nature?—How they must appear when compared with such a Law?—What they must deserve, when tried before such a GOD? And whether I will venture to put myself upon Trial at the divine Tribunal, on the Plea of such Performances?

These, I must confess, are very weighty and startling Queries. If these Representations are true, the Face of human Affairs carries a most gloomy Aspect. Or rather a most dreadful Storm is hanging over the Children of Men. Aspasio urges me to fly, without any Delay, to the Covert of CHRIST's meritorious Obedience. This, He says, was wrought out, in the Name, and in the Stead of Sinners: this will be admitted, both at the Throne of Grace, and the Bar of Judgment, as their justifying Righteousness.

This, He adds, opens a Way, on GOD's Part, for the largest Emanations and most honourable Exercise of Mercy. On Man's Part, it founds a Title to Pardon, to Life, and every spiritual Blessing.—This Doctrine, especially in such a Connexion, begins to put on a more recommending Appearance. My Prejudices are really wearing away. I am almost a Convert.

Aspasio over-heard the Close of these Reflections. Unwilling to interrupt his Friend, in so serious an Enquiry; and desirous to observe the Issue of so interesting a Debate; He had hitherto concealed Himself. But thinking this a favourable Minute, He stepped forward, and said—

Asp. Almost! and why not altogether a Convert? What should hinder my dear Theron, from submitting to so rational a Scheme, with the most entire Acquiescence? What should hinder Him from embracing so comfortable
a Doctrine,

a Doctrine, with the utmost Complacency? Why should he not subscribe, both with Hand and Heart, that divine Decree? *Their Righteousness is of me, saith the LORD.

Ther. If, by this Doctrine, the Claims of the Law are answered—If the Perfections of GOD are glorified—If the Interests of Morality are secured—I must acknowledge, it will be more worthy of Acceptance, than I could once have imagined.

Asp. And if all these Points are not gained; gained too in the most eminent Manner; I solemnly declare, that I will never plead for imputed Righteousness more.

But the Claims of the Law are all answered.—For, there is nothing in its sacred Injunctions, which CHRIST did not perform; and nothing in its awful Threatenings, which CHRIST did not sustain. He fulfilled all its Precepts by an unspotted Purity of Heart, and the most perfect Integrity of Life. He exhausted its whole Curse, when he hung upon the Cross, abandoned by his FATHER, and a Bleeding Victim for the Sins of his People.—This Obedience brings higher Honour to the divine Law, than it could possibly have received, from the uninterrupted Duty of Adam, and all his Posterity, in all their Generations.

The Perfections of GOD, which were dishonoured by our Rebellion, are glorified.—He appears, by this Method of Justification, inconceivably rich in shewing Mercy; yet steady, inflexibly steady, in executing Vengeance. The Scepter of Grace, and the Sword of Justice, have each its due Exercise, each its full Scope. The Holiness of the divine Nature, and the Dignity of the divine Government, are not only maintained, but most magnificently displayed. Indeed, it is the peculiar Excellence of this wonderful Expedient, that it renders all the divine Attributes supremely venerable, and supremely amiable.

Ther. But are the Interests of Morality secured? This is what I am strongly inclined to doubt. And to say the Truth, this is now my principal Objection to your Scheme.

* Isai. liv. 17.

Asp. I shall never blame my Friend, for being vigilant and jealous over the Interests of Morality. If our Doctrine had a malignant Aspect on true Morality, I would give my Voice against it, and use all my Endeavours to suppress it.—But it is formed with every Tendency to awaken the utmost Dread of Sin, and affect Us with the warmest Sense of our CREATOR's Love. And is not that the strongest Barrier against the Encroachments of Vice? Is not this the sweetest Inducement to the Practice of Virtue?

I am glad to find, that a Jealousy for the Interests of Morality, is the chief Obstacle in the Way of your Assent. Because, this Jealousy, I am persuaded, is much of the same Nature with those forbidding and mistaken Apprehensions, which our Ancestors entertained, concerning the Ocean. They looked upon the Ocean, as an unsurmountable Obstruction and Bar to universal Society. Whereas, it is in Fact, the very Opening and Avenue to this Society; the only Means of setting on Foot a general Intercourse; and the great Highway to all the Nations of the Earth. What is here affirmed, may, on some future Occasion, be proved.—At present, let me desire You to imagine, rather, may the Blessed SPIRIT enable You to believe, That your Sins are expiated, through the Death of JESUS CHRIST: That a Righteousness is given You, by Virtue of which, You may have free and welcome Access to GOD; the Merit of which You may plead, in order to enjoy all the Blessings of Time and Eternity.—Then let me ask; Will this alienate your Affections from your Almighty BENEFACTOR? Will this irritate evil Concupiscence, or send You to carnal Gratifications in quest of Happiness? Quite the Reverse. When this Faith is wrought in your Heart, nothing will be so powerful, to produce holy Love, and willing Obedience; nothing so effectual, to refine your Temper, to exalt your Desires, and enable You to overcome the World.

What

What says the Apostle? *I through the Law am dead to the Law. Being made to understand its great Extent, and high Perfection, I have no longer any Hope of Justification, through my own Conformity to its Precepts.—Did this prompt Him, did this embolden Him, to neglect or violate his Duty? Hear the sacred Writer's own Declaration. I am released from the Rigour and Bondage of the Law; I am directed to CHRIST for Righteousness and Salvation; that I may live unto GOD. That my whole Life may be devoted to HIS Honour, who has brought me into a State so delightful, into a Liberty so glorious.

Ther. This Liberty, I am afraid, will be of very little Service to the licentious and gay World.

Afp. I shall be in no Pain even for the gay World, if once they cordially receive this Grace, and are vitally influenced by this Doctrine. Which, far from weakening any one Principle of Piety, adds to every other Motive, the endearing Engagements of Gratitude, and the winning Persuasives of Love.

Nay; I am persuaded, that Multitudes in the gay and licentious World, are held fast in the fatal Snare, by their Ignorance of this sweet, alluring, consolatory Truth. They find themselves deeply obnoxious to divine Justice, and feel themselves strongly bound with the Chains of Sensuality. They think, it is impossible to clear the enormous Score of their Guilt; impossible to deliver themselves from the confirmed Dominion of Sin. Therefore, like desperate Debtors, they stifle every serious Thought; lest a Consciousness of their long Ar-rears, and a Prospect of the dreadful Reckoning, should torment them before their Time †.

But if they were informed, that the infinitely merciful SON of GOD, has undertaken to redeem such undone and helpless Sinners—That He has thoroughly expiated the most horrid Transgressions, and procured even for ungodly Wretches*, all the needful Supplies of strengthening Grace—That, instead of being prohibited, they are invited to partake, freely to partake, of these unspeakable Blessings.—Were they acquainted with these glad Tidings of the Gospel; did they really believe these glad Tidings of the Gospel; their Chains, which now are like Steel and Adamant, would become like a Thread of Tow, when it toucheth the Fire†. Yes, my Friend; these Truths, if once revealed and received in their Hearts, would be an infallible Method to make them free‡.

* Gal. ii. 19.

What shall I say more, to obtain my Theron's Approbation? Shall I point out and plead the most illustrious Precedents? GOD the FATHER is well pleased with this Righteousness of our REDEEMER. He expresses his Complacency by the most emphatical Words: Behold my Servant, whom I uphold; mine Elect, in whom my Soul delighteth||. In CHRIST and his Righteousness, GOD is not only pleased, but delighted: his very Soul, every Perfection of the GODHEAD, with ineffable Satisfaction, rests and acquiesces in them.—I said ineffable; for He has declared this, in a Manner superior to all the Force of Language, by raising our crucified SURETY from the Dead; by exalting Him to the Heaven of Heavens; and placing Him at his own Right-hand in Glory.

Our LORD JESUS CHRIST is well pleased. He esteems it his Honour to shine forth as the everlasting Righteousness of his People. It is the brightest Jewel of his mediatorial Crown. In this He sees of the

* For those, who have sinned against the Light of Nature, as the Heathens, and against the Light of Scripture, as the Jews. For those, who have denied CHRIST, like Peter; blasphemed and persecuted Him, like Paul.—Many, that have fallen into great Sins, are ruined for ever, because they do not account the Grace of CHRIST sufficient for their Pardon and Sanctification. They think that they are gone and past all Hope of Recovery; that their Transgressions and their Sins are upon them, unpardoned and unpardonable; therefore they pine away in them, and how shall they live? Ezek. xxxiii. 10. Travail of his Soul, and is satisfied. Accounting Himself fully recompensed, for all the Labours of his Life, and all the Sorrows of his Death, when Sinners are washed from their Guilt in his Blood, and presented faultless by his Obedience.

The HOLY SPIRIT is equally pleased with this great Transaction, and its matchless Effects. It is his peculiar Office, and favourite Employ, to convince the World of their SAVIOUR's Righteousness. Not only that his Nature was spotlessly pure, and his Conversation perfectly holy; but that from both results a Righteousness, of infinite Dignity, and everlasting Efficacy: sufficient, throughout all Ages sufficient, to procure Acceptance and Salvation for the most unworthy Creatures.

Since then, this Method of Acceptance and Salvation, is excellent and glorious in the eyes of the adorable TRINITY—Since it magnifies the Law, and yields the most exalted Honour to its Divine AUTHOR—Since it makes ample Provision for the Holiness of a corrupt, and the Happiness of a ruined World—Why should my Friend any longer dislike it; oppose it; or treat it with a cold Indifference? Surely, all these grand Recommendations, are enough to over-rule any little Objections, which may arise from the Suspicions of Timidity, or may be started by the Artifices of Sophistry.

Ther. I know not how it is, Aspasio; but I cannot reconcile myself to this Doctrine of imputed Righteousness: notwithstanding all the Pains You have taken, to make me a Convert.

Asp. The Disappointment is mine, but the Loss is yours, Theron.—However, let me entreat You, not to reject my Sentiments absolutely, nor to condemn them prematurely. Suppose it possible at least, that they may be true; and weigh them in an even Balance.—Learn Wisdom from your Aspasio's Folly. I was once exactly in your Situation; saw Things in your Light, and through your Medium.

Conversing

Conversing, I well remember, with a devout but plain Person, our Discourse happened to turn upon that solemn Admonition; *If any Man will come after ME, let Him deny Himself. I was haranguing upon the Import and Extent of the Duty. Shewing, that merely to forbear the infamous Action, is little. We must deny Admittance, deny Entertainment at least, to the evil Imagination; and quench even the enkindling Spark of irregular Desire.—When I had shot a random Bolt, my honest Friend replied; “there is another Instance of Self-denial, to which this Injunction extends, and which is of very great Moment in the Christian Religion. I mean, the Instance of renouncing our own Strength, and our own Righteousness; not leaning on that, for Holiness; nor relying on this, for Justification.”—I thought the Old man, I must confess, little better than a superstitious Dotard; and wondered at (what I then fancied) the motley Mixture of Piety and Oddity in his Notions. But now I discern Sense, Solidity, and Truth in his Observation †. Now I perceive, that We ourselves are often the Dreamers, when We imagine Others to be fast asleep.

Ther. You have no Reason to be ashamed, Aspasio, of receiving Instruction from your honest Counsellor. For, You know, it was observed by the Ancients, and is now passed into a Maxim; Πολλοὶ καὶ κηρωρὸς ἀνὴρ μάλα καιρῖον εἶπεν.

Neither need You suspect, that I shall forget or disregard your Caution, relating to a precipitate Determination

* Matt. xvi. 24.

† Milton thought the same, otherwise he would never have put those Words into the Mouth of a divine Speaker.

—————Thy Merit,
Imputed shall absolve them, who renounce
Their own, both righteous and unrighteous, Deeds:
And live in Thee transplanted, and from Thee Receive new Life.

of my Judgment. No; I shall endeavour to avoid the Rock, on which my Friend struck; but happily, it seems, escaped Shipwreck.—You may likewise assure Yourself, that, upon a Subject of such exceeding great, of eternal Consequence, I shall not fail to use the most attentive and impartial Consideration. An indolent Supineness, or a bigotted Obstinacy, in this great Crisis of Affairs, would be of Errors the most inexcusable, and must prove of all Miscarriages the most fatal.

Asp. But still You cannot reconcile Yourself—And no Wonder. For this Way of Salvation runs directly counter to the Stream of corrupt Nature. It puzzles our Reason, and offends our Pride.—“What? shall “We, not work, but *believe unto Righteousness? Shall “We receive all freely, and reckon Ourselves no better “than unprofitable Servants! Having nothing, nothing “whatsoever, that may recommend Us to our Maker!”
—This is a Method, to which We should never submit; this is a Proposal, which We should always spurn; were not our natural Sentiments rectified, and our high Imaginations abased, by the Power of Grace.

Let me remind You of a little Incident, which You must have read in the Grecian History. A certain Stranger came, one Day, to dine with some Lacedemonians; who always sat down at a public Table, and were content with the plainest Food. The Gentleman, accustomed to higher Eating, could not forbear expressing his Disgust, at the homely Provision.—Sir, said the Cook, You don't make use of the Sauce.—What do You mean? replied the Guest.—You don't use hard Exercise; nor habituate Yourself to long Abstinence; nor bring a sharpened Appetite to the Meal.—And You, my dear Friend, I am apprehensive, have not the Sauce; have not the proper Preparative for this salutary Doctrine; which is indeed the Bread of Life, and the very Marrow of the Gospel.

* Rom. x. 10.

Ther. What Preparative? Did You not just now say, that all was free; and nothing needful, but only to receive the Blessing?

Asp. True; nothing is needful, as inclining GOD to give; but only as inclining Us to receive.—Would You seek, would You solicit, would You so much as accept, a Pardon from your Sovereign; unless You stood convicted of some capital Crime, or was apparently liable to Condemnation? Neither will sinful Man seek, no nor accept the great Atonement, till He is made sensible, that the Wrath of GOD and the Damnation of Hell, are what He justly deserves; and what, without the Propitiation of CHRIST, He must unavoidably suffer.

This then is the Preparative—A Sense of the horrible Filthiness of the least Sin in the Sight of GOD; of the innumerable Sins of our Heart and Life; and of our undone damnable State on this Account.—While destitute of these Convictions, our Souls will be like the full Stomach, that lothes even the Honey-comb.—So long as these Convictions are slight, and hover only in the Imagination; We shall be like *Gallio, listless, indifferent,

* Acts xviii. 17. A late Commentator, of distinguished Eminence, has attempted to vindicate Gallio's Conduct; and would represent it, as an amiable Instance of Prudence and Moderation.

According to my Apprehension, this Roman Governor acted a Part, both irreligious and unjust.—Irreligious, because he refused to hear the Apostle's Defence; which was the most likely Means of his Conversion and Salvation. As one great End, why Providence permitted the Preachers of the Gospel to be brought before Rulers and Kings, was, that such an Appearance might serve εις μαρτυριον αυτοις, Matt. x. 18. for a Testimony (not against, as We translate the Word, but) to them. That even the Potentates of the Earth, prejudiced and supercilious as they were, might hereby have an Opportunity, of hearing the Christian Doctrine, and seeing its Efficacy on the Spirits of Men.—Unjust, because he permitted Softness, then an innocent Person, afterwards a Disciple of CHRIST (1 Cor. i. 1.) to be so illegally treated, and outrageously abused, without interposing for his Rescue. Here was evidently a Breach of the Peace; a manifest Violation of the Laws. Of this therefore, as a civil Magistrate, He ought to have taken Cognizance. However He might fancy Himself discharged from the Obligation, of attending to the Gospel, or protecting its Preachers: How-different, and caring for None of these Things.—But when they are deep, and penetrate the Heart; then the Righteousness of a REDEEMER will be sweet, tasteful, and inviting. Sweet as Myrrh and Frankincense to the Smell; tasteful as Milk and Honey to the Palate; inviting, as Gold and Treasures to the ruined Bankrupt.

Ther. How are these Convictions wrought in the Soul?

Ans. By the Law is the Knowledge of Sin. Consequently, by the Law is the Conviction of our undone State. Let Us therefore endeavour to understand the Law of GOD: how pure, how extensive, how sublimely perfect it is.—Then, judge of our spiritual Condition, not from the flattering Suggestions of Self-love, not from the defective Examples of our Fellow-creatures, but by this unerring Standard of the Sanctuary.—Above all, let Us beseech the GOD and FATHER of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, to send his enlightening SPIRIT into our Hearts. For indeed, without the enlightening Influences of the SPIRIT, We may have the divine Law in our Hand; We may comprehend its grammatical Meaning; yet be like blind Bartimeus under the meridian Sun. It is the blessed SPIRIT alone, who can rend the Veil of Ignorance from our Minds; and shew Us, either “the wonderful Things of GOD’s ever He might imagine Himself authorized, to treat divine Truths with Contempt; and call the Striving for the Faith, a Wrangling about Words and Names.—“Words and Names only!” Far otherwise, Gallio. The Question concerning JESUS CHRIST and his Salvation, is pregnant with the Life of the World, and of greater Moment than all Things under the Sun.

Besides; if the HOLY SPIRIT intended to fix a Mark of Approbation, rather than a Brand of Infamy, upon the Proconsul’s Behaviour; I cannot but think, it would have been expressed in a Manner, different from—και εδεν τρωτων τω Γαλλιωσι εμαθεν. Which, if it be the Language of Applause, requires some more than ordinary Skill in Criticism to understand it aright. But, if it be the Voice of Censure, it is obvious and intelligible to every Reader.—Should farther Proof be wanted, We may compare this Incident with the Behaviour of Sergius Paulus, on a like Occasion; and with the Encomium given Him, on that Account, by unerring Wisdom. Acts xiii. 7.

“ Law,” or the glorious Mysteries of his Gospel. In this Sense, our polite Poet* speaks a Truth, as singularly important, as it is elegantly expressed :

*He from thick Films shall purge the visual Ray,
And on the sightless Eye-balls pour the Day.*

Will You give me leave to propose another Expedient? Which, I believe, may be considerably serviceable in this particular Case. Which, I am assured, will be greatly advantageous in many other Respects.

Ther. Backward as I am to adopt your Doctrine, I am no Enemy to my own Interest. Therefore, shall not only give You leave to propose, but give you Thanks for communicating, so valuable an Advice.

Asp. It is, in reality, none of mine. It was long ago recommended by your old Acquaintance, Horace †. It consists in Keeping a Diary.

Compile a secret History of your Heart and Conduct.—Take notice of the Manner, in which your Time is spent; and of the Strain which runs through your Discourse. How often the former is lost in Trifles, how often the latter evaporates in Vanity.—Attend to the Principle from which your Actions flow; whether from the steady habitual Love of GOD, or from some rambling Impulse, and a customary Propensity to please Yourself?—Minute down your Sins of Omission. How frequently You neglect to glorify your CREATOR; to edify your Fellow-creatures; and to improve Yourself in Knowledge and Holiness.—Observe the Frame of your Spirit in religious Duties. With what Reluctance they are undertaken, and with what Indevotion performed; with how many Wanderings of Thought, and how much Dulness of Desire.—How often, in transacting common Affairs, You feel the inordinate Sallies of Passion, the Workings of evil Concupiscence, or the Intrusion of foolish Imaginations.

Register those secret Faults, to which None but your own Conscience is privy, and which None but the all-seeing Eye discerns.—Often review these interesting Memoirs. Frequently contemplate Yourself in this faithful Mirror. And don't be afraid, to see your Wants and Weaknesses; Depravity of your Heart, and the Iniquity of your Life.—An Artist, sometime ago, took a Survey of your Estate. Drew the Form, and measured the Dimensions, of each Inclosure. Pictured out every Hedge, and scarce omitted a single Tree, which grew upon the Premises.—Act thus with your Will, your Understanding, your Affections. These are your noble internal Demesne. Of which none but Yourself can be a competent Surveyor.

Ther. It is unreasonable and preposterous, I must acknowledge, to be minutely exact in meaner Matters, and to use no Accuracy of Inspection in the most momentous Affairs. To have a correct Draught of our Lands, which are a transient Inheritance; and no Map of that everlasting Possession, the Soul.

Afp. Gratify me then, my dear Theron, in this Particular. As I purpose to set out very early in the Morning, I shall insist upon it; that You do not rise before your usual Time, in order to compliment my Departure. But I now make it my last Wish, and my parting Request, that You will, for some Months at least, keep a Diary.

You have wondered at my Opinion, concerning the Corruption of our Nature, and the Insufficiency of our Righteousness. This may seem strange, this may appear shocking, to a Mind unacquainted with itself. But, when You have searched your Heart, by this Probe; when you have felt the Pulse of your Soul, by Self-exmination: then, You will be better able to judge of my Sentiments, and enter into the Reasons of my Faith.

By this Means, We shall also discover the Sins, which most easily beset Us; which most frequently elude our Vigilance, and baffle our Resolution. We shall learn how to post our Guard; when to exercise the strictest Watch; and where to direct the Artillery of Prayer.— In a word; We shall learn, better than from ten thousand Volumes, to KNOW OURSELVES. A Knowledge, which was supposed, by the antient Philosophers, to descend from Heaven*; and which, I believe, our Christian Divines will allow, has a happy Tendency to lead People thither. Because, of all other Preparatives, it best disposes them for that blessed REDEEMER, who is the Way, the only Way to those blissful Mansions.

Now I have mentioned a Way, let me suppose You traveling through an unknown Country. You come to a Place, where the Road divides itself into two equally inviting Parts. You are at a loss, which Track to pursue. Whose Direction will You choose to follow? That Man's, who has passed through neither of them? That Man's, who has passed through one of them only? Or that Man's, who has passed and repassed them both? —To wait for an Answer, would be an Affront to your Judgment. Only let me observe that the last is your Aspasio's Case. He has traveled long, and proceeded far, even in your Path. All, that Circumspection and Assiduity; all, that Prayer and Self-denial; all, that Fasting and Alms, and every other Means of Grace could do; in order to establish a Righteousness of his own, has been done. But to no Purpose.—He has also trod every Step in the Way, which he recommends to his beloved Friend. He has made the Trial, concerning the Righteousness, without Works, or the Righteousness of GOD imputed. He can set his Probatum est, to whatsoever He advises on this Subject; and may venture to say, with his Divine MASTER, *We speak that We do know, and testify that We have experienced.

Ther. I am sorry to observe, that the Night is coming on, and our Conversation almost at an End. My Regret is increased, by the Consideration of your intended Journey.—Though Business obliges You to depart; it will, I hope, afford You Leisure to write. This will be some Compensation for the Want of your Company.

Yonder Sun is sinking below the Horizon, and just taking his Leave of our Earth. To retard the departing Radiance, at least to alleviate the approaching Loss, those western Clouds catch the Rays; and reflect them to our View, in a most amusing Diversity of Colours. By this Means, We enjoy the great Luminary in his Beams, even when his Orb is withdrawn from our Sight.—An epistolary Correspondence has something of the same Nature. Letters may be called, the Talk of absent Friends. By this Expedient, they communicate their Thoughts, even though Countries, Kingdoms, or Seas intercept their Speech. You must, therefore, promise me this Satisfaction. That I may converse with my Aspasio by the Pen, when I can no longer have an Intercourse with Him in Person.

Asp. You have anticipated me, Theron. Otherwise, what is now my Promise, would have been my Request.

I cannot but take notice of another Particularity, in that magnificent Assemblage of Clouds. How they varied their Appearance, as the Lamp of Day changed its Situation.—A little while ago, those Curtains of the Sky, were streaked with Orange, or tinged with Amber. Presently, they borrow the Blush of the Rose, or the softened Red of the Pink. Ere long, they glow with Vermilion, or deepen into Crimson. Soon succeeds the Purple, more beautiful and grand than any imperial Robe ; and as soon (thus transient is all sublunary Grandeur!) gives place to the sable Veil of Evening, or saddens into the gloomy Pall of Night.—Such, I trust, will be the Issue of my Theron's present Apprehensions. All his splendid Ideas of human Excellency and Self-righteousness, will become faint ; will lose their imaginary Lustre ; till, at length, they fade away, and darken into absolute Self-abasement.—Then, the Grace of free Justification, will be amiable, will be desirable, as the Beauties of the Dawn, breaking upon the Shades of Night. Then, you will make no Difficulty, to say with the Psalmist and with the Apostle ; *Blessed is the Man, unto whom GOD imputeth Righteousness without Works :

LETTER I.

ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

I AM now at the Seat of my worthy Friend Camillus; where Business and Inclination will fix me for some Weeks.—This Evening We had a most pleasing Ramble. I have met with nothing so agreeable, since I left your House, and lost your Company.

The Time was just arrived, and the Scene was fully opened, which furnished our great Poet with his fine Description:

*Now was the Sun in western Cadence low,
From Noon; and gentle Airs, due at their Hour,
To fan the Earth now wak'd, and usher in The Evening cool.*

At this Juncture, Camillus invited me to take the Air.—We walked, several Times, along a close shady Alley, arched with the Foliage of Filberts. Here, hid from every Eye, and the whole World withdrawn from our View, We seemed like Monks strolling in their Cloysters.—Turning short at the End, We enter a parallel Range of majestic and uniformly spreading Walnut-trees. This Transition, was somewhat like advancing through a low Porch, into the Isles of a magnificent Cathedral. The broad Leaf, and large Trunk, of those lordly Trees—their very diffusive Spread, added to their prodigious Height—give them an Air of uncommon Dignity. It swells the Imagination with vast Ideas, and entertains Us with a romantic Kind of Delight, to expatiate amidst such huge Columns, and under such superb Elevations, of living Architecture.

Quitting our Cathedral, We turn once again, and pass into a grand Colonnade of Oaks: so regular in their Situation, so similar in their Size, and so remarkably correspondent in every Circumstance, that they looked like the Twins of Nature; not only belonging to the same Family, but produced at the same Birth.—Through these lay a Walk, strait, spacious, and gracefully long. Far exceeding the last in the Extent of its Area, though much inferior in the Stateliness of its Ceiling. It put me in mind of that divine Benignity, which has allowed Us the Space of six Days, for the Prosecution of our own comparatively low Affairs; and set apart but one in seven, for the more immediate Attendance on the sublime Duty of worshipping our CREATOR.

This Walk was covered with the neatest Gravel; and not a Weed to be seen, nor one Blade of Grass, through the whole extended Surface. It stole into a continual Ascent; yet so very gradually, that the Rise was scarce discernable, either by the searching Eye, the toiling Feet, or the panting Breath.—At the Extremity, a handsome Summer-house shewed a Flight of Steps, and half a Venetian Door. The rest of the Building was hid by the low-hung clustering Branches.

As soon as We enter the Apartment, Camillus throws open the Left-hand Sash; and, with it, a most enlarged and amusive Prospect.—The Structure appeared situate on the Brow of a considerable Eminence. Whose sides were partly confused and wild with broken Rocks, partly shagged and perplexed with thorny Shrubs. The Spectator is agreeably surpris'd, to find Himself accommodated with so elegant a Mansion, on the Summit of so rude and ruinous a Spot.—But, how greatly is his Surprise and his Satisfaction augmented, when he casts his Eye forward; and beholds the beautiful Meads, which, from the Foot of this ragged Hill, stretch themselves into a Space almost unmeasurable!

Through the Midst of this extensive Vale, which was decked with the finest Verdure, and replenished with the richest Herbage*, a River rolled its copious Flood. Rolled, in a thousand serpentine Meanders; as though it was loth to leave the flowery Scene; and made repeated Efforts to prolong its Stay amidst such lovely Objects.—Till, at last, having loitered in its own Labyrinths, and wandered more than twice the Length † of the Meadows; having held a Mirror to the aspiring Poplars, and bending Willows: having paid a welcome Salute to several ornamented Villas, and passed through the Arches of two or three curiously pendent Bridges; it seem'd to meet the Sky, and mingle with the Horizon.

Opposite to the Front Window, a Cascade fell from the adjacent Stream. It flash'd and foamed along the broad Slope, indented with small Pits, and jagged with protuberant Stones. The Current, vexed and embarrassed, seem'd to rave at the intervening Obstacles; and forcing its rapid, indignant, sonorous Way, struck the Ear with a Peal of liquid Thunder. These fretful Waters—let our angry Passions observe the Admonition, and follow the Example—soon forgot their Rage; soon recovered their Temper. Collected into a little Rivulet, they ran off in calm and silent Lapse, till they lost themselves among Beds of Osier, and Plantations of Alder.

The River, widening as it flowed, was parted here and there by several little Islands. Scattered, as it were by the Hand of Chance; and raising their green Heads in the Midst of the lucid Stream; they presented a most unexpected and most pleasing Spectacle. Some of them were tufted with Reeds, and surrounded with Rocks and Shoals, the unmolested Resort of Swans. Some adorned with stately Porticos, and splendid Alcoves; the graceful Retreats of rural Pleasure. One, larger than the rest, seemed to be furnished with cool embowering Walks; fitted for studious Retirement, or sedate Contemplation.—On either side of the charming Valley, Towns and Villages lay thick, and looked gay; adding Ornament and Variety to the Scene, and receiving innumerable Advantages from the passing Wave.

The whole recalled to an attentive Observer's Mind, that amiable and august Spectacle, which the *Syrian Soothsayer could not behold, without a Rapture of Delight.—From the Top of the Rocks I see the Tribes of JEHOVAH, and from the Hills I behold the Habitations of his chosen People. How goodly are thy Tents, O Jacob! and thy Tabernacles, O Israel! As the Vallies, are they spread forth; as Gardens, by the River's Side: as Trees of exquisite Fragrance† which the LORD hath planted: as Cedars of stateliest Growth, flourishing beside the Waters.

* Numb. xxiii. 7.

† Numb. xxiv. 5, 6. It is well known, that the Word סִמְלִי is used in the sacred Writings, to denote either a delightful Perfume, Prov. vii. 17. or that aromatic Plant, which produces it, Cant. iv. 14. —For which Reason, I think it very justifiable, to render the Expression, Trees of exquisite Fragrance; and am persuaded, it will be far more intelligible to the Generality of Readers, than Trees of Lign Aloes.

We

We had but just looked about Us, when a Messenger came for Camillus. As He was called to settle some private Affairs, I chose to stay in this inviting Retreat; and determined to make myself Amends for the Loss of Camillus's Company, by beginning a Correspondence with my Theron.—We have Pen, Ink, and Paper, in all our rural Retirements; that, if any Thing is started in Discourse, or occurs in Meditation, worthy to be remembered, it may immediately be committed to Writing.

I could not but observe to my Friend, that, fine as the Prospect appeared, there was one Decoration wanting; if some grand Deformity may be called a Decoration. The Ridges of a bleak and barren Mountain, or the Skirts of a sun-burnt tawny Heath, would give additional Liveliness, to the ornamented Part of the Landscape. Thus contrasted, their Beauties would acquire a new Charm, and strike with double Vigour.—This Circumstance would shew Us, what wretched Abodes, and inhospitable Quarters might have fallen to our Share. And would probably awaken a more fervent Gratitude to the Supreme DISPOSER of Things; who has cast our “ Lot in a fairer Ground, and given us a more “ goodly Heritage.”

So, a proper Knowledge of the divine Law—of its sublime Perfections, and rigorous Sanction—joined with a Conviction of our own extreme Deficiency, and manifold Transgressions—all this would endear the blessed JESUS to our Affections, and powerfully recommend his Righteousness to our Desires.—The Remainder of this Epistle, therefore, shall turn upon some Instances of Duty, enjoined in that sacred System. By which it may be highly useful to examine our Conduct, and sift our Hearts: in which, I believe, we have all fallen short, and are all become guilty: from which, We may learn the Imperfection of our best Services, and see the inexpressible Need of a better Righteousness than our own.

The Knowledge of GOD is the Foundation of all vital Religion, and indeed is the Consummation of human Happiness. It is not only Matter of present Duty, but the very essence of future Bliss; *This is Life eternal, to know Thee the only true GOD, and JESUS CHRIST whom Thou hast sent.—Yet, important and obligatory as it is, are We not very defective in this divine Science? Have We duly acquainted Ourselves with the marvelous Excellencies of the LORD JEHOVAH? His uncontrollable Power, and all-comprehending Wisdom; his unbounded Goodness, and unwearied Patience; his immaculate Holiness, and inflexible Justice; his never-failing Faithfulness, and inviolable Veracity?—Have We, according to the Direction of our inspired Tutor, pursued this sacred Study on our Knees †; and sought this most noble of all intellectual Endowments, not merely from Books, but principally at the Throne of Grace. Have We sought it, like that antient Jewish Student, with an early Application, and with incessant Assiduity; even “from the Flower, till the Grape was ripe ‡?”

Is that scanty Ray of Knowledge, which perhaps has forced itself through our original Darkness, operative on our Affections? Have we loved the LORD our GOD with all our Heart? This is the first and great Commandment ||.—Have We constantly entertained the most magnificent and honourable Thoughts of his sublime Perfections? Is our Esteem for this immensely great and most blessed BEING, high, superlative, matchless? Somewhat like that, expressed by the Psalmist; Whom have I in Heaven but Thee? And there is None upon Earth, that I desire in comparison of Thee §.—Have We been affectionately concerned for his Glory, and zealous to advance his holy Religion? Troubled, very sensibly troubled, when our MAKER's Honour has been trampled in the Dust, by licentious Tongues or flagitious Deeds?

Have We made it our ruling Care, to approve the Whole of our Life, and the most secret Transactions of our Breast, to his all-seeing Eye? Resolved, deliberately resolved to sacrifice, not only our darling Lufts, but even our most valuable Interests, whenever they stand in Competition with the good Pleasure of his Will?—In a Word; as the Hart panteth after the Water-brooks, with such vehement and inextinguishable Ardour, have We thirsted after—a brighter Manifestation of his divine Attributes—some sweeter Assurances of his special Love—and an ever-increasing Conformity to his holy Image!

Such was the Temper of those excellent Men, who are characterised in the Scriptures of Truth, as Children of the HIGHEST, and Patterns for our Imitation. This is their Language; *The Desire of our Soul is unto thy Name, and to the Remembrance of Thee. With my Soul have I desired Thee in the Night; yea, with my Spirit within me will I seek Thee early.—Neither is such Warmth of Love, and Fervour of Desire, any needless or extravagant Pitch of Devotion; but a reasonable Service, indispensibly due, from all intelligent Creatures, to the great AUTHOR of their Being—in whom all possible Perfections, with the utmost Exaltation and Dignity, reside—from whom all Manner of Blessings, in the most copious and never-failing Communications, flow.

When We receive, from an absent Friend, rich and repeated Presents; Casks of generous Wine, or Jars of

* Isai. xxvi. 8, 9. We can hardly tell, which to admire most, the Beauty of the Description, or the Piety of the Persons. I have desired; and not with inactive Wishes, but such as prompt to vigorous Endeavours; I will seek Thee. And early, with the most vigilant Application and unwearied Assiduity.—The Emphasis is very much increased, by the Addition of those lively Words, with my Soul, yea with my Spirit; with the whole Bent and Sway of my Affections, and with the steady invariable Determination of my Judgment.—Thus have I desired Thee, even in the Night: when both the Pursuits and the Thoughts of other People, are sunk and lost in profound Repose. Thus will I seek Thee, with a Zeal—early as the rising—constant as the returning Sun.

delicious Fruit; We feel Ourselves inkindled into a grateful Affection. We honour, We love the Person, who allows Us such a distinguished Place in his Heart; and expresses his cordial Regard, by such a Series of active and tender Benevolence.—The Blessed GOD is a Friend to Us All, infinitely powerful, and equally munificent. We are the constant Objects of his more than friendly, of his parental Cares. Every passing Moment is a Messenger of his Patience, and charged with some Token of his Bounty. For our Sake, he has diffused Blessings over all the Face of the Earth; and commanded every Element, to concur, in ministering to our Accommodation. He has not only adapted his Benefits to our several Wants; but has given them a Diversification, large as the Scope of our Wishes; and an Enrichment, far beyond all that our Fancy could conceive.—Profuse Liberality! Yet small and scanty compared with his most adorable Benignity in CHRIST JESUS.

What? If GOD, willing to manifest the superabundant Riches of his Kindness, had made bare the Arm of his Omnipotence; and struck a most miraculous Road through the Surges of the Ocean, to afford Us a safe Passage?—If, to accommodate Us in our Travels, He had brought Waters out of the flinty Rock; and bid the Ravens bring Meat to our Hands, bid the Winds convey Manna to our Doors?—If, to furnish Us with a commodious Settlement, He had dethroned mighty Kings, dispossessed populous Nations, and made the Walls of impregnable Cities fall to the Ground?—If, to further the Dispatch of our Business, or facilitate the Conquest of our Enemies, He had arrested the Sun in his meridian Career, and laid an Embargo upon the Moon, setting out on her nightly Tour?—In short, if to promote our Welfare, He had suspended the Powers, and controuled the Laws of universal Nature; had wrought all the Miracles, exhibited in the Land of Egypt, or recorded in the Volumes of Inspiration—Should We not think Ourselves under the most inviolable Engagements, to love the LORD our GOD, Who had done so great Things for Us; to love Him unfeignedly and ardently; to love Him with a supreme Affection, far above every other amiable Object?—Yet, We have greater, incomparably greater Obligations to our Almighty BENEFACTOR. For, (hear O Heavens! wonder O Earth! and let Eternity dwell upon the stupendous Truth!) GOD spared not his SON—his own SON—his transcendently glorious and divinely excellent SON—but delivered him up to the deepest Humiliation, and to the most accursed Death, for Us Men and our Salvation.

O, Theron! Have We been impressed with Wonder, at the Contemplation of this Goodness? Have our Hearts glowed with Gratitude, under a Sense of these Mercies? Surely, no Man need be convicted of any other Crime, at the great Tribunal, than Insensibility of such Love, and Ingratitude for such Favours. This, without the Accession of horrid Impieties, is enough to leave Him absolutely inexcusable. This is enough to prove Him one of the most disingenuous, and most detestable of Creatures.

Have We exercised Ourselves in frequent Thanksgiving? Many are the Exhortations to this honourable Duty. *Praise thy GOD, O Zion: Praise Him for his mighty Acts †: Praise Him according to his excellent Greatness ‡.—Innumerable are the Incitements to abound in this pleasant Service. Every Comfort has a Voice, and cries in the Ear of Reason; O! that Men would there- fore praise the LORD for his Goodness. Every Deliverance enforces the Address, and furnishes Materials for the heavenly Employ.—The Man after GOD's own Heart declares, as an inviting Example for our Practice; *I will bless the LORD at all Times: His Praise shall continually be in my Mouth: Yea, as long as I have any Being, I will sing Praises unto my GOD†.—Indeed when We consider the inexhaustibly rich Bounty of GOD our CREATOR, and the inconceivably tender Mercy of GOD our REDEEMER, it is both strange and deplorable, that the Love of GOD is not always prevailing in our Hearts, and the Language of Praise ever flowing from our Lips.

* Psal. cxlvii. 12.

† Psal. cl. 2.

‡ Among these Exhortations, We may rank that beautiful and devout Address to GOD, ישב תהלות ישראל Psal. xxii. 3. Thou that inhabitest—Light inaccessible, shall I say? The Regions of Immensity, or the Ages of Eternity? No; but what is a more exalted Character—The Praises of Israel. Finely signifying, that Praise is a most acceptable Sacrifice; which the Divine MAJESTY vouchsafes to regard with peculiar Delight.—Intimating also, that the Exercise of Praise should not be an occasional Thing, like a transient Visit to a Stranger's House; but a daily and almost unintermitted Service, like the stated Residence of a Person in his own Habitation.

I will not suppose our Character so irreligious, that We have neglected the daily Worship of GOD, either in our Closet, or in our Family.—But, have We prayed with that profound reverential Awe, which is due to the HIGH and LOFTY ONE, who inhabiteth Eternity?—Have We made our Supplications with that fervent Importunity, which may in some measure correspond with the extreme Indigence of our State, and the invaluable Worth of the Blessings We crave?—Have our Petitions been attended with that steady Affiance, which may glorify the Goodness, the Power, the Veracity of the LORD? May evidently declare, That He is rich in Mercy to All that call upon Him‡: that He is the LORD. JEHOVAH, in whom is everlasting Strength ||: that He is the GOD of Truth, and faithful for ever §. We call Him FATHER: but have We trusted in Him, with that unsuspecting, chearful, filial Confidence, which a Child reposes on the Fidelity and Indulgence of such an earthly Relative? Have We not entertained, too often entertained narrow, dishonourable, beggarly Apprehensions, concerning the Treasures of his Liberality, and the Bowels of his Pity? Rating them even lower than our Parents', our Friends, or our own.

Have We been careful to carry the Spirit of our Prayers into our ordinary Conversation; and waited at the Door, as well as approached to the Throne of Grace?—Amidst the Intervals of our solemn Devotions, have We cultivated an ejaculatory Intercourse with Heaven? How highly would the ambitious Courtier prize, and how frequently would he use a privy Key, which should give Him, at all Hours, free Admittance to his Sovereign. This Key of Admittance, only to an infinitely more exalted POTENTATE, We all possess in the Practice of mental Aspirations to GOD.—It is certainly the noblest Employ, and will be the richest Improvement of our Thoughts, to send them in such short Embassies to the KING of Kings; and to derive, by such occasional Sallies* of Faith, a renewed Supply from

* We have, in Scripture, very remarkable Instances of the Success, which has attended ejaculatory Prayer.—Observe Nebemiah: He stands before Abasuerus, apprehensive of the Monarch's Displeasure, yet desirous to solicit Him in Behalf of Jerusalem. To be delivered from his Fears, and to obtain his Desires, what Method does He use? The mean and servile Arts of Flattery? No; but the manly and devout Expedient of Prayer. I prayed, says the Patriot, to the GOD of Heaven.—We cannot suppose, that He fell on his Knees, or spoke with his Lips, while He continued in the royal Presence. But he darted up his Soul in silent Supplication. Which Supplication “pierced the “Clouds;” reached the eternal Throne; and returned not again till a Blessing was sent. Such as totally averted the Wrath, He dreaded; and procured Favour and Assistance, much larger than he expected. Nebem. ii. 4.

When David heard, that Ahitophel, the ablest Politician in his Kingdom, was revolted to Abfalom; sensible what a Loss his Affairs had sustained, and what an Advantage the rebellious Party had acquired, He betook Himself to his GOD. He staid not for an Opportunity of Retirement, but instantly and upon the Spot cried; O LORD, I pray Thee, turn the Counsel of Ahitophel into Foolishness!—A short Address, but very efficacious. HE, who disappointeth the Devices of the Crafty, sent a Spirit of Infatuation among the Rebels; and inclined them to reject the Advice of that judicious Statesman. Which false Step brought upon their horrid Enterprize, the Ruin it deserved; and chagrined the wretched Traitor, even to Rage, Frenzy, and Suicide. 2 Sam. xv. 31. xvii. 23.

Have We honoured GOD's holy Word?—What greater Mark of Disesteem, than to despise a Person's Discourse; and not to think his Speech worthy of our Notice? Especially, when He addressess Us with very great Seriousness, and with the utmost Affection. In our Bible, the GOD of Glory speaks to his Creatures; speaks with the most persuasive Energy, and with all the Yearnings of parental Tenderness. Have We listened to our CREATOR, with Reverence and Delight; and rejoiced with Trembling at—Thus saith the LORD?

Have We searched the Oracles of Truth, not merely as Scholars, but as Sinners; not from a Spirit of Curiosity, or with an Air of Formality, but with a Solitude and Ardour, becoming Persons who enquire after the SAVIOUR of their lost Souls? Have We submitted our inmost Thoughts to their impartial Scrutiny; to receive Conviction of Sin from their awful Remonstrances, and to hear the Sentence of Condemnation at their righteous Bar?—Have We been willing to suffer the Reproach of conscious Baseness, while they have ripped up the Disguises of Falshood; laid open our secret Iniquities; and brought all our evil Ways to Remembrance? Thus Josiah acted. *His Heart was tender, and He humbled Himself before the LORD; He rent his Clothes, and wept before the LORD; when He heard the Words of the Book of the Law.

Have We hid the glad Tidings of the Gospel, within our Memories, within our Hearts? Have We been diligent to suck this Honeycomb† of Grace, by concomitant Meditation, and subsequent Prayer?—Have We valued the precious Promises, as Gentlemen of Wealth value the Writings of their private Estates; or as enfranchised Bodies esteem the Charter of their public Privileges?—Have We, like the princely Patriarch, longed for those Words of Edification, Exhortation and Comfort, more than for our necessary Food*? And, like the royal Prophet, prevented the Night-watches, that We may be occupied in those Statutes† and Ordinances of Heaven?

We have hitherto confined the Examination, to a few Instances of the affirmative Kind; how dreadfully will the dark Account be swelled, if, instead of Love and Obedience, there be Hatred and Opposition—Hatred of the Name, Glory, and Worship of GOD—Opposition to his Interest, Kingdom, and Service!

GOD is infinite Perfection: worthy of all Admiration: exalted above all Praise. Yet do not our Thoughts more frequently, or more naturally turn upon our own Accomplishments, than upon the illustrious and shining Attributes of the ALMIGHTY? This is, in itself, the most shameful Dotage, and, in GOD'S Sight, the most abominable Idolatry. Yet, let Us observe, and We shall probably find, that, as Damps arise in the Mines, or Fogs in the fenny Grounds, so naturally and so copiously do these self-admiring Reflections arise in our depraved Minds.

GOD is an everlasting King. Have we not often resisted his Authority, by open Disobedience; often disputed it, by secret Murmuring? Have We not, as far as in Us lay, deposed the omnipotent SOVEREIGN, and exalted Self into the Throne? Made Self will our Law, and Self-pleasing our End? Thus adding Sacrilege to Rebellion?

GOD is transcendently gracious and amiable.—Amiable as He is, have We not too often spurned Him from our Affections, by being Lovers of Pleasure, more than Lovers of GOD‡? Gracious as He is, have We not too long turned our Backs upon Him, by forgetting his Benefits; being insensible of his Presence; and not having so much as a real Desire to serve or glorify Him? O! how common, yet how heinous, is this Iniquity! It is a total Departure from the great End of our Existence. It renders our whole Life one continual Sin. Nay, it is a Complication of Sins; it is every Transgression in Embrio. What is the Stubbornness of caressed Children, and the Negligence of entrusted Servants? What is the Indifference and Disdain of obliged Dependants? What the Deceit and Treachery of chosen Favourites? Is not each of these Practices, odious, vile, provoking? Yet they are all included in that one grand Evil, an habitual Forgetfulness of the blessed GOD.

Awake, Conscience! Summoned and charged as Thou art, in Behalf of thy supreme LORD, bear an impartial Testimony. Then, I am persuaded, the Pharisee in our Breasts, like the Man unfurnished with the Wedding-garment, must be speechless and confounded; must stand self-convicted and self-condemned.

Is our Heart warm with brotherly Love?—Good-manners will put Expressions of Civility into our Mouths; but has a Power from on High implanted the royal Law of Charity in our Breasts? The Character of a Gentleman requires a Deportment accessible, obliging, and courteous: has the Spirit of Christianity taught Us to love, not in Word or plausible Appearance only, *but in Deed and in Truth?—Do We love our Neighbours, not merely on Account of some Relation they bear Us, or some Services they have done Us? But, because they are Creatures of the blessed GOD; are the Objects of his providential Care; and capable at least of being conformed to his Image? Do We love them, because We hope, that the LORD JESUS CHRIST has bought them with his Blood; and has made, or will make them Partakers of his SPIRIT, and Members of his Mystical Body?

Are We sincerely concerned for their Credit and Interest; for their present Welfare, and eternal Happiness? Do We embrace all Opportunities of promoting, both the one, and the other? Embrace them with the same

Alacrity, and improve them with the same Zeal, which actuate Us in pursuing our own Felicity?—If they exceed us in all that is amiable, and all that is prosperous, do We contemplate their superior Excellence with a real Complacency, and their more abundant Success with a real Satisfaction? Is Selfishness, that exorbitant Encroacher, kept within Bounds; and do We seek, not barely our own, but another's Wealth?

Do We dislike to hear, and abhor to spread, defamatory Tales; even when our Adversaries are the Men, whom they tend to blacken?—When rudely affronted, or causelessly abused, do We pity the Offenders, for the Wrong done to their own Souls; rather than kindle into Resentment, at the Indignity offered to Ourselves?—When greatly injured, are We slow to Anger, and not easily provoked? Are We much more willing to be reconciled, than to foment Displeasure, and prosecute Revenge? In a Word; do We *love our Enemies; bless them, that curse Us; do Good to them, that hate Us; and pray for them, which despitefully use Us, and persecute Us?—Without this loving and lovely Disposition, We abide, says the Apostle, in Death †; are destitute of spiritual, and have no Fitness for eternal Life.

Let me add—Are all our Graces, and all our Works, clothed with Humility? This should be the Dress, in which they severally appear; as well as the Bond of Connection, which unites them all ‡.—Do We maintain a very low Opinion of our own Accomplishments, and in Honour prefer Others to Ourselves ||? ble, that We are less than the least of the divine Mercies, and the very chiefest of Sinners.

I might easily have branched out all the preceding Subjects, into a much greater Variety of interrogatory Articles. But I intend only to present You with a Specimen. Your own Meditations will enlarge the Sketch, and supply what is defective. Only let me beg of You, my dear Friend, to try your State by this Touchstone; to prove your Conduct by this Standard. And may the FATHER of Lights give You an Understanding, to discern the exact Purity and sublime Perfection of his holy Law!

Have You lived in the uninterrupted Observance of all these Duties: avoiding whatever is forbidden, and obeying whatever is commanded? Your outward Behaviour, I know, has been free from notorious Violations; but has your inward Temper been preserved, from all ungodly Motions, and from every irregular Desire? Is there no Enmity in your Heart to any of the Precepts; nor any Backwardness, nor any Failure, in performing each and every Injunction?

When You put these Questions to Yourself, remember; That every Sin is a Contempt of infinite Majesty, and supreme Authority. That every Sin pollutes the Soul, and renders it a Kind of Hell; is a Departure from GOD, and an Imitation of the Devil. That the Wages due to every Sin, is eternal Death; and the Doom denounced on every Sinner, is an everlasting Curse.—Remember; That if You fail in one Point, or in any Degree, You are guilty of all*. Nay; if your Conformity be not persevering as well as perfect, You incur the Penalty, and are abandoned to Condemnation—UNLESS, renouncing all your personal Performances, You place your whole Affiance on a SAVIOUR'S Atonement, and a SAVIOUR'S Righteousness.—I think, You will not dare to put the Issue of your everlasting State upon the former Footing. Which is not only hazardous, but must be inevitably ruinous. You will infinitely rather, choose to acknowledge Yourself a poor Insolvent; and plead the unsearchable Riches of your REDEEMER's Obedience; and rely on the unparalleled Merit of your REDEEMER's Blood.

To those who believe, the Law, though strict, is not terrible. Because, be its Precepts of Holiness ever so extensive, they have been most completely fulfilled by their glorious SURETY. Be its penal Sanctions ever so rigorous, they have been satisfied to the utmost, by their great MEDIATOR.—Believers, therefore, may make their Boast of their adorable SPONSOR. They may *sit under his Shadow with great Delight. While the Thunderings of Mount Sinai, and all the Terrors of the legal Dispensation, tend only to increase and quicken the refreshing Sense of their Safety. Just as the Possessor of a plentiful Estate, in some peaceful and prosperous Country, reposes Himself under the Shade of his Vine, or the Shelter of his Fig-tree; and, hearing of the Wars which embroil, or the Plagues which depopulate other Nations, tastes, with augmented Relish, his own Felicity.

Let me close with the affectionate and emphatical Wish of an inspired epistolary Writer. That the LORD of Peace may give my dear Theron Peace—always—by all Means†! Then I shall think, my Wishes are accomplishing, and this Blessing is at the Door, when He sees the Purity of the divine Law—sees the Depravity of his own Nature—and the Impossibility of being justified, without an Interest in the great MEDIATOR's Righteousness. That Righteousness, which, as it is the only Hope, and the constant Joy, is therefore the darling Theme, of

P. S. Shall I abridge the preceding Letter, and contract the Whole into those two great Commandments, which made the first awakening Impressions on my own Mind? Thou shalt love the LORD thy GOD with ALL thy Heart: Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as THYSELF.—Amazing! said your Aspasio. Are these the Commands of GOD? As obligatory, as the Prohibition of Adultery, or the Observation of the Sabbath? Then has my whole Life been a continual AET of Disobedience. Not a Day, no, nor an Hour, in which I have performed my Duty.—This conviction struck me, as the Hand-writing upon the Wall struck the presumptuous Monarch.—It pursued me, as Saul pursued the Christians, not only to my own House, but even to distant Cities.—Nor ever gave up the great Controversy, till, under the Influences of the SPIRIT, it brought me wearry and heavy laden to JESUS CHRIST.

L E T T E R I I.

Dear ASPASIO,

MORE than three Weeks are elapsed, since You favoured me with your improving Company. During which Interval, I have frequently recollected the most material Parts of our late Discourses. I have carefully considered, both the Doctrines You advanced, and the Answers You returned to my several Objections.—I have often reviewed your valuable Letter; have used it as a Touch-stone, to examine my State; and have, with great Punctuality, observed your parting Advice.—

I have sat, every Evening, for a Picture of my Mind; and have endeavoured to take a true unflattering Draught of all its distinguishing Qualities. And if the Diary is a faithful Mirror, if it does not aggravate the Deformity of my Features, I shall be absolutely out of Conceit with myself: I shall ever entertain the meanest Opinion of my own, either moral or religious Qualifications.

Where is that intense and supreme Love of GOD, which his transcendent Perfections challenge, and his ineffable Goodness claims?—Where that firm and joyful Reliance on CHRIST JESUS, in any Degree proportioned to his infinite Merits and inviolable Promises?—Where that cordial and tender Affection for my Fellow-christians, which is due to the Servants of a Divine REDEEMER; the People whom He ransomed by his Agonies, and purchased with his very Blood?—Where is the Incense of holy Contemplation and refined Desire? Where the Flame of fervent Devotion and ever active Zeal? Such as become the living Temple of GOD, in which his most immaculate and glorious SPIRIT vouchsafes to reside.—These fundamental Graces, like the grand Organs in the animal System, should impart Health to the Soul, and spread the Beauty of Holiness through all the Conversation. But these, alas! far from beating with a vigorous and uniform Pulse, hardly heave with Life; only just struggle, now and then, with some faint, intermitted, uneven Throws.

How seldom do my Actions spring from Gratitude to the everlasting BENEFACTOR, or aim at the Glory of his super-excellent MAJESTY?—In addressing the KING immortal, invisible, how languid are my Affections, and how wandering is my Attention? How great my Unbelief, and how little my reverential Awe?—I receive innumerable Mercies; but where are my Returns of correspondent Thankfulness? I am visited with many gracious Chastisements; but without proper Resignation, or due Improvement.—Alas for my heartless Devotions, my lifeless Virtues, and the Multitude of my refined Iniquities!—Hid behind the Mask of outward Decency, Decency, and some customary forms of Religion, I was altogether unacquainted with my spiritual State. I fancied myself rich, and increased with Goods, and to have Need of Nothing: even while I was *wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked.

If I look back, and review the Years of Youth and Manhood, what has been the Tenour, what is the Aspect of my Life? More like a desolate and horrid Wilderness; than a cultivated Garden, or a fruitful Vineyard.—In Youth, what sordid Gratifications of Appetite! In Manhood, what base Compliances with a wicked World! In both, what Sholes of evil Inclinations have polluted my Heart! What Swarms of vain Imaginations have debased my Thoughts! What frothy and unprofitable Words have dropt from my Lips!—By all which, how have I disobeyed, and how dishonoured GOD! How have I denied, and how crucified the LORD JESUS CHRIST! And yet suppose myself, all the while, to be good enough!

It is something unaccountable, that a Person of my inquisitive Disposition, should, through the Course of so many Years, be such an utter Stranger to Himself. I wonder at my own preposterous Folly!—To travel into foreign Countries, and visit the most renowned Cities of Europe; yet never step over the Threshold, nor look within the Apartments of my own Breast.—To carry on a Correspondence with my Friends; even in the remotest Nations; and never enter upon a Conference, nor hold any Intelligence with my own Heart!—To enquire after News from the Fleet, News from the Army, News from the Court; yet exercise neither Curiosity nor Care, with regard to the Hope of Heaven, and the Concerns of Eternity!—What egregious Misconduct is this! A most pernicious Error, in the Oeconomy of religious Life.

Sometimes, I have cast a transient Glance on my outward Behaviour; but never extended my Search to the

* Rev. iii. 17.

Delinquent, the Traitor, the Rebel within.—And even my outward Behaviour has been surveyed, with as much erroneous Partiality, as superficial Levity. It has been compared, not with that exact and sublime Standard, the Scriptures of Truth; but, as in the Case of the self-deceiving Pharisee, with the unjust, extortionate, adulterous Practices of some other People. From whence I most unwarrantably concluded, That, being not quite so abandoned as the most profligate Creatures, my Character must be good, and my Condition safe.—But, Thanks to your last friendly Letter, and the searching Expedient it recommended, I am now in a different Way of Thinking.

It is strange to recollect, and indeed it is shameful to confess, the many Artifices which I have used, to put a Cheat upon myself.—Sometimes I have fancied that the divine Law could never be so strict, as to condemn Us inexorably, only because We continue not in all its Precepts.—Sometimes I have pleaded the Infirmary of our Nature, and endeavoured to make the Works of Darkness appear only as pitiable Failings.—Sometimes I have taken Refuge in the Excellency of our Church, and plumed myself with the borrowed Feathers of a religious Profession.—At other Times, I have soothed my Conscience to rest, by a Punctuality of Attendance on Places, or a zealous Attachment to Forms. And all this, to seduce, cajole, and betray myself—betray myself, first into a vain Conceit of my own Endowments; then into a contemptuous Disregard of CHRIST; and at last into eternal Destruction.—But now I see my Guilt; I apprehend my Danger; and feel my helpless Condition.

Indeed, my Aspasio, I am now convinced, that the darkest Colours cannot be too dark, for the Pourtrait of my spiritual State. I see myself overspread with an habitual Depravity, and cannot forbear crying out, with the abashed Leper; Unclean! Unclean!—The sacred Oracles in no wise misrepresent fallen Man, when they describe Him as altogether become abominable †. They are far from under-rating human Works, when they denominate them *filthy Rags. Rags they are, if We consider their great Imperfection; filthy Rags, if We advert to their manifold Defilements. And, since the Nature of GOD is irreconcilably averse to all Conta-

* Isai. lxiv. 6. Does not Theron misapply this Text? Can it be intended to discredit the Qualifications of the Upright? Is it not rather a Brand set upon the Works of the Wicked; whose very "Sacrifices" are an Abomination to the LORD?" Or, a Rebuke given to the specious Performances of the Hypocrite; who is precise in the Form, but destitute of the Power of Godliness? Or, may it not refer to ritual Observances; in Contradistinction to moral Duties, and spiritual Endowments?

The disparaging Character must not, I think, be confined to ritual Observances; because it is expressly said, ALL our Righteousnesses; of every Kind; be what they will; no Exception is made.—Neither can it be appropriated to the formal Hypocrite, much less to the notoriously Wicked; because those very Persons, who are the Subject of this Assertion, declare in the Context; LORD We are thy People; Thou art our FATHER; We shall be saved.—So that it seems intended, not so much to stigmatize any particular Behaviour, as to stain the Pride of all human Glory.

Besides; the Prophet speaks of himself; WE all are as an unclean Thing. Which, however strange or unreasonable it may appear, is the very same Charge, to which He pleads guilty in another Place; Woe is me! I am undone! For I am a Man of unclean Lips! Not that He was defiled with any gross Pollutions; nay, He was a Saint of the most distinguished Lustre; but his Eyes had seen the KING, the LORD of Hosts. He was under the clear Manifestations of a GOD, glorious in Holiness, inflexible in Justice, and infinite in all Perfections.—Amidst these Manifestations, the Impurity of his Heart and Nature, were not only apparent, but glaring; such as overwhelmed Him with Abasement, and, till CHRIST was applied in a Type (Isai. vi. 7.) filled Him with Terror.

In such Circumstances, and under such Views, all our moral Virtues and evangelical Graces, all our Exercises of Devotion and Acts of Charity, must necessarily appear both defective and polluted. By no means proportioned to the Demands of the Law, nor sufficient for our Recommendation to the Supreme LAWGIVER—no more than a few tattered Rags, can claim the Character, or perform the Services, of a complete Suit—no more than a few filthy Rags are fit, to dress the Bride for her Nuptials, or the Courtier for a Birth-night.

But there is a Righteousness—blessed be divine Grace!—spotlessly pure, and consummately excellent; a Righteousness, which answers all that the CREATOR requires, and supplies all that the Creature needs; to prove this momentous Point, and to display this unspeakable Gift, is the Design of the following Sheets.

mination; since the Law of GOD requires unspotted Perfection; O! *Who can stand before this holy LORD GOD, in any Accomplishments of his own?

When I farther reflect, that I have only a very obscure Glimpse of the divine Purity, and am a mere Novice in the Knowledge of my own Heart; how am I amazed at the lofty Apprehensions which I once formed, concerning the Dignity of my Nature, and the Integrity of my Conduct! All'owing to Ignorance, the grossest Ignorance of myself and the Scriptures.—How do I shudder to think, that, in expecting Justification from the Law, I was resting the Welfare of my immortal Soul, not on the Strength of a Rock, but on the Point of a Dagger.—I was going to the decisive Tribunal, flushed with the falsest Hopes, and charged with a Set of glittering Sins: going, like poor deluded Uriah †, not with any valid Credentials, but with the Ministration of Death ‡ in my Hand.

Though I cannot but acknowledge the Arrogance of these Pretensions, yet loth, very loth is my Pride, to renounce the pleasing Absurdity. Self-love and Self-importance has searched, and searched again, for something excellent. They can hardly brook the Humiliation of imploring all sub Formâ Pauperis §. With what Reluctance is a Sinner brought to confess Himself, sinful in every Duty, sinful in every Capacity! Strange Perverseness!—But the Charge is undeniable. However unwilling, I must plead guilty. THOU ART WEIGHED IN THE BALANCES §, AND FOUND WANTING, § Weighed in the Balance—As the following Story may serve to illustrate this fine Expression, and enforce the momentous Sentiment, the Reader will permit me to relate it.

In the Reign of King Charles I. the Goldsmiths of London had a Custom, to weigh several Sorts of their precious Metal, before the privy Council. On this Occasion they made use of Scales poised with such exquisite Nicety, that the Beam would turn (the Master of the Company

I now see the Necessity of an imputed Righteousness. Without some such Object for my Trust, I am undone. I long therefore to hear your Arguments in its Behalf. And I must declare to You, if it can be satisfactorily proved from the Scriptures, it is the most comfortable Doctrine in the World, and worthy of all Acceptation.

A Letter upon this Subject, would be a singular Favour, and, I hope, an equal Blessing to

LETTER III.

ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

THOUGH all your Letters give me Pleasure, none was ever so highly pleasing, as your last. I look upon it with the same secret Joy, as a compassionate Physician observes some very favourable Symptoms, in the Crisis of a beloved Patient's Distemper.

And since the Balances of the Sanctuary, the Balances in GOD's Hand, are infinitely more exact; O what Need have We of the Merits and Righteousness of CHRIST, to make Us acceptable in his Sight, and passable in his Esteem!

* Dan. v. 17.

What

What You ask, I shall, without any farther Preface, attempt to execute. If my Attempt proves satisfactory to your Judgment, I am sure, it will be the most likely Means, of healing your Conscience, and calming your Fears.—When We perceive the odious Depravity of our Nature; when We discern the horrible Iniquity of our Lives; and are sensible of that tremendous Wrath, and everlasting Vengeance, which are due to such guilty Creatures: then nothing can be found, that will speak effectual Peace, nothing that will administer solid Comfort, but only the vicarious Sufferings, and the imputed Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST.

To this Purpose one of the wisest and best of spiritual Guides expresses Himself; Has Sin abounded? As undoubtedly it has, in our Heart, and our Life: Grace has much more abounded, in the Obedience, and the Merits of our REDEEMER.—Nay, has Sin reigned? Exerted its malignant Power, in the most extensive and most destructive Manner; rendering Us subject unto Death, both temporal and eternal? Even so has Grace reigned; exerted its benign Efficacy, in a Manner yet more triumphant; not only rescuing Us from Guilt and Ruin, but restoring Us to everlasting Life and Glory. And all this through the Righteousness, the complete meritorious Righteousness, brought in by JESUS CHRIST our *LORD.

You enquire after the Proofs of this imputed Righteousness. From a Multitude I shall select a few. Sufficient, I hope, to make it appear—That this is the declared Doctrine of our Church, and the avowed Belief of her most eminent Divines—That it is copiously revealed through the whole SCRIPTURES; revealed in many express Passages, and deducible from a Variety of instructive Similitudes.

Hear the Language of our Common Prayer, in a very affecting and solemn Address to the ALMIGHTY:
 “ We do not presume to come to this thy Table, O

* Rom. v. 21.

“merciful LORD, trusting in our own Righteousness.”—If we may not, if we dare not, rely on our own Righteousness, when we approach the eucharistic Table; much less may we depend upon it, when we are summoned to the decisive Tribunal.—Should You ask, on what we are to depend? The Exhortation to the Communion furnishes an Answer; “On the meritorious Death and Passion of CHRIST, whereby alone we obtain Remission of Sins, and are made Partakers of the Kingdom of Heaven.”

The Collect, appointed for the Festival of Circumcision, has this remarkable Introduction; “Almighty GOD, whose blessed SON was obedient to the Law for Man.” In what Sense, or with what Propriety, can this be affirmed? Unless CHRIST’s perfect Obedience be referable to Us, and accepted instead of ours? On any other Interpretation, I should think, He was obedient, not for Man, but for Himself.

Should the artful Critic give some other Turn to these Passages, it will avail Him but little. Because the Church, her own best Expositor, has explained the Meaning of such Phrases, and put the Matter beyond all Doubt. In her eleventh Article she says; “We are accounted righteous before GOD only for the Merits of our LORD and SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST.”—The Doctrine relating to Pardon of Sin, had been stated in a preceding Article. This displays the Method whereby Sinners may appear righteous in the Sight of GOD, and in the Court of Heaven; so as to recover the divine Favour, and obtain a Title to eternal Bliss.—This is done, not by any native Righteousness, not by any acquired Righteousness, but wholly by an imputed Righteousness. The two former Methods are so far from constituting our reconciling and justifying Righteousness, that they have no Share in it; they contribute nothing towards it; but are totally excluded from it. We are accounted righteous, and accepted as such, ONLY (mark the Expression) ONLY through the meritorious rious Obedience, and propitiating Blood of our great MEDIATOR.

The Homilies are, if it be possible, still more explicit, and more cogent. In the Homily concerning the Salvation of Mankind, we read the following Words;—
 “ The Apostle toucheth three Things, which must go “ together in our Justification. On GOD’s Part, his “ great Mercy and Grace. On CHRIST’s Part, the “ Satisfaction of GOD’s Justice, or the Price of our “ Redemption, by the Offering of his Body, and Shed“ ding of his Blood, with Fulfilling of the Law per“ fectly. On our Part, true and lively Faith in the “ Merits of JESUS CHRIST, which yet is not ours, “ but by GOD’s working in Us.”—You see, according to the Judgment of our venerable Reformers, not only the Offering of CHRIST’s Body, and Shedding of CHRIST’s Blood, but also his perfect Fulfilling of the Law, are the adequate Price of our Redemption. All these act conjointly, they sweetly harmonize, in the great and glorious Work. To suppose their Disunion, is a doctrinal Mistake, somewhat like that practical Error of the Papists, in severing the sacramental Wine from the sacramental Bread; administering to the Laity the Symbols of the slaughtered Body, but with-holding the Symbols of the streaming Blood.

There are other Clauses in the same Homily, which set the Seal of the Church to our Sentiments. I shall content myself with transcribing one from the Conclusion.—“ CHRIST, says that Form of sound Words, “ is the Righteousness of all them, that do truly believe.
 “ He for them paid their Ransom by his Death. He
 “ for them fulfilled the Law in his Life. So that now,
 “ in HIM, and by HIM, every true christian Man
 “ may be called a Fulfiller of the Law; forasmuch as “ that which their Infirmary lacked, CHRIST’s Right“ teousness hath supplied.”—This Authority is as clear, as the Doctrine authorized is comfortable. May the former sway our Judgment! May the latter cheer our Hearts!

The Homily on CHRIST's Nativity informs the Reader, that the design of our LORD's Incarnation was—"To give Light unto the World, and call Sinners
 " to Repentance; to fulfil the Law for Us, and become " the Propitiation for our Sins; to cast out the Prince " of this World, and destroy the Works of the Devil."
 —We have all broke the Law; We are all unable to keep the Law; therefore, the blessed JESUS fulfilled the Law—fulfilled it in each and every of its Demands—fulfilled it, in the highest Degree of Perfection—and, what is of all Considerations most delightful, fulfilled it for Us. His Obedience took the Place of what We were obliged to perform, under the Covenant of Works; and is not only the meritorious, but also the constituent Cause of our Justification.

So that—if there be any Worthiness in our LORD's most holy Nature; any Merit in his Exercise of the sublimest Virtues; any atoning Efficacy, in his Submission to the most ignominious Sufferings, and most tormenting Death—these, according to our Standard-system of orthodox Divinity, are the Ground of a Sinner's Justification.—And, according to the Dictates of the most unbiaſſed Reason, these are the best, the surest Ground, that the Heart can wish, or the Imagination conceive.

Does it not, from the preceding Quotations, appear; That the Doctrine of Justification through the imputed Righteousness of our REDEEMER, is far from being disclaimed by the established Church?—I am sorry, but constrained to own, that We rarely find any considerable Strictures of this great evangelical Peculiarity, in our modern theological Discourses. Yet there have been Preachers of the highest Repute for Learning, for Judgment, and for Piety, who professedly maintained this leading Truth of the Gospel.

The devout Bishop Beveridge, in his Private Thoughts, has left upon Record the following very remarkable Acknowledgment. Which, if it suited his State of eminent Holiness, cannot be too humbling, my dear

Theron, for your Lips and mine. “ I do not remember, neither do I believe, that I ever prayed, in all my Life-time, with that Reverence, or heard with that Attention, or received the Sacrament with that Faith, or did any Work with that pure Heart, and single Eye, as I ought to have done. Infomuch, that I look upon all my Righteousness, but as filthy Rags ; and it is in the Robes only of the Righteousness of the SON of GOD, that I dare appear before the MAJESTY of Heaven.”

The fervent and affectionate Bishop *Hopkins, speaks in perfect Consonance with his Brother of St. Asaph.—“ The Law was given Us, not that We should seek Justification by the Observance of it, but finding it impossible to be justified by fulfilling it We should thereby be driven to CHRIST's Righteousness ; who hath both fulfilled it in Himself, and satisfied for our transgressing of it ; and therefore saith the Apostle, The Law was a School-master, to bring Us unto CHRIST ; that We might be justified by Faith. To this End it was promulged, that seeing the Strictness of its Precepts, the Rigour of its Threatenings, and withal being convinced of our Impotence to fulfil its Commands, We might be urged by its Terrors to fly to CHRIST, and find that Righteousness in Him which may answer all the Demands of the Law.”

Bishop Reynolds †, styled by his Contemporaries, and not without Reason, A walking Library, bears his Testimony in the following Words ;—“ CHRIST as our Surety paid our Debt, underwent the Curse due to our Sins, and bare them all in his own Body on the Tree ; became subject to the Law for Us, and representatively in our Stead fulfilled all the Righteousness the Law required, active and passive. For Sin being † See his Treatise intitled The Life of CHRIST.—Which, as well as all his other Works, abound with striking Sentiments ; have much Elegance of Diction, a copious Variety of Learning, and a lively animating Spirit of evangelical Piety.

“ once committed, there must be a double Act to Justification; the Suffering of the Curse, and the Fulfilling of Righteousness anew. The one, a Satisfaction for the Injury We have done to GOD, as our JUDGE: the other, the Performance of a Service which We owe unto Him, as our MAKER.

To this illustrious Triumvirate, let me join Bishop Davenant. Who for his great Abilities, and unquestionable Integrity, was appointed one of our religious Plenipotentiaries, at the renowned Synod of Dort. In his very valuable Exposition of the Epistle to the Colossians, He writes to this Effect: “ Ye are complete in CHRIST. Ye are furnished, in that all-sufficient REDEEMER, with whatever is requisite to everlasting Salvation. With Wisdom; since it is the Consummation of this noble Endowment, to know CHRIST and Him crucified. With Righteousness; because He has perfectly satisfied the Law *, and thoroughly expiated our Guilt. With Sanctification; because his SPIRIT dwelling in our Hearts, mortifies our corrupt Affections, and renews the Soul after the Image of its CREATOR.”

Let me bring up the Rear with a Testimony, which for Clearness, Solidity, and a full Representation of the evangelical Doctrine, might very justly have claimed a Place in the Van. It is taken from an Author, whom the general Consent of our Nation has distinguished

* In this Respect principally (says our Author, enlarging upon the Text) are Believers complete; because, though destitute of any Righteousness, that may properly be called their own, CHRIST has graciously enriched them with his. Vid. DAVENANT. in Epist. ad Coloss. Cap. ii. Com. 10.

Let me beg leave to intimate, That this Exposition of the Epistle to the Colossians—for Perspicuity of Style, and Accuracy of Method—for Judgment in discerning, and Fidelity in representing the Apostle’s Meaning—for Strength of Argument in refuting Errors, and Felicity of Invention in deducing practical Doctrines, tending both to the Establishment of Faith, and the Cultivation of Holiness—is, perhaps, inferior to no Writing of the Kind; and richly deserves to be read, to be studied, to be imitated, by our young Divines.

with the Title of Judicious. The judicious Hooker, in a Treatise on Justification, says;—" It is a childish Cavil our Adversaries so greatly please themselves with, exclaiming, that We tread all Christian Virtues under our Feet; because We teach, that Faith alone justifieth. Whereas, by this Speech, We never meant to exclude either Hope or Charity from being always joined as inseparable Mates with Faith, in the Man that is justified; or Works from being added as necessary Duties, required of every justified Man: but to shew, that Faith is the only Hand, which putteth on CHRIST to Justification; and CHRIST the only Garment, which being so put on, covereth the Shame of our defiled Natures, hideth the Imperfection of our Works, and preserveth Us blameless in the Sight of GOD: before whom, otherwise, the Weakness of our Faith were Cause sufficient to make Us culpable, yea, to shut Us out of the Kingdom of Heaven, where nothing that is not absolute can enter."

You will allow the sagacious Bishop *Sanderfon to sum up the Evidence; or rather to make an important Remark on the whole of the Controversy. That great Light of the Church, both in casuistical and practical Divinity, observes;—" The Tidings of a REDEEMER must be blessed and welcome News, to those that are sensible of their own Poverty, and take it of Grace." Our eagle-eyed Divine penetrates into the true Cause of the prevailing Averseness to this evangelical Doctrine. It is founded on the State of the Heart, more than upon any Force of Argument. People are but little, if at all, sensible of their spiritual and moral Indigence; of the Defects which depreciate, and the Defilements which sully, whatever they have, and whatever they do. Nay, strongly tinctured with Pride, they would be themselves the Alpha, and suffer the Blessed JESUS to be no more than the Omega, in procuring their eternal Salvation. Therefore they can hardly be reconciled to the humbling Character of an Eleemofynary; one who lives wholly upon the Alms of the Gospel, and is dependent upon Grace for his All.

Whereas, was this grand Obstacle once removed; were Men convinced of Sin, of exceeding Sinfulness in their worst Estate, and of remaining Sinfulness in their best; they would soon be convinced of *Righteousness, of the absolute Necessity and inestimable Worth of a REDEEMER's Righteousness. They would no longer dispute against it, but cordially receive it; entirely rely on it; and adore the Goodness, the transcendent and unutterable Goodness of GOD, in providing it.

I think, in one of our Conferences, I undertook to produce my Vouchers from the ancient Fathers. Let me now subjoin two or three Attestations of this Kind.—From one of which You will perceive, that those early Writers had a considerable Degree of Clearness upon the Point. From the other You will see, that, far from rejecting the Doctrine, they embrace it with Delight and Rapture. And if You will admit of the last, You cannot be startled at any Thing, which I shall advance upon the Subject.—Let me only premise in general, that, if those Authors are not so copious and explicit, with regard to the Imputation of active Righteousness; they abound with Passages, which evince the Substitution of CHRIST in our Stead. Passages, which disclaim all Dependence on any Duties of our own, and fix the Hopes of a Sinner entirely on the Merits of his SAVIOUR. When this is the Case, I am not very solicitous about any particular Forms of Expression; and far from being angry, even though the Words, which I think most significant, are not retained.

Clemens, first of the ancient Fathers, and an intimate Acquaintance of St. Paul's, wrote an Epistle to the Corinthians. It is full of manly Sense, and seraphic Piety. Among other valuable Things, the truly apostolic Man declares; We are not, in any Respect, or in any Degree, justified by Ourselves, but wholly by JESUS CHRIST: not by our own Wisdom or Prudence, which could never find out the Way; not by the Piety of our Hearts, or Works of Righteousness performed in our Lives, which could never be sufficient for the Purpose; but by Faith, or a fiduciary Reliance on the Righteousness of Another. The one invariable Method, by which the Almighty SOVEREIGN has justified all his People, ever since the World began.*

Justin—who was first a Gentile Philosopher, then an eminent Christian, and at last, a Martyr for the Truth—speaks more fully to the Point †: What else could cover our Sins, but the Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST? By what possible Means could We, unrighteous and unholy Creatures, be justified, but only by the Interposition of the SON of GOD in our Behalf?—Having, in this Clause, made a Profession of his Faith;—the good Man, on the Contemplation of such a Privilege, breaks out into a kind of holy Transport. O SWEET AND DELIGHTFUL EXCHANGE! A Dispensation unsearchably wise and gracious! Benefits quite unexpected, and rich beyond all our Hopes! That the Transgression of Many, should be hid by one righteous PERSON; and that the Righteousness of ONE, should justify many Transgressors.

The following Words are remarkably strong, and the Sentiments peculiarly bold. But they come from

* Ου δι' εαυτων δικαιωμεθα, ουδε δια τας ημετερας Σοφιας, η Συνεσεως, η ευσεβειας, η ερσων ων κατειρσασαμεθα εν οσιδητη καρδιας· αλλα δια της πιστewος, δι' ης παυλας τες απ' αιωνω ο πατριουραλw Θεος εδικαιωσεν. 1 Epist. ad Corinth. — This Quotation is explained, as well as translated. the Pen of the finest Writer in Ecclesiastical Antiquity. They have the great Name, and venerable Character of St. Chrystom, for their recommendatory Preface*.—Fear not, says He, on Account of any of thy past Transgressions of the Law, when once thou hast fled by Faith to JESUS CHRIST. The most enormous and the most destructive Violation of the Law, is, To be with-held by the Consciousness of any Guilt whatever, from believing on CHRIST. When Thou artest Faith on Him, Thou hast fulfilled, I might say, more than fulfilled the Law. For Thou hast received a better Righteousness, than it could ever require: Thou art possessed of a better Obedience, than any Creature could possibly pay.

Two or three Witnesses, of distinguished Ability, and undoubted Veracity, are a sufficient Confirmation of any Cause. For this Reason, and to avoid a tiresome Prolixity, I have set aside a Multitude of Voices; which from the Writings of our own and foreign Divines, are ready to pour their united Evidence.—And lest the Business of Quotation, though sparingly managed, should seem dry and tedious; I will relieve your Weariness, and enliven the Collection, by an Extract from the Prince of English Poetry.—Michael, the prophetic Archangel, mentioning the destructive Consequences of the Fall; and asserting the GODHEAD of that glorious PERSON, who undertook to be the Repairer of this deadly Breach; adds,

*Which HE, who comes thy SAVIOUR, shall re-cure,
Not by destroying Satan, but his Works,
In Thee and in thy Seed. Nor can this be,
But by fulfilling (that which Thou didst want)
Obedience to the Law of GOD, impos'd

Here then is the express Determination of our Homilies—supported by the Authority of our Articles—established by the Concurrence of our Liturgy—still farther ratified by the unanimous Attestation of several celebrated Divines; whose Lives were the brightest Ornament to our Church, and whose Writings are the most unexceptionable Interpretation of her Meaning.—As a Capital, to crown and complete this grand Column, supervenes the Declaration of the antient Fathers; those who flourished, and with the highest Renown, in the first and purest Ages of Christianity.—So that, if great Authorities carry any Weight; if illustrious Names challenge any Regard; this Tenet comes attended and dignified with very considerable Credentials.

Yet, I will venture to affirm, that all these, considerable as they appear, are the least of those Testimonials, ASPASIO.

LETTER IV.

Dear THERON,

THE Family, in which I have the Satisfaction to reside, though remarkable for their genteel Figure and ample Fortune, are still more amiably distinguished by their Benevolence, Hospitality, and Charity.—As they live at a Distance from the Market-town, the Lady has converted one Apartment of her House into a little Dispensatory; and stocked it with some of the most common, the most needed, and most salutary Medicines. Which, in Cases of ordinary Indisposition, She distributes to her indigent Neighbours, with singular Compassion, and with no small Success.—This fine Morning, Emilia has ordered some skilful Hands into the Fields, to cull their healing Simples, and lay up a Magazine of Health for the afflicted Poor.—Camillus is withdrawn, to receive his Rents, and settle Accounts with his Tenants.

Suppose, We act in Concert with these valuable Persons. Suppose, We range the delightful Fields of Scripture, and form a Collection, not of salutiferous Herbs, but of inestimable Texts; such as may be of sovereign Efficacy, to assuage the Anguish of a guilty Conscience, and impart saving Health to the distempered Soul.—

Suppose,

Suppose, We open the Mines of divine Inspiration, and enrich Ourselves, not with the Gold of Ophir, but with the unsearchable Treasures of CHRIST; or with that perfect Righteousness of our REDEEMER, which is incomparably more precious, than the Revenues of a County, or the Produce of Peru.

In pleading for imputed Righteousness, We have already urged the Authority of our established Church, and the Suffrage of her most eminent Divines.—The Opinion of excellent Writers, which has been the Result of much Learning, great Attention, and earnest Prayer, is no contemptible Evidence. Yet We must always reserve the casting Voice, for those infallible Umpires, the Prophets and Apostles. If We receive, with a deferential Regard, *the Witness of Men; the Witness of GOD is greater, and challenges the most implicit Submission.—Which Remark naturally leads me to the intended Subject of the Epistle; or rather calls upon me to fulfil my late Engagement, and shew—That the above-mentioned Doctrine is copiously revealed, through the whole Process of the Scriptures.

Let me select a very significant Portion from the Epistle to the Romans; which, though little inferior to a decisive Proof, is presented only as an Introduction to others. Now the Righteousness of GOD without the Law is manifested, being witnessed by the Law and the Prophets; even the Righteousness of GOD, which is by Faith of JESUS CHRIST unto all, and upon all them that believe †. The Righteousness of GOD, signifies that Righteousness, which the incarnate GOD wrought out in his own all-glorious Person ‡. It is styled the Righteousness

† Rom. iii. 21. 22.

‡ This Explication, or something to the same Purpose, has occurred already. But it is hoped, the candid Reader will not condemn the Repetition, as a disagreeable or jejune Tautology.—Because, it is so consonant to the Practice of our great Apostle, who repeats the Term, re-inculcates the Doctrine, and hardly knows how to desist from the favourite Topic: like One, who was quite enamoured with the Subject; who found Music in the Words; and whose Happiness was bound ousness of GOD, by way of superlative Pre-eminence; in Opposition to any Righteousness of our own, and in Contradistinction to the Righteousness of all Creatures whatever.—This Righteousness is without the Law. Its Efficacy has no Dependance on, its Merit receives no Addition from, any Conformity of our Practice to the divine Law: being complete, absolutely complete in itself, and altogether sufficient to procure the Reconciliation and Acceptance of Sinners.—This Righteousness is manifested * by the Gospel; and made as clear, as an Object which We behold with our own Eyes. It was witnessed † by the Law and the Prophets; and made as certain, as a Fact which is attested by unquestionable Evidence.—To produce this Evidence; to examine its Pertinency, and weigh its Sufficiency, is our present pleasing Business.

We may begin with that gracious Declaration, made to the first Transgressors: The Seed of the Woman shall bruise the Serpent's Head ‡; shall destroy the Works of the Devil, and retrieve whatever was lost by his malicious Artifices ||. How could this be effected, but by restoring that Righteousness, which, for a while, our first Parents possessed; which they ought always to have held fast, but from which they so soon and so unhappily swerved?—Take the Position in the right Sense, and Christianity is, if not entirely, yet very nearly as old as the Creation. It was comprehended in this blessed Promise, as the Stamina of the largest Plants are contained in the Substance of their respective Seeds. Every sub-bound up in the Blessing.—Because, it is conformable to another, and a greater Example. The LORD JEHOVAH Himself, within the Compass of one Chapter, once and again, yea, a third and a fourth Time, styles this wonderful Obedience, MY RIGHTEOUSNESS. As though the GOD of infinite Perfection gloried in it; thought Himself most eminently magnified by it; and was jealous to have all the Honour resulting from it. See Isai. li.

|| In some such Sense, I think, our first Parents must understand the Promise. Otherwise it could yield them no effectual Relief, under the distressing Sense of their own Misery, and the dismal Apprehensions of their Posterity's Ruin.

sequent Revelation being no more, than a gradual Evolution of this grand evangelical Principle; acting like the vegetative Powers of Nature, which, in rearing an Oak with all its Spread of Branches, only expand the Tunicles, and fill up the Vessels of the Acorn.

The Doctrine seems to have been typically taught, by the remarkable Manner of clothing our first Parents.—All they could do for their own Recovery, was like the patched and beggarly Mantle of Fig-leaves. This they relinquish, and GOD Himself furnishes them with Apparel*. Animals are slain, not for Food but Sacrifice; and the naked Criminals are arrayed with the Skins of those slaughtered Beasts. The Victims figured the Expiation of CHRIST's Death; the Clothing typified the Imputation of his Righteousness.—In perfect Conformity, perhaps with a Reference, to the Passage thus interpreted, the Apostle just now expressed Himself; even the Righteousness of GOD, which is not only made over † to all Believers, as a rich Portion; but put † upon all, as a beautiful Garment. Whereby alone their moral Deformity can be covered, and their everlasting Confusion prevented.—Milton, it is certain, speaking of this memorable Transaction, considers it in the same spiritual Sense:

*Nor He their outward only with the Skins Of Beasts, but inward Nakedness † (much more Opprobrious!) with his Robe of Righteousness

In thy Seed, says the great JEHOVAH to his Servant Abraham, shall all the Nations of the Earth be blessed ||.

† † Rom. iii. 12. ΕΙΣ παντας, ΕΠΙ παντας της υμετερας.

† An Allusion to Gen. iii. 10. Where Adam confesses before JEHOVAH; I heard thy Voice in the Garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked. Which must denote, what Milton truly styles, an inward Nakedness, or the Loss of Righteousness. Since nothing external, no Want of bodily Ornament, could have exposed our first Parent to the Wrath of GOD, or need have made Him afraid of it.

That

That the Seed here mentioned is CHRIST, the Apostle * places beyond all Doubt. Both Scripture and Reason declare, That true Blessedness must necessarily include—the Pardon of Sins, and the Favour of GOD—the Sanctification of our Souls, and the Inheritance of Life eternal. None of which are to be acquired by any human Performances; but all are to be sought, and all may be found, in the Root and Offspring of Abraham, JESUS CHRIST. Who is therefore most pertinently styled, THE DESIRE OF ALL NATIONS †: The actual Desire of every enlightened Nation; and the implicit Desire of all Nations whatever. Because all, without any Exception, covet, what is to be derived only from JESUS CHRIST the Righteous, real Happiness.

The patriarchal Age, and the legal Oeconomy, bore their Testimony to this Truth, by typical Persons, emblematical Miracles, and figurative Usages. Indeed, the whole ceremonial Service was a grand Series of Types, representing CHRIST and his everlasting Righteousness †. In all which, this was the unanimous though silent Language; Behold the LAMB of GOD, that taketh away the Sin of the World.—These I shall not stay to discuss; because Proofs, more explicit and positive, wait for our Consideration. Only I would just make a transient Observation, relating to one very remarkable Constitution of the Jewish Ritual.

The High-priest had, on the Front of his Mitre, a Plate of pure Gold, engraven with that venerable Motto ||, HOLINESS TO THE LORD. Which was always to be on his Forehead, when He performed the solemn Mi-

* See St. Paul's Comment upon this invaluable Promise, Gal. iii. 8, &c. This Commentator, We all allow, was guided by the SPIRIT, and knew the Mind of GOD. According to his Exposition of the Text, it is pregnant with the Doctrine of Justification by Faith, and contains an Abridgment of the Gospel.

nistrations of the Sanctuary ; and for this important Reason, that the People might be accepted before the LORD *. Did not this most clearly foreshew the immaculate Holiness of our great HIGH-PRIEST ? And with equal Clearness imply, that his Holiness should procure Acceptance for all his Followers ?

In the Book of Job, We have several Hints of this Truth, and one Passage very express to our Purpose.—Elibu describes an unconverted Person, under the chastising Hand of Providence. Whose Life, through the Extremity of its Disease, draws near to the Grave; and his Soul, through the Multitude of his Iniquities, is ready to become a Prey to the Destroyers. In this deplorable Condition, if there be present with Him, the MESSENGER † of the Covenant of Peace; that great INTERPRETER † of the Divine Counsels, Counsels, who, for his super-excellent Wisdom, is justly acknowledged to be One among a Thousand, or rather the chiefest among ten thousand. If He, by his enlightening SPIRIT, vouchsafe to shew unto the afflicted Man his own perfect Righteousness; that most meritorious Uprightness, on which alone a Sinner may depend, both for temporal and eternal Salvation. Then the poor distressed Creature, attentive to this Instruction, and applying to this Righteousness, is made Partaker of Pardon. GOD, the sovereign LORD of Life and Death, is gracious unto Him; and saieth, in the Greatness of his Strength, as well as in the Multitude of his Mercies, Deliver Him from going down into the Pit of Corruption,

* Exod. xxviii. 38.

† † See Job xxxiii. 22, &c.—CHRIST is called מלאך The Angel of the divine Presence, Isai. lxiii. 9. The Messenger of the Covenant, Mal. iii. 1.—He is also, in the most unlimited Sense of the Phrase, מלך The Interpreter of the divine Counsels: He, to whom the FATHER hath given the Tongue of the Learned, and by whom He makes known the otherwise unsearchable Mysteries of the Gospel.—Should any Doubt remain, concerning the Propriety of applying this Passage to our LORD JESUS CHRIST, the Reader, I hope, will give himself the Pleasure of perusing the polite WIRSIUS, Oecon. Lib. IV. Chap. iii. § xxxi, and Dr. GREY's valuable Notes upon the Place, in his Liber Jobi.

as a Pledge of his Deliverance from the Pit of Perdition. For, I have found a Ransom, sufficient to satisfy my Justice. I have received an Atonement, in Behalf of this once obnoxious, now reconciled Transgressor.

But why do I insist upon one particular Paragraph? It seems to be the main Design of the whole Book, to overthrow all Pretensions of any justifying Righteousness in Man. That the wretched Sinner, nay, that the greatest Saint, stripped of every personal Plea, may see nothing to rely on but the Merits of a REDEEMER. This is the final Issue of all those warm Debates, which pass between the afflicted Hero and his censorious Friends. This is the grand Result of Elibu's calm Reasoning, and of GOD Almighty's awful Interrogatories. The apparent Center this *, in which all the Lines terminate; justly therefore to be considered, as the principal Scope of the whole Work.

I must not omit an excellent Observation, which I find in some critical and explanatory Notes †, on the last Words of David. The judicious Author proving, that this Song relates to CHRIST; that it displays the Dignity of our REDEEMER, under the Character of The KING, and The JUST ONE; adds, as an Explanation of the last amiable and glorious Title—"Our LORD JESUS CHRIST is so called, not so much for having fulfilled all Righteousness, in his own Person, and performed an unfinning Obedience to the Will of GOD, as because by his Righteousness imputed to Us, we also upon the Terms ‡ of the Gospel, are justified, or accounted righteous before GOD."

* See Job xlii. 6. † By Dr. GREY. See 2 Sam. xxiii. 3, &c.

‡ Upon the Terms of the Gospel—That is, freely; or, as the Prophet speaks, without Money and without Price. For nothing is requisite, in order to a Participation of CHRIST and his Benefits, but a Grant from GOD. This Grant the Gospel exhibits, proclaims, and tenders to all. All, without making any Distinction, or requiring any Qualification. That Salvation may be, not of Works, but of Grace.—This Point, which is so intimately connected with our Comfort and Hope, the Reader may see more fully stated in Dialogue XV.

I think We may evidently discern the same Vein of evangelical Doctrine, running through many of the Psalms.—*He shall convert * my Soul*; turn me, not only from Sin and Ignorance, but from every false Confidence, and every deceitful Refuge. He shall bring me forth in Paths of Righteousness, in those Paths of imputed Righteousness, which are always adorned with the Trees of Holiness; are always watered with the Fountains of Consolation; and always terminate in everlasting Rest.—Some, perhaps, may ask, why I give this Sense of the Passage? Why may it not signify the Paths of Duty, and the Way of our own Obedience? Because, such Effects are here mentioned, as never have resulted, and never can result, from any Duties of our own. These, detached from our SAVIOUR'S Righteousness, are not green Pastures, but a parched and blasted Heath: are not still Waters, but a troubled and disorderly † Stream. Neither can these speak Peace, or administer

* Psalms xxiii. 3. I am sensible the Word יִשׁוּב may signify to refresh or restore; may answer to the Greek Phrase ἀνεψυξε; and denote the Comforts of the HOLY GHOST.—This Verb may also bear the same Signification with the Participle ἐπισπεύων, as it is used by our LORD, in his Exhortation to Peter, When Thou art converted. Not describing the first grand Revolution in the Heart; by which a new Determination is given to the Judgment, and a new Bias to the Affections. But expressing those subsequent Operations of the Divine SPIRIT; by which We are recovered from our various Relapses, and healed of our daily Infirmities. And I question, whether there is any Instance of Backsliding, in which We more frequently need those restoring Aids, than in the Case of adhering to our REDEEMER'S Righteousness. So prone are We to forget our Resting-place! So liable to fall from our Steadfastness in CHRIST!

† Blasted, disorderly—Let not these Words grate on the Ear; or, if they grate on the Ear, let them humble the Heart. What were Job's Duties? Zealous and exemplary; practised from his very Youth; and neither excelled nor equalled by any Person then on the Earth. Yet these, in Point of Justification, were not a whit better than Aspasio represents. Let us hear the last Words of this matchless Saint, I abhor myself, and repent in Dust and Ashes. From this Confession We learn, that, with all his Furniture of personal Obedience, He had just enough to be ashamed, confounded, undone.

After all; if the Reader, dissatisfied with Aspasio's Interpretation, should prefer the following Exposition, it is very much at his Service.

minister Comfort, when We pass through the Valley and Shadow of Death. To yield these Blessings is the exalted Office of CHRIST, and the sole Prerogative of his Obedience.

Admitting, that this Obedience is of sovereign Advantage, during the Years of Life, and in the Hour of Death; it may still occur to the serious and inquisitive Mind, what will be our Safeguard, in the invisible State? When the Soul departs, and our Place on Earth knows Us no more: when the Body revives, and We shall all stand before the Judgment-seat: what will then avail Us?—The same Righteousness of our Divine LORD. This, if I mistake not, is displayed in the very next Psalm. Which begins with a solicitous Enquiry; sub-joins a satisfactory Answer; and closes with a most pertinent but rapturous Apostrophe.—This is the Enquiry; Who shall ascend into the Hill of the LORD? Or, who shall rise up in his holy Place? To which this is the Answer; *Even He that hath clean Hands and a pure Heart.

—The LORD, reconciled to a poor Sinner, by Means of free Justification, is become my Shepherd.—Therefore, I shall not want, whatever is truly good, either for my Body or my Soul, in Time or to Eternity.—He maketh me, not to pass through, but to lie down; to continue, abide, and rest in green Pastures; amidst the Promises, Privileges, and Blessings of the Gospel; than which nothing can be more nourishing and nothing more delightful, to the spiritual Man.—He leadeth me forth, to Activity and Duty, by the still Waters. With a Sense of my Interest in CHRIST and his inexhaustible Fulness, He refresheth my Spirit, and animates me to Obedience.—When, through the Infirmary of my Flesh, I fall and contract Guilt, He restoreth my Soul. He teacheth me to behold the bleeding Lamb of GOD, and to see all my Sins laid upon my SAVIOUR. This renews my Strength, and re-inspirits my drooping Resolutions.—Thus He leadeth me on; enables me to persevere and advance, in the Paths of Righteousness and true Holiness. Not for my Merit, but for his own Name's sake; not to recompense any Excellency in me, but to manifest the exceeding Riches of his own Grace.

* Psal. xxiv. 4. Who hath a pure Heart? He only whose Heart is sprinkled from an evil Conscience, by the precious Blood of CHRIST. Who hath clean Hands? He only, who lives, and orders his whole Conversation, by Faith in the SON of GOD. Heb. x. 22. Gal. ii. 20.

*He shall receive the Blessing of Remission and Reconciliation; and Righteousness, as the Cause of both, from the GOD of his Salvation. Even that perfect Righteousness, which is not acquired by Man, but bestowed by JEHOVAH: which is not performed by the Saint, but received† by the Sinner: which is the only solid Basis, to support our Hopes of Happiness; and the only valid Plea, for an Admission into the Mansions of Joy.—Then follows the Apostrophe. The Prophet foresees the Ascension of CHRIST and of his Saints. He sees his LORD, marching at the Head of the redeemed World, and conducting them unto the City of the living GOD. Suitably to such a View, and in a most beautiful Strain of Poetry, He addresses Himself to the heavenly Portals; Lift up your Heads, O ye Gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting Doors, and the King of Glory, with all the Heirs of his Grace and Righteousness, shall make their triumphant Entry; shall enter in and go out no more.

Having shewn the powerful and extensive Influence of our REDEEMER's Righteousness; its Efficacy, in this World to justify, in the other World to glorify; well may the sweet Singer of Israel profess his supreme Value for it, and entire Dependence on it. I will go forth in the Strength of the LORD GOD, and will make mention of thy Righteousness only‡. As though He had

* What the Psalmist means, when He says, The Blessing, is explained by Himself, Psal. xxxii. 1. Blessed is He, whose Transgression is forgiven, whose Sin is covered. And it is well observed by a certain Writer; “Righteousness being found only in JESUS CHRIST, “the Substitute for the Guilty, to Him alone the Blessing has respect, “The Blessing rests only on his Righteousness, and follows it wherever it goes. To whomsoever it extends, the Blessing is also conveyed.”

† The Words of the Apostle, ο λαμβανων την δωρεαν της δικαιοσυνης are almost a literal Translation, are the very best Explanation, of the Psalmist's Language, ישא צדקה Rom. v. 27. Psal. xxiv. 5.

‡ Psal. lxxi. 16. There is, in the Hebrew Original, and in the new Translation, a very emphatical Repetition; which adds Weight to the Sentiment, and demands a peculiar Attention from the Reader; Thy Righteousness, even thine only.

said; I will have Recourse to no other Righteousness, for the Consolation of my Soul. I will plead no other Righteousness, for the Recommendation of my Person. I will fly to no other Righteousness, for my final Acceptance, and endless Felicity.—This is that *Raiment of Needle-work and Clothing of wrought Gold, in which the Church, the Queen-Consort, is presented to her immortal Bridegroom; with which She enters the everlasting Habitations, to be “for ever with the LORD.”—This is that Garment for Glory and for Beauty†, which clothed our great HIGH-PRIEST; and, descending to his very Feet‡, clothes and adorns the lowest Member of his Mystical Body.

Recollecting all the foregoing Particulars, justly and on the most rational Ground, does our royal Author declare; Blessed are the People, that know the joyful Sound: They shall walk, O LORD, in the Light of thy Countenance. In thy Name shall they rejoice all the Day: and in thy Righteousness shall they be exalted||.—They are truly blessed, they alone are happy, who know the joyful Sound of the Gospel; not only receive it with their Ears, but admit it into their very Hearts; so as to partake of the sacred Peace, and spiritual Liberty, which it proclaims.—They shall walk in the Light of thy Countenance; they shall enjoy such Communications of thy Grace, and such Manifestations of thy Love, as will constitute the Serenity and Sunshine of their Souls.—In thy Name O LORD JESUS CHRIST, in thy matchless Person, and thy infinite Merits, shall they rejoice §. And not occasionally, but

§ Some Readers, perhaps, may think this Interpretation of the Word Righteousness, not strictly proper; and the Proof which Aspasio draws from such Passages of Scripture, not sufficiently conclusive.—For their Satisfaction and my own, I would ask; What other Interpretation, consistent with the Tenour of the Gospel, can be put upon the Word? Can it mean GOD's Justice, which giveth to All accord-

but habitually; not barely at some distinguished Intervals, but all the Day. Their Joy shall be as lasting, as it is substantial.—Though abased, though confounded in themselves, in thy Righteousness shall they be exalted; now exalted to a State of holy Friendship and delightful Communion with GOD; and exalted when Time shall be no more, to a State of celestial Glory, and eternal Bliss.

How thoroughly evangelical is this seraphic Writer! He has Joy, He has Blessedness, and He looks for everlasting Exaltation. Yet not from his Faith, his Repentance, and his own sincere Obedience. According to this, which is the modern Scheme, Faith, instead of receiving, would supplant the LORD JESUS: Repentance, instead of being the Gift of CHRIST, would become his Rival: and sincere Obedience, which is for the Praise and Glory of GOD, would eclipse and impoverish his Grace. But David adopts no such Sentiments. David maintains no such Doctrine. This is the invariable Language of his Heart; this the Burden of his Song; All my Springs of Hope, of Trust, and Consolation, O thou adored IMMANUEL, *are in Thee.

This Sense is the less precarious, I had almost said the more certain, as it exactly corresponds with the Analogy of Faith, and coincides with the express Declarations of other Scriptures.—Isaiab is styled the Evangelist of the ing to their Deserts? In this View, David could have little Cause to rejoice in it, but abundant Reason to be terrified at it.—Does it signify GOD's Faithfulness in performing his Promises? What are all his Promises, but Expressions of Good-will in CHRIST; founded on the Merits and Righteousness of CHRIST; or, as the Apostle speaks, yea and amen, both made and confirmed, in CHRIST JESUS?—Does it denote the Mercy and Benignity of GOD, justifying, regenerating, saving Sinners? This Sense, and indeed every comfortable Sense, either immediately refers to, or ultimately terminates in, CHRIST and his Grace; CHRIST and his Righteousness. For, in every Thing consolatory, CHRIST is ALL. And if this be true, Aspasio's Doctrine cannot be false nor his Exposition wrong.

* Psal. lxxxvii. 7.

Jewish Church. Because, more frequently than any of the Prophets, he celebrates, and more copiously explains, this and other Peculiarities of the Gospel.—In the very first Chapter, He preaches these glad Tidings; Sion shall be redeemed with Judgment, and her Converts with Righteousness. Sion, the Gospel Church, composed of fallen Creatures, somewhat disobedient to their GOD, and enslaved to Satan, shall be redeemed. Redeemed, not with corruptible Things, Silver and Gold, but by severe Judgments executed on their glorious HEAD, and gracious REPRESENTATIVE. And not by these only, but by Righteousness also; by the perfect and most meritorious Obedience of the same divinely excellent PERSON*.

Our sacred Author bears his Testimony with warmer Zeal, and brighter Evidence, as he proceeds in his incomparable Discourses. Surely, shall one say (or as it may be rendered, only) in the LORD have I Righteousness and Strength †. Please to observe, Theron, it is not † Isai. xlv. 24. In the LORD have I Righteousness and Strength. I think, We have clouded the Beauty, and weakened the Energy of this Clause, by detaching it from the preceding Sentence. This Clause should make a Part of IMMANUEL's august Speech. It prescribes the Form of that religious Swearing, or of that solemn Confession, which is required from every human Creature, who desires to inherit Salvation. Let Us read it in this Connexion, and We shall have the most important Doctrine, that ever was delivered; expressed in the most forcible Manner, that can be conceived.

I have sworn by Myself, and all my immortal Perfections. The Word is gone out of my Mouth in Truth, in Wisdom, and consummate Equity; and shall not return, either to be repealed, or to be altered.—Who can hear such an Exordium, from such a Speaker, and not be awed into the deepest Reverence? LORD, We are all Attention. What Thou pronouncest, with such unparalleled Solemnity, We should receive into our very Hearts. It shall be the ruling Principle of our Faith and Life. Is such our Resolution? This then is the Decree, this the Oath of JEHOVAH; To ME every Knee shall bow; to ME every Tongue shall swear, (אמר) saying, SURELY IN THE LORD HAVE I RIGHTEOUSNESS AND STRENGTH.—Talk We of Confession of Faith? Here We have a Confession of Faith, drawn up by Omniscience, and enjoined by Omnipotence.

said, in my own Works, in my own Repentance, no, nor in my own Faith, but in the LORD, in the incarnate JEHOVAH, have I Righteousness.—Righteousness for Justification, and Strength for Sanctification. An imputed Righteousness, to procure my Acceptance; an imparted Strength, to produce my Holiness. The first, constituting my Title to the everlasting Inheritance; the last, forming my personal Preparation for its Enjoyment.—Surely, which expresses a firm Persuasion, and an unshaken Affiance.—Only, which denotes an utter Renunciation of all other Confidence, and excludes every other Ground of Hope.—*Righteousnesses, the Original is in the plural Number. Which seems to be used, not without an important Design; to enlarge the Significancy of the Word, and make it correspond with the Richness of the Blessing. So that it may imply the Fulness and supereminent Excellency of this Gift of Grace; as comprehending whatever †, either of Suffering or of Obedience, is requisite to the Justification of Sinners.

Therefore the Prophet adds; in the LORD, shall all the Seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory ‡. Most important and most precious Text! Every Expression is big with Truth, and bright with Grace.—All the Seed: intimating that the Way of Salvation, in every Age of the World, and to all the People of GOD, is invariable and one.—What is this invariable Way? It is to be pardoned, and delivered from Wrath; to be approved, and admitted into Favour; or, as the inspired Penman expresses it, to be justified.—How is this effected? Not by our upright Aims, not by our sincere Endeavours, but by having a real and proper Righteousness.—Where is this to be had? Not in ourselves; not in any Accomplishments, or any Performances of our own; but in the LORD REDEEMER, and his consummately righteous Nature, Affections, Actions.—Are these sufficient for the Purpose? So sufficient, that We may not only confide, but glory in them. They afford Cause, not only for the Stedfastness of Reliance, but for the Elevations of Triumph. Cleaving to these, We may look Sin and Satan, look Death and Hell in the Face; and say, with a noble Defiance, Who shall condemn Us?

What he had just now asserted, he exemplifies in his own, and in the Person of every true Believer. *I will greatly rejoice in the LORD, my Soul shall be joyful in my GOD; for He hath clothed me with the Garments of Salvation, He hath covered me with the Robe of Righteousness. True Believers are compared, in one of our sacred Eclogues, to a Company of Horses in Pharaoh's Chariot †: to Horses, than which no Animal is more stately and graceful: to Egyptian Horses, which were the best and completest, then in the World: to those in Pharaoh's Chariot, which, doubtless, were a choice Set; selected from Thousands; and finest, where all were fine. Here methinks, I see the Comparison realized. Christians, endued with such a Spirit, as breathes in this animated Text, are like a Collection of gallant and majestic Steeds; not destined to low Drudgery, but appointed to run in the royal Chariot; all Life; full of Fire; champ-ing the Bit, and eager for the Chace. Nothing can more beautifully describe a State of Exultation and Ardour, than the preceding Similitude, or the following Words—I will rejoice; I will greatly rejoice; my very Soul, and all that is within me, shall be joyful in my GOD. Wherefore? Because He has clothed me, undone Sinner as I am, with the Garments of Salvation: because He hath covered me, defective as all my Services are, with the Robe of Righteousness ‡. A Robe, which hides every Corruption, and covers every Sin; so that neither Stain nor Deformity appear in my Character. A Robe, which adorns and dignifies my Soul; renders it fair as the Moon, clear as the Sun*, and meet for the Inheritance of Saints in Light.

Having represented this Righteousness, in a Variety of grand and charming Views—the Prophet farther characterizes it, as the unalterable and never-failing Origin of our Justification and Happiness. This he displays by a Train of Images, bold and sublime to the last Degree. Lift up your Eyes to the Heavens, and look upon the Earth beneath: for the Heavens shall vanish away like Smoke, and the Earth shall wax old like a Garment; but my Salvation shall be for ever, and my Righteousness shall not be abolished†.—Observe the vast Dimensions, and the firm Foundations, both of the upper and the lower World. How strong, how steadfast, they all appear! Yet these, indissoluble as they may seem, shall perish.—This majestic Globe, on which Summers shine and flowery Prospects smile, shall lose its beautiful Gloss; and soon be laid aside, like a decayed useless Garment. Even that more majestic Concave, in which Stars glitter, and Comets glow, shall be deprived of its very superior Splendour; and vanish away, like the unsubstantial dissolving Smoke.—Whereas, my Salvation, together with the inestimable Blessings comprehended in it, shall subsist, shall flourish for ever. And my Righteousness, which is the meritorious Cause of all, shall not be abolished; but remain an immoveable Basis and an inviolable Sanctuary, for the Repose and Safety of Sinners.—In short; whether there be moral Virtues, they shall be found wanting; whether there be christian Graces, they shall prove ineffectual; but my Conformity to the Law, and my Obedience unto Death, neither need Addition, nor admit of Alteration. They are all-sufficient in their Merit, and in their Agency everlasting

* Cant. vi. 10.

† Isai. li. 6.

When Day arises on our benighted Hemisphere, it breaks and spreads by a gradual Increase. Forming, first, the grey Twilight; next, the blushing Morn; then, the shining Light; till all is heightened into the Blaze and Glow of Noon.—When Spring revisits our wintry Clime, She also advances by gentle Degrees. First, swells the Bud, and protrudes the Gem. Then, expands the Leaf, and unfolds the Blossom. The Face of Things is continually changing for the better; till, at Length, all the Country is covered with Bloom and Verdure.—This leisurely Process, renders the strong Effulgence of the celestial Orb, more supportable; and the lovely Expansions of the vegetable Creation, more observable.

So progressive and increasing are the Displays of JESUS CHRIST, exhibited in the Scriptures, whose Appearance is unspeakably more delightful to the Soul, than the Emanations of orient Light are to the Eye, or the Entertainments of the vernal Season to our other Senses.—The Gloom of fallen Adam was alleviated by a Ray from the SUN OF RIGHTEOUSNESS.—Abraham and the Patriarchs saw afar off the blessed JESUS, as the Morning spread upon the Mountains*.—The Psalmist and the Prophets, beheld his nearer Approaches, like the Sun upon the Point of Rising.—To the Apostles and Evangelists He arose, in perfect Lustre, and complete Beauty. The Grace and the Privileges, which dawned under other Dispensations, are brought even to meridian Light by the Gospel.—This I mention, just to intimate, what You may expect from a following Letter.

In the mean Time, let us attend to the Prophet Daniel. He records a Message from Heaven, which is more clearly descriptive of this great evangelical Blessing, than all the foregoing Texts.—He had been under much Distress, and in great Perplexity: afflicted for his own, and his Countrymens Sins; anxious for the Welfare of the chosen Nation, and the Prosperity of true Religion. When an Angel was dispatched to the holy Mourner, with this most cheering News; which, received by Faith, is the richest Balm to a wounded Conscience, and the only Remedy for a guilty World. Seventy Weeks are determined upon thy People, and upon thy holy City; to finish the Transgression, and make an End of Sin; to make Reconciliation for Iniquity; and to bring in everlasting Righteousness *.—This Prophecy, without all Contradiction, relates to the MESSIAH. It foretels, that, in the Fulness of Time, He should finish the Transgression †; restrain and suppress the Power of Corruption, by purifying to Himself a peculiar People.—Should make an End of Sin ‡; by sealing up or secreting its Guilt, and totally abolishing its condemning Power—Should make Reconciliation for Iniquity; by sustaining the Vengeance due to Sinners, and fully satisfying the divine Justice for all their Offences.

But, as to suffer Punishment, is one Thing; and to obey the Precept, is another: as Pardon of Sin, does by no Means complete the Privilege of Justification: It is added, that the MESSIAH should also bring in an everlasting Righteousness—a Righteousness, or an adequate and perfect Conformity to all the Dictates of the Law. Which consists, in an habitual Holiness of Nature, and an actual Obedience of Life—This He should not barely publish, but accomplish and bring in §. That it may be presented both to GOD and Man; to GOD, for the Reparation of his violated Law; to Man, for the Justification of his obnoxious Person—That this Righteousness should be everlasting; not such as may be compared to the Morning Cloud, which soon passeth away; or to the early Dew, which is soon dried up; but such as will out-last the Hills, on which the latter shines; and out-last the Skies, through which the former falls. A Righteousness, whose Merits extend to every Period and every Action of our Lives; and when once made ours by Imputation, remains and will remain our unalienable Property.—To this all the Saints, who, in antient Generations, pleased GOD, owe their Acceptance; on this, all the Children of Men, who, in future Ages, hope for his Favour, must rely; by this the whole Assembly of the Blessed, will be invariably and eternally precious in his Sight.—Exalted Character! Can it be applicable to any Thing less, than the Righteousness of the incarnate GOD? Surely, None can imagine, that Daniel would speak in such a magnificent Strain of any human Righteousness; since, in this very Chapter, he professedly depreciates Himself, his Fellow-saints, and all human Performances whatever.

§ להב'א I think, must signify more than to publish or preach. Had this been all that the Angel was commissioned to declare, להב'א or להגיד would probably have been used.—The Word implies such a bringing in (the Original is the same) as when Abel brought his Sacrifice to the Altar, for the divine Acceptance; and Esau brought his Venison into the Chamber, for his Father's Use. Gen. iv. 4. xxvii. 10.

I forgot, in the proper Place, to consult the Prophet Jeremiah. Let us now refer Ourselves to his Determination. Celebrating the SAVIOUR of Judah and Israel, He says; This is his Name, whereby He shall be called, THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS. A Determination, so clear and satisfactory, as not to leave, One would almost conclude, any Room for Appeal.—Should the Sense of the Passage be questioned, I think, there cannot be a more authentic Explication, than the preceding Extracts from Isaiab and *Daniel. Having the unanimous Attestation of two inspired Penmen, We may venture to abide by such Authority, even in Opposition to some respectable Names.—In the Verse immediately foregoing, the essential Holiness of the REDEEMER is displayed, under the Character of the RIGHTEOUS BRANCH.—The Sanctity, which HE will impart to his Subjects, is intimated by his executing Judgment and Justice in the Earth.—In the Clause, We have quoted, his imputed Righteousness is foretold and promised.—Thus, the several Sentences are distinct; the Description of the SAVIOUR is complete; and He appears perfectly suited to the Exigencies of a wretched World. A World, in its worst Estate, enslaved to Satan; and in its best, falling short of the Glory of GOD.—This, therefore, I take to be the grand and extensive Meaning of the Prophet; not barely, The righteous LORD; not barely, the LORD who infuses Righteousness into sinful Souls; but the incarnate JEHOVAH*, whose mediatorial Righteousness is, by an Act of gracious Imputation, ours—to all the Intents of Justification and Salvation, ours—as much ours for these blessed Purposes, as if We had wrought it out, each in his own Person †.

Foreseeing and contemplating these Blessings, the enraptured Zechariah cries out; Rejoice greatly, O Daughter of Sion; shout, O Daughter of Jerusalem; behold, thy King cometh unto Thee: He is just, and having Salvation, lowly and riding upon an Ass, and upon a Colt the Foal of an Ass †.—He addresses himself to Sion and Jerusalem, to the ecclesiastical and civil Community. People of all Ranks and of every Character, are exhorted to rejoice; to rejoice greatly; nay, to express the Joy of their Heart; by loud Hallelujahs, and triumphant Exclamations.—What is the Cause of this general Delight? Who can fill both

* Jer. xxiii. 5, 6. In these golden, infinitely better than golden Verses, are characterised the divine and the human Natures of CHRIST, together with his mediatorial Office. The divine Nature; in that He enjoys the Honours of the GODHEAD, and possesses the incommunicable Name JEHOVAH.—The human Nature; in that He was to be raised up unto David, and spring as a Branch from his Root.—The mediatorial Office; in that He is the Righteousness of his People, and the Salvation of Sinners.

† WITSIUS, speaking of the mediatorial Righteousness, has written in Latin, what Aspasio expresses in English; Per illam Obedientiam tota Multitudo illorum, qui ad Ipsum pertinent, iusti constituuntur; id est, censentur Jus habere ad æternam Vitam, non minus quam si quilibet eorum in propria Persona illam Obedientiam præstitisset. Lib. Church and State with such high Satisfaction? Thy King cometh unto Thee; even that glorious KING, who rules in Heaven, and rules in the Heart; whose Service is Freedom, and whose Laws are Love. He comes, to be made Flesh, and to dwell in thy Nature.—He is just; divinely righteous in his Person; consummately righteous in his Life; and fulfils all Righteousness in thy Stead.—Having Salvation; not setting Thee to procure it, but procuring it for Thee. Bringing with Him a great, a complete, an eternal Salvation; fully prepared, in all Points finished, and free for thy Acceptance.—That none may be discouraged, and none deterred, from applying to this PRINCE of Peace, He is amidst all the Honours of his Sovereignty, lowly: does not abhor the Basest, will not despise the Meanest: to the Poor and Worthless his Gospel is preached, for the Guilty and Abominable his Benefits are intended.—As an Emblem, as a Proof, of this most amiable and condescending Goodness, He will ride; not like the Conquerors of the Nations, in a splendid triumphal Chariot, or on a richly caparisoned Steed; but upon the most mean and despicable of all Animals, an Ass: nay, what is still more despicable, on a rude undisciplined Colt, the wayward Foal of an Ass *.

And

* Because some profane Scoffers have presumed to ridicule this very remarkable Incident of our LORD's Life, some Interpreters of Note have endeavoured to rescue it from their abusive Attempts, by observing—"That the Eastern Asses are much larger and more graceful than ours. That Patriarchs and Judges thought it no Disgrace to ride upon them."

This Observation has, I fear, more of false Delicacy, than of real Truth, or Christian Simplicity. In the Patriarchal Ages, I acknowledge, Persons of high Distinction, thought it no Dishonour, to appear on this Animal. But I very much question, whether the same Fashion subsisted, or the same Way of Thinking prevailed, in the Reign of Tiberius Cæsar. The Apostle mentions, not Asses, but Horses, as the usual Means of Conveyance. See Jam. iii. 3.—Nay, I am strongly inclined to suspect, that the plain primitive Custom was superseded, even in the Days of Zechariah. For, long before this Time I find, that Solomon had four thousand Stalls of Horses for his Chariots, and twelve thousand Horsemen; and that Horses were brought

And now—since my Theron confesses Himself to be miserable, and poor, and naked: since the Eyes of his Understanding are enlightened, to see the Impurity of his Heart, and the Imperfection of his Righteousness—what Advice, chearing and salutary, shall I suggest? O! let Him listen to an ADVISER, infinitely more able and compassionate. Listen to HIM, who is the ANTIENT OF DAYS, and the WISDOM OF GOD; I counsel Thee, says the Blessed JESUS, *to buy of me Gold tried in the Fire, that Thou mayest be rich; and white Raiment, that Thou mayest be clothed.—Gold! What can this denote, but all those spiritual Treasures, which are hid in CHRIST? Which are, in Measure, to Him out of Egypt, and divers other Countries, 1 Kings iv. 26. x. 28, 29. From this Period, it is probable, none but the Poor and inferior Sort of People rode upon Asses.—When Isaiab prophesied, The Land was full of Horses, Isai. ii. 7. Under the Persian Monarchy, when Zechariab flourished, Horses were in still greater Repute. Well therefore might the Prophet say, with Wonder and Delight—lowly; and, as a Demonstration thereof, riding upon an Ass! Whereas, if the Procession had been performed on a graceful Animal, and in a respectable Manner, how was this an Evidence of our REDEEMER'S Lowliness?

They, who would dignify this Action, any otherwise than from its greatly to be admired Abatement, seem to have forgotten the Stable, the Manger, and the Cross.—They, who would ennoble this Animal, from any Consideration whatever, seem to mistake entirely the Design of the Prophet. He intends to exhibit a Picture, where Magnificence and Humiliation meet in their Extremes. A King, clothed with Righteousness, and dispensing Salvation; yet despised and rejected, by the Wise, the Mighty, the Proud. Supremely majestic and desirable, to the Eye of Faith; yet having no Form nor Comeliness, in the Eye of Sense. Higher, far higher than the Heavens, yet offering Himself and his Benefits to the Vulgar, the Sordid, the Vile.

Was it a mean Attitude? Exceedingly mean? Mean even to Contempt? I make no Scruple to grant it: nay, I make my Boast of it! It is for the Honour of my LORD'S Condescension: it is for the utter Confusion of all worldly Pomp and Grandeur: and it is for the unspeakable Comfort of my sinful Soul.—Most charming Humility! Most endearing Gentleness! HE, who rideth upon the Heavens as it were upon an Horse, and maketh the Clouds his Chariot, to atone for my Pride, and to encourage my Hope, disdained not, in the Days of his Flesh, to ride upon an Ass.

* Rev. iii. 18.

unsearchable ; in Value, inestimable ; in Duration, eternal.—White Raiment! Surely this must signify the Righteousness of our REDEEMER ; which is all Purity, and all Perfection. Which clothes the Soul, as a most suitable and commodious Garment arrays the Body. Which will present the Believer, void of Shame, and free from Blemish ; will present Him, with Confidence and Honour, before the Throne of the MAJESTY in the Heavens.

This, to use the delicate Language, and amiable Images of Isaiab—This Doctrine, embraced by a realizing Faith, is the only Pillow of Rest, wherewith Ye may cause the weary and heavy-laden Soul to find Repose ; and this is the sovereign Cordial, prepared by infinite Mercy, for the Refreshment of anxious and desponding Transgressors. O ! Let Us not be in the Number of those proud and refractory Creatures, who, though they infinitely needed, yet would not bear * the gracious News, nor receive the unspeakable Benefit.—In this respect, and in this most eminently, is that other Saying of the same sublime Teacher, true ; The LORD of Hosts shall be for a Crown of Glory, and for a Diadem of Beauty, to the Residue of his People †. Shall we tear from our Temples, or reject with Disdain, this unfading and heavenly Ornament ; in order to substitute a mean and tawdry Chaplet of our own ?

Let me add a pertinent Passage from one of our celebrated dramatic Writers. Which, if proper in his Sense, will be incomparably more so, according to our Manner of Application.

*It were contemning,
With impious self-sufficient Arrogance,
This Bounty of our GOD, not to accept,
With every Mark of Honour, such a Gift.*

from holy Writ. But, studious of Brevity, I resign both, without farther Enlargement, to your own Meditation. Yet more studious of my Friend's Happiness, I cannot conclude without wishing Him an Interest, a clear and established Interest, in this everlasting Righteousness of CHRIST. For so, and so only, can He have everlasting Consolation and good Hope through Grace.—I am, my dear Theron,

ASPASIO.

P. S. Opposite to the Room in which I write, is a most agreeable Prospect of the Gardens and the Fields. These, covered with Herbage, and loaded with Corn: those adorned with Flowers, and abounding with Esculents. All appearing with so florid and so beautiful an Aspect, that they really seem, in Conformity to the Psalmist's Description, even to laugh and sing.—Let me just observe, that all these fine Scenes, all these rich Productions sprung—from what? From the Dissolution of the respective Seeds. The Seeds planted by the Gardener, and the Grain sowed by the Husbandman, first perished in the Ground, and then the copious Increase arose.

Much after the same Manner, a true Faith in CHRIST and his Righteousness arises—from what? From the Ruins of Self-sufficiency, and the Death of personal Excellency. Let me therefore intreat my Theron, still to take the Diary for his Counsellor; still to keep an Eye on the Depravity of his Nature, and the Miscarriages of his Life. The more clearly We see, the more deeply We feel, our Guilt and our Misery, the more highly shall We value the Obedience of our blessed SURETY.—In such a Heart, Faith will flourish as a Rose, and lift up its Head like a Cedar in Lebanon. To such a Soul, the great RE-
DEEMER'S

DEEMER's Righteousness will be welcome, as Waters to the thirsty Soil, or as Rivers in the Sandy Desert.

ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

GIVE me leave to relate an uncommon Accident ; which happened a little while ago, in this Neighbourhood ; and of which I myself was a Spectator.—The Day was the Sabbath ; the Place appropriated to divine Worship, was the Scene of this remarkable Affair ; and the Instant of its taking Place, was the Beginning of the Sermon. When the Ambassador of CHRIST, risen with a venerable Aspect, and addressing his Audience with becoming Gravity, drew Attention, “ still “ as Night, or Summer's Noontide Air.”

At this Interval of deep Composure, a Boy came running into the Church breathless and trembling. He told, but in a low Voice, those who stood near, that a Press-gang* was advancing, to besiege the Doors, and arrest the Sailors.—An Alarm was immediately taken. The Seamen, with much Hurry, and no small Anxiety, began to shift for themselves. The rest of the Congregation, perceiving an unusual Stir, were struck with Sur-

* The Reader. it is hoped, will excuse whatever may appear low, or favour of the Plebeian, in any of these Circumstances. If Aspasio had set Himself to invent the Description of a Panic, He would probably have formed it upon some more raised and dignified Incident. But as this was a real Matter of Fact, which lately happened in one of our Sea-port Towns ; Truth, even in a plain Dress, may possibly be no less acceptable than Fiction, tricked up with the most splendid Embellishments.

prize.—A Whisper of Enquiry ran from Seat to Seat; which increased, by Degrees, into a confused Murmur, and a strange Commotion. No One could inform his Neighbour. Therefore, every One was left to solve the Appearance, from the Suggestions of a timorous Imagination. Some suspected, the Town was on fire. Some were apprehensive of an Invasion from the Spaniards. Others looked up, and looked round, to see if the Walls were not giving Way, and the Roof falling upon their Heads.—In a few Moments, the Consternation became general. The Men stood like Statues, in silent Amazement, and unavailing Perplexity. The Women shrieked aloud; fell into fits; sunk to the Ground in a Swoon. Nothing was seen, but wild Disorder; nothing heard, but tumultuous Clamour.—Drowned was the Preacher's Voice. Had he spoke in Thunder, his Message would scarce have been regarded. To have gone on with his Work, amidst such a Ferment of stunning Sounds and astonished Minds, had been like arguing with a Whirlwind, or talking to a Tempest.

This brought to my Mind that great tremendous Day, when the Heavens shall pass away; when the Earth shall be dissolved, and all its Inhabitants receive their final Doom.—If, at such Incidents of very inferior Dread, our Hearts are ready to fail; what unknown and inconceivable Astonishment must seize the guilty Conscience, when the Hand of the ALMIGHTY shall open those unparalleled Scenes of Wonder, Desolation, and Horror!—When the Trumpet shall sound—The Dead arise—The World be in Flames—The JUDGE on the Throne—and all Mankind at the Bar!

*The Trumpet shall sound, says the prophetic Teacher. And how alarming, how stupendous the Summons! Nothing equal to it, nothing like it, was ever heard through all the Regions of the Universe, or all the Revolutions of Time.—When conflicting Armies have discharged the bellowing Artillery of War, or when victorious Armies have shouted for Joy of the Conquest, the Seas and Shores have rung, the Mountains and Plains have echoed. But the Voice of the Archangel, and the Trump of GOD, will resound from Pole to Pole. It will shake the Pillars of Earth, and startle the Dungeon of Hell.—Stronger, stronger still! It will penetrate even the deepest Recesses of the Tomb. It will pour its amazing Thunder into all those Abodes of Silence. The Dead, the very Dead, shall hear.

When the Trumpet has sounded, the Dead shall arise.—In a Moment, in the twinkling of an Eye, the Graves open; the monumental Piles are cleft asunder; the Families, the Nations under-ground, start into Day. What an immense Harvest of Men and Women, springing up from the Caverns of the Earth, and the Depths of the Sea! Stand awhile my Soul, and contemplate the wonderful Spectacle.—Adam formed in Paradise, and the Babe born but Yesterday, the earliest Ages, and latest Generations, meet upon the same Level. Jews and Gentiles, Greeks and Barbarians, People of all Climes and Languages, unite in the promiscuous Throng. Here, those vast Armies, which, like Swarms of Locusts, covered Countries; which, with an irresistible Sweep, over-run Empires; here they all appear, and here they all are lost. Lost, like the small Drop of a Bucket, when plunged amidst the unfathomable and boundless Ocean.—O! the Multitudes! the Multitudes*! which these Eyes shall survey, when GOD calleth the Heavens from above, and the Earth that He may judge his People. What Shame must flush the guilty Cheek! What Anguish wound the polluted Breast! To have all their filthy Practices, and infamous Tempers, exposed before this innumerable Croud of Witnesses!—Fly, my Theron; and fly, my Soul; instantly let Us fly, earnestly let Us fly, to the purifying Blood of JESUS. That all our Sins may be blotted out; that We may be found unblameable and unreproveable, in the Presence of the assembled World; and, what is infinitely more to be revered, in the Sight of the omnipotent GOD.

When the Swarm issues, the Hive shall burn. There is no more Need of this habitable Globe. The Elect have fought the good Fight, and finished their Course. The Wicked have been tried, and found incorrigible. The important Drama is ended. Every Actor has performed his Part. Now therefore the Scenes are taken down; and the Stage is demolished.—Wo be to the Earth, and to the Works thereof! Its Streams are turned into Pitch, its Dust into Brimstone; and the Breath of the ALMIGHTY, like a Torrent of Fire, enkindles the Whole. See! see! how the Conflagration rages—spreads—prevails over all! The Forests are in a Blaze, and the Mountains are wrapt in Flame. Cities, Kingdoms, Continents, sink in the burning Deluge. London, Britain, Europe are no more. Through all the Receptacles of Water, through all the Tracts of Land, through the whole Extent of Air, nothing is discernable, but one vast, prodigious, fiery Ruin.—Where now are the Treasures of the Covetous? Where the Possessions of the Mighty? Where the Delights of the Voluptuary?—How wise, how happy are they, whose Portion is lodged in heavenly Mansions! Their Inheritance is incorruptible. Such as the last Fire cannot reach, nor the Dissolution of Nature impair.

We look upwards. The azure Vault cleaves. That stately Expanse is rolled back like a Scroll; the Regions of Bliss are seen; and the JUDGE, the JUDGE appears! He cometh, cries a mighty Seraph, the Herald* of his Approach, He cometh to judge the World in Righteousness,

* It seems, according to the Apostle's Representation, that, introductory to the Resurrection of the Dead, there will be A Shout, the Voice of the Archangel, and the Trump of GOD. 1 Thess. iv. 16.—First, A Shout of Joy and Triumph breaks from the Skies; made by Millions of attendant Spirits, or by all the Companies of Heaven,—Then follows the Voice of the Archangel, proclaiming the Approach of the teousness, and minister true Judgment unto the People!—He cometh, not as formerly, in the Habit of a Servant, but clad with uncreated Glory, and arrayed in Light inaccessible. He cometh, not meanly followed by twelve weak Disciples, but magnificently attended with the Armies of Heaven. Angels and Archangels form his Retinue; Principalities and Powers wait at his Feet: the Cherubim and Seraphim are upon the Wing to execute his Commands.—Behold Him, ye faithful Followers of the LAMB; and wonder and love. This is HE, who bore all your Iniquities on the ignominious Cross. This is HE, who fulfilled all Righteousness for the Justification of your Persons.—Behold Him, ye Despisers of his Grace; and wonder and perish. This is HE, whose merciful Overtures you have contemned, and on whose precious Blood You have trampled.

The great *white Throne, beyond Description august and formidable, is erected. The KING of Heaven, the LORD of Glory, takes his Seat on the dreadful Tribunal. Mercy, on his Right-hand, displays the Olive-branch of Peace, and holds forth the Crown of Righteousness. Justice, on his Left, poises the impartial Scale, and unsheaths the Sword of Vengeance. While Wisdom and Holiness, brighter than ten thousand Suns, beam in his divine Aspect.—What are all the preceding Events, to this new Scene of Dignity and Awe; The Peals of Thunder, sounding in the Archangel's Trumpet; the Blaze of a burning World, and the strong Convulsions of expiring Nature; the unnumbered Myriads of the Dead, starting into instantaneous Life, and thronging the astonished Skies; all these seem familiar Incidents, compared with the Appearance of the incarnate JEHOVAH.—Amazement, more than Amaze-the REDEEMER; which, though heard singly through the vast Expanse, will probably be louder than those united Acclamations—Last of all; the Trumpet of GOD sounds, and issues a Summons to the Dead, more awful and more majestic, than each preceding Alarm: closing the old, and opening the new World, with inconceivable Solemnity, and the most formidable Grandeur.

ment, is all around. Terror and Glory unite in their Extremes. From the Sight of his majestic Eye, from the insupportable Splendors of his Face, the Earth itself and the very Heavens *flee away.—How then? O! how shall the ungodly stand? Stand in his angry Presence, and draw near to this consuming Fire?

Yet draw near they must, and take their Trial—their decisive Trial at his righteous Bar. Every Action comes under Examination. For each idle Word they must give Account. Not so much as a secret Thought escapes this exact Scrutiny.—How shall the Criminals, the impenitent Criminals, either conceal their Guilt, or elude the Sentence? They have to do with a Sagacity, too keen to be deceived; with a Power, too strong to be resisted; and (O! terrible, terrible Consideration!) with a Severity of most just Displeasure, that will never relent, never be intreated more.—What ghastly Despair lours on their pale Looks! What racking Agonies rend their distracted Hearts? The bloody Axe and the torturing Wheel, are Ease, are Down, compared with their prodigious Woe. And (O holy GOD! wonderful in thy Doings! fearful in thy Judgments!) even this prodigious Woe is the gentlest of Visitations, compared with that Indignation and Wrath, which are hanging over their guilty Heads—which are even now falling on all the Sons of Rebellion—which will plunge them deep in aggravated Misery and endless Destruction.

*And is there a last Day? and must there come
A sure, a fix'd, irrevocable Doom?*

Surely then, to use the Words of a pious Prelate †, it should be “ the main Care of our Lives and Deaths, “ what shall give Us Peace and Acceptation before the “ dreadful Tribunal of GOD. What but Righteous-

Behold! says the everlasting KING, I lay in Sion, for a Foundation, a Stone; a tried Stone; a precious Corner-stone; a sure Foundation: HE THAT BELIEVETH, SHALL NOT MAKE HASTE*. As this Text contains so noble a Display of our SAVIOUR's consummate Ability for his great Work; as it is admirably calculated, to preserve the Mind from distressing Fears, and to settle it in a steady Tranquillity; You will give me leave to touch it cursorily with my Pen. Just as I should descant upon it in Conversation, was I now sitting in one of your agreeable Arbors, and enjoying your more agreeable Company.

How beautiful the Gradation! How lively the Description! and how very important the practical Improvement! Or I might say, the Inscription which is engraven on this wonderful Stone.—Behold! Intended to rouse and fix our most attentive Regard. The GOD of Heaven speaks. He speaks, and every Syllable is Balm; every Sentence is rich with Consolation. If ever therefore We have Ears to hear, let it be to this SPEAKER, and on this Occasion.

A Stone. Every Thing else is sliding Sand; is yielding Air; is a breaking Bubble. Wealth will prove a vain Shadow; Honour an empty Breath; Pleasure a delusory Dream; our own Righteousness a Spider's Web. If on these We rely, Disappointment must ensue, and Shame be inevitable. Nothing but CHRIST, nothing but CHRIST, can stably support our spiritual

Interests, and realize our Expectations of true Happiness. And, blessed be the divine Goodness! He is, for this Purpose, not a Stone only, but

A tried Stone. Tried, in the Days of his Humanity, by all the Vehemence of Temptations, and all the Weight of Afflictions: yet, like Gold from the Furnace, rendered more shining and illustrious by the fiery Scrutiny. Tried, under the Capacity of a SAVIOUR, by Millions and Millions of depraved, wretched, ruined Creatures; who have always found Him perfectly able, and as perfectly willing, to expiate the most enormous Guilt—to deliver from the most inveterate Corruptions—and save, to the very uttermost, all that come unto GOD through Him.

A Corner-stone. Which not only sustains, but unites the Edifice: incorporating both Jews and Gentiles, Believers of various Languages, and manifold Denominations—here, in one harmonious Bond of brotherly Love—hereafter, in one common Participation of eternal Joy.

A precious Stone. More precious than Rubies; the Pearl of great Price; and the Desire of all Nations. Precious, with regard to the divine Dignity of his Person, and the unequalled Excellency of his mediatorial Offices. In these, and in all Respects, greater than Jonah—wiser than Solomon—fairer than the Children of Men—chiefest among ten thousand—and, to the awakened Sinner, or enlightened Believer, *altogether lovely.

A sure Foundation †. Such as no Pressure can shake: equal, more than equal to every Weight; even to Sin, the heaviest Load in the World.—The Rock of Ages; such as never has failed, never will fail, those humble Penitents, who cast their Burden upon the LORD REDEEMER; who roll ‡ all their Guilt, and fix all

* Cant. v. 16.

‡ Roll—This is the exact Sense of the sacred Phrase, גל אגל יהוה Psal. xxii. 8. xxxvii. 5. Prov. xvi. 3. I am not ignorant, that some People have presumed to ensure, and many have been slay of using, this all their Hopes, on this immoveable Basis.—Or, as the Words may be rendered, A Foundation *! A Foundation! There is a fine Spirit of Vehemency in the Sentence, thus understood. It speaks the Language of Exultation, and expresses an important Discovery. That which Mankind infinitely want; that which Multitudes seek, and are not able to find; it is here! it is here! This, this is the Foundation for their Pardon, their Peace, their eternal Felicity.

Whosoever believeth, though pressed with Adversities, or surrounded by Dangers, shall not make haste †. But, free this bold and vigorous Metaphor. Which nevertheless appears to me, the most just, the most significant, and therefore the most truly beautiful, that could be used on the Occasion.

A Burden, that is manageable and comparatively light, We carry, We cast, We throw. But that which is extremely ponderous, and quite unwieldy, We move only by rolling. Accordingly, Stones of an enormous size, are called by the Oriental Writers, Stones of Rolling. Utpote ponderosiores, quam ut supportari queant. Ezra v. 8.—Consider the Expression in this View, and nothing can represent, with greater or with equal Energy, that prodigious Load, which, heavier than the Sand of the Sea, oppresses the guilty Conscience.—By substituting any other Word, We enfeeble and dilute the Sense: We lose the capital and striking Idea.

Vain Man would be wise. Let Him not then, for the Credit of his Ingenuity, adventure to correct the Language of Omniscience. This, if any Thing in Nature, is Periculose plenum Opus Alexæ.

This will be sure to discover, not his fine Taste, but his groveling Apprehension, and his rampant Pride. Let Him improve, with the Plasterer's Brush, the glowing Colours of the Rainbow. Let Him heighten by Fuller's Soap, the Lustre of the new fallen Snows. This will be a more modest Attempt, and a much easier Task, than to make an Index expurgatorius, or a Table of Errata, when the SPIRIT of Inspiration dictates.

* כוֹסֵד כוֹסֵד.

† Shall not make haste, לֹא יָחִישׁ This metaphorical Expression, tho' it might be very intelligible to an Hebrew, is to an English Reader, like some fine Picture placed in a disadvantageous Light. We may possibly illustrate the Prophet's Meaning, and exemplify his Assertion, if We compare the Conduct of Moses, with that of the Israelites, on viewing the fatal Catastrophe of Dathan and Abiram.—When the Earth trembled under their Feet; when the Ground opened its horrid Jaws; when the presumptuous Sinners went down alive into the Pit; when the free from tumultuous and perplexing Thoughts, preserved from rash and precipitate Steps, He shall possess his Soul in Patience. Knowing the Sufficiency of those Merits, and the Fidelity of that Grace, on which he has reposed his Confidence, shall quietly and without Perturbation wait for an expected End.—And not only amidst the perilous or disastrous Changes of Life, but even in the Day of everlasting Judgment, such Persons shall stand with Boldness. They shall look up, to the grand ARBITRATOR—look round, on all the Solemnity of his Appearance—look forward, to the unalterable Sentence—and neither feel Anxiety, nor fear Damnation.

*Such, in that Day of Terrors, shall be seen
To face the Thunders with a godlike Mien.
The Planets drop; their Thoughts are fix'd above;
The Center shakes; their Hearts disdain to move.*

This Portion of Scripture, which, I hope, will both delight and edify my Friend, recalls our Attention to the Subject of my present Letter—to those propitiatory Sufferings, and that justifying Righteousness, which, imputed to Sinners, are the Ground of their Comfort, and the Bulwark of their Security.—We have heard Moses and the Prophets. What say the Writers of the New Testament? They, whose Understandings were opened by the “WONDERFUL COUNSELLOR,” to discern the Meaning of the antient Oracles. Who must therefore be the most competent Judges of their true Import, and our surest Guides in settling their the tremendous Chasm closed upon the screaming Wretches; the Children of Israel, it is written, fled at the Cry of them. Fled, in wild and hasty Confusion; for they said, Lest the Earth swallow up Us also.—But Moses, who denounced the dreadful Doom; Moses, who was sure of the divine Protection; Moses made no such precipitate or disorderly Haste. He stood calm and composed; saw the whole alarming Transaction, without any uneasy Emotions of Fear, or any unnecessary Attempts to escape. Sense.—Do they patronize our Interpretation of the Prophets? Do they set their Seal to the Authenticity of our Doctrine?

St. Luke, in his ecclesiastical History, has preserved this weighty Declaration of the Apostles; We believe that, through the Grace of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, We shall be saved, even as they *. Here the Thing is implied.—St. Peter, in the Introduction to one of his Theological Epistles, thus addresses his happy Correspondents: To them that have obtained like precious Faith, in the Righteousness † of our GOD and SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST. Here the Point is expressly asserted.—With equal Clearness is the Doctrine delivered by Matthew the Evangelist; Seek ye first the Kingdom of GOD and his Righteousness ‡. What can the Kingdom of GOD mean? An Experience of the Power, and an Enjoyment of the Privileges of the Gospel. What are We to understand by his Righteousness? Surely, the Righteousness which is worthy of this grand Appellation, and peculiar to that blessed Institution.

Would We learn, What is the great and distinguishing Peculiarity of the Gospel? St. Paul informs Us; Therein the Righteousness of GOD is revealed, from Faith to Faith. As this Text leads Us into the Epistle to the Romans—as this Epistle is, both for the Propriety of its Method, and for the Importance of its Doctrine, singu-

The Phrase is πιστιν εν δικαιοσυνη, which most naturally signifies Faith in the Righteousness; expressing the Object, on which the Faith of Christians is fixed.—If We retain the common Translation, it proves another very momentous Truth: that the Righteousness of our GOD, even of our SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST, is the one meritorious procuring Cause of all spiritual Blessings; of Faith, as well as of Fruition; of Grace, as well as of Glory.—I say our GOD; so JESUS CHRIST is stiled in the Original; in the third Verse, his Power is called divine; and I wonder, how the Translators were induced, to transpose that important Pronoun, our.

larly excellent—it may not be amiss, to examine its Structure, and enquire into its Design.

The Apostle writes to a promiscuous People: who had been converted, partly from Judaism, partly from Gentilism. His Aim is, to strike at the very Root of their former Errors respectively—to turn them wholly to the superabundant Grace of GOD, and establish them solely on the all-sufficient Merits of CHRIST.

The Gentiles were, for the most part, grossly ignorant of GOD, and stupidly negligent of invisible Interests. If Any among them had any Regard to the DEITY; their Virtues, they imagined, were meritorious of all that the DEITY could bestow. If they committed Sin; Sin, they supposed, might easily be expiated by Sacrifices *. A few of their judicious Sages taught that the most probable Means of obtaining Pardon, was a sincere Reformation of Life.

The Jews, as it is well known, placed a mighty Dependence on their Affinity to Abraham, and the Covenant made with their Fathers; on their Adherence to the Letter of the moral Law, and their scrupulous Performance of ceremonial Institutions.—Gentiles and Jews agreeing in this Mistake, that they looked for the Par-

* WITSII Animadversiones Irenicæ, Cap. vii.—A choice little Piece of polemical Divinity, perhaps the very best that is extant. In which the most important Controversies are fairly stated, accurately discussed, and judiciously determined; with a Perspicuity of Sense, and a Solidity of Reasoning, exceeded by nothing, but the remarkable Candour of the Sentiments.

The Oeconomia Fœderum, written by the same Hand, is a Body of Divinity; in its Method so well digested—in its doctrines so truly evangelical—and (what is not very usual with our systematic Writers) in its Language so refined and elegant—in its Manner so affectionate and animating—that I would venture to recommend it, to every young Student in Divinity: I would not scruple to risk all my Reputation upon the Merits of this Performance: and I cannot but lament it, as one of my greatest Losses, that I was no sooner acquainted with this most excellent Author.—All whose Works, have such a Delicacy of Composition, and such a sweet Savour of Holiness, that I know not any Comparison more proper to represent their true Character than the golden Pot which had Manna; and was—outwardly, bright with burnished Gold—inwardly, rich with heavenly Food.

don of Guilt, and the Attainment of Happiness, from some Services done, or some Qualities acquired by Themselves.

Against these Errors the zealous Apostle draws his Pen. He enters the Lists like a true Champion of CHRIST, in the most spirited and heroic Manner imaginable. I am not ashamed of the Gospel of CHRIST: for, however it may be deemed Foolishness by the polite Greeks, or prove a Stumbling-block to the carnal Jews, *it is the Power of GOD unto * Salvation*: it is the grand Instrument, which he has ordained for this blessed Purpose, and which he will certainly crown with the desired Success.—Whence has the Gospel this very peculiar Power? Because, therein a Righteousness is revealed; not demanded of impotent Sinners, but revealed and made ready for their free Acceptance. A true and perfect Righteousness, which obliterates all Guilt, and furnishes a solid Title to eternal Life.—What Righteousness is this? The Righteousness, not of Sincerity, but of perfection; not of Man, but of GOD. Which was promised by GOD in the Scriptures; was introduced by GOD in the Person of his SON; and, on Account of its consummate Excellency, is both acceptable and available in his Sight.

This Righteousness is from Faith to Faith †: held forth, as it were, by a promising GOD, and apprehended

* Rom. i. 16.

† Rom. i. 17. An ingenious Friend proposes to translate the Passage, according to the following Connection: δικαιοσυνη Θεου εκ πισεως αποκαλυφθη εις πισιν, The Righteousness of God by Faith, is revealed to Faith. The Proposal is truly delicate; the Clause, thus transposed, is very perspicuous; and the Doctrine, contained in it, highly important. As a farther Recommendation of the Criticism, We may observe; That δικαιοσυνη εκ πισεως is with the Apostle, a customary and a favourite Way of expressing Himself. The only Difficulty lies in the Transposition, which this Interpretation requires. Whether this may be admitted, I refer to the judicious Reader.—However He shall determine, it is, I think, from this Text undeniably certain; That Faith is not our justifying Righteousness, but only receptive of it.—That there is just the same Difference between them, as between a costly

hended by a believing Soul. Who, first, gives a firm Affent to the Gospel; then, cordially accepts its Blessings. From a Conviction that the Doctrine is true, passes to a Persuasion that the Privileges are his own.—When this is effected, a Foundation is laid for all Happiness; a Principle is wrought, to produce all Holiness.

But why was it requisite, that such a Righteousness should be provided by GOD, and revealed in the Gospel?—Because not Gentile, nor Jew, either possessed, or could attain, any Righteousness of their own: and this Righteousness, though so absolutely necessary for their fallen State, was infinitely remote from all human Apprehensions. The latter Assertion is self-evident. The former is particularly demonstrated.—First, with regard to the Gentiles. The Generality of whom, were abandoned to the most scandalous Excesses of Vice; and they who had escaped the grosser Pollutions, fell short in the Duties of natural Religion.—Next, with regard to the Jews. Many of whom lived in open Violation of the external Commandment! and not One of them acted up to the internal Purity, required by the Mosaic Precepts.—From which Premises, this Conclusion is deduced; that each of them had transgressed even their own Rule of Action; that all of them were, on this Account, utterly inexcusable; therefore by the Works of the Law, whether dictated by Reason, or delivered by Moses, no Mortal is justified * in the Sight of GOD.

Lest any should imagine, that Righteousness may be obtained, if not by a Conformity to the Law of Na-costly Gift and the empty Hand; or between the Spring revealed to Hagar, and Hagar's Act of taking the Water for the Refreshment of Herself and her Son. See Gen. xxi. 19.

* Rom. iii. 20. There seems to be a kind of humbling or degrading Turn in the Apostle's Language παρα Καρξ, which may possibly be preserved in the Translation, No Mortal—We may farther observe the very nice and exact Manner of the Argumentation. Lest it should be said, and from the Authority of St. James, A Man is justified by Works; our unerring Writer tacitly allows, That before Men this is practicable, before Men this is proper, but not εμπροσθεν αυτου, not before GOD.

ture, or the Law of Moses, yet by an evangelical Obedience, He farther declares; That Sinners are justified freely, without any Regard to their own Endowments, of what Kind soever; through the Redemption, the complete Redemption of *JESUS CHRIST. After such a Manner, as may lay them low in Humiliation, even while it exalts them to the Kingdom of Heaven. After such a Manner, as may bring Life and Salvation to their Souls, while it strips them of all Pretence to Glorifying; and consigns the whole Honour to GOD the FATHER, and his SON JESUS CHRIST.

Upon the Whole; here are three Positions, of the last Importance—Salvation is by Righteousness—Righteousness is by Faith—Only by Faith, whether to the Jew, or to the Gentile. All these Particulars are confirmed by that single Sentence, quoted from the Prophet; The Just, the truly righteous; shall live, shall inherit everlasting Life; not by his own Works, but by Faith in the Obedience of a SAVIOUR.

In the Prosecution of this very momentous Subject, our sacred Disputant removes an Objection, which is as common, as it is plausible. Do We make void the Law through Faith? Do We render it a vain Institution; such as never has been, never will be fulfilled?—GOD forbid! This were a flagrant Dishonour to the Divine LEGISLATOR and his holy Commandments. What We would utterly abhor, rather than countenance in any Degree.—On the contrary, We establish the Law †; not only as We receive it for a Rule of Life, but as We expect no Salvation without a proper, without a perfect Conformity to its Injunctions—How can this be effected? By qualifying its Sense, and softening it into an easier System? This were to vacate the Law; to deprive it of its Honour, and its End. Its Honour; which is the most refined Spirituality, and sublime Perfection: its End; which is to convince of Sin, and make Way for a SAVIOUR.—We establish the Law by an incomparably better Expedient; by believing in that great MEDIATOR, who has obeyed its every Precept; sustained its whole Penalty; and satisfied all its Requirements, in their utmost Latitude.

Farther to corroborate his Scheme, He proves it from the renowned Examples of Abraham and David.—The Instance of Abraham is so clear, that it wants no Comment. Any Paraphrase would rather obscure, than illustrate it.—The other, derived from the Testimony of the Psalmist, may admit the Commentator's Tool. Yet not to hammer it into a new Form, but only to clear away the Rubbish; to rescue it from Misrepresentation; and place it in a true Light. *Even as David describeth the Blessedness of the Man, to whom GOD imputeth Righteousness without Works, saying; Blessed are They, whose Unrighteousness is forgiven, and whose Sins are covered: Blessed is the Man, to whom the LORD will not impute Sin.—Here is Imputation asserted—The Imputation of Righteousness—Of Righteousness without Works; without any Respect to, or any Co-operation from, any Kind of human Works.—It is a Blessing vouchsafed to the Ungodly; not founded on a Freedom from Sin, but procuring a Remission of its Guilt.

Some, I know, have attempted to resolve all the Force of this Passage, into an Argument for the Sameness of Pardon and justifying Righteousness. Whereas, the Apostle undertakes to prove, not that Pardon and justifying Righteousness are identically the same; but that Justification, in all its Branches, and in its full Extent, is absolutely free. To maintain which Position, He argues—“ This Doctrine is as true, as it is comfortable. It agrees with the Experience, and has received the Attestation of David. When he speaks of the blessed and happy Man, He describes Him, not as One that has been innocent, but guilty: not as

* Rom. iv. 6, 7.

“ having any Claim to the divine Favour, on account “ of deserving Performances, or recommending Pro“ perties ; but as owing all his Acceptance to that so“ vereign Grace, which forgives Iniquities, and blots out “ Sin. Such is the case with regard to that evangelical “ Justification, which We preach. Even as ; it is, in “ the Manner of its Vouchsafement, perfectly similar to “ the Blessedness celebrated by the Psalmist.”—The Apostle’s Eye, is not so directly upon the Nature of the Privilege, as upon the Freeness with which it is granted.
 Nor can Any infer from the Tenour of his Reasoning, that to be forgiven, is the same as to be made Righteous ; only that both are Acts of infinitely rich Mercy ; designed for Sinners ; promised to Sinners ; bestowed on Sinners. Who have nothing, nothing of their own, either to boast, or to plead, or so much as to pretend.

In the fifth Chapter, from Verse the twelfth to the End, the sacred Penman points out the Cause, and explains the Method of Justification, of which this is the Sum.—That CHRIST, in pursuance of the Covenant of Grace, fulfilled all Righteousness in the Stead of his People.—That this Righteousness, being performed for them, is imputed to them—That, by virtue of this gracious Imputation, they are absolved from Guilt, and entitled to Bliss ; as thoroughly absolved, and as fully entitled, as if in their own Persons they had undergone the expiatory Sufferings, and yielded the meritorious Obedience.—Lest it should seem strange, in the Opinion of a Jew or a Gentile, to hear of being justified by the Righteousness of Another, the wary Apostle urges a parallel Case ; recorded in the Jewish Revelation, but ratified by universal * Experience ; namely, Our being condemned for the Unrighteousness of Another.—In this Respect, He observes, Adam was a Type of our LORD ; or, a Figure of

* By the Pains and Death, which Infants, in every Nation, endure. Which are unquestionably Punishments, and to which they are doomed by the righteous Judgment of GOD.

HIM that was to come *. The Relations the same, but the Effects happily reversed. Adam the Head of his Posterity; CHRIST the Head of his People. Adam's Sin was imputed to all his natural Descendants; CHRIST's Righteousness is imputed to all his spiritual Offspring. Adam's Transgression brought Death into the World, and all our Woe; CHRIST's Obedience brings Life, and all our Happiness †.—The Whole closes with this very obvious and no less weighty Inference; Therefore, as by the Offence of one, Judgment came upon all Men to Condemnation; even so, by the Righteousness of One, the free Gift came upon all Men unto Justification of Life ‡.

I do not recollect any other Similitude, which the Apostle so minutely sifts, and so copiously unfolds. He explains it; He applies it; He resumes it; He dwells upon it; and scarcely knows how to desist from it. I am sure, you will not blame me, if I imitate the sacred Author; if I revert to the Subject; and quote another Passage, from the same Paragraph. Much more shall They, who receive Abundance of Grace and of the Gift of Righteousness, reign in Life by One, JESUS CHRIST ||.

I was once inclined to think, that the inspired Writer specifies, in this Place (what I apprehended to be the two grand Blessings, procured by IMMANUEL) Remission of Sins, and Imputation of Righteousness. But this Notion, though not without its Patrons §, now appears

* Rom. v. 14.

† Quemadmodum Peccatum Adami, says BENGELIUS, sine Peccatis quæ postea commissimus, Mortem attulit nobis; sic Justitia CHRISTI, sine bonis Operibus, quæ deinceps a nobis sunt, Vitam nobis conciliat. That is; As the Sin of Adam, without any Concurrence of the Sins, which We Ourselves respectively commit, occasioned our Ruin; so the Righteousness of CHRIST, abstracted from all Consideration of our personal Obedience, procures our Recovery.

|| Rom. v. 17.

§ The great Dr. GOODWIN seems to patronize it—when He says, “Over and above the Man’s Absolution, there is some other Thing to be added, viz. The Imputation of Righteousness”—when He says again, “Though Pardon and the consequent Imputation of Righteousness pears incorrect and groundless. The Imputation of CHRIST's Righteousness is, not a Part, but the Cause—the whole entire Cause of our Pardon, our Peace, our complete Justification. And this Righteousness, the Apostle declares, is of Grace. It is made ours, not on Account of any Deeds or Duties, which We perform; but from the Abundance of Grace, which GOD dispenses.—It is called a *Gift. Every Gift implies something, not originally our own, but another's. This Gift must signify, not what We Ourselves have acquired, but what was fulfilled by our SURETY; and is, by an Act of heavenly Indulgence, consigned over to our Enjoyment.—Accordingly, they who are interested in this Blessing, are styled, not Workers, but Receivers; not Purchasers, but Heirs, of the Righteousness which is by Faith.

See the distinguished Pre-eminence and Richness of the Gospel! Philosophy proposed many refined Precepts of Righteousness, but could not bestow a Righteousness upon any Person. The Law of GOD itself, though the perfect Rule of all Righteousness, is weak through the Flesh, and cannot make the Comers thereunto righteous. Whereas, by the Gospel, We are not only taught the true justifying Righteousness, but it is given to Us, and put upon Us.—Nay; We have it in Abundance; in its most consummate Form, and highest Perfection. So that neither Man shall be able to wish, nor can GOD himself require, a greater or a better.—This is a wonderful Saying, but it will appear true, if We consider another Clause from this incomparable Chapter. Suffer me, therefore, to bring forth another Jewel, from this rich Treasury of the Gospel. And the rather, as the Jewel, which I am going to produce, was the first that beamed Light and Lustre upon my own Mind. Was the first happy Occasion of guiding my Feet into the Way of Truth. *As by the Disobedience of One Man, many were made Sinners, so by the Obedience of One, shall many be made Righteous. The Disobedience of One, is the Disobedience of Adam; his actual Transgression of the divine Law. Hereby, many were made Sinners, even before they had done any evil Work. Sinners, in such a Sense, as to become obnoxious unto Condemnation, and justly liable to Death.—All this, I think, is, from the Apostle's own Words, indisputable. If We would preserve the Propriety of his Antithesis, or the Force of his Reasoning, We must allow; That the Obedience of One, is the Obedience of CHRIST; his actual and compleat Performances of the whole Law. Hereby, Many are made Righteous, even before they have done any good Work. Righteous, in such a Sense, as to be secure from all Condemnation; and, on Principles of Justice, entitled to Life eternal.—How clear and easy is this Meaning! How regular and exact this Argumentation! What Subtilty of Evasion must be used, before You can give a different Turn to the instructive Text!

“ousness are never to be separated.” Vol. III. pag. 340.—Whereas I should rather say, That Pardon of Sin and Acceptance to Life, can never be separated from our REDEEMER's Righteousness. Which is, not the Consequent of any, but the Cause and Origin of all spiritual Blessings.

This is the most consistent Sense, in which I can understand Rom. viii. 5. That the Righteousness of the Law might be fulfilled in Us, who walk not after the Flesh, but after the SPIRIT. That the Righteousness, required by the holy but broken Law, might be thoroughly accomplished. Accomplished in our Nature, and by our REPRESENTATIVE. So as to be deemed, in point of legal Estimation, fulfilled for Us and by Us †. This, I say, is most consistent with the Tenour of St. Paul's

* Rom. v. 19.

† It is remarked by a judicious Critic, and very evangelical, therefore very valuable Expositor, that the Preposition εὑ sometimes signifies by or for; and is so translated, Matt. v. 34. Heb. i. 1. See Dr. GUYSE's Exposition of the New Testament.—It is declared by the Helvetian Church, expounding this Passage, and making her public Confession; "That CHRIST is the Perfector of the Law, and our Ful-

Paul's Arguing, and with the Import of his Language.—With the Tenour of his Arguing: for, He undertakes to demonstrate the Impossibility of our Justification, by any personal Conformity to the Law. Whereas, if We could satisfy its Penalty, and obey its Precepts; or, in other Words, fulfil its Righteousness; this Impossibility would cease.—With the Import of his Language: for, the original Phrase denotes, not a sincere, but a complete Obedience; not what We are enabled to perform, but what the Law has a Right † to demand. Which, every One must acknowledge, is not fulfilled in any mere Man, since the Fall; but was fulfilled by JESUS CHRIST, for our Good, and in our Stead. This Interpretation preserves the Sentences distinct, and makes a very natural Introduction for the following Clause: where the Persons interested in this Privilege, are described by their Fruits, who walk not after the Flesh, but after the SPIRIT. Implying, that Justification and Sanctification are, like the ever-corresponding Motion of our Eyes, inseparable Concomitants; and We vainly pretend to the former, if We continue destitute of the latter.

We have produced positive Proofs of our Doctrine.—We have heard an Apostle declaring the assured Happiness, and complete Justification of true Believers.—Let us now observe the same sagacious Judge of Men and Things, discovering the Danger of those Self-justiciaries, who reject the REDEEMER'S Righteousness.

“ filling of it. Who, as He took away the Curse of the Law, when “ He was made a Curse for Us, so doth he communicate to Us, by “ Faith, his Fulfilling thereof.”

† It may be worth our while to observe, that St. Paul, when treating on this Subject, uses three several Words; each distinct, though all derived from the Original.—δικαιωσις, which expresses Justification; the accounting or declaring a Person righteous.—δικαιοσύνη, which never signifies Justification, but Righteousness; either performed by Us, or imputed to Us.—δικαιωμα, the Phrase which occurs in this Place, and denotes the Right or Demand of the Law; as that, whose Accomplishment is indispensably necessary, in order to the Justification of Man.

He is filled with the darkeſt Apprehenſions, concerning his Brethren the Jews. He is impreſſed with melancholy Preſages, relating to their eternal State *.—What was the Cauſe of this tender Solitude? Had they caſt off all Religion, and given themſelves over to groſs Immoralities? On the contrary, they were Worſhippers of the true GOD; and had, in their Way, not only a Regard, but a Zeal for his Honour †.—Wherefore then does this compaſſionate Father in Iſrael feel the ſame trembling Uneaſineſs for his Kinſmen according to the Fleſh, as Eli felt for the endangered Ark? Himſelf aſſigns the Reason. Becauſe, they being ignorant of GOD's Righteouſneſs, and going about to eſta- bliſh their own Righteouſneſs, have not ſubmitted themſelves to the Righteouſneſs of GOD ‡. Not knowing that immaculate Holineſs, which the perfect Nature, and equally perfect Law of the moſt High GOD, require—being wilfully ignorant of that conſummate Obedience which an incarnate GOD vouchſafed to perform, for the Juſtification of them, who are without Strength—they eſta- bliſhed, or rather they went about; they ſedulouſly but fooliſhly endeavoured, to eſta- bliſh their own Righteouſneſs; to make it, ſcanty and decrepit as it was, the Baſis of all their Hopes.—Thus were they reſting their everlaſting ALL on a Bottom, not precarious only, but irreparably ruinous. A boundleſs Eternity the Fabric! Yet they built (wonder O Heavens!) on the Foam of the Waters! And (which added Stubbornneſs to their Folly) in avowed Contempt of the Righteouſneſs which is by Faith; that ſtrong and ſure Foundation, laid by GOD's own almighty Hand in Sion.—For this, the good Apoſtle was afflicted, with “great Heavineſs, and “continual Sorrow.” For this, He made the Prophet's pathetic Complaint his own; Oh! that my Head were Waters, and my Eyes a Fountain of Tears, that I might bewail, Day and Night §, the incorrigible Per- verſeneſs of my People! For my People have committed two Evils: in not thankfully submitting to the Righteousness of GOD, they have forsaken the Fountain of living Waters: in attempting to establish their own Righteousness, they have hewed themselves out Cisterns, broken Cisterns, that can hold no Water *.

Having shewed their fatal Error, He strengthens his Representation, by displaying the happy Success of the Gentiles—What shall we say then? This, however improbable it may seem, We confidently affirm, That the Gentiles, who followed not after Righteousness; who had no Knowledge of it, and no Concern about it; even they have attained to Righteousness †.—Strange Assertion! How is this possible! To be sure, the Righteousness which they attained, could not result from any Thing personal; could not consist in moral Virtues or religious Duties. Instead of practising moral Virtues, or performing religious Duties, they lay immersed in Sensuality, and were abandoned to Idolatry. It must therefore be the evangelical, the imputed Righteousness; even that which was wrought by CHRIST, and is received by Faith ‡.

Israel, in the mean time, the nominal Israel, who, with great Pretensions of Sanctity, and many costly Oblations, followed after the Law of Righteousness, hath not attained to the Law of Righteousness. Attained! They

* Jer. ii. 13.

† Surely, this must signify more, than “attaining to the Profession of a Religion, whereby they may be justified and saved.” To this Multitudes attain, who continue, as the Prophet speaks, stout-hearted and far from Righteousness. Who derive no real Benefit from their Profession; but are rendered utterly inexcusable, and liable to more aggravated Condemnation.

‡ Surely, the Righteousness which is by Faith, cannot consist “in humbly committing the Soul to CHRIST, in the Way that he hath appointed.” According to this Notion, the justifying Righteousness would spring from Ourselves; would be constituted by an Act of our own, and not by the perfect Obedience of our LORD.

I am sorry to see this, and the preceding Interpretation, in the Works of an Expositor, whose Learning I admire, whose Piety I reverence, and whole Memory I honour. Yet I must say, on this Occasion, with one of the antient Philosophers; Amicus Plato, amicus Socrates, sed magis amica Veritas.

have done nothing less. They are fallen vastly short of it; they are pronounced guilty by it; they stand condemned before it*.—Wherefore did they so grossly mistake, and so grievously miscarry? Especially, as they were both sincere and assiduous in their Pursuit. Because, they forsook the good old Way, in which Abraham, David, and their pious Ancestors walked. They adopted a new Scheme; and must needs substitute their own, instead of relying on a SAVIOUR's Righteousness. They sought for Justification, not by Faith, but as it were by the Works of the Law †. A Method, which their Fathers knew not; which their GOD ordained not; and which proved, as it always will prove, not only abortive, but destructive.—At this Stone they stumbled. On this Rock they split. Let their Ruin be a Way-mark, and the Apostle's Observation a Lighthouse to my Theron.

Our zealous Writer tries every Expedient. He mingles Hope with Terror. Having pointed out the Rock, on which the Israelites suffered Shipwreck; He directs Us to the Haven, in which Sinners may cast Anchor, and find Safety. He gives Us a fine descriptive View of the Christian's complete Happiness. He opens (if I may continue the Metaphor) a free and ample Port for perishing Souls. Not formed by a Neck of Land, or a Ridge of Mountains, but by a magnificent Chain of

* This, I apprehend, is the Purport of the Apostle's Speech, when he tells Us, that his Countrymen had not attained unto the Law of Righteousness. He uses the Figure μειωσις, and means more than He expresses. He means, what St. Crisostom has, in his Exposition, supplied; Παρῆτος γὰρ νόμον, καὶ υπεθυνοῦς γέρονας τῆ ἀρεῇ. He expresses Himself somewhat like the dramatic Poet, who says of certain literary Pretenders,

*Qui se primos esse rerum omnium existimant
Nec tamen sunt.*

That is, they are quite the reverse.—Or like the Prophet in the Close of this Chapter, who assures the Believers in JESUS, They shall not be ashamed; that is, they shall be encouraged, emboldened, and “obtain Honour, and Glory, and Immortality.”

spiritual Blessings. All proceeding from, all terminating in, that precious Corner-stone JESUS CHRIST. *Who of GOD is made unto Us Wisdom, and Righteousness, and Sanctification, and Redemption. Wisdom, to enlighten our ignorant Minds. Righteousness †, to justify our guilty Persons. Sanctification †, to renew our depraved Natures. Redemption, to rescue Us from all Evil; and render Us, both in Body and Soul, perfectly and eternally happy.—Let it be remarked, how carefully our inspired Writer sets aside all Sufficiency, as well as all Merit in Man. He represents the whole of our Salvation, both in its Procurement and Application, as a Work of free Grace. CHRIST is, and not We Ourselves, the Author of this glorious Restoration, the Cause of this great Felicity. He is made all this unto Us—How? Not by our own Resolution and Strength; but of GOD, by the Agency of his mighty Power, and blessed SPIRIT. He shews Us the all-sufficient Fullness of CHRIST. He brings Us with ardent Longings to CHRIST. He implants Us into CHRIST, and makes Us Partakers of his Merits.

In the Process of the same Epistle, the sacred Penman enumerates the constituent Parts of that great Salvation which the SON of GOD has procured for ruined Sinners. But Ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified, in the Name of the LORD JESUS,

* 1 Cor. i. 30.

† † Righteousness and Sanctification; the former imputed, the latter inherent. This preserves a Distinction between the noble Articles, and assigns to each a grand Share in the Oeconomy of Salvation.—To say, that if one of the Blessings is communicated by Way of Imputation, the other should be communicated in the same Manner, seems to be cavilling, rather than arguing. Because, the Subjects are of a different Nature; and therefore must be dispensed in a different Way.—The Cocca Tree is, to the American, Food and Clothing, a Habitation and domestic Utensils. But must We suppose it, administering to all these Uses, in one and the same unvaried Method? Because, in one Respect it is eaten, in another it is wore, must it be thus applied in all? I am apt to think, the illiterate Savage, who enjoys the several Gifts, need not be taught the Absurdity of such a Supposition.

and by the SPIRIT of our *GOD. Ye are washed; washed in redeeming Blood, and cleansed from all the Filthiness of your Iniquities. Ye are sanctified; renewed in the Propensity of your Mind, and fitted for a Life of universal Holiness. Ye are justified; wholly delivered from Wrath, and restored to a State of complete Acceptance with the KING of Heaven. All these Gifts and Prerogatives, are conferred upon the unworthy Sinner, in the Name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST; in Consideration of his atoning Death and meritorious Righteousness. By the SPIRIT of our GOD; through the Efficacy of his Operation, revealing CHRIST, and working Faith in the Heart.

Read Rom. x. 4. Some Gentlemen have talked of a new remedial Law. Whereas, the Apostle speaks of the old, the unalterable, the Mosaic † Law.—What is the End of this sacred inviolable Rule? Is fallen Man, or the GOD-Man? If the former, then the Law must be an abortive Scheme, and never obtain its proper Accomplishment. If the latter, then it receives all due Obedience, and is satisfied to the very uttermost. Therefore CHRIST is the End of the Law.—And wherefore? For Righteousness; not that the Law should be set aside, but that a justifying Righteousness might be wrought out. How is this to be done? Not merely by suffering its Penalty, but also by fulfilling its Commands. According to that Saying, Who so doeth them shall live, shall be entitled to eternal Life, by them.—Is this Obedience to be performed by Us, or by our SURETY? By our SURETY, no doubt. Since the Apostle is arguing in professed Opposition to all Deeds of our own; and tells Us, that the justifying Righteousness is to be had, not by our Obeying, but by our Believing; it is to every One that believeth.

Follow the Course of a River; it will constantly lead You to the Ocean. Trace the Veins of the Body; they invariably unite in the Heart. Mark likewise the Tendency of the Law; it no less constantly and invariably conducts You to CHRIST, as the Centre of its Views, and the Consummation of its Demands.—The moral Law aims, at discovering our Guilt, and demonstrating our inexpressible Need of a SAVIOUR. The ceremonial points Him out, as suffering in our Stead; making Reconciliation for Iniquity; and purging away every Defilement with his Blood.—They both direct the wretched Transgressor, to renounce Himself, and fly to the REDEEMER. Who alone has paid that perfect Obedience, and brought in that everlasting Righteousness, which the Sinner wants, and the Law exacts. Who is, therefore, the only proper Accomplishment of the one, and the only suitable Supply for the other.

What is the grand Design of the whole Scriptures? St. Paul, asserting their divine Origin, and displaying the gracious Purposes, which they are intended to serve, writes thus; All Scripture is given by Inspiration of GOD; and is profitable—for Doctrine, to declare and establish religious Truth—for Reproof, to convince of Sin, and to refute Error—*for Correction, or Renovation of the Heart, and Reformation of the Life—for Instruction in Righteousness, in that Righteousness, which could never have been learned from any other Book, and in which alone sinful Men may appear with Comfort before their GOD †.

We

* 2 Tim. iii. 16. Προς επανορθωσιν.

† “ Was there ever such a Comment before?” says Vadius. “ The plain Meaning is, For training up in Holiness of Heart and Life.” Vadius forgets, that this Meaning was included in the Word επανορθωσιν. Which signifies Restitutio in integrum. A Restoration to Integrity of Heart, of Life, of Character.—Besides; if this was the Meaning, I ask; Where is the distinguishing Characteristic of the Gospel? We have not so much as a Hint at its grand Peculiarity, The Righteousness of GOD, Rom. i. 17. Would the Apostle, in describing very explicitly the Purport and Design of the Scripture, omit that which is the very Life and Soul of the Whole?

“ Was there ever such a Comment before?”—Yes; the Psalmist, long ago, gave Us such a Comment. Speaking on the same Subject, and addressing Himself to the victorious REDEEMER, He says; Ride on, because of the Word (על דבר) of Truth, of Meekness, and Righteousness;

We have seen the principal Scope of the Law, and the leading Design of the Scriptures: let Us add one Enquiry more. What is the chief Office of the SPIRIT?—If all these coincide, and uniformly terminate in the imputed Righteousness of CHRIST; We have a Confirmation of its Reality and Excellence, great as Man can desire; I had almost said, great as GOD can impart.—What says our LORD upon this Point? When He, the SPIRIT of Truth is come, He shall convince the World of Sin, of Righteousness, and of Judgment. Of* teousness. Here He opens and particularizes the Nature, End, and Effects of the divine Word. It is the Source of all that Truth, which cometh from above, and maketh wise unto Salvation. It is the Seed of all that reverential Regard to GOD, and benevolent Concern for Man; which may be expressed by one principal Branch of each, Meekness. It is a Discovery of that Righteousness, by which alone the Ungodly are justified; on which alone Men may depend for Salvation; and which could never have been the Object of their Faith, or even of their Knowledge, if it had not been revealed.

St. Paul himself, either gives Us the same Comment, or else directs Us to make it, when He styles the Christian Doctrine, λογος δικαιοσυνης, Heb. v. 13. Which is so called, says a masterly Critic, Quia nos instruit de verâ Justitiâ, quæ coram DEO valet, & quæ coram DEO consistimus. Because it instructs Us in that Righteousness, which avails for our Justification before GOD; and by Virtue of which, We stand unblameable in his Sight.—According to this Interpretation, the Apostle considers the Revelation, the Display, the Grant of the justifying Righteousness, as the very Quintessence of Scripture; that which creates its chief Distinction; and even constitutes its Denomination. Who then can asient to Vadius, when He would have the very Quintessence of Scripture, excluded from the Analysis of its Contents.

For my Part, I should see but little Excellency in those sacred Volumes, if the Blood and Righteousness of CHRIST, did not make the most conspicuous Figure in their several Pages. I should fetch a Sigh, and say; “Alas! here is nothing, that may recommend me to GOD. Nothing that can give me Acceptance in his Sight. Here is the Pole indeed, but the brazen Serpent is gone.” For which Reason, I cannot persuade myself, to part with or resign in my Comment, what would be an unspeakable Loss to me, if exterminated in fact.

* He shall convince, seems to be the most eligible Translation of ελεγεσει. To reprove of Righteousness, sounds harsh. To convince of Righteousness, is proper. Besides; this Word implies the sure Success, which attends the Operation of the divine SPIRIT.—Men may reprove, and no Conviction ensue. Whereas, that Almighty AGENT not only reproves, but reproves with Power; so as to determine the Judgment, and sway the Affections.

Sin, because they believe not on me : of Righteousness, because I go to my FATHER, and ye see me no more : of Judgment, because the Prince of this World is judged *.—Is it possible for Words to be more weighty and comprehensive? Here is a summary of Christian Faith, and of Christian Holiness. Not that superficial Holiness, which is patched up of devotional Forms, and goes no farther than external Performances : but that which is vital, and springs from the Heart : consists in Power, not in mere Profession ; whose Praise, if not of Men, who are smitten with pompous Outsides, is sure to be of GOD, who distinguishes the Things which are excellent.

He shall convince the World of Sin ; of original and actual Sin. The Sin of their Nature, as well as the Sin of their Life ; The Sin of their best Deeds, no less than of their criminal Commissions, and blameable Omissions. Above all, of their sinning against the sovereign, the only Remedy, by Unbelief ; because they believe not on me.—He shall convince of Righteousness ; of the exalted REDEEMER's Righteousness, which the foregoing Conviction must render peculiarly welcome. Convince them, that it was wrought out in Behalf of disobedient and defective Mortals ; that it is absolutely perfect, and sufficient to justify even the most Ungodly. Of all which an incontestable Proof is given, by his Resurrection from the Dead, his triumphant Ascension into Heaven, and Session at the Right-hand of his FATHER, because I go to my FATHER, and ye see me no more †.—He shall convince of Judgment. Those, who are humbled under a Sense of Guilt, and justified through an imputed Righteousness, shall be taught by happy

* John xvi. 8, 9, 10, 11.

† If the Work had been imperfect in any Degree, our REDEEMER, instead of taking up his stated and final Residence in the Regions of Glory, must have descended again into this inferior World, to complete what was deficient. Therefore, his Sitting at the Right hand of GOD, is a most comfortable Evidence, that He has thoroughly performed his Commission ; has fully satisfied for Sin ; and brought in the all-meritorious Righteousness.

Experience,

Experience, that the Prince of this World is condemned and dethroned in their Hearts: That their Souls, by Virtue of this victorious Faith, are rescued from the Tyranny of Satan; are delivered from the Bondage of their Corruptions; and restored to the Liberty—the glorious Liberty of the Children of GOD.

You wonder, perhaps, that I have not strengthened my Cause, by any Quotation from the Epistle to the Galatians. What I design, my dear Theron, is not to accumulate, but to select Arguments. However, that I may not disappoint an Expectation so reasonable, I proceed to lay before You a very nervous Passage, from that masterly Piece of sacred Controversy.—Only, let me just observe, that the Epistle was written to Persons, who had embraced Christianity, and professed an Affiance in CHRIST. But would fain have joined Circumcision, would fain have superadded their own religious Duties, to the Merits of their SAVIOUR; in order to constitute, at least, some Part of their justifying Righteousness. Against which Error, the vigilant and indefatigable Assertor of the Truth as it is in JESUS, remonstrates—*We who are Jews by Nature, and not Sinners of the Gentiles, knowing that a Man is not justified by the Works of the Law, but by the Faith of JESUS CHRIST, even We have believed in JESUS CHRIST; that We might be justified by the Faith of CHRIST, and not by the Works of the Law; for, by the Works of the Law shall no Flesh be justified.

We, who are Jews by Nature; are the Descendants of Abraham, and GOD's peculiar People; have the Tables of his Law, and the Ordinances of his Worship:

* Gal. ii. 15, 16. Observable, very observable is the Zeal of our Apostle, in this determined Stand, against the most specious, and therefore the most dangerous Encroachments of Error. To express his ardent Concern for the Truth and Purity of the Gospel—The Works of the Law are mentioned no less than three Times, and as often excluded from the Affair of Justification—The Faith of CHRIST likewise is thrice inculcated, and as often asserted to be the only Method of becoming righteous before GOD.

We

We who, in Point of Privileges, are greatly superior to the Gentile Nations, and have all possible Advantages for establishing (if such a Thing were practicable) a Righteousness of our own; What have We done?—We have believed in JESUS CHRIST: We have renounced Ourselves; disclaimed whatever is our own; and depended wholly on the Blood and Obedience of the glorious IMMANUEL.—For what End? That by this Faith in CHRIST, which receives his Righteousness; pleads his Righteousness; and presents nothing but his infinitely noble Righteousness before the Throne, We might be justified.—What Motive has induced Us to this Practice?—A firm Persuasion, that by the Works of the Law, by sincere Obedience, or personal Holiness, no Man living has been, and no Man living can be, justified before GOD.

Are You tired, Theron? Have I fatigued your Attention, instead of convincing your Judgment?—I will not harbour such a Suspicion. It is pleasing to converse with Those, who have traveled into foreign Countries, and seen the Wonders of Creation. We hearken to their Narratives with Delight. Every new Adventure whets our Curiosity, rather than palls our Appetite. Must it not then afford a more sublime Satisfaction, to be entertained with the Discourses of a Person, who had, not indeed sailed round the World, but made a Journey to the third Heavens? Who had been admitted into the Paradise of GOD, and heard Things of infinite Importance, and unutterable Dignity?—This was the Privilege of that incomparable Man, whose Observations and Discoveries, I have been presenting to my Friend. And I promise myself, He will not complain of Weariness, if I enrich my Epistle with one or two more of those glorious Truths.

GOD hath made HIM to be Sin for Us who knew no Sin; that We might, not be put into a Capacity of acquiring a Righteousness of our own, but be made the Righteousness Righteousness of GOD in Him *. In this Text, the double Imputation of our Sin to CHRIST, and of CHRIST's Righteousness to Us, is most emphatically taught, and most charmingly contrasted.—Most emphatically taught. For, We are said, not barely to be made righteous, but to be made Righteousness itself; and not Righteousness only, but (which is the utmost that Language can reach) the Righteousness of GOD.—Most charmingly contrasted. For, One cannot but ask, In what Manner, CHRIST was made Sin? In the very same Manner, We are made Righteousness. CHRIST knew no actual Sin. Yet, upon his mediatorial Interposition on our Behalf, He was treated by Divine Justice, as a sinful Person. We likewise are destitute of all legal Righteousness. Yet, upon our receiving CHRIST, and believing in his Name, We are regarded by the Divine MAJESTY, as righteous Creatures. This therefore cannot, in either Case, be intrinsically; but must be, in both Instances, imputatively.—Gracious, divinely gracious Exchange †! pregnant with inestimable Benefits. The incessant Triumph of the strong, the sovereign Consolation of the weak Believer!

Cease your Exultation, cries One, and come down from your Altitudes. The Term used in this Verse denotes, not so properly Sin, as an Offering for Sin.—This is a mere Supposal, which I may as reasonably deny, as Another affirm. Since the Word occurs much more frequently in the former Signification, than in the latter; and since, by giving it the latter Signification in the Passage before Us, We very much impair, if not totally destroy, the Apostle's beautiful Antithesis.

* 2 Cor. v. 21.

† Ita scilicet mirabili Permutatione Mala nostra in se recepit, ut Bona sua nobis largiretur; recepit Miseriam, ut largiretur Misericordiam; recepit Maledictionem, ut Benedictionis suæ compotes nos faceret; recepit Mortem, ut Vitam conferret; recepit Peccatum, ut Justitiam impertiretur. Thus writes the judicious Turretin. To which, in Concurrence with the accurate Wissus, I subscribe both with Hand and Heart.

However; not to contend, but to allow the Remark. I borrow my Reply from a brave old *Champion for the Truth of the Gospel: "This Text, says He, invincibly proveth, that We are not justified in GOD'S Sight by Righteousness inherent in Us, but by the Righteousness of CHRIST imputed to Us through Faith." After which He adds, what I make my Answer to the Objection; "That CHRIST was made Sin for Us, because He was a Sacrifice for Sin, We confess: but therefore was He a Sacrifice for Sin, because our Sin was imputed to Him, and punished in Him."—The poor Delinquents under the Mosaic Dispensation, who brought their Sin-offering to the Altar of the LORD, were directed to lay their Hand on the Head of the devoted Beast. Signifying, by this Usage, a Transferring of Sin from the Offerer to the Sacrifice. Conformably to the Import of this Ceremony, CHRIST assumed our Demerit. Like a true piacular Victim, He suffered the Punishment, which We had deserved; and which, without such a Commutation, We must have undergone. So that our LORD'S being made a Sin-offering for Us, does by no means invalidate, but very much confirm our Doctrine. It necessarily implies the Translation of our Iniquity to his Person; and on the Principles of Analogy, must infer the Imputation of his Righteousness to our Souls.

One Passage more permit me to transcribe into my Paper; and at the same Time to wish, that it may be written on both our Hearts. Written, not with Ink and Pen; no, nor with the Point of a Diamond; but with the Finger of the living GOD. Yea, doubtless, and I

* See Dr. Fulk's Annotation on the Place, in that valuable Piece of antient Controversy and Criticism, The Examination of the Rhemish Testament. Which, though not altogether so elegant and refined in the Language, nor so delicate and genteel in the Manner, as might be wished; is nevertheless full of sound Divinity, weighty Arguments, and important Observations.—Would the young Student be taught to discover the very Sineews of Popery, and be enabled to give an effectual Blow to that Complication of Errors, I scarce know a Treatise better calculated for the Purpose.

count all Things but Loss, for the Excellency of the Knowledge of CHRIST JESUS my LORD; for whom I have suffered the Loss of all Things, and do count them but Dung, that I may win CHRIST, and be found in Him; not having mine own Righteousness which is of the Law, but that which is through the Faith of CHRIST, the Righteousness which is of GOD through Faith*.

This is a Passage of special Eminence, as well as of singular Importance. For which Reason, You will allow me to be somewhat circumstantial, in examining its Meaning, Force, and Evidence.—The Apostle is Here relating his own Experience, and exhibiting Himself as a Pattern for Christians. He shews, what was the present Frame, and what the prevailing Exercise of his Spirit, with regard to the momentous Affair of Justification before GOD.

Justification! Says a certain Author; no, “by referring the Text to Justification only, You miserably pervert the whole Scope of the Words. It manifestly relates to Sanctification † chiefly, if not to that only.”

Then We are directed to find our Rejoicing; and to fix our Confidence for eternal Life (of these Things the Apostle is manifestly speaking) in Sanctification chiefly, if not in that only; not in what CHRIST has done and suffered, but in that which We Ourselves do and possess. The Papists will thank Us for such a Concession. It makes Room for their Notion of Merit. But can never exalt Grace, or exclude Boasting.

According to his Interpretation, We should all be desirous to appear, at the great and terrible Day, in the Garments of Sanctification chiefly, if not in those only. But are these without Spot and Blemish? Will these

* Phi'. iii. 8, 9.

† As to the Doctrine of Sanctification, the Apostle, like a judicious and faithful Dispenser of the Mysteries of CHRIST, neither neglects it, nor confounds it with the other grand Subject of Religion. He treats of it in the next Verses, (10, 11, 12, &c.) and considers it as a Blessing, following after and flowing from, this capital, leading, all enlivening Privilege—Justification through the Righteousness of JEHOVAH.

present Us faultless before the Throne of GOD's Glory? Hide me, ye Rocks! Cover me, ye Mountains! Much rather than expose me, in such an Array, before the Eye of infinite Purity.

Nay; if this be the Mind of the Apostle, then We must count all other Things, even the Blood and Righteousness of our incarnate GOD, to be undesirable as Loss, and despicable as Dung. Dreadful Consequence! Not to be mentioned without shuddering! Yet into such Consequences We are inevitably led, by this too peremptory and unadvised Exposition of the Text.

But We have not so learned CHRIST. We think, the Apostle expresses a vehement Desire, and manifests a most attentive Care, that He may remain established on the true justifying Righteousness. A Point, He well knew, of inexpressible Moment. In which Mankind are unaccountably prone to mistake. Nay, Paul himself had stumbled at this Stumbling-stone; imagining that Righteousness to be unto Life, which was productive of nothing but Condemnation and Death. He therefore speaks with Earnestness; He acts with Circumspection; as a Person who had been once caught in the Snare, but is resolved not to be entangled again.

Perhaps, You will say; I do not wonder to hear Him repudiate his old, pharisaical, spurious Righteousness. But does He give the Bill of Divorce to his new, his Christian, his real Righteousness? That which proceeded from Grace shed abroad in his Heart; and produced those heavenly Tempers and holy Works, which were both pleasing to GOD, and honorable to Religion?

I answer; He had no other Righteousness to renounce for the Sake of CHRIST; since, as You justly observe, his former Pharisaical Strictness was spurious, not real Godliness. This He had long ago learned to call by another Name; looking upon it, as so much specious Sfulness, or as a splendid Abomination. By his own Righteousness, therefore, He must mean, whatever He possessed or performed, in Conformity to the Law as a Rule of Life, and through the Influence of Grace as a Principle of Life. Against all this, whether it consisted of good Deeds or devout Qualities, He enters his Protestation. Enters it, in those strong Words, not having mine own Righteousness. Not having it even once in my Thoughts; not casting so much as a single Glance towards it; but being just as if I had never yielded any Obedience at all.

And great Reason there was, for using all this Jealousy. Since nothing is more natural to Us, in all Estates, than Self-confidence. While We are destitute of Grace, We are almost sure to trust in outward Duties, and what is called a moral Righteousness. When We are renewed by Grace, alas! how prone are We to doat upon the Beauties of our Sanctification; and not look with the Oculo irretorto, singly and solely to CHRIST, as our justifying Righteousness!

In determined Opposition to such very pernicious Errors, the Apostle speaks to this Effect—"The Privilege of being a Hebrew by Birth; the Prerogative of being a Pharisee by Profession; together with a Behaviour exemplary, and a Reputation unblameable in the Sight of Men; all these, which were once my Plea for Heaven, and therefore reckoned my highest Gain; as soon as I became acquainted with the glorious Perfections of CHRIST, I counted* Loss for Him.—And now, though I have been a Disciple many Years; have walked in all holy Conversation and Godliness; have endured, for my Divine MASTER'S Name, Tribulations above measure; have laboured more abundantly, and more successfully than all the Apostles; yet, even these and all other Attainments, of what Kind or of what Date soever, I count †

" but

* ἔσμεν, I counted; this is spoken of the Time past.

† ἔσμεν, relates to the present Time, and comprehends present Attainments, I do count.—Not some, or the greatest Part, but all Things.—What? is a Course of Sobriety, and the Exercise of Morality, to be reckoned as Dung? All Things, says the Apostle—What? Is our most elevated Devotion, and enlarged Obedience, to be degraded at

“ but Loss, for the transcendent Excellency of CHRIST
 “ JESUS my LORD.—Yea doubtless *; it is my de“ liberate and stedfast Resolution; what I have most “ seriously adopted, and do publicly avow; that, spe“ cious as all human Righteousness may seem, and va“ luable as it may be in other Respects; I both do, and “ ever shall, treat it with Disdain; yea, trample it under “ my Feet, that I may win CHRIST †, and triumph in “ the exalted JESUS. Human Righteousness fades “ into Nothing; it dwindles into less than nothing; if “ set in Competition with his matchless Obedience.
 “ And should it supersede my Application to his Merits, “ or weaken my Reliance on his Mediation, it would “ then be, not contemptible only, but injurious—to be “ avoided, with Sollicitude, as the greatest Loss; to be “ rejected, with Abhorrence, as the vilest Dung ‡.”

You

this monstrous Rate? All Things, says the Apostle.—This is his invariable Reply. Upon all Things whatever, besides CHRIST and his ineffable Righteousness, He holds the Door, when the great Cause of Justification is under Debate. And We may venture to affirm, That He had the Mind of CHRIST.

* Perhaps αλλα μενουσι may be translated, but truly. As if He had said, “ But why should I mention any more Particulars? In Truth, “ I count all Things, &c.”

† Δια Χριστον—δια το υπερεχον—ινα Χριστον κερδησω—plainly imply this comparative or relative Sense. Virtues, which are the Fruits of the SPIRIT, and Labours, which are a Blessing to Mankind, no sober Person will reckon absolutely or in all Respects despicable; but only in a limited and qualified Acceptation. Despicable, not in themselves, but as compared with the divinely perfect Righteousness of CHRIST, or as referred to the infinitely important Article of Justification.

That Aspasio speaks the Sense of our Church, will appear from this short but very pertinent Extract:—“ The Apostle St. Paul saith, He “ doth glory, in what? In the Contempt of his own Righteousness; “ and that He looketh for the Righteousness of GOD by Faith.”

Homily of Salvation, Part II.

‡ Ζημια, Κυβαλα. How emphatical are the Words! How bold are the Images! And may We not observe a fine Advance in the Sense? Loss, which is detrimental to our Interest, and not sustained without Regret. Dung, which is loathsome to our Senses, and cast away with Abhorrence.

You will ask, If He rejects all his own Righteousness, on what are his Hopes fixed!—On a Foundation, extensive as the Obedience of the REDEEMER'S Life and Death, unshaken as the Dignity of his eternal Power and GODHEAD. They are fixed on the Righteousness which is of GOD; the Righteousness which GOD the FATHER, in unsearchable Wisdom, provided; and which GOD the SON, in unutterable Goodness, wrought.—Do You enquire, How He came to be invested with this Righteousness? The Answer is ready and satisfactory. It was by the Application of the Divine SPIRIT, and the Instrumentality of Faith.—Lest any should imagine, That this Faith might be substituted, instead of his own Obedience to the Law; He puts an apparent Difference between the Righteousness which justifies, and the Faith by which it is received: not the Righteousness which consists in, but is THROUGH the Faith of CHRIST.—To shew the great Importance of this Distinction; how earnestly He insisted upon it, as a Preacher; how much it tended to his Consolation, as a Christian; He repeats the Sentiment, He re-inculcates the Doctrine, The Righteousness which is of GOD BY Faith.

Will You now, Theron, or shall I, poor unprofitable Creatures, presume to rely on any Performances or any Accomplishments of our own? When that distinguished Saint—a perfect Prodigy of Gifts, of Graces, and of Zeal—inde-fatigable in Labours, unconquerable by Afflictions, and of whose Usefulness there is neither Measure nor End—When He denies Himself in every View; depreciates all; disavows all*; and makes mention of

Has the Apostle pronounced all this concerning human Righteousness, when it would presume to be a Rival or a Partner with CHRIST? Then None can justly censure what Aspasio has said upon the same subject. Since his Sentiments, compared with the inspired Writer's, are but as the faint Breath of an English Orchard, compared with the potent Fragrance of an Orangerie in Seville.

* Thus argues St. Chrysostom, commenting on the Passage; Εί ο δικαιοσυνην εχω, δια το μηδεν ειναι, προς ταυτην την δικαιοσυνην εδραμεν, οη μη εχομεν πως η πολλω μαλλον οφειλεσι προσερχειν αυτη.

nothing, but the incomparable Righteousness of his obedient, dying, interceding SAVIOUR.

What shall I say more? Shall I attempt to play the Rhetorician, and borrow the insinuating Arts of Persuasion? This, after all the cogent Testimonies produced, and all the great Authorities urged, would be a needless Parade. When our Pen is a Sun-beam, there is but little Occasion to dip it in Oil.

Instead of such an Attempt, give me leave to make a frank and honest Confession. I would conceal nothing from my Friend. He should have a Sash to my Breast; throw it up at his Pleasure; and see all that passes within. Though I never had any Temptation to that pernicious Set of Errors, which passes under the Character of Socinianism; yet I had many Searchings of Heart, and much solicitous Enquiry, How far We are indebted to CHRIST's active Righteousness. Thoroughly persuaded, that *Other Foundation can no Man lay, save that which is laid, even JESUS CHRIST; and that there is no other Name given under Heaven, whereby Men can be saved †; yet, whether We were not to confine our believing Regards to a dying SAVIOUR, was Matter of considerable Doubt.—At first, I was inclined to acquiesce in the Affirmative. After long Consideration and many Prayers, my Faith fixed upon the Whole of CHRIST's mediatorial Undertaking. Which began in his spontaneous Submission to the Law; was carried on through all his meritorious Life; and issued in his atoning Death.—This is now the Basis of my Confidence, and the Bulwark of my Happiness. Hither I fly; here I rest; as the Dove, after her wearisome and fruitless Rovings, returned to Noah, and rested in the Ark.

This Scheme first recommended itself to my Affections; as making the most ample Provision, for the Security and Repose of a guilty Conscience. Which, when alarmed by the Accusations of Sin, is very apprehensive of its Condition ; and will not be comforted, till every Scruple is satisfied, and all the Obstructions to its Peace are removed. Thus I reasoned with myself—“ Though “ there is, undoubtedly, something to be said for the other “ Side of the Question ; yet, this is evidently the safest “ Method. And, in an Affair of infinite Consequence,

 “ who would not prefer the safest and surest Expedient ?
 “ —Should the Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST
 “ be indispensably requisite, as a Wedding-garment ;
 “ what will they do, when the great immortal KING “ appears, who have refused to accept it ? Whereas,
 “ should it not prove so absolutely necessary, yet such a “ Dependance can never obstruct our Salvation. It “ can never be charged upon Us, as an Article of Con“ tumacy or Perverseness, that We thought too meanly
 “ of our own, too magnificently of our LORD’s Obe“ dience. So that let the Die turn either Way, We “ are exposed to no Hazard.—This Scheme takes in “ all, that the other Systems comprehend, and abun“ dantly more. In this I find no Defect, no Flaw, no “ Shadow of Insufficiency. It is somewhat like the “ perfect Cube ; which, where-ever it may be thrown,
 “ or however it may fall, is sure to settle upon its Base.
 “ —Supposing, therefore, the important Beam should “ hang in Equilibrio, with respect to Argument ; these “ Circumstances, cast into the Scale, may very justly
 “ be allowed to turn the Balance.”

Upon a more attentive Examination of the Subject, I perceived—That this is the Doctrine of our national Church ; has received the Attestation of our ablest Divines ; and has been, in all Ages, the Consolation of the most eminent Saints : That it is the genuine Sense of Scripture ; and not some inferior or subordinate Point, incidentally touched upon by the inspired Writers, but the Sum and Substance * of their heavenly Message ;

* This Doctrine runs through St. Paul’s Writings, like a golden Warp. While Privileges, Blessings, and evangelical Duties, are like a Woof : a Woof (if I may allude to the Ornaments of the Sanctuary)
 of

sage; that which constitutes the Vitals of their System, and is the very Soul of their Religion. On which Account the whole Gospel is denominated from it, and styled The Ministration of Righteousness:—I was farther convinced, That this Way of Salvation magnifies, beyond Compare, the divine Law; is no less honourable to all the divine Attributes; and exhibits the ever Blessed MEDIATOR in the most illustrious and the most delightful View.

All these Considerations, under the Influence of the eternal SPIRIT, have determined my Judgment, and established my Faith. So that I trust, neither the Subtilties of Wit, nor the Sneers of Ridicule, nor any other Artifice, shall ever be able to separate me from the Grace and Righteousness which are in JESUS CHRIST.—By his Death, I am discharged from Guilt—by his Obedience, I am constituted Righteous—by his complete Satisfaction, I am completely justified, and shall be eternally saved.—In each of these Respects, HE is my ALL.

Let me, by Way of Conclusion, review that awful Subject, which introduced the Letter. Let me suppose the JUDGE, who is at the Door, actually come: the great and terrible Day, which is hastening forward *, really com-of Blue, of Purple, of Scarlet, and indeed of every pleasant Colour. The Righteousness of GOD, Rom. i. 17. 2 Cor. v. 21.—The Righteousness from GOD, Phil. iii. 10.—Righteousness by Faith, Rom. iii. 22.—Righteousness of Faith, Rom. iv. 11. x. 6.—Righteousness without the Law, Rom. iii. 21.—Righteousness without Works, Rom. iv. 6.—Righteousness in the Blood of CHRIST, Rom. v. 9.—Righteousness by the Obedience of CHRIST, Rom. v. 19.—Righteousness not our own, Phil. iii. 9.—Righteousness imputed by GOD, Rom. iv. 6, 10, 22.

* The sacred Writers, I observe, often remind their Readers of this grand Event; often display this delightful, dreadful Scene.—Their Manner of Speaking shews, that they themselves lived under the habitual and joyful Expectation of it; as Persons, who were looking for, and hastening to, the Coming of the Day of GOD.—They represent it, not only as sure, but near; yea, very near, and upon the Point to take place. The LORD is at Hand. The JUDGE is at the Door. Yet a little while, and HE that shall come, will come, and will not tarry.—The last Passage is the most spirited and emphatical of them commenced.—Hark! The Trumpet sounds the universal Summons. The Living are struck with a death-like Astonishment; the Dead start from their silent Abodes.—See! The whole Earth takes Fire; the Sun is turned into Darkness; and the Stars fall from the Firmament.—Behold! The ANCIENT OF DAYS is revealed from Heaven. *His Garment is white as Snow, and the Hair of his Head like the pure Wool. His Throne is like the fiery Flame, and his Wheels are as burning Fire. Thousand thousands minister unto Him; and ten thousand Times ten thousand stand before Him. The Judgment is set, and the Books are opened.

Observe those exemplary Christians, whose Sentiments I have been collecting. They renounce themselves, and rely on their Glorious SURETY. Methinks, I hear them say, Each as they quit their Beds of Dust; I will go forth from the Grave in thy Strength, O blessed JESUS; and, at the decisive Tribunal, will make mention of thy Righteousness only.—At the same Time, will You, Theron, or shall I—before the innumerable Multitude of anxious Sinners, and adoring Seraphs—stand forth and declare—“ Let those pusillanimous Creatures fly
“ for Refuge to their SAVIOUR’s Righteousness.
“ We will confide in Works, in Accomplishments of “ our own. We are the Men, who have personally kept
“ the divine Law, and want no supposititious Obedience
“ from Another. Let the Eye that glances through “ Immensity, and penetrates the Recesses of the Heart;
“ let that holy and omniscient Eye, examine our Tem“ per, and sift our Conduct. We are bold to risk our “ Souls, and all their immortal Interests, on the Issue
“ of such a Scrutiny.”

them all; but has lost much of its Emphasis, by the English Version. It is in the Original $\mu\alpha\lambda\iota\sigma\tau\alpha\ \sigma\sigma\sigma\tau\alpha\ \sigma\sigma\sigma\tau\alpha$. A beautiful Pleonasm; by which the Septuagint, though too often inaccurate in translating the prophetic Text, have very happily expressed Isaiab’s כמעט רגע Which may, I think, be rendered in our Language, yet a very, very little while. Heb. x. 37. Ifai. xxvi. 20.

* Dan. vii. 9, 10.

Perhaps, Your Mind is impressed with this solemn Scene, and your Thoughts recoil at such daring Presumption. If so, it will be proper for me to withdraw, and leave You to your own Meditations. At such Moments, to obtrude on Your Company, would render me the troublesome and officious, rather than

Your respectful and affectionate,

Dear ASPASIO,

THE last Evening was one of the finest I ever saw. According to Custom, I made an Excursion into the open Fields; and wanted nothing to complete the Satisfaction, but my Friend's Company*. I could not but observe, how much your improving Conversation heightened the Charms of Nature. When Religion applied Philosophy, every Thing was instructive, as well as pleasing.—Not a Breeze swept over the Plains, to clear the Sky, and cool the Air; but it tended also to disperse our Doubts, and enliven our Faith in the Supreme All-sufficient GOOD.—Not a Cloud tinged the Firmament with radiant Colours, or amused the Sight with romantic Shapes, but We beheld a Picture of the present World. Its fading Acquisitions, and fantastic Joys were pourtrayed, in the mimic Forms, and the transitory Scene.—Even the weakest of the Insect-tribe, that skim the Air in sportive Silence, addressed

* Tu quod abes excepto, cætera lætus.

Us with the strongest Incitements, and gave Us the loudest Calls, to be active in our Day, and useful in our Generation. They cried, at least when You lent them your Tongue,

*Such is vain Life, an idle Flight of Days,
A still delusive Round of sickly Joys,
A Scene of little Cares, and trifling Passions,
If not ennobled by the Deeds of Virtue.*

How often at the Approach of sober Eve, have We fauntered through the dusky Glade. Observing the last Remains of Light, now impurpling the Western Clouds; now faintly gleaming on the Mountain's Brow: now creeping insensibly from all the shaded Landscape.—How often have We stole along the Cloysters of some leafy Bower; attentive to the Tale of a querulous Current. That seemed to be struck with Horror, at the awful Gloom; and complained with heavier Murmurs, as it passed under the blackening Shades, and along the Root-obstructed Channel.—Or else, far from the babbling Brook, and softly treading the grassy Path, We listen to the Nightingale's Song. While every Gale held its Breath, and all the Leaves forbore their Motion, that they might neither drown nor interrupt the melodious Woe.—From both which pensive Strains, You endeavoured to temper and chastise the exuberant Gaiety of my Spirits. You convinced me, that true Joy is a serious Thing*: is the Child of sedate Thought, not the Spawn of intemperate Mirth: nursed, not by the Sallies of dissolute Merriment, but by the Exercise of serene Contemplation.

Sometimes, at the gladsome Return of Morn, we have ascended an airy Eminence; and hailed the new-born Day; and gazed the Dew-bright Earth; and followed, with our delighted Eye, the Mazes of some glittering Stream.—Here rushing, with impetuous Fury, over the Mountain's Summit; tumbling from Rock to Rock; and roaring down the craggy Steep. Impatient, as it were, to get free from such rugged Paths, and mingle itself with the adjacent Mead.—There, slackening its headlong Career, and smoothing its Eddies, into a glassy Surface, and a gentle Flow. While, deep embosomed in the verdant Soil, it winds through the cherished and smiling Herbage. Sometimes, lost amidst closing Willows; sometimes, issuing with fresh Lustre from the verdant Arch; always, roving with an Air of amorous Complacency, as though it would kiss the fringed Banks, and caress the flowery Glebe.—Reminded, by this watery Monitor, of that Constancy and Vigour, with which the Affections should move towards the great Center of Happiness, JESUS CHRIST—of that determined Ardour, with which we should break through the Entanglements of Temptation, and Obstacles of the World, in order to reach our everlasting Rest—and of the mighty Difference between the turbulent, the frothy, the precipitate Gratifications of Vice, and the calm, the substantial, the permanent Delights of Religion.

Or else, with careless Step, We have rambled along the Fields. Sometimes, prying into the secret Shade, or hiding Ourselves in the sequestered Vale. Sometimes, We have roved again on the upland Plains; with eager Views surveying the universal Prospect; and even devouring the Beauties of Nature, or, as the Scripture speaks, taking them with our Eyes *. Never weary of admiring the Magnificence and Glory of the Creation. An endless Variety of graceful Objects, and delightful Scenes! Each soliciting our chief Regard; every one worthy of our whole Attention; all conspiring to touch the Heart with a mingled Transport of Wonder, of Gratitude, and of Joy.—So that We have returned from our rural Expedition, not as the Spendthrift from the Gaming-table, cursing his Stars, and raving at his ill Luck; gulled of his Money, and the derided Dupe of Sharpers. Not as the Libertine from the House of Wantonness *, surfeited with the rank Debauch, dogged by Shame, goaded by Remorse, with a thousand recent Poisons tingling in his Veins. But We returned, as Ships of Commerce from the golden Continent, or the spicy Islands, with new Accessions of sublime Improvement, and solid Pleasure. With a deeper Veneration for the Almighty CREATOR; with a warmer Sense of his unspeakable Favours; and with a more inflamed Desire, “to know him now by Faith, and after this “Life to have the Fruition of his glorious GOD-HEAD.”

Sometimes, with an agreeable Relaxation, We have transferred our Cares, from the Welfare of the Nation, to the flourishing of the Farm; and, instead of enacting Regulations for the civil Community, we have planned Schemes for the Cultivation of our Ground, and the Prosperity of our Cattle.—Instead of attending to the Course of Fleets, and the Destination of Armies, We have directed the Plough, where to rend the grassy Turf; or taught the Honey-suckle to wind round the Arbour, and the Jessamine to climb upon the Wall.—

* Solomon, in order to deter unwary Youth from those Sinks of Uncleaness, represents the Harlot under the Character of a pestilent Hag, or baleful Sorceress. Her Feet go down to Death; Prov. v. 5. Her House is the high Road to Hell; Prov. vii. 27. yea, her Guests are in the Depths of Hell; Prov. ix. 18.—The second Clause seems to be emphatical. The original Expression is in the plural Number דרך. I choose therefore to render it, not simply The Road, but more largely The high Road: from which many other Ways of Guilt branch out, in which many other Paths of Ruin coincide. There, Murder is often known, to drench her Dagger in Blood; and Robbery forms the rash Resolve, which ends in the ignominious Halter. There, Intemperance daily brews the Bowl, which enervates the Constitution, and transforms the Man into a Beast. While Disease, pale cadaverous noisome Disease, anticipates the Putrefaction of the Grave, and causes the wretched Martyrs of Vice to rot even above Ground.—Well may every one, who loves Life, and would fain see good Days, cry out with a Mixture of Detestation and Dread; “O my Soul, come not “thou into their horrid Haunts!”

Dii meliora Piis, Erroremque Hostibus illum! VIRG.

Instead of interposing our friendly Offices, to reconcile contending Kingdoms; We have formed a Treaty of Coalition between the stranger Cyon, and the adopting Tree; and, by the remarkable Melioration of the ensuing Fruit, demonstrated (would contending Empires regard the Precedent) what Advantages flow from pacific Measures, and an amicable Union.—Instead of unraveling the Labyrinths of State, and tracing the Finesses of Foreign Courts; We have made ourselves acquainted with the Politics of Nature, and observed, how wonderfully, how mysteriously, that great Projectress acts.—In this Place, she rears a vast Trunk, and unfolds a Multiplicity of Branches, from one small Berry. She qualifies, by her amazing Operations, a few contemptible Acorns, that were formerly carried in a Child's Lap, to bear the British Thunder round the Globe, and secure to our Island the Sovereignty of the Ocean.—In another Place, she produces from a dry Grain, first the green Blade; then the turgid Ear; afterwards the full-grown and ripened Corn in the Ear *. Repaying, with exact Punctuality, and with lavish Usury, the Husbandman's Toil, and the Husbandman's Loan: causing, by a most surprising Resurrection, the Death of one Seed, to be fruitful in the Birth of Hundreds.

But I forget your Caution, Aspasio; forget, how kindly you have checked me, when I have been haranguing upon, I know not what, Powers and Works of Nature. Whereas, it is GOD who worketh hitherto †: who to this Day exerts, and to the End of Time will exert, that secret but unremitted Energy, which is the Life of this majestic System, and the Cause of all its stupendous Operations.—Let this shew you, how much I want my Guide, my Philosopher, and Friend. Without his prompting Aid, my Genius is dull; my Reflections are awkward; and my religious Improvements jejune; somewhat like the bungling Imitations of the Tool, compared with the masterly Effects of Vegetation.—However, I will proceed. Yet, not from any View of informing my Aspasio, but only to draw a Bill upon his Pen; and lay him under an Obligation to enrich me with another Letter, upon the grand and excellent Subject of his last.

Art is dim-sighted in her Plans, and defective even in her most elaborate Essays. But Nature, or rather Nature's sublime AUTHOR, is indeed a Designer and a *Workman that need not be ashamed †. His Eye strikes out ten thousand elegant Models, and his Touch executes all with inimitable Perfection—What an admirable Specimen is Here, of the divine Skill, and of the divine Goodness! This terraqueous Globe is intended, not only for a Place of Habitation, but for a Storehouse of Conveniences. If We examine the several Apartments of our great Abode; if We take a general Inventory of our common Goods; We shall find Reason to be charmed with the Displays, both of nice Oeconomy, and of boundless Profusion.

Observe the Su face of this universal Messuage. The Ground, coarse as it may seem, and trodden by every Foot, is nevertheless the Laboratory, where the most exquisite Operations are performed; the Shop, if I may so speak, where the finest Manufactures are wrought. Tho' all Generations have, each in their Order, been accommodated by its Productions; though all Nations under Heaven are, to this very Day, supplied by its Liberalities, it still continues inexhausted. Is a Resource, always new; a Magazine, never to be drained.

As this is a Property very remarkable, and unspeakably valuable, it deserves our more particular Regard. Was it reversed, what would become of the World, both rational, animal, and vegetable?—In commercial Affairs, Ufury is looked upon as the Canker of an Estate. A corroding Worm, which eats into the Heart, and consumes the very Vitals, of our Substance. The Earth borrows immense Sums yearly. These She repays with an Interest prodigiouſly large, almost incredible. Yet is She never impoverished. Or if impoverished in some Degree, the Repose of a single Year, with a little Cultivation from the Owner, is sufficient for the Reparation of all her Losses.—Old Age weakens the most vigorous Animals. Even the hardiest Oaks are impaired by Time. A State of Barrenness and Decay awaits them all; and admits neither of Prevention, nor of Remedy. But the Earth, which is the Mother and the Nurse of us all; is subject to none of these Infirmities. She is now almost six thousand Years old, yet discovers no Sign of a broken Constitution, nor any one Symptom of exhausted Strength. In Spring, She blooms like a Virgin; in Summer, She sparkles like a Bride; in Autumn, She teems like a Matron. If grey Hairs seem to be upon Her, during the wintry Months; She is sure to drop them, when the Frosts are gone, and the Sun approaches. She never fails, at that Season, to re-assume all the Graces, and to re-exert all the Vigour of Youth.—Though She has been pregnant with thousands and thousands of Vintages and Harvests; though She has suckled unnumbered Millions of green and flowery Families; her Womb is as strong and lively to conceive *, her Breasts are as copious and milky to nourish, as if She was but just delivered of her First-born.—To what is this unequalled and never-ceasing Fertility owing? What, but that mighty Word, proceeding from the Mouth of JEHOVAH; While the Earth remaineth, Seed-time and Harvest shall not cease †. How short the Decree,

* St. Chrysoſtom thought this a wonderful Circumstance, and has touched it in one of his most celebrated Orations. Ενωησον μοι το καλλοτε θρανιο, ποσον εχει χρονον, και εκ ημαυρωθη, αλλ' ωσπερ Σημερον κατασκευασθεις, εως εστι αποσειλων της γης την δυναμιν, πως εκ ηλονησεν αυτης η γαστηρ τοσητον τικτησα χρονον. but how long and lasting its Efficacy ! It has reached to this Hour ; it will reach to distant Ages ; it will extend itself to the very End of Time.

The Unevenness of the Ground, far from being a Blemish or a Defect ; heightens its Beauty, and augments its Usefulness.—Here, it is scooped into deep and sheltered Vales, almost constantly covered with a spontaneous Growth of Verdure : which, all tender and succulent, composes an easy Couch, and yields the most agreeable Fodder, for the various Tribes of Cattle.—There, it is extended into a wide, open, champain Country : which, annually replenished with the Husbandman's Seed, shoots into a copious Harvest. A Harvest, not only of that principal Wheat, which strengthens our Heart, and is the Staff of our Life ; but of the appointed Barley * also, and of various other Sorts of Grain. Which yield an excellent Food for our Animals ; and either enable them to dispatch our Drudgery, or else fatten their Flesh for our Tables.

The Furrows, obedient to the Will of Man, vary their Produce †. They bring forth a Crop of tall, flexible, slender Plants ‡ : whose thin filmy Coat, dried, attenuated, and skilfully manufactured, transforms itself into some of the most necessary Accommodations of Life, and genteelest Embellishments of Society.—It is wove into ample Volumes of Cloth ; which, fixed to the Mast, give Wings to our Ships, and waft them to the Extremities of the Ocean.—It is twisted into vast Lengths of Cordage ; which add Nerves to the Crane, and lend

We know not what to understand by the Word appointed, when used in this Connection. Whereas, the true Interpretation of the Original, is, I think, as follows : גסמן וכסמח גבלתו ושערה : Et Hordeo signata est & Quæ Meta sua. A proper Place is assigned both for the Barley and the Rye.

Sinews to the Pulley; or else, adhering to the Anchor, they fasten the Vessel even on the fluctuating Element, and secure its Station even amidst driving Tempests.— It furnishes the Duchess with her costly Head dress, and delicately fine Ruffles. No less strong than neat, it supplies the Plowman with his coarse Frock, and the Sailor with his clumsy Trowsers. Its Fibres, artfully ranged by the Operations of the Loom, cover our Tables with a graceful Elegance, and surround our Bodies with a cherishing Warmth. On this the Painter spreads the Colours, which enchant the Eye; in this the Merchant packs the Wares, which enrich the World.

Yonder, the Hills, like a grand Amphitheatre, arise. Amphitheatre! All the pompous Works of Roman Magnificence, are less than Mole-banks, are mere Cockleshells, compared with those majestic Elevations of the Earth. Some clad with mantling Vines; some crowned with towering Cedars; some ragged with mishapen Rocks, or yawning with subterraneous Dens. Whose rough and inaccessible Craggs, whose hideous and gloomy Cavities, are not only a continual Refuge for the wild Goats, but have often proved an Asylum to persecuted Merit*, and a Safeguard to the most valuable Lives.

At a greater Distance, the Mountains lift their frozen Brows, or penetrate the Clouds with their aspiring Peaks. Their frozen Brows arrest the roving, and condense the rarefied Vapours †. Their stony Bowels, formed into Caverns, collect the dripping Treasures, and send them abroad, in gradual Communications, by trickling Springs. While their steep Sides precipitate the watery Stores; rolling them on with such a forcible Impulse ‡, that they

The Vineyard swells into a Profusion of Clusters : some tinged with the deepest Purple, and delicately clouded with Azure : some clad with a whitish transparent Skin, which shews the tempting Kernels, lodged in luscious Nectar.—The Vine requires a strong Reflection of the Sun-beams, and a very large Proportion of Warmth. How commodiously do the Hills and Mountains minister to this Purpose ! May We not call those vast Declivities, the Garden-walls of Nature ? Which, far more effectually than the most costly Glasses, or most artful Green-houses, concenter the solar Heat, and complete the Maturity of the Grape. Distending it with a Liquor of the finest Scent, the most agreeable Relish, and the most exalted Qualities : such as dissipate Sadness, and inspire Vivacity : such as make glad the Heart of Man, and most sweetly prompt, both his Gratitude and his Duty, to the Munificent GIVER.—I grieve, and I blush for my Fellow-creatures, that Any should abuse this Indulgence of Heaven. That Any should turn so valuable a Gift of GOD into a detestable Instrument of Sin ! Should turn the most exhilarating of Cordials into Poison, Madness, and Death.

The Kitchen-garden presents Us with a new Train of Benefits. In its blooming Ornaments, what unaffected

And, to mention but one more Instance, the River Amazones, which pours itself through a Multitude of Provinces, and waters near eighteen hundred Leagues of Land, has its Urn in the Caverns, and its Impetus from the Precipices, of that immense Range of Hills, the Audes.

If the Reader is inclined to see the Origin and Formation of Rivers described, in all the Sublimity of Diction, and with all the Graces of Poetry, He may find this Entertainment in Mr. Thomson's Autumn, Liv. 781. last Edit.

Beauty !

Beauty ! In its culinary Productions, what diversified Riches ! It ripens a Multitude of nutrimental Esculents, and almost an equal Abundance of medicinal Herbs ; distributing Refreshments to the Healthy, and administering Remedies to the Sick.—The Orchard, all fair, and ruddy, and bowing down beneath its own delicious Burden, gives Us a fresh Demonstration of our CREATOR's Kindness. Regales Us, first, with all the Delicacies of Summer Fruits ; next, with the more lasting Succession of Autumnal Dainties.

What is Nature, but a Series of Wonders, and a Fund of Delights ! That such a Variety of Fruits, so beautifully coloured, and so elegantly shaped ; so charmingly flavoured, and enriched with such admirable Juices ; should arise from the Earth ! Than which nothing is more insipid, sordid, and despicable.—I am struck with pleasing Astonishment, at the Cause of these fine Effects ! I am no less surpris'd, at the Manner of bringing them into Existence. I take a Walk in my Garden, or a Turn through my Orchard, in the Month of December. There stand several Logs of Wood. Some, of stately Height, and diffusive Spread. Others, contracted into Dwarfs, or disposed along the Espalier. All, naked and unornamented ; all, fastened to the Ground, and neither endued with Sense, nor capable of Motion. No human Hand will touch them ; no human Aid will succour them. Yet, in a little Time, they are beautified with Blossoms ; after which, they are covered with Leaves ; and, at last, they are loaded with mellow Treasures. With the downy Peach and the polished Plum ; with the musky Apricot, and the juicy Pear ; with the Cherry, and its coral Pendants, glowing through Lattices of Green,

I have wonder'd at the Structure of my Watch ; wonder'd more at the Description of the Silk-mills ; most of all, at the Account of those prodigious Engines, invented by Archimedes. But what are all the Inventions of all the Geometricians and Mechanics in the World, compared with these inconceivably nice *Automata of Nature! These self-operating Machines dispatch their Business, with a Punctuality that never mistakes, with a Dexterity that cannot be equalled. In Spring, they clothe themselves with such unstudied but exquisite Finery, as far exceeds the Embroidery of the Needle, or the Labours of the Loom. In Autumn, they present Us with such a Collation of Sweetmeats, and such Blandishments of Taste, as surpass whatever the most critical Luxury could compare, or the most lavish Fancy imagine.—So that those coarse and senseless Logs, first decorate the divine Creation, then perform the Honours of the Table.

If, amidst these ordinary Productions of the Earth, GOD appears so great in Counsel, and so mighty in Works †: what may we expect to see, amidst the Palaces of Heaven; among the Hierarchies of Angels; and in that wonderful REDEEMER, who is, beyond all other Objects, beyond all other Manifestations, the Wisdom of GOD, and the Power of GOD ‡.

The Forest rears Myriads of massy Bodies. Which, though neither gay with Blossoms, nor rich with Fruits, supply Us with Ornaments, far more durable than the

* Automata or self-operating Machines; not meant to set aside the Superintendency of Providence, but only to exclude the Co-operation of Man.

The word αυτοματα is used by our MASTER; is a very fine, and most expressive Word; for which Reasons, I have ventured to give it a Kind of English Naturalization. It signifies, says a Greek Scholiast, τας μηχανας, αι κατ' αυτας ενεργουσαι. See Mark iv. 28.—It is an Explanation of that remarkable Phrase, which occurs in the Mosaic History of the Creation, אשר ברא להים לעשות Gen. ii. 3. Which GOD created and made, appears tautological, and is by no means an exact Translation. It should rather be interpreted, Which GOD created in order to make; to make, by these prolific Instruments, and producing Principles, a continued Succession of Animals, Vegetables, and Creatures.

former; with Benefits, far more valuable than the latter. They supply Us with Timbers of various Kinds, and of every desirable Quality*.—But who shall cultivate such huge Trees, diffused over so vast a Space? The Toil were endless; the Task impossible. See therefore the all-wise and ever-gracious Ordination of Providence! They are so constituted, that they have no Need of the Spade, the Pruning-knife, or the Watering-pot. Nay, the little Services of Man would diminish, rather than augment their Dignity and their Usefulness. The more they are neglected, the better they thrive; scorning, as it were, to be dependent on any Hand, but the divine; and speaking, by their own native Grandeur, the transcendent Greatness of their PLANTER †.

When felled by the Axe, they are sawed into Beams, and sustain the Roofs of our Houses. They are fashioned into Carriages, and serve for the Conveyance of the heaviest Loads.—Their Substance so pliant, that they yield to the Chizzel of the Turner, and are smoothed by the Plane of the Joiner; are wrought into the nicest Diminutions of Shape, and compose some of the finest Branches of household Furniture.—Their Texture so solid, that they form the most important Parts of those mighty Engines; which, adapting themselves to the Play of mechanic Powers, dispatch more Work in a single Hour, than could otherwise be accomplished in many Days.—At the same Time, their Pressure is so light, that they float upon the Waters; and glide along the Surface, almost with as much Agility, as the finny

Fry glance through the Deep.—Thus, while they impart Magnificence to Architecture, and bestow numberless Conveniences on the Family; they constitute the very Basis of Navigation, and give Life to our domestic Trade, give Being to the Commerce of Nations.

Amidst the inaccessible Recesses of the Forest, an Habitation is assigned to those ravenous Beasts, whose Appearance would be frightful, and their Neighbourhood dangerous. There, the sternly majestic Lion rouses himself from his Den; stalks through the midnight Shades; and awes the savage Herds with his Roar. There, the fiery Tiger springs upon his Prey, and the gloomy Bear trains up her Whelps. There, the swift Leopard ranges, the grim Wolf prowls, and both in Quest of Murder and Blood.—Were these horrid Animals to dwell in our Fields, what Havock would they make? What Consternation would they spread? To prevent such mischievous Consequences, the almighty RULER saith; I have made the Wilderness their House, and the barren Land their Dwelling *. In Obedience to this Decree, they banish themselves from the Seat of Society, and from the Scenes of Fertility. They even bury themselves in the deepest Solitudes of the Desert, While the Ox, the Horse, and the serviceable Quadrupeds, live under our Inspection, and keep within our Call: profiting Us as much by their Presence, as the others oblige Us by their Absence.

If, at any Time, those shaggy Monsters make an Excursion into the habitable World, it is when Man retires to his Chamber, and sleeps in Security. The Sun, which invites other Creatures abroad, gives them a Signal and a Command to retreat. The Sun ariseth, and they get them away, and lay them down in their Dens †. Strange! That the orient Light, which is so pleasing to Us, should strike such Terror on them! Should, more effectually than a Legion of Guards, put them all to flight, and clear the Country of those formidable Enemies!

If We turn our Thoughts to the Atmosphere, We find a most curious and exquisite Apparatus of Air. Which, because no Object of our Sight, is seldom observed, and little regarded; yet is a Source of innumerable Advantages. And all these Advantages are fetched (which is almost incredible) from the very Jaws of Ruin. My Meaning may be obscure, therefore I explain myself.

We live plunged, if I may so speak, in an Ocean of Air. Whose Pressure, upon a Person of moderate Size, is equal to the Weight of twenty thousand Pounds. Tremendous Consideration! Should the Cieling of a Room, or the Roof of a House, fall upon Us with half that Force, what destructive Effects must ensue. Such a Force would infallibly drive the Breath from our Lungs, or break every Bone in our Bodies. Yet, so admirably has the Divine Wisdom contrived this aerial Fluid, and so nicely counterpoised its dreadful Power, that we receive not the slightest Hurt; We suffer no manner of Inconvenience; We even enjoy the Load. Instead of being as a Mountain on our Loins, it is like Wings to our Feet, or like Sinews to our Limbs.—Is not this common Ordination of Providence, thus considered, somewhat like the Miracle of the burning Bush; whose tender and combustible Substance, though in the Midst of Flames, was neither consumed nor injured*? Is it not almost as marvelous, as the Prodigy of the three Hebrew Youths? Who walked in the fiery Furnace, without having a Hair of their Heads singed, or so much as the Smell of Fire passing on their Garments †?—Surely, We have Reason to say unto GOD; O! how terrible, yet how beneficent, art Thou in thy Works!

The Air, though too weak to support our Flight, is a Thoroughfare for innumerable Wings. Here the whole Commonwealth of Birds take up their Abode. Here they lodge and expatiate, beyond the Reach of their Adversaries. Were they to run upon the Earth, they would be exposed to ten thousand Dangers, without proper Strength to resist them, or sufficient Speed to escape them. Whereas, by mounting the Skies, and lifting themselves up on high, they are secured from Peril, *they scorn the Horse and his Rider.—Some of them perching upon the Boughs, others soaring amidst the Firmament, entertain Us with their Notes. Which are musical and agreeable †, when heard at this convenient Distance; but would be noisy and importunate, if brought near to our Ears.—Here, many of those feathered Families reside, which yield us a delicious Treat; yet give Us no Trouble, put Us to no Expence, and, till the Moment We want them, are wholly out of our Way.

† Dan. iii. 27.

The Air, commissioned by its All-bountiful AUTHOR, charges itself with the Administration of several Offices, which are perfectly obliging, and no less serviceable to Mankind.—Co-operating with our Lungs, it ventilates the Blood, and refines our Fluids. It qualifies and attempers the vital Warmth; promotes and exalts the animal Secretions.—Many Days We might live, or even whole Months, without the Light of the Sun, or the Glimmering of a Star. Whereas, if We are deprived, only for a few Minutes, of this aerial Support, We sicken, We faint, We die.—The same universal Nurse has a considerable Share, in cherishing the several Tribes of Plants. It helps to transfuse vegetable Vigour into the Trunk of the Oak, and a blooming Gaiety into the Spread of the Rose.

The Air undertakes to convey to our Nostrils the extremely subtil Effluvia, which transpire from odoriferous Bodies. Those detached Particles are so imperceptibly small, that they would elude the most careful † Musical and agreeable—Of this Kind are almost all their Notes; formed to charm the Ear, and inspire Delight. If indeed the Turtle is melancholy, and the Raven solemn, they are only like the Base in a Concert; or as Discords judiciously intermingled, in a fine Piece of Music. Which makes me wonder, that Horace, speaking of these sprightly Songsters, and their pleasing Harmony, should say;

* Job xxxix. 18.

Queruntur in Sylvis Aves,

Hand,

Hand, or escape the nicest Eye. But this trusty Depositary receives and escorts the invisible Vagrants, without losing so much as a single Atom. Entertaining Us, by this Means, with the delightful Sensations, which arise from the Fragrance of Flowers; and admonishing Us, by the Transmission of offensive Smells, to withdraw from an unwholesome Situation, or beware of any pernicious Food.

The Air, by its undulating Motion, conducts to our Ear all the Diversities of Sound, and, thereby, discharges the Duty of a most seasonable and faithful Monitor. As I walk across the Streets of London, with my Eye engaged on other Objects; a Dray, perhaps with all its Load, is driving down directly upon me. Or, as I ride along the Road, musing and unapprehensive, a Chariot and six is whirling on, with a rapid Career, at the Heels of my Horse. The Air, like a vigilant Friend, in pain for my Welfare, immediately takes the Alarm: and, while the Danger is at a considerable Distance, dispatches a Courier to advertise me of the approaching Mischief. It even thunders in my Ear; and, with a clamorous but kind Importunity, urges me to be upon my Guard, and provide for my Safety.

The Air wafts to our Sense all the Modulations of Music, and the more agreeable Entertainments of refined Conversation. When Myrtila strikes the silver Strings, and teaches the willing Harpsichord to warble with her CREATOR's Praise: when her sacred Sonata warms the Heart with Devotion, and wings our Desires to Heaven.—When Cleora tunes her Song, or the Nightingale imitates her enchanting Voice: when She heightens every melodious Note, with her adored REDEEMER's Name; and so smoothes her charming Tones, so breathes her rapturous Soul, “that GOD's own Ear listens delighted.”—When Wisdom takes its Seat on Mitio's Tongue; and flows, in perspicuous Periods, and instructive Truths, amidst the chosen Circle of his Acquaintance.—When Benevolence, associated with Persuasion, dwell on Nicander's Lips; and plead the Cause of injured Innocence, or oppressed Virtue.—When Goodness, leagued with Happiness, accompany Eusebius into the Pulpit; and reclaim the Libertine from the Slavery of his Vices; disengage the Infidel from the Fascination of his Prejudices; and so affectionately, so pathetically invite the whole Audience, to partake the unequalled Joys of pure Religion.—In all these Cases, the Air distributes every musical Variation with the utmost Exactness; and delivers the Speaker's Message, with the most punctual Fidelity. Whereas, without this Internuntio, all would be sullen and unmeaning Silence. We should lose both the Pleasure and the Profit; neither be charmed with the harmonious, nor improved by the articulate Accents.

The Air, when vague and unconfined, is so very gentle; that it sports with the most inoffensive Wantonness, amidst Ophelia's Locks, and scarce disadjusts a single Curl. But, when collected and applied by the Contrivance of Man, it acts with such prodigious Force; as is sufficient to whirl round the hugest Wheels, though clogged with the most incumbring Loads. It makes the ponderous Mill-stones move as swiftly, as the Dancer's Heel: and the massy Beams play as nimbly, as the Musician's Finger.

If We climb, in Speculation, the higher Regions, We find an endless Succession of Clouds, fed by Evaporations from the Ocean.—The Clouds are themselves a Kind of Ocean, suspended in the Air with amazing Skill. They travel, in detached Parties, and in the Quality of itinerant Cisterns, round all the terrestrial Globe. They fructify, by proper Communications of Moisture, the spacious Pastures of the Wealthy; and gladden, with no less liberal Showers, the Cottager's little Spot. Nay, so condescending is the Benignity of their great PROPRIETOR, that they satisfy the desolate and waste Ground: and cause, even in the most uncultivated Wilds, the Bud of the tender Herb to spring forth.

forth *. That the Natives of the lonely Desert, those savage Herds which know no Master's Stall, may nevertheless experience the Care, and rejoice in the Bounty, of an All-supporting PARENT.

How wonderful! That the Water, which is much denser and far heavier than the Air, should rise into it; makes its Way through it; and take a Station in the very uppermost Regions of it! This, One would imagine, were almost as impossible, as for the Rivers to run back to their Source. Yet Providence has contrived a Way, to render it not only practicable, but Matter of continual Occurrence.

How wonderful; That pendant Lakes should be diffused, or liquid Mountains heaped over our Heads; and both sustained in the thinnest Parts of the Atmosphere! We little think of that surprising Expedient, which, without Conduits of Stone, or Vessels of Brass, keeps such Loads of Water in a buoyant State. Job and Elibu considered this, and were struck with holy Admiration. Dost thou know the Balancings of the Clouds? How such ponderous Bodies are made to hang with an even Poise, and hover like the lightest Down? These are the wondrous Works of HIM, who is perfect in Knowledge †. He bindeth up the Waters in his thick Clouds; and the Cloud, though nothing is more loose and fluctuating, becomes, by his Almighty Order, strong and tenacious as Casks of Iron; it is not rent ‡ under all the Weight.

When the Sluices are opened, and the Waters descend, We might reasonably suspect; that they would rush down in Cataracts, more rapid and impetuous, than the Mountain Torrent. Thus would they be dreadfully pernicious. They would destroy every Thing, where they happened to fall; and leave other Parts of the Ground, destitute of necessary Moisture.—Whereas, now, instead of such a disorderly and precipitate Effusion, they coalesce into Globules, and are dispensed in gentle Showers. They are often attenuated into the Smallness of a Hair*; they spread themselves, as if they were strained through the Orifices of the finest Watering-pot; and form those small Drops of Rain, which the Clouds distil upon Man abundantly †. Thus, instead of drowning the Earth, and sweeping away its Fruits, they cherish universal Nature; and, in Conformity to the Practice of their great MASTER, distribute their humid Stores to Men, to Animals, and Vegetables, as they are able to bear them ‡.

Besides the Reservoirs of Water, here are cantoned various Parties of Winds, mild or fierce, gentle or boisterous. Furnished with breezy Wings, to fan the glowing Firmament, and diffuse Refreshment on a fainting World: or else, fitted to act as an universal Besom; and, by sweeping the Chambers of the Atmosphere, to preserve the fine aerial Fluid free from Feculencies. Without this wholesome Agency of the Winds, the Air would stagnate; would soon become putrid; and surround Us, in the literal Sense of the Words, with Darkness that might be felt ||. London, Paris, and all the great Cities in the World, instead of being the Seats of Elegance, would degenerate into Sinks of Corruption.

Let the Inhabitants of Jamaica or Japan, let the Natives of Guinea or Peru, express the Value of this elementary Gift. How could they subsist, in those torrid Regions, without this best of Visitants, the cool diurnal Breeze? Alas! how would their Blood boil; how would their Spirits fail; and their Strength be dried up like a Potsherd! Without this salutary Breeze, the Air would be liquid Fire; their Houses the Residence of Fevers; and their Clime, as it were, the Ante-chamber to Hell.—But the fresh and sprightly Gales constantly rise with the rising Sun; and ply the Fan; without Intermision, around both Men and Beasts. This qualifies and tempers the otherwise intolerable Heat; this sheds Comfort, and supports Health; this is, amidst their burning Abodes, the very Balm of Life. Not all the aromatic Odours, nor all the ambrosial Sweets of those fruitful Islands, are half so agreeable to the Taste or the Smell, as these Gales are recreating and grateful to the Lungs. And what—Ah! what were all the Ivory and the Gold of those wealthy Continents? How dim their Lustre! How insignificant their Traffic! If separated from this incomparably better Commerce with the ever undulating Sky!—Yet there is one Species of Commerce, one Kind of sacred Intercourse, preferable, infinitely preferable even to those sweet, sovereign, elementary Refreshments. The Church seems to pant and gasp after it, as a thirsty Land. Her Wants I feel, and her Wishes I adopt. Awake, O North-wind, and come thou South-wind; come, thou all-reviving, all-enlivening SPIRIT, and blow upon my Garden, or rather upon the poor parched, barren Desert of my Soul; that the Spices, or some Savour of Righteousness and true Holiness, may flow out.

At Sea, the Winds swell the Mariner's Sails, and speed his Course along the watery Way: speed it far more effectually, than a thousand Rowers, bending to their Strokes, and tugging at the Oar.—By Land, they perform the Office of an immense Seed-man, and scatter abroad the reproductive Principles of a Multitude of Plants; which, though the Staff of Life to many Animals, are too small for the Management, or too mean for the Attention of Man. GOD bringeth the Winds out of his Treasuries *, is a very just and edifying Observation. Whether We consider it, as a Description of his absolute and uncontrollable Dominion over this potent Meteor; He bringeth; He maketh it to come; like some tame sequacious Animal, which hearkens to a Word, or obeys the Nod. Or whether We contemplate the welcome and kindly Influence of the Meteor itself, on all the Face of Nature; He bringeth it, not from the Armoury, where the Weapons of Vengeance are deposited; but from his Treasuries, whence proceed the convenient, the beneficial, and the desirable.

Here are Lightnings stationed. Though dormant at present, they are in act to spring, and launch the livid Flame: whenever their piercing Flash is necessary. Necessary to destroy the sulphureous and pestilential Vapours; or to dislodge those floating Dregs, which might corrupt the Purity of the Æther, and obscure its more than crystalline Transparency.—This fiercest of Fires (see the stupendous Operations of JEHOVAH!) is engendered by the coldest of Elements. That blazing Bolt, which cleaves the Forest Oaks with a Stroke; that penetrating Flame, which melts the Bars of Steel with a Touch; are the Offspring of Water, and issue from the Womb of a Cloud. *HE maketh Lightnings, saith the inspired Philosopher, not as an Efflux from the Sun; amazing Association!) as an Appendage or Concomitant for the Rain.

In the magnificent Arch of the Sky, is situate a radiant Orb, which enlightens the Tracts, cheers the Inhabitants, and colours all the Productions of this habitable Globe. The Air, by a singular Address in managing the Rays, amplifies their Usefulness: its reflecting Power † augments that Heat, which is the Life of Nature ; its refracting Power prolongs that Splendor, which is the Beauty of the Creation.—These Emanations of Light, though formed of inactive Matter, yet (astonishing Apparatus of eternal Wisdom !) are refined almost to the Subtilty of Spirit, and are scarce inferior even to Thought in Speed. By which Means, they spread themselves, with a Kind of instantaneous Swift-ness, through the Circumference of a whole Hemisphere ; and though they fill, wherever they pervade, yet they straighten no Place, embarrass no One, incumber Nothing.

* Psal. cxxxv. 7.

† The Air is a curious Cover, which, without oppressing the Inhabitants of the Earth with any perceivable Weight, confines, reflects, and thereby increases the vivifying Heat of the Sun. The Air increases this kindly Heat, much in the same Manner as our Garments by Day, or Bed-clothes by Night, give additional Warmth to our Bodies.—Whereas, when the aerial Vestment grows thin, or, to speak more philosophically, when the Air comes less in Quantity, and more attenuated in Quality, the solar Warmth is very sensibly diminished. Travelers on the lofty Mountains of America, sometimes experience, to their terrible Cost, the Truth of this Observation. Though the Clime, at the Foot of those prodigious Hills, is even hot and sultry; yet on their Summits, the Cold rages with such excessive Severity, that it is no unusual Calamity, for the Horse and his Rider to be frozen to death.—We have therefore great Reason to bless the Supreme DISPOSER of Things, for placing us in the commodious Concavity, or rather under the cherishing Wings of an Atmosphere.

These give the Diamond its Brilliancy, and the Velvet its Gloss: to these the chearful Eye is obliged for its lively Sparkle, and the modest Cheek for its rosy Blush. These, attending the judicious Touches of the Pencil, bid the Drapery flow, and the embodied Figure rise ; bid the Countenance wear the calm Serenity of Thought ; or be agitated with the wild Transports of Passion.—Without this Circumstance of Colour, we should want all the Entertainments of Vision, and be at a Loss to distinguish one Thing from another. We should hesitate to pronounce, and must take a little Journey to determine, whether yonder Inclosure contains a Piece of Pasturage, or a Plot of arable Land. We should question, and could not very expeditiously resolve, whether the next Person We meet, be a Soldier in his Regimentals or a Swain in his Holiday-Suit ? A Bride in her Ornaments, or a Widow in her Weeds ? But Colour, like a particular Livery, characterizes the Class, to which every Individual belongs. It is the Label, which indicates, upon the first Inspection, its respective Quality. It is the Ticket, which guides our Choice, and directs our Hand *.

This

* This I believe, suggests the true Sense of those noble Similitudes, used by the divine Speaker. It is turned as Clay to the Seal, and they stand as a Garment: It, the Earth, and all its Productions receive, from the rising Sun, both Colour and Beauty. Just as the soft Clay, and the melting Wax, receive an elegant Impression from the Seal.—

The Sun, I said, was situate. But it is rather itinerant, than resident. It passes through the Firmament; and having supplied Us with Light for several Hours, carries Day into the other Hemisphere.—What then shall We do, when the Fountain of Light is sealed, or its Communications are with-held?—A Supply is provided. The Stars appear, like thousands of flaming Torches. Chiefly the Moon, at certain Seasons, succeeds to the Office of furnishing Us with the welcome Blessing.—But the Moon is a dark Body. How then can it impart, what it does not possess? Providence, infinitely rich in Contrivances, has found out a Method. Than which nothing can be more simple, yet nothing more effectual. The Moon, being at a proper Distance, receives and reflects the Rays of the Sun. Which are so strong in themselves, that they reach, even in their reverberated Direction, as far as our Globe. Yet are rendered, by this Reflection, soft and gentle. Inasmuch, that they afford Us a most commodious and cheering Illumination; such as qualifies the horrors of Darkness, without any Diminution of its composing Nature, and soporiferous Influence.—Thus the Sun lightens Us, by the Intervention of the Moon, when He is departed many Degrees beyond our Sight.

We have curiously surveyed the upper Rooms of our great Habitation, and taken a turn along the Ground-floor; if We descend into the subterraneous Lodgments, the Cellars of the stately Structure, We shall there also

They (the Morning and the Day-spring, mentioned in a preceding Verse) stand as a Garment; they act the Part of a magnificent and universal Clothing; give all visible Objects, their comely Aspect, and graceful Distinctions. Job xxxviii. 14.

What Images are here! How bold, and how fine! The Sea had been described as an Infant before the ALMIGHTY. Like an Infant, changeable, froward, and impetuous, with thick Darkness for its Swaddling-band. The Light is represented as an Handmaid, attending to dress the Creation; and executing the CREATOR'S Orders, with a Punctuality that never fails, with a Speed that cannot be equalled.

find the most exquisite Contrivance, acting in Concert with the most profuse Goodness.—Here are various Minerals, of sovereign Efficacy in Medicine : which rectify the vitiated Blood, and quicken the languid Spirits ; which often rekindle the fading Bloom in the Virgin's Complexion, and re-invigorate the enfeebled Arm of Manhood.—Here are Beds fraught with Metals of the richest Value. From hence come the golden Treasures, from hence the silver Stores, which are the very Life of Traffic ; and circulate through the Body politic, as the vital Fluid through the animal Frame. Which in the refining Hand of Charity, are Feet to the Lame, and Eyes to the Blind, and make the Widow's Heart sing for Joy.

Here are Mines, which yield a Metal of meaner Aspect, but of a firmer Cohesion, and of superior Usefulness *. A Metal, that constitutes almost all the Implements, with which Art and Industry execute their various Designs. Without the Assistance of Iron, Business would be reduced to the lowest Ebb ; Commerce would feel her Wings clipped ; and every Species of mechanic Skill, either utterly fail, or be miserably baffled. Without the Assistance of Iron, it would be almost impossible to rear the steady Mast, to display the daring Canvas, or drop the faithful Anchor. Destitute of this ever-needful Commodity, we should have no Plow to furrow the Soil, no Shuttle to traverse the Loom, scarce any Ornament for polite, or any Utensil for ordinary Life.

Here is an inexhausted Fund of combustible Materials †, which supply the whole Nation with Fuel. These present their Ministrations in the Kitchen ; and

* Ferrum, licet Metallorum pretio ultimum, Necessitate tamen primum. PLIN.

† As for the Earth, says Job, out of it cometh Bread. Corn, Vegetables, and whatever is good for Food, spring from its Surface. yielding themselves as Aliment to the Flame, render our Food both palatable and healthy.—These offer their Service at the Forge; and, with their piercing Heat, mollify the most stubborn Bars, till they become pliant to the Stroke of the Hammer.—The Coals pour themselves likewise into the Glass-houses. They rage, amidst those astonishing Furnaces, with irresistible but useful Fierceness. They liquify even the obdurate Flint, and make the most rigid Substances far more ductile, than the softest Clay, or the melting Wax: make them obsequious not only to the lightest Touch, but to the Impressions of our very Breath.

By this Means, we are furnished, and from the coarsest Ingredients, with one of the most curious and valuable Manufactures in the World. A Manufacture, which transmits the Light and Warmth of the Sun into our Houses; yet excludes the Annoyance of the Rains, and the Violence of the Winds. Which gives new Eyes to decrepit Age, and vastly more enlarged Views to Philosophy and Science. Which leads up the Astronomer's Discernment, even to the Satellites of Saturn; and carries down the Naturalist's Observation, as far as the Animalcule Race: bringing near what is immensely remote, and making visible what, to our unassisted Sight, would be absolutely imperceptible.

We have also, when both Sun and Moon withdraw their Shining, an Expedient to supply their Place. We can create an artificial Day in our Rooms, and prolong our Studies, or pursue our Business, under its cheering Influence. With beaming Tapers and ruddy Fires, We chase the Darkness, and mitigate * the Cold; We cherish cherish Conversation, and cultivate the social Spirit. We render those very Intervals of Time, some of the most delightful Portions of our Life, which otherwise would be a joyless and unimproving Void.

* I can hardly forbear transcribing the grateful and pious Remark, which Socrates makes on this Occasion. Demonstrating, from the advantageous and benign Constitution of Things, GOD's indulgent Care for Mankind, He asks; Το δε και το πυρ πορισαι ημιν, επικερρον μεν ψυχης, επικερρον δε Σολης, Συνερον δε προς πασαν τεχνην, και παντα οσα ωφελειας ενεκα ανθρωποι κατασκευαζοιται; Ως γαρ Συνελοθι ειπειν, εδεν αξιολογον ανευ πυρος ανθρωποι των προς βιον χρησημων κατασκευαζονται.— To which his Pupil very intelligently replies, Υπερβαλλει και ττο φιλανθρωπια.

These obscure Caverns are the Birth-place of the most sparkling Gems; of Onyx-stones, of glistening Stones, and all Manner of precious Stones. Which, when nicely polished, advantageously set, and prodigal of their Lustre, stand Candidates for a Place on the royal Crown, or a Seat on the virtuous Fair One's Breast. I will not, with our Men of Gallantry say, they emulate the living Brilliancy of her Eyes; rather they serve as a Foil, to set off the Beauties of her accomplished Mind, and amiable Conversation. Whose Price, according to the unerring Estimate of Inspiration, is superior to Sapphires, is far above Rubies *.—If these shining Rarities, extracted from the Cabinets of the Earth, are an Ornament to Some, are they not an Incitement to All? All who have read those animating and glorious Words; They shall be mine, saith the LORD, in the Day when I make up my Jewels †.

Here are Quarries, stocked with Stones, inferior in Beauty to the Jeweler's Ware, but much more eminent-φιλονηρωπια. Vid. Socrat. Memor. Lib. VI. A Work, which may be ranked amongst the finest Remains of Antiquity. Equal, it is acknowledged, to any of the antient Compositions in Purity of Style, and Dignity of Sentiment. Superior, I think, to them all, for the artful, delicate, and happy Manner of conveying Instruction.

I wish, the Author of the preceding Dialogues had been better acquainted with the Socratic Method; and I could wish, that young Students for the Ministry would adopt the Skill of this heathen Philosopher. Perhaps, no Qualification of human Growth, would more effectually contribute to render them, what St. Paul styles διδασκεις.—It seems to be the most insinuating and successful Way both to convince and instruct. Nay, it convinces the Opponent out of his own Mouth, and makes the Pupil instruct himself. It is what the TEACHER sent from GOD practised, in those incomparable Sketches of faithful Admonition and masterly Address, The Parable of the two Debtors, and of the good Samaritan. ly beneficial. Which, when properly ranged, and cemented with a tenacious Mortar, form the convenient Abodes of Peace, and build the strongest Fortifications of War: defending Us from the Inclemencies of the Weather, and the more formidable Assaults of our Enemies. These constitute the Arches of the Bridge, which convey the Traveler, with perfect Security, over the deep and rapid Stream; enabling both Man and Horse to pass, with easy Intercourse, from one Bank of the broadest River to another. These give Us the rocky Girdles of our Quays, and strengthen the Arms, the stupendous Arms of the Mole: which stretch themselves far into the Ocean; curb the Impetuosity of the Surge; and screen the helpless Bark, while tempestuous Waves, like a Savage disappointed of its Prey, foam, and roar, and rage around.

These stony Treasures are comparatively soft, while they continue in the Bowels of the Earth; but acquire an increasing Hardness, when exposed to the open Air. Was this remarkable Peculiarity reversed, what Difficulties would attend the Labours of the Mason? His Materials could not be extracted from their Bed, nor fashioned for his Purpose, without infinite Toil. Suppose his Work completed, it could not long withstand the Fury of the Elements; but insensibly mouldering, or incessantly decaying, would elude the Expectations of the Owner; perhaps, might prove an immature Grave, instead of a durable Dwelling.

Here are vast Layers of Clay. Which however contemptible in its Appearance, is abundantly more advantageous, than the Rocks of Diamond, or the Veins of Gold. This is moulded, with great Expedition and Ease, into Vessels of any Shape, and of almost every Size. Some, so delicately fine, that they compose the most elegant and ornamental Furniture, for the Teatable of a Princess. Others, so remarkably cheap, that they are ranged on the Shelves, and minister at the Meals, of the Peasant. All so perfectly neat, that no
Liquid

Liquid takes the least Taint, nor the nicest Palate any Disgust, from their cleanly Services.—The CREATOR, who never forgets and never neglects even the meanest of the People, has distributed this most necessary Kind of Earth in the greatest Abundance. It is found in every Country, almost in every Field. It lies near the Surface, and is obtained with little Labour, and with very little Expence. Thus hast Thou, O GOD, of thy Goodness, prepared for the Poor.

A Multiplicity of other Stores, are locked up by Providence, in those ample Vaults. The Key of all is committed to the Management of Industry; with free Permission to produce each particular Species, as Necessity shall demand, or Prudence direct.

Which shall we most admire, the bountiful Heart, the liberal Hand, or the All-discerning Eye of our Great CREATOR? How observable, how admirable is the Precaution, in removing these useful but cumbrous Wares, from the Superficies; and stowing them, in proper Repositories or Lumber-rooms, beneath our Feet!—Were they scattered over the Surface, the Ground would be choaked, and embarrassed with the enormous Heaps. Our Roads would be blocked up, and scarce any Portion left free for the Operations of Husbandry. Were they buried extremely deep, or sunk to the Centre of the Globe, it would cost Us immense Pains to procure them; or rather, they would be quite inaccessible.—Were they uniformly spread into a Pavement for Nature; the Trees could not strike their Roots, nor the Herbs shoot their Blades, but universal Sterility must ensue.—Whereas, by their present Disposition, they furnish Us with a Magazine of metallic, without causing any Diminution of our vegetable Treasures. Fossils of every splendid and serviceable Kind enrich the Bowels, while Bloom and Verdure embellish the Face of the Earth.

So judicious is the Arrangement of this grand Edifice!
So beneficent the Destination of its whole Furniture *! In which, all is regulated with consummate Skill, and touched into the highest Perfection. All most exactly adapted to the various Intentions of Providence, and the manifold Exigencies of Mankind. Supplying every Want, We can feel; and gratifying every Wish, We can form.

Insomuch, that the whole System affords a favourite Topic of Praise, even to those distinguished Beings, who stand on the Sea of Glass, and have the Harps of GOD in their Hands. They lift their Voice and sing, Great and marvelous are thy Works, O LORD GOD Almighty †!—And is there not Reason, my Aspasio would say, infinite Reason, for Us to join this triumphant Choir? Adding Gratitude to our Wonder, and Love to our Hallelujahs? Since all these Things are to Us, not merely Objects of Contemplation, but Sources of Accommodation: not only a majestic Spectacle, bright with the Display of our CREATOR'S Wisdom, but an ineffimable Gift, rich with the Emanations of his Goodness. The Earth hath He set before the Inhabitants of Glory, but the Earth hath he given to the Children of Men ‡.—Having given Us Ourselves; given Us a World; has He not a Right, a most unquestionable Right, to make that tender Demand? My Son, give me thy Heart §.

Shall I add another Passage? Which, viewed with any but the last Paragraph, will be like the Head of Gold, eminent and conspicuous on Feet of Iron and Clay. It is taken from the finest philosophical Oration, that ever was made. I never read it, but with a Glow of Delight, and with Impressions of Awe. It is, in short, inimitably spirited and sublime.—You think, perhaps, I act an impolitic Part, in being so lavish of my Praise; and that the Quotation must suffer, by such an aggrandizing Introduction. But I am under no Apprehensions of this Kind. Forbear to be delighted, if You can; cease to admire, if You can; when You hear OMNISCIENCE itself declaring, That, on Sight of this universal Fabric, emerging out of Nothing, THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER, AND ALL THE SONS OF GOD SHOUTED FOR JOY*.—The System was so graceful, so magnificent, and, in all Respects, so exquisitely finished; that the most accomplished Intelligences were charmed, were transported. They knew not how to express themselves on the great Occasion, but in Shouts of Exultation, and Songs of Praise. Is it possible for Imagination to conceive an Encomium, so just, so high, so beautifully noble!—I am sure, after so much Delicacy, and Majesty of Sentiment, any thing of mine must be intolerably flat; unless You will except this one Profession, that I am, with the most cordial Sincerity,

* No Notice is taken of the Ocean, in this little Roll of Nature's Wealth; because a distinct Sketch is given of that grand Receptacle and its principal Services, in Letter IX.

† Rev. xv. 3. Great and marvelous are thy Works, O LORD GOD Almighty! Just and true are thy Ways, Thou KING of Saints! The first Part seems to mean, what the inspired Writer calls The Song of Moses. The second contains, what he styles, The Song of the LAMB. The first, I should imagine, relates to the stupendous Works of Creation. The second alludes to the far more wonderful Scheme of Redemption. The former, describing the System of Nature, is recorded by Moses; the latter, comprehending the Salvation of the Saints, is accomplished by CHRIST.

My dear Aspasio,

My dear THERON,

IF You write with such a View, and from such a Motive, as are mentioned in your last, expect no more free-will Offerings from my Pen. In this one Instance, I shall think it my Duty to be covetous. I shall act the Miser out of Principle; and hardly persuade myself to part with a single Line, till it is become an undeniable Debt. I must turn your own Artifice on Yourself; and lay You under a Necessity of obliging, entertaining, and edifying me by your Correspondence.

For, give me Leave to assure You, that I am always delighted, and always improved by your Epistles. They shew me a Multitude of Beauties in the Creation, which I should not otherwise have discerned. They point out the infinite Power, the unsearchable Wisdom, and the charmingly rich Goodness of the glorious MAKER. Such a Philosophy turns all Nature into a School of Instruction, and is no contemptible Handmaid to true Religion. It makes every Object a Step, better than a golden Step, to raise both our Knowledge and our Affections to the adorable and immortal CAUSE of all. Engaged in such Speculations, We cry out with the Psalmist; O LORD our Governor, how excellent is thy Name in all the Earth *!

There is but one Circumstance wanting, to complete the Pleasure, which I receive from your Observations.—The Sun, You took Notice, is the grand Ornament of this magnificent System. That which gives Colour and Form, the comely Aspect and graceful Distinction, to all material Objects.—This the bodily

* Psa. viii. 9.

Eye perceives and acknowledges. But to the intellectual and believing Eye, the Sun of Righteousness is a much grander, and no less necessary Ornament. This adorns the Universe, and communicates a Glory to every Object; as it manifests, in the clearest brightest Manner, all the Perfections of the GODHEAD. But, to this lower World, it gives a very peculiar Lustre.—A poor Peasant reckons it the highest Honour to his Cottage, that it has once lodged a Prince, or accommodated a Monarch. With infinitely greater Reason may these elementary Abodes glory, that they have accommodated, not for a single Night, but for many Years, the LORD of Heaven. That the KING of Kings, was their Tenant even from his Birth in the Stable, to his Death on the Cross.

Yes, Theron; it is the greatest Glory of this Air, that it furnished IMMANUEL with Breath. Yonder Sun may boast, that it shone upon his Foot-steps. That Ground, cumbrous as it is, might even leap for Joy, that it bore so divine a Guest. And all the Elements may clap their Hands, that they had the Privilege of administering to his Nourishment.—As to Us Men, it is our most honourable Distinction, and should be our continual Triumph, that HE lived and died amongst Us; yea lived and died for Us. That, having united our Nature to Himself, He has carried it into the Heaven of Heavens. Where it shines, with transcendent Majesty and Beauty, as the eternal Ornament of the Creation of GOD.—Methinks, therefore, this noble and delightful Consideration, should intermingle itself with all our Contemplations, on the Works of Nature. Just as the Beams of the Sun intermingle their Light, with all the Regions of the Firmament; and diffuse their Heat over all the Face of the Earth.

While I am roving heedlessly along, your Remarks often interpose, like some intelligent faithful Monitor, who claps his Hand upon my Breast, and says; Stand still, still, and consider the wondrous Works of GOD *.—Willingly I obey the Admonition. The Christian may, with peculiar Complacency, consider this grand Theatre of Wonders, this copious Magazine of Blessings. Because conscious of an Interest in JESUS, He has a right to call them all his own †. He may look round upon present Things; He may look forward unto future Things; and, trusting in his SAVIOUR's Merit, may confidently say—"Not one only, but both these Worlds are mine. By Virtue of my REDEEMER's Righteousness, I have a Covenant-right to the necessary Accommodations of this Life; and, on the same unshaken Footing, I stand intitled to the inconceivable Felicity of a better."

Surely then it must be as pleasing an Employ, to examine the Validity of our Title to future Things, as to estimate the Value of our present Possessions. You have executed the one. Let me attempt the other.—An attempt, never unseasonable, now particularly proper. Since it is expressly required by your Pen, and suggested by the very Subject of your Epistle. Especially, as I look upon the justifying Righteousness, to be no less the peculiar Workmanship and Gift of GOD, than the Scenes of Creation and the Productions of Nature. And as I would fain have every Thing that is beautiful, every Thing that is magnificent in this visible System, serve as a Foil to our REDEEMER's Glory; to the Glory of his Person, and the Importance of that Service, which He has performed for Sinners.

You have surveyed material Nature.—It appears to be a fair and stately Mansion. For the Purposes, which it is intended to answer, completely furnished, and completely finished. Is not our SAVIOUR's Obedience, the Provision made for indigent and guilty Souls, equally rich and equally perfect?—Since this is everlasting and immutable; since the other is transient and perishable;

* Job xxxvii. 14.

† 1 Cor. iii. 2. All Things are yours; because Ye are CHRIST's, doubt-

doubtless We may argue with the judicious Apostle: *If that which is to be done away, which will soon be consigned over to Dissolution, is glorious; much more that which remaineth, whose blessed Effects continue to eternal Ages, is glorious.

We are, every One, as an unclean Thing †. Our very Nature is contaminated. Even Sanctification, though it destroys the reigning, does not wholly supercede the polluting Power of Iniquity. So that whatever Graces We exercise, whatever Duties We perform (like Rays of Light transmitted through coloured Glass, or like generous Wine streaming from a defiled Cask) they receive some improper Tinge, or contract some debasing Taint. But CHRIST was entirely free from this innate Contagion. He had no corrupt Bias upon his Will, nor any irregular Tendency in his Affections.

Being thus free from original Corruption, He did no Sin, neither was Guile found in his Mouth ‡. Not one vain Imagination passed through his Mind, nor breathed the slightest Stain upon his Thoughts. All his Words were irreproachable, and every Action blameless.—The most accomplished among the Children of Men, when surprised in some unguarded Moment, or assaulted on some weak Side, have been betrayed into Error, or hurried into Sin. Even Moses spake unadvisedly with his Lips; and Aaron, the Saint of the LORD, warped to idolatrous Practices. They were like some stagnating Lake; in which, the Dregs being subsided, the Waters appear clean; but when stirred by Temptation, or agitated by Affliction, the Sediment rises, and the Pool is discoloured. Whereas, CHRIST may be compared to a Fountain, that is all Transparency, and pure to the very Bottom: which, however shaken, however disturbed, is nothing but fluid Crystal; permanently and unalterably clear.

It was a small Thing for the blessed JESUS, to be influenced by no depraved Propensity. He was born in a State of consummate Reftitude; and from the first Moment of his existing in Flesh, was adorned with all the Beauties of Holinefs. HOLINESS TO THE LORD was infcribed, not on the Mitre, but on the Heart, and interwoven with the very Nature of our great HIGH-PRIEST. Therefore He is ftyled by the Angelic Harbinger of his Birth, THAT HOLY THING*.—In the Prophecy of Zechariah, the Dignity of our REDEEMER's Person, and the Perfection of his Obedience, are difplayed by the Similitudé of a Stone †, decorated with the moft exquisite Engraving.

For, if other Infants were holy at their first Formation, and made after the Image of GOD, this Remark had been trivial and impertinent, if not droll and burlefque; like faying with great Solemnity, “The Child fhall have a “Mouth and a Head; aye, and Eyes in the one, and Lips to the “other.”—Far be it from Us, to afcribe Superfluity of Speech, or Weaknefs of Sentiment, to the Angels of Light. ing. Wrought, not by Bezaleel or Aboliab, though divinely inspired Artists, but by the Finger of J E H O V A H Himself; and more highly finished, than it is possible for human Skill to equal, or human Thought to conceive.

The whole Tenour of our L O R D's Conduct, was a living Example of Piety and Morality, in their most extensive Branches, and most amiable Forms. Saints of the highest Attainments have fallen short of the Glory of G O D; have been far from reaching the exalted Standard of his Precepts. But C H R I S T failed in no Point; C H R I S T came short in no Degree.—We formerly observed the great Sublimity, and vast Extent of the divine Law. That, before the Tribunal of G O D, nothing will pass for Righteousness, but a complete Conformity to this most perfect Rule. From whence appears the utter Impossibility of our Justification, on Account of any Duties performed by Ourselves. How should We rejoice then to contemplate our vicarious Righteousness! That which is introduced by our condescending S U R E T Y!

J E S U S C H R I S T, the Surety for Us insolvent Wretches, made Himself subject to this Law. And though, in its Threatenings, the condemning Power of Sin is set in terrible Array; though, in its Commands, the very Perfection of Obedience is most peremptorily insisted on; He asked no Mitigation of its Severity, nor any Abatement of its Demands. “Lo I come, said He, to pay the uttermost Farthing of the Debt, to do every Jot and Tittle of the Duty.” That so his Righteousness, arising to View, from the severest Trial, by the exactest Rule, might, like Gold from the Furnace, shine with all possible Lustre.

His Righteousness flowed from those best of Principles, supreme Love to G O D, and unfeigned Affection to that Peace, which passeth all Understanding; and is represented, though faintly, by sitting under the Vine and under the Fig-tree. Where the happy Owner and his Friends; enjoy an undisturbed Repose, a refreshing Shade, and the most delicious Fruit.

Men. Beginning at these two Sources, let Us trace our LORD's Obedience, through some little Part of its illustrious Progress.—If, as We proceed, We are enabled to see that Just One, perhaps, We shall no longer be offended or surpris'd, at the first and great Command of the Gospel. This is his Commandment, which has the Precedence to all others, *that We should believe on the Name of his Son JESUS CHRIST. Not, that We should do any Thing to obtain Life, but that We should believe on his beloved SON; and live by what HE, the blessed Substitute for Sinners, has done.

His Delight in GOD was conspicuous, even from his early Years. The sacred Solemnities of the Sanctuary, were more engaging to his youthful Mind, than all the Entertainments of a Festival.—When He entered upon his Ministry, whole Nights were not too long for his copious Devotions. The lonely Retirements of the Desert, as affording Opportunity for undisturbed Communion with GOD, were more desirable to CHRIST, than the Applauses of an admiring World.

So ceaseless and transcendent was his Love to GOD, that He never sought any separate Pleasure of his own; but always did those Things, which were pleasing in his FATHER's Sight. Wist ye not, that I must be about my FATHER's Business? was the Rule of his Childhood, and the leading Maxim of his whole Life. In doing this, He took unspeakable Satisfaction: in doing this, He was absolutely indefatigable. It was his Meat and Drink, refreshing as the richest Food, delightful as royal Dainties, to finish the Work that was given Him to do †.

How wakeful and jealous was his Concern for the divine Honour! I hear the vilest Reproaches cast upon his own Character: I see the most horrid Indignities offered to his own Person. Yet no resentful Emotion reddens in his Cheek; not one angry Syllable starts from his Mouth. But when mercenary Wretches prophane the Temple, and turn the House of Prayer into a Den of Thieves; then his generous Bosom throbs with Zeal; then He makes his Tongue like a sharp Sword; and having first severely rebuked, afterwards resolutely expels, the sacrilegious Intruders.—Indeed, his Zeal for the House of the LORD and for the Purity of his Ordinances, is represented by the evangelical Historian, as eating Him up *. Like a heavenly Flame, glowing in his Breast, it sometimes fired Him with a graceful Indignation; sometimes melted Him into godly Sorrow; always broke forth and exerted itself in a Variety of vigorous Efforts; till it even consumed his vital Spirits.

So active and unremitted was the Obedience of the blessed JESUS, that the Sun did not enter upon his Morning Race with a more constant Assiduity, nor dispatch his daily Circuit with greater Expedition. And sure I am, that radiant Luminary never dispensed Beams, half so bright, or a thousandth Part so beneficial.—Short was his Span, but how grand and extensive were his Services. So grand, that they bring more Glory to GOD, than all the Administrations of Providence, and all the Phænomena of Nature. So extensive that they spread, in their gracious Efficacy, to the Ends of the Earth, and to the closing Period of Time. Nay, they will diffuse their blessed Influence even to the celestial World, and have no other Limits of their Duration than the Ages of Eternity.

Who can declare the Charity of JESUS CHRIST? It was ardent: it was unintermitted: it was unbounded. Though always serene and serious, He was never sullenly grave. His Conversation was Affability itself, and the Law of Kindness dwelt on his Lips. What fretted and chagrined the Disciples, made not the least ruffling Impression on their LORD. The rude and troublesome Behaviour of Some, the weak and impertinent Talk of Others, served only to display the unalterable Mildness of his Temper.

* John ii. 17.

Nothing could imbitter his Spirit. Even the Wicked and Unthankful were Partakers, ample Partakers of his Benevolence. Who ever applied to Him in vain? When did He dismiss any needy Petitioner, without the desired Blessing? What heavy Burden did He not unloose? What afflictive Evil did He not remove? He even took their Infirmities, and bare their Sickneses *. In all their Afflictions He was afflicted. His tender sympathizing Heart felt, as it were, the Miseries of Others; and was as ready to succour them, as if the Complaints and Sorrows had been his own.

He not only relieved, when his Aid was implored, but prevented the Expectations of the Distressed. He went about doing Good †; seeking the Afflicted, and offering his Assistance. With great Fatigue ‡, He traveled to remote Cities; with no less Condescension, He visited the meanest Villages. That All might have the Honour, and All the Benefit, of his healing Presence and heavenly Instructions.

‡ JESUS being weary with his Journey, καθεζετο υτως. John iv. 6.—υτως is thus explained by a Greek Commentator, απλως, και ως ευυχς. Our LORD sat down, without Ceremony, and without Complaint, even on the rough unfurnished Place: contented to use it, just as He found it; neither desiring a softer Seat, nor wishing for any better Accommodation.—I rather think, the Adverb refers to the preceding Adjective κεκοπιανως, which signifies a State of very great Fatigue; weakening a Person to such a Degree, that He can hardly walk with steady Steps, or even sit in an upright Attitude. The sacred Historian seems to mean, that our LORD sat in such a Posture, as bespoke the Lassitude of his Body; declared the Failure of his Spirits; and showed Him to be almost spent, with the Heat of the Day, and the Toil of Traveling. Which Circumstance gives a most beautiful Heightning to his Charity and Zeal, so generously and so successfully exerted in the following Conference.

|| Εχαρισατο το Βλεπειν, is the delicate and noble Expression of the Evangelist, Luke vii. 21. He made them a present of Sight. Silver and Gold had He none. But these were his Gifts; such were his Acts. God-like Beneficence indeed!

of Life, to the Diseased. He expelled malevolent raging Dæmons; and restored, what is more precious than the Light of the Body, or the Vigour of Constitution, the calm Possession of the intellectual Faculties.—What greatly surpassed all the preceding Blessings, He delivered the wretched Soul from the Dominion of Darkness, and from the Tyranny of Sin. He made his Followers Partakers of a divine Nature, and prepared them for a State of never-ending Bliss.

Such priceless Treasures of Wisdom and Beneficence flowed from his Tongue, and were poured from his Hands!—How different these Triumphs of Mercy, from the Trophies erected, by wild Ambition, in the bloody Field! If Heathens celebrated those mighty Butchers, who made Cities their Slaughter-house; made half the Globe their Shambles; and measured their Merit, by the Devastations they spread; how should Christians admire this heavenly BENEFACTOR, who rose upon a wretched World, with Healing under his Wings! Who distributed, far and near, the unspeakably rich Gifts of Knowledge and Holiness, of temporal Happiness and eternal Joy.

Nor were those righteous Acts his strange Work, but his repeated, his hourly, his almost incessant Employ. Sometimes, We hear him preaching in the Temple, or publishing his glad Tidings in the Synagogues. Sometimes, We see Him surrounded with listening Crouds, in a private House; or bringing forth the good Things of his Gospel on the Deck of a Ship. At other Times, He takes a Mountain for his Pulpit; the Heavens are his Sounding-board; and all that have Ears to hear, are invited to be his Audience:—“He preached Holiness, “ says an ingenious Writer, to Mens Eyes no less than “ their Ears.”—Yes; his whole Life was a continual Lecture of the sublimest Piety, of the most refined Morality, of Virtue truly divine. And which is to Us the crowning Circumstance, all this was not barely for our Imitation, but for our Justification also *. To be a lovely and inviting Model for the first ; to be a sure and immoveable Ground for the last.

Does He lay aside his solemn Office ? It is only to carry on the same generous Design in a more condescending and familiar Manner. If He meets with the Pharisees, He discovers their Errors, and reproves their Vices ; He confutes their Objections, and (in case they are not absolutely inaccessible to wise Counsel) rectifies their Mistakes. If He vouchsafes to be present at a Feast, He furnishes the richest, incomparably the richest Part of the Treat. Honey and Milk are under his Tongue †. He inculcates Lowliness of Mind on the vain ‡ ; He recommends disinterested Charity to the Selfish § ; and promises Pardon to the weeping Penitent ¶.—Is He retired from other Company, and attended only by his own Family ? His Conversation is a Sermon. Whether He sit in the inner Chamber, or travel on the public Road, or walk through the Corn-fields, He is still prosecuting his great Work : training up his Disciples for their sacred Function ; and revealing to them those Oracles of Heaven, which they may communicate to re-

* The Reader, I hope, will constantly advert to this Remark. Otherwise, He will lose, even in the Evangelists themselves, what is most evangelical. That our LORD's Life was exemplary ; was sublimely perfect ; and a Pattern for our Imitation ; all this is strictly true. But in all this, there is nothing of genuine Gospel. Here are no Glad-tidings for an impotent and ruined Creature. Only a consummate Copy for a withered Hand to transcribe.

Whereas, if We believe, that in all this CHRIST acted as our Surety and Representative : that by all this, He wrought a Righteousness, which, in the Judgment and Construction of the Law, is really ours : that GOD imputes his Righteousness to Us, and will deal with Us according to its Desert : when We believe this, We see the Light of the glorious Gospel, and enter into the unsearchable Riches of CHRIST. This gives an additional Beauty, an exquisite and inexpressible Charm to all the Actions and Virtues, all the Trials and Sufferings of our blessed Master. He was holy and righteous, not as a private Person, not for Himself alone, but for Us Sinners, and our Justification. Amen ! Hallelujah !

mote Nations, and transmit to distant Ages.—Is He retired from all Company? Even then He does not discontinue his Labours of Love, but adds the fervent Intercessions of the Night, to the charitable Toils of the Day. When all but Himself, lay sunk in soft Repose, this ADVOCATE for a guilty World, was engaged in an Exercise of Benevolence; which, though secret and unobserved as the falling Dews, was far more beneficial to our best Interests, than those pearly Drops to the languishing Herbs.

Unparalleled Benignity! He forgot his daily Food, neglected his necessary Rest, to spend and be spent for the Salvation of Mankind. Neither the Hardships of continual Self-denial, nor the Calumnies of envenomed Tongues, could divert Him from pursuing this favourite Business.—He sought none of your Honours, coveted none of your Rewards, O ye Children of Men! What He sought, what He coveted, was to wear out his Life in your Service, and lay it down for your Ransom. This was all his Desire, and this indeed He desired earnestly.—He longed (beneficent, blessed BEING!) He longed for the fatal Hour. He severely rebuked one of his Disciples, who would have dissuaded Him from going as a Volunteer to the Cross. He was even *straitened, under a kind of holy Uneasiness, till the dreadful Work was accomplished; till He was baptised with the Baptism of his Sufferings, bathed in Blood, and plunged in Death.

By this most meritorious Obedience and Death, what did He not deserve? What did He not procure? He procured those ineffimable Blessings, the Pardon of Sin, and Reconciliation with GOD. Procured them (O! Love unmerited and unmeasureable!) for Prodigals, for Traitors, for Rebels.—To this it is owing, that We, who were Enemies against GOD, may call the KING of Heaven our Father; may have free Access to Him in all our Difficulties; and may hope to reign with Him in everlasting Glory.

* Luke xii. 50. The original Word συνεχουμαι seems to express the Condition of a Person, wedged in, on every Side, by a tumultuous Throng of People. His Hands are hampered, and his Body is confined in a moving Prison: He pants for Breath, and is almost stifled in the Crowd.—How must such a One long to be disengaged from these very uneasy Circumstances! With equal Ardour did our most beneficent LORD desire those Sufferings, which were to overwhelm Him with distress, but exalt Us to Happiness; were to bathe his Limbs in Blood, but cleanse our Souls from Sin.—Οι οχλοι, says the same Historian, συνεχουσι σε και αποθλιβουσι, Luke viii. 45.

Was ever Goodness like this Goodness *? Were ever Blessings comparable to these Blessings? or purchased with such a Price?—Hide, hide your diminished Heads, ye little transitory Donations of Silver and Gold. The Riches of a thousand Mines, bestowed to feed the Hungry and clothe the Naked, are the most contemptible Trifles, if mentioned with the Charity of the teaching, the healing, the bleeding JESUS. Kingdoms given away in Alms, if viewed with this infinitely noble Beneficence, would make just the same Figure, as a Spark from the Summer-hearth, under the potent and boundless Blaze of Noon.—This is indeed Love that passeth Knowledge †.

* Codrus, it is true, devoted Himself to Death for the Athenians; and Curtius threw Himself into the yawning Gulf, for the Preservation of the Romans.—But these died, being mere Creatures, and guilty Creatures: whereas, the dying JESUS was perfectly innocent, and supremely glorious; “was very GOD, of very GOD.”—These died, only a little before their Time; they paid a Debt, for which the inevitable Law of Mortality would soon have distrained. But CHRIST died, though He had Life in Himself; He surrendered, what was wholly his own; and what none else could have taken from Him, had He not voluntarily resigned it.—These died for their valuable Friends, for their affectionate Relations, for their native Country: but CHRIST died for Slaves, for Enemies, for the Ungodly.—They died an honourable Death: but CHRIST submitted to the most ignominious Execution; CHRIST expired under the Imputation of horrid Crimes; CHRIST bled and died in the Form of an execrable Malefactor.—In all these Instances, as the Heavens are higher than the Earth, so is CHRIST’s Love greater than their Love; his Philanthropy superior to their Patriotism.

† Eph. iii. 19. This Expression, as also the principal Circumstance of Superiority hinted in the preceding Note, are founded on the Divinity of our LORD. And indeed the Expression is scarce justifiable, Amidst all these Miracles of Magnificence and of Love (any one of which would have intitled Him to universal Admiration, and everlasting Honour) how hum-ble was our SAVIOUR! He ascribes nothing to Himself. His FATHER has the Glory of all his marvelous Acts. O Humility—Virtue dear to the most High GOD, and peculiarly amiable in Men—never didst Thou appear in so charming a Dress, or so striking a Light.

At his Birth, not accommodated with an imperial Palace, or a Bed of State; but lodged in a Stable, and laid in a Manger—As He advanced in Years, not attended with a royal Equipage, or supplied from a royal Revenue; but labouring with his own Hands, and earning his Bread by the Sweat of his Brow.—When, He entered upon his ministerial Office, not the least ostentatious Parade appeared, in the Performance of all his wonderful Works. His Manner was as modest, as his Power was miraculous. So far, so very far from affecting the Acclamations of the Populace, that He often imposed Silence on those unspeakably indebted Lips, which were eager to overflow with Praise, and would fain have been the Trumpets of his Fame.

Though a Voice from Heaven proclaimed Him, The BELOVED of his Almighty FATHER; He disdained not to own the ignoble Character of the Carpenter's Son*. Though PRINCE of the Kings of the Earth, He condescended to wash the Feet of mean Fishermen, and to be in this World, as One that serveth †. Though PROPRIETOR of the Universe, and LORD of all, He was content to be more destitute than the

the Assertion is hardly true, upon any other Supposition. A Creature dying for a Creature, is, though great, yet not incomprehensible Goodness. But, when We view the Sufferings of CHRIST, and the Blessings of Redemption surrounded with all the Splendor of the DEITY; they dazzle our Understanding, and fill Us with holy Astonishment. They appear to be the Effects of a Love, never to be spoke of but in the Language of Wonder, never to be thought of but with an Extasy of Delight.

Grandeur, We find, is apt to beget Expectations of superior Regard. Consequently, gives a keener Edge to every Affront, and renders the Mind more tenderly sensible of every Disrespect. But our LORD's Meekness was as great as his Dignity; and that, through a Series of such unsufferable Provocations, as were equaled by nothing, but the transcendent Perfections of his Person, and the Sweetness of his forgiving Grace.

When ridiculed and affronted, He calmly bore, and kindly overlooked the Insult.—When contradicted by petulant and presumptuous Sinners, He endured, with the utmost Serenity of Temper, their unreasonable Cavils, and their obstinate Perverseness.—When his Invitations, his most endearing Invitations, were ungratefully and stubbornly rejected; instead of remitting, He renewed them; and, with still warmer Affection, importuned his Hearers, not to forego their own Felicity.—When all the winning Arts of Persuasion were ineffectual, He added his Tears to his slighted Intreaties; and lamented as a Brother, when scornfully repulsed as a Teacher.

When his bloody Sweat tinged the Stones; when his bitter Cries pierced the Clouds, and were enough to awaken the very Rocks into Compassion; his Disciples slept; stupidly and repeatedly slept. Did their divine but slighted MASTER resent the Unkindness? Did he refuse to admit an Excuse for their Disobedience and Neglect? Yea, He made their Excuse; and that the most tender and gracious imaginable; The Spirit is willing, but the Flesh is weak †. Admirable, matchless Candour;—When his Enemies had nailed Him to the Cross, as the basest Slave, and most flagitious Malefactor; when they were glutting their Malice, with his Sorrows, his Torments, and his Blood; nay, when they spared not to insult and revile Him, even in his last expiring Agonies; far, very far from being exasperated, this HERO of Heaven repaid all their Contempt and Barbarity, with the most fervent Supplications in their Behalf. FATHER, forgive them, was his Prayer: for, they know not what they do *, was his Plea. Divine, adorable Compassion!

Nor was his Resignation less exemplary than his Meekness. He went out to meet Afflictions, when they came in his FATHER's Name, and commissioned from his FATHER's Hand. He gave, without the least Reluctance, his Back to the Smitters †, and hid not his Face from Shame and Spitting. A famous Poet has celebrated The Man of Ross: another ingenious Pen has celebrated The Man of Bath: O! that We may admire, extol, and magnify The MAN of Nazareth! O! that every Tongue may speak of his Honour, till Heaven and Earth resound with his Praise.—Here, Ye Writers of Genius, here is a Theme worthy of your finest Perceptions, and more than equal to your most enlarged Capacities. GOD also, who is the Supreme Standard and unerring Judge of Excellency, bore his Testimony to our blessed MEDIATOR. He spoke it once, yea, twice, and with a Voice from Heaven. In the Constitution of the material World, when it came from the CREATOR's Hand, Omniscience itself could discern no Flaw. Neither could Justice itself, upon the strictest Enquiry, discover any Failure in the Obedience of our SURETY. As therefore, it was said, concerning the Works of Creation, They are all very good †; So it was said, and by the same Almighty MAJESTY, concerning the SAVIOUR of Sinners, In Him I am well pleased ‡.

This, for aught I know, is the capital Sentence in the Book of GOD. As no Truth is of greater or of equal Importance, so none was ever confirmed by Witnesses so unexceptionable, and distinguished with Circumstances so august.—Let Us, for a Moment, examine the Circumstances. They are pertinent to our Subject. They will strike Us with Wonder; and, I hope, fill Us with Comfort.—You, Theron; are an Admirer of sublime Sentiments, and grand Scenery. bered.—The Heavens were opened. Once the great and wide Sea was divided, and the Foundations of the World were discovered. Now the incomparably wider Expanse of the Skies is rent asunder, and the Realms of Glory are disclosed to View.—And are the crystal Gates unfolded? Do the everlasting Doors lift up their Heads? What then, or whom may We expect to see?

Shall We see Angels and Arch-angels coming down, before JESUS of Nazareth, to pay Him Homage, and do Him Service? With this Retinue He will, in due Time, appear. But this is far beneath the Dignity of the present Occasion.—Shall We see Moses the great Lawgiver, who conversed with GOD Face to Face, as a Man converseth with his Friend? Shall We see Elijah the venerable Prophet, who entered the Regions of Life and Immortality, without passing through the Vale of Death?—These illustrious Saints will, ere long, attend on the holy Mount, and lay all their Honours at the Feet of their LORD.—But now, ONE infinitely greater than Moses and Elijah, ONE infinitely superior to all the heavenly Hosts, even the divine SPIRIT descends, alights, and abides upon JESUS. To dignify, beyond Compare, his Person; and give inestimable Merit to all his Actions.

This, though great and marvelous, is not the Whole of the magnificent Attestation. A Voice, not from the uttermost Parts of the Earth, but a Voice from the Heaven of Heavens is heard. That Voice, which spoke on Sinai, and the Mountains trembled; that Voice, which spoke at the Beginning, and the World was made; that Voice speaks at our SAVIOUR's Baptism.—And what is the Purport of the Speech? We have Reason to listen most attentively. Our All depends upon the Verdict. If any Iniquity, or any Miscarriage, be chargeable on this our Surety, We are undone irrecoverably. That Voice, after a general Survey of Mankind, once declared; There is None righteous, no, not One. But, to our inexpressible Consolation it proclaims concerning JESUS CHRIST, THIS IS MY BE-LOVED

LOVED SON, IN WHOM I AM WELL PLEASED.

HE, who dwells in Light inaccessible, declares concerning CHRIST; This is not, my Creature, but My Son. Possessed of the same divine Nature, and of all my incommunicable Attributes.—He is my beloved Son. Who lay in my Bosom from Eternity, and is the one adequate Object of my infinite Affection. The highest Angels are too low; fallen Man is too mean; and JESUS alone is my Beloved.—In Him I am pleased; in Him I am well pleased. He is the Center of my Approbation. On Him all my Complacency rests. And all other Beings find Favour in my Sight, only as they are interested in Him, or stand related to Him.

After hearing this Voice from the excellent Glory, can there be any Cause to wonder, can We have any Ground to complain, that there is no other Recommendation to the supreme MAJESTY, than the Person and Righteousness of CHRIST? No Words, no Works, no Characters, but those which have been stamped with the Broad-seal of Heaven, as truly divine; and are the one grand Object of GOD's everlasting Good-will and ineffable Delight.

You took Notice, and very justly, how much the Productions of Nature exceed and eclipse the Attempts of Art. We are pleased with the correct and graceful Performances of the Painter. But do they equal the Native Blush of the Rose, or the artless Glow of a Pea-blossom? We are charmed with a fine Piece of Sculpture or Enameling. But is either of them fit to be compared with the natural Polish, of a thousand Shells which are formed in the Ocean, or of a thousand Seeds which spring from the Earth? of Daniel; the active Spirit of Joshua, and the passive Graces of Jeremiah. But what Proportion, put them all together—what Proportion do they all bear to HIS Obedience, who is gone into Heaven, Angels and Authorities and Powers being made subject unto Him *? Who is called the HOLY ONE and the Just †; not only by way of Emphasis, but by way of Exclusion. Because, no Person is worthy of the Character, no Duties deserve to be mentioned, when CHRIST and his Righteousness—his only perfect Righteousness—are under Consideration.

If We talk of Merit, what Merit must there be in such immaculate Sanctity of Soul, and such exemplary Integrity of Conduct: such fervent Zeal for GOD, and such compassionate Good-will to Man; such consummate Worthiness, and extensive Usefulness? Such as were utterly unknown before; have been absolutely unequalled since; and never will, or can be paralleled, throughout all Ages!—O my Theron! What is the Drop of a Bucket to the unfathomable Waves of the Ocean? What is a Grain of Sand to the unmeasurable Dimensions of the Universe? What is an Hour or a Moment to the endless Revolutions of Eternity? Such are all human Endowments, and all human Attainments, compared with HIS Righteousness, who is fairer than the Children of Men ‡; the chiefest among ten thousand §; and who received not the SPIRIT by Measure §.

And is this Righteousness designed for Us? Is this to be our Wedding-dress, this our beautiful Array, when We enter the Regions of Eternity? Unspeakable Privilege!—Is this what GOD has provided to supply, more than supply our Loss in Adam! Boundless Benignity!—Shall We be treated by the Judge of the World, as if We had performed all this unfinning and perfect Obedience? Well might the Prophet cry out, like One lost in Astonishment, How great is his Goodness!—How great indeed! Since all that the LORD JESUS did and suffered, was done and suffered, for Us Men and our Salvation. *Is imputed unto Us for Righteousness; and is the Cause, the sole but infinitely sufficient Cause, of our Justification.

Is not your Heart enamoured, my dear Theron, with a View of this incomprehensibly rich Grace? What so excellent, what so comfortable, what so desirable, as this Gift of a SAVIOUR's Righteousness? Though delineated by this feeble Pen, methinks, it has Dignity and Glory enough, to captivate our Hearts and fire our Affections: fire them with ardent and inextinguishable Desires after a personal Interest and Propriety in it.—O! may the Eternal SPIRIT reveal our REDEEMER's Righteousness, in all its heavenly Beauty and divine Lustre! Then, I am persuaded, We shall esteem it above every Thing; We shall regard it as the One Thing needful; We shall count all Things in comparison of it, worthless as the Chaff, and empty as the Wind.

To a fallen and immortal Soul, every Thing else is empty as the Wind. But here Sinners may suck, and be satisfied with this Breast of Consolation: yea, Millions and Thousands of Millions may milk out, and be delighted with the Abundance of its Glory †.—Here we shall find the Doctrine of Supererogation, no longer a Chimera, but a delightful Reality. Here indeed is an immense Surplusage, an inexhaustible Fund of Merit †, sufficient to enrich

* The Words in the Italic Character, are a Testimony from the celebrated Mr. HOOPER, Eccles. Pol. B. V.

† Isa. lxvi. 11. This Comparison, I think, is peculiarly apposite and significant. The Breasts are prepared for the Infant, before He sees the Light. The delicious Nourishment which they afford, is not, in any Degree, of his own providing. He has no other Agency in the Case, than to imbibe the Liquor, and enjoy the Refreshment. Thus it is with regard to Sinners, and the Righteousness of their SAVIOUR, which procures their Pardon and Acceptance; from whence proceeds their Sanctification, and every spiritual Blessing.

‡ Yet here is no rich Fund (as a learned Writer asserts) no Fund at all, for the Pope's Treasury of meritorious supererogating Actions: unless enrich a whole World of indigent and miserable Creatures. Sufficient to make their Cup run over with a superabundant Fulness of Peace and Joy, so long as Time shall last, and when Time shall be no more. For, to use the Apostle's weighty Argument, *If by one Man's Offence, Death reigned by one; much more they which receive Abundance of Grace, and of the Gift of Righteousness, shall reign in Life by one, ¶ JESUS CHRIST. Is it reasonable, that We should ascribe more Power to Adam, a mere Man, in making Us Sinners; than to CHRIST, the GOD-Man, in making Us righteous? No verily. If one Offence, committed by one Man, made all his Posterity chargeable with Guilt, and liable to Death, MUCH MORE shall the manifold Instances of our Divine REDEEMER's Obedience, absolve all his People from Condemnation and Punishment, and intitle them to the Honours and Joys of Immortality.

Think not, that what I have written, is the Language of Rant. It is a Paraphrase, though I must confess, but a scanty Paraphrase, on David's Practice and David's Faith. My Mouth shall shew forth thy Righteousness and thy Salvation all the Day †, for I know not the Numbers

CHRIST and the Pope are to be placed upon the same Footing; unless the ineffably excellent Actions of JEHOVAH our Righteousness, and the miserably defective Duties of a Man like Ourselves, are to be deemed equally valuable.—Since this will hardly be admitted by Protestants; I believe, Aspasio may safely call the Obedience of CHRIST, The true Supererogation; as Mr. Ambrose has called the Blood of CHRIST, The true Purgatory.

* Rom. v. 17.

† Psal. lxxi. 15. I cannot but observe, that Righteousness and Salvation are frequently connected, by the Author of the Psalms, and by the Prophet Isaiab. In order to intimate, that the one, is founded on the other; the latter derives its Origin from the former; there can be no Salvation without a Righteousness, a real, proper, Law-fulfilling Righteousness.—At the same Time, I am sensible, that the Word Righteousness may signify GOD's Goodness in making, and Faithfulness in performing, his Promises unto David. Salvation may likewise denote the Delivery of that afflicted Hero from all his Persecutors, and his Establishment on the Throne of Israel.

Numbers thereof. The super-eminent Righteousness of CHRIST, and the great Salvation obtained thereby, He declares, shall be the chosen, the principal Subject of his Discourse. Not on a Sabbath only, but on every Day of the Week, of the Year, of his Life. Not barely at the stated Returns of solemn Devotion, but on every common Occasion; in every social Interview, all the Day long.—Why will He thus dwell perpetually, and invariably dwell, on this darling Theme? Because, He knew not the Numbers thereof. It is impossible to measure the Value, or exhaust the Fulness of these Blessings. The Righteousness is unspeakable, the Salvation is everlasting. To compute the Duration of the One, Numbers fail; to describe the Excellency of the other, Words are at a Loss.

This will appear in a clearer Light, if to the Perfection of his Obedience, We add the Majesty of our SAVIOUR's Person. A proper Subject, for some future Letter.—In the mean Time, let me desire my Friend, the Friend of my Bosom, to contemplate our LORD JESUS under that lovely and august Character, GLORIOUS

But if We should confine the Sense within these narrow Limits, how comfortless the Favour even to David Himself, considered as an immortal Being! How much more insignificant to Us and others, on whom the Ends of the World are come! Therefore, how unworthy of that infinite GOD, who is the Father of the Spirits of all Flesh; who sees, at one View, whatever is, or has been, or shall exist; who, when He speaks, speaks to all his Children, in every Period of Time, and in every Nation under Heaven. (See Verse 18.) As much as a Tutor, when delivering his Lectures, addresses Himself to all his Pupils, whether they sit at his Right-hand or his left, before him, or on every Side.

Whereas, if Righteousness signifies the meritorious Obedience of CHRIST, and Salvation implies the Benefits of his Redemption, the Sense is no longer shriveled, impoverished, and mean; but rich, august, and magnificent. It pours Consolation among all People, Kindreds, and Tongues. It is worthy of that GOD, who seeth the Things, and regardeth the Persons, which are not as though they were. It comports exactly with that Revelation, in which CHRIST is the Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the End, the Sum total.

This Note is already too long; otherwise I should gratify my Inclination, and give a Sanction to my Sentiment, by transcribing Virringa's Exposition of Ijai. xlv. 8.

IN HOLINESS*. And for my Part, I will not cease to pray, that a Sense of this supereminently grand and precious Righteousness may be written on my Theron's Heart.—On those living Tables, may it be like Figures cut on a Rock of solid Marble, or inscribed on the Bark of a growing Tree: be lasting in its Duration as the former, and spreading in its Influence as the latter. It will then be a sure Proof, that his name is written in the Book of Life; and it shall then be a most pleasing Pattern for

the Gratitude, and the Friendship, of his ASPASIO.

P.S. You give a most astonishing Account of the Pressure of the Atmosphere. Astonishing indeed! That we should be continually surrounded, continually overwhelmed, with such a Load of Air; quite dreadful to think upon! Yet not be crushed to death, no, nor be sensible of the least Weight.—This, I think, may serve to represent the State of a Sinner, unawakened from carnal Security. Loads, more than mountainous Loads of Guilt, are upon his Soul, and He perceives not the Burden. For this Reason, He is under no Apprehensions of the Vengeance and fiery Indignation, which He deserves; He has no superlative Esteem for the Atonement and Merits of the REDEEMER, which alone can deliver Him from the Wrath to come. But, if once his Conscience feels, what his Lips, perhaps, have often repeated; “We do earnestly repent Us of these our Misdoings; the Remembrance of them is grievous unto Us, the Burden of them is intolerable;”

* Exod. xv. 11.

then how will He prize such a Text: The LORD laid on CHRIST the Iniquity of Us all! How will He long for an Interest in the LAMB of GOD, which taketh away the Sin of the World! Then, that JESUS who has finished the Transgression, and brought in everlasting Righteousness, will be all his Salvation, and all his Desire.

ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

I HAVE just been reading that exquisitely fine Piece of sacred History, The Life of Joseph.—A History—illuminated with a Variety of surprising Incidents, and unexpected Revolutions—ennobled with the most heroic Instances of triumphant Virtue, both amidst the Allurements of Temptation, and under the Pressures of Affliction—animated with such tender and pathetic, such melting and alarming Touches of natural Eloquence, as every Reader must feel, and every true Critic will admire.

When I came to that remarkable Injunction, with which the generous Viceroy dismissed his Brethren; *Ye shall tell my Father of all my Glory in Egypt—I paused—I pondered—I was struck. Certainly, this was enjoined, not by way of Ostentation; but on Account of the Pleasure, which, He knew, it would yield the good old Patriarch.—Was it some kind prompting Angel, or the Voice of Gratitude and Devotion, that whispered in my Ear? “Should not the Children of Men likewise

* Gen. xlv. 13.

“ tell one another of *all the Glory, which their RE-“ DEEMER possesses in Heaven and on Earth? Will “ not this afford them the sublimest Pleasure Here, and “ be a Source of the most refined Satisfaction for ever
 “ and ever?”

Though I had almost determined to write no more, till You could make a Demand, upon the Foot of Value received; willingly I recede from my intended Resolution, and obey this pleasing Hint.—But who can declare the noble Acts of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, or shew forth all his Praise?—However, if I may but lisp out his adorable Name, and present my Friend with a Glimpse, or a broken View of his divine Perfections, even this will be desirable and delightful. Far more desirable and delightful, than to behold Rome in its Magnificence, St. Paul in the Pulpit, or King Solomon on his Throne †.

Let me take the Lark for my Pattern; which, as I was lately returning from an Evening Ramble, attracted my Observation.—Warbling her CREATOR’s Praise, she mounted in the serene Sky. Still she warbled, and still she mounted, as though she meant to carry her Tribute of Harmony unto the very Gates of Heaven. Having reached at last, her highest Elevation, and perceiving Herself at an immense Distance from the starry

* To see the Glory of CHRIST, is the grand Blessing, which our LORD solicits and demands for his Disciples, in his last solemn Intercession, John xvii. 24. It is that, which will complete the Blessedness of Heaven; and fill its Inhabitants with Joy unspeakable and glorious. Surely, then, We should endeavour to anticipate, in some Degree, that celestial Bliss; and habituate our Souls to this sacred Exercise, which will be our Business and our Reward to endless Ages.

Should the Reader desire Assistance in this important Work, I would refer Him to a little Treatise of Dr. Owen’s, intitled, Meditations on the Glory of CHRIST,—’Tis little in Size, not so in Value. Was I to speak of it, in the classical Style, I should call it aureus, gemmeus, mellitus. But I would rather say, it is richly replenished with that Unction from the HOLY ONE, which tends to enlighten the Eyes, and cheer the Heart; which sweetens the Enjoyments of Life, softens the Horrors of Death, and prepares for the Fruitions of Eternity.

† These, if I remember right, are the three Things, which St. Augustine declared would, beyond all others, most eminently gratify his Curiosity.

Regions, she dropped on a sudden to the Earth; and discontinued, at once, both to sing and to soar. Now the Morning appears, and is awakening the World, our little Songster retunes her Throat, and re-exerts her Wings.—As I have endeavoured, very imperfectly endeavoured, to strike out a shadowy Draught of our LORD's complete Obedience; I would, though absolutely unequal to the Task, once more resume my Pen, and attempt—what would I attempt?—nothing like a Display, but only a faint Sketch of his personal Dignity. Such as may just serve to demonstrate, that the Man of Nazareth is the GOD of Heaven.

First let me observe, that for some Time past, We have been visited with the most uncomfortable Weather, dewless Nights, and sultry Days. The Firmament was more like a glowing Furnace, than the Region of refreshing Rain.—The Earth lay parched with Thirst, and chapped with Heat. The Meadows were drained of their Humidity, and all the Flowers hung their fading Heads.—The Streams, which used to flow parallel with the verdant Margin, abandoned their Banks. Diminished and discoloured, they sunk to the very Bottom of their oozy Channels.—Nature in general seemed to be resigning the “Robe of Beauty, for the Garment of Heaviness.” Drought was in all our Borders; and Famine, We feared, was not far behind.—Clouds of Dust, obscured the Air; tarnished the Hedges; and almost smothered the Traveller. But not one Cloud of fleecy White appeared, to variegate the blue Expanse, or give Us Hopes of a reviving Shower*.

* At such a Juncture, how pertinent is the Question proposed by the Almighty MAJESTY? Job xxxviii. 37, 38. Who can number, muster or arrange, the Clouds in Wisdom? So as to have them ready at Hand on any Emergency. And who can empty those Bottles of Heaven, in copious but seasonable Effusions upon the Earth? When, as in the Case described above, the Dust of the Roads is attenuated into Powder בצקת למוצק and the Clods of the Valley are glued fast together דבקו

It reminded me of that awful Threatening, denounced by Moses on a wicked People; *The Heaven, that is over thy Head, shall be Brass; and the Earth, that is under Thee, shall be Iron.—It made me apprehensive of that terrible State, which the Prophet so emphatically describes; The Field is wasted, and the Land mourneth. The Seed is rotten under the Clods, and the Harvest perisheth. The Garners are laid desolate, and the Barns are broken down.—The new Wine is dried up; the Oil languisheth; and all the Trees of the Field are withered.—How do the Beasts groan! The Herds of Cattle are perplexed. Yea, the Flocks of Sheep are made desolate. Because the Rivers of Waters are dried up, and the Fire hath devoured the Pastures of the Wilderness †.—But blessed be the Divine PROVIDENCE, our Fears are vanished, and a most joyful Change has taken place. The LORD hath sent a gracious Rain upon his Inheritance, and refreshed it when it was weary †.

Yesterday in the Afternoon, the Wind shifting to the South, roused the dormant Clouds, and brought some of those agreeable Strangers on its Wings.—At first, they came sailing in small, and thin, and scattered Par-

* Deut. xxviii. 23.

† Joel i. 10, &c.

† Psal. lxxviii. 9. The Original is remarkably bold, beautiful, and expressive. It expresses not only the Thing done, but the Manner of doing it; not barely the Act of sending Rain, but that very peculiar Manner, in which the Blessing is sent. So that the Reader is both informed of the Event, and has it exhibited, as it were, in a Picture before their Eyes,

The word signifies to distil, as the Honey-comb drops its delicious Juices. It signifies also to move to and fro, from one Side to another, as the Priest moved the Wave-offering towards the four Corners of Heaven.—תניף Thou shakest out, or causest to distil: denoting the gentle and gradual Fall. Thou wavest or dispersest abroad: denoting the wide, the universal Distribution, of this most valuable Gift.—גשם גורבון Rain of Liberalities. Which implies the most copious Effusion, and the most extensive Benefits. The Effusion so copious, that there is enough to supply every Spot; to saturate every Soil; and sink to the very Roots of every Vegetable. The Benefits so extensive, that they gladden every Animal; they cherish every Plant; they fertilize and exhilarate all Nature.—They are therefore, what no Language so happily expresses as the Hebrew, Rain of Liberalities.

ties. Anon, the flying Squadrons in larger Detachments, more closely wedged, and more deeply laden. Till at last, the great Rendezvous compleated, they formed into a Body of such Depth, and extended their Wings with such a Sweep, as darkened the Sun, and overspread the whole Hemisphere.

Just at the Close of the Day, the Gales which escorted the spongy Treasures, retired; and resigned their Charge to the Disposal of a profound Calm. Not a Breeze shook the most tremulous Leaf. Not a Curl ruffled the smooth expansive Lake. All things were still, as in attentive Expectation. The Ruffet Heath, and the slippery Lawn, seemed to gasp after the hovering Moisture. Nature, with all her suppliant Tribes, in expressive pleading Silence, solicited the falling Fruitfulness. Nor pleaded long, nor solicited in vain.

The Showers, gentle, soft, and balmy, descend. The Vessels of Heaven unload their precious Freight, and enrich the impoverished Glebe. The liquid Sweetness, which is incomparably more beneficial than trickling Silver, distils. Through all the Night, it distils; and cools the torrid Air; and revives the languishing Earth; and cherishes every living Thing.

Now the Sun, mild and refulgent, issues through the Portals of the East. Pleased, as it were, to have emerged from the late Abyss of Darkness, He looks abroad with peculiar Gaiety, and the most engaging Splendors. He looks through the disburdened Air, and finds a gladdened World, that wants nothing but his all-bearing Beams, to render its Satisfaction complete.

*The Glory comes!—Hail to thy rising Ray,
Great Lamp of Light, and second Source of Day!
Who robes the World, each nipping Gale remove,
Treat every Sense, and beam creating Love*.*

* These beautiful Lines are borrowed from the SEA-PIECE, Canto IV. A narrative, philosophical, and descriptive Poem, written by my ingenious Friend, Dr. Kirkpatrick.

At his auspicious Approach, the freshened Mountains lift their Heads, and smile. The Garden opens its aromatic Stores; and breathes, as from a fuming Altar, Balm to the Smell, and Incense to the Skies. The little Hills, crowned with springing Plenty, clap their Hands on every Side. The moistened Plains, and irriguous Valleys, laugh and sing. While their Waters, lately exhausted, again are made deep, and *their Rivers run like Oil.

The whole Earth, saturated with the Bounty of Heaven, and flushed with humid Life, wears a thousand Marks of Gratitude and Complacency. Washed by the copious Rain, how bright and vivid is the universal Verdure! The green Carpet below, may almost vie with the blue Canopy above †.—The Forest, and every Tree, burnish their Colours, and array themselves in their finest Apparel. Which as on a Day of general Festivity, is delicately decked with Gems.—From every Pasture, and from all the Grove, the Voice of Pleasure and of Melody resounds. While the officious Zephyrs waft the floating Harmony, blended with native Perfumes; gently waft them to the Senses, and touch the very Soul with Transport.

Could there be a more brilliant Appearance, or more exuberant Demonstrations of Joy, even to celebrate the Anniversary of Nature's Birth? With what admirable Propriety has the Psalmist compared yonder orient Sun, in all his sparkling Grandeur, to a young exulting Bridegroom ‡; who comes forth, with every heightened Ornament, from his Chamber, to shew Himself in the most distinguished Period of his Life, and to receive the Blessing which consummates his Happiness!

This most charming and equally majestic Scene, recalls to my Memory that fine Description of the MESSIAH, extant in the last lovely Strains of the Israelitish

* Ezek. xxxii. 14.

*Swan.—HE shall be welcome and salutary as the Light of the Morning; when the Sun ariseth, to chase the malignant Shades, and pour Day through the reviving World. He shall be as the Light of a Morning, that is most serenely fair; without either Storms to disturb, or Clouds to obscure the glorious, the delightful Dawn. Yea, his Appearance shall be more beautiful, and his Influences more beneficial † than the clear Shining of that grand Luminary, after a Night of settled Gloom, and Showers of incessant Rain. When his Beams shed animating Warmth, and vital Lustre, on the tender Grass impearled with Dews, and on all the green Treasures of the teeming Earth.

As we have already contemplated the blessed JESUS, under the amiable Character of the JUST

* Israelitish Swan—That is, David, so called by Aspasio, in Allusion to those well-known Lines of the Poet :

Multa Dircaeum lævat Aura Cygnum.

And not without a Reference to the popular Notion, that the Swan sings the most melodious Notes in its last Moments. Fuit hæc facundi Senis quasi Cygnea Vox. TULLY.

† More beautiful, more beneficial, than the clear shining, 2 Sam. xxiii. 4.—Thus We have ventured to translate, or rather to paraphrase, the Words מוֹנֵה. That the Prefix מ often occurs in the comparative Acceptation, and conveys the Idea of Pre-eminence, is plain from Psal. xix. 10. Where our inspired Author, quite ravished with the Love of the sacred Oracles, declares; They are desirable beyond Gold, even beyond much fine Gold; they are sweet beyond Honey, and the Drop-pings of the Honey-comb.—That the Adjective, which should express this Pre-eminence, is sometimes omitted, and to be supplied from the Context, is equally plain from Isai. x. 10. Where the Affyrian Monarch, boasting of his Conquests, says; As my Hand hath subdued the Kingdoms of the Idols, even those whose graven Images מִירוּשָׁלַם מִסִּלְיָהָם were more reputable and excellent than those of Jerusalem.

If this Sense is admitted, We have a fine Comparison, and a grand Advance upon it. Displaying with the utmost Strength of Sentiment and Imagery—at the same Time acknowledging the Insufficiency of the strongest Sentiments and brightest Image, adequately to display the Glory of CHRIST's Kingdom, the Benignity of his Administration, and the Blessings of his Grace. Should the Translation appear too free and daring, and not approve itself to the exact Critic; the Sense, however, is unquestionably just: agreeable to the whole Tenour of Scripture; and can want no Recommendation to the intelligent Christian.

ONE; the foregoing Passage of Scripture exhibits Him to our Faith, in the more majestic Quality of THE LORD OF GLORY.—Or rather, unites the two grand Peculiarities, which render Him unparalleled in his personal, and all-sufficient in his mediatorial Capacity.

Great, unspeakably great and glorious would our SAVIOUR appear; if We had no other Manifestations of his Excellency, than those which preceded his mysterious Incarnation.—In the antient Scriptures, He stands characterized, as the supreme Object of GOD's ineffable Complacency; vested with a Glory, prior to the Birth of Time, or the Existence of Things; even *the Glory, which He had with the FATHER, before the World was.—He is every where represented, as the ultimate Desire, and the only Hope, of all the Ends of the Earth; the Seed of inestimable and universal Importance, in whom all Nations should be blessed.—In those royal, or rather divine Acts and Monuments, He is recognized, as The RULER of GOD's People: Whose Dominion is an everlasting Dominion, and his Kingdom from Generation to Generation.—How august, how venerable, is this SOVEREIGN! Since it was the highest Honour of the most eminent Saints, and renowned Monarchs †, to act as his Harbingers. The Splendor of the Temple, the Richness of its Ornaments, and the Solemnity of its Services, were the Ensigns of his Grandeur; were his sacred Regalia, intended to usher Him into the World with becoming State.

Sacrifices, instituted and used, almost from the Foundation of the World, give Us very exalted Apprehen-

Should We see Galleries built, Avenues opened, Passages hung with Scarlet and Embroidery, in order to introduce some great Personage to the Observation of the Public. If these Preparations had been made, with incessant Affiduity, for four Months only, how high an Idea should We form, concerning the expected Stranger? What then must We think of that MESSIAH; the Dignity of his Person, and the Greatness of his Work? For whose Coming Preparation was made by a grand Train of Sacrifices and costly Rites, through the long, long Space of four thousand Years? On whom the Attention of Mankind was fixed, ever since the Fall of Adam; and for whom was all the Expectation of the People of GOD, in every Age of the World.—Should We not think Him worthy to be (what the Jews reckoned their Temple and Sacrifices) the Excellency of our Strength; the Joy of our Glory; and the Desire of our Eyes * ?

Every inspired Prophet was his Herald; deputed to blazon his Perfections, or foretel his Coming; to give Us a Pourtrait of his Person, a Display of his Offices, or a Detail of his Benefits. Let Us hear one, speaking the Sentiments of all.—GOD the SAVIOUR came from Teman, and the HOLY ONE from Mount Paran. His Glory covered the Heavens, and the Earth was full of his Praise †. † See Habak. iii. The greatest Part of which sublime Ode, refers to the wonderful Works, recorded by Moses and Jeshua. It seems, especially in the Exordium, to be an Imitation of that majestic Description, with which the Jewish Legislator introduces his last solemn Benediction, Deut. xxxiii.—These Works are by Aspasio ascribed to CHRIST. And, I think, it is demonstrably certain, that JESUS CHRIST is the JEHOVAH celebrated in the Books of Moses, and in the Writings of the Prophets. It is CHRIST, who dwelt in the burning Bush, and walked in the burning fiery Furnace. It is CHRIST, who wrought the Miracles in Egypt, and the Wonders in the Field of Zaan. The temporal Deliverer, and the eternal REDEEMER of Israel, are one and the same.—He is that Captain of the Hosts of the LORD, who gave the Nations as Dust to their Sword, and Lightnings waved his Banners. Before Him went the Pestilence, for the Destruction of his Enemies; but for the Deliverance of Ijrael, He rode upon his Horses and Chariots of Salvation. The Mountains saw Him, and they trembled; the everlasting Hills, and they bowed their Heads. The Abyss uttered her Voice, and acknowledged his Sovereignty through her deepest Caverns; the *towering Surges lifted up their Hands, and remained in a suspended Posture, while his People passed through their opening Lines.—Indeed, both Depth, and Height, and every Creature, have paid Him Homage, and done Him Service. And shall not We, my dear Theron, submit to his Righteousness? Submit! Shall We not embrace it; rely on it; and, with joyful Hearts, with triumphant Tongues, say, There is none, there is nothing, like it †.

Does not all Mankind agree to estimate the Merit of the Practice, according to the Dignity of the Person? If a Neighbour of inferior Rank, visit some poor af-

Heb. xii. 26.*

It may be a delightful and profitable Employ, to examine the Harmony of the Old and New Testament, on this grandest of all Truths. We shall discover many infallible Proofs of our LORD's divine Nature, if We compare the Passages one with another. Observing how the Things, which, by the Apostles, are most expressly ascribed to CHRIST; are celebrated, by the Prophets, as the peculiar Attributes, incommunicable Perfections, of the only true GOD.—By Way of Sample, I take Leave to select the following Texts; each associated with his Mate, or corresponding Portion of Scripture. *Matt. iii. 3. licted Wretch, in a coarse Garret, and on a tattered Bed; it is no very extraordinary Favour. But if a Lady of the first Distinction, or a Nobleman of the highest Order, perform the same Office: it is a much more remarkable, a much more admired Instance of Self-denying Charity. On the Foot of this Calculation, to what super eminent Height will the Worthiness of our LORD's Obedience rise! It will rise, like some magnificent Edifice, whose Basis rests upon the Center; whose Dimensions fill the Hemisphere; and whose Turrets glitter in the Sky. Or rather, it will extend itself to Immensity; where Length, and Breadth, and all Dimensions are lost. Especially, if We consider—The Names, He bears; and the Honours, He receives—the Works, He has done; and those mightier Works, He is appointed to do.

The Names, He bears.—The Title, by which JESUS of Nazareth is distinguished in the heavenly World; the Name written on his Vesture, and on his Thigh, is KING of Kings, and LORD of Lords *. —The Description, which the incomprehensible JEHOVAH gives of the Surety for sinful Men, runs in this exalted Strain; The Man that is MY FELLOW †. Which the Apostle explains, in that memorable and majestic Clause; He thought it no Robbery to be equal with GOD ‡.—The HOLY GHOST, speaking of the † Zech. xiii. 7. עִמִּי Contribulis vel Coequalis. My Fellow, or my Equal.—The original Expression occurs no where, but in this Verse of Zechariah, and in the Book of Leviticus. In one Text it is explained by Brother, or Partaker of the same Nature. In every other Place, I believe, it will be found to signify, not barely a Neighbour, but an Equal; one who stands upon the same Level, with regard to the Claims of Equity, and the common Rights of Life.—In either Sense, it militates strongly for the Divinity of our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

* Rev. xix. 16.

‡ Phil. ii. 6. Some Writers, I am aware, have endeavoured to interpret away this Evidence of our LORD's Divine Nature. But I think with great Injury to the Context, and no less Violence to the Phrase,

Virgin's Son, enumerates several grand Distinctions, both of his Person, and his Office. He styles the Child that should be born, The WONDERFUL COUNSELLOR, the EVERLASTING FATHER, the MIGHTY GOD, the PRINCE OF PEACE *.—The same inspired Writer, though eloquent above all Orators, and more sublime than the loftiest Poet, cries out in rapturous Astonishment; Who Ἀρπαγῆς, as far as I can observe, denotes, not the Prize or Spoil, but the Act of plundering or taking the Spoil; Ipsa rapiendi Actio. Vid. STEPH. Thef. Græc. Ling.—If so, the Text most naturally implies, that CHRIST counted it no Act of Robbery; no Invasion of Another's Prerogative; but looked upon it as his unquestionable Right, to be equal with GOD, and to receive all Divine Honours.—Nevertheless (ἀλλὰ, Rom. v. 14.) He was so far from tenaciously insisting upon, that He willingly relinquished the Claim. He was content to forego the magnificent Distinctions of the CREATOR, and to appear in the Form of a Creature. Nay, to be made in the Likeness of the fallen Creatures; and not only to share the Disgrace, but to suffer the Punishment, due to the meanest and wilest among them all.—An Example of Humility, worthy to be displayed by the Eloquence of an Apostle, or the Tongue of an Archangel! Worthy to be the everlasting Pattern, and the everlasting Praise of all Believers.—But an Example, infinitely depreciated, if We suppose its great Author to be nothing more than a Scrap of Existence; for all his Qualifications a Debtor; nay, borrowing Leave even to be.

However Ἀρπαγῆς be translated, the Stress of the Argument, I apprehend, lies upon the Word ἴσα. If this signifies a real and proper Equality, the Proof seems, to me at least, irrefragable.—How shall We determine the exact Significancy of this important Word? By having Recourse to Homer's Works, or to Heathen Authors? This, in case the sacred Writers will decide the Question, would be like going from Jerusalem to Athens for the Solution of a religious Doubt, even while the College of Apostles is assembled at the former City.—The Word occurs five or six Times in their Writings. They use it, it is true, in the Adjective Form. But the Adjective is very sufficient to settle the Signification of the Adverb. If I know the Meaning of ἴσος, I shall be at no Loss to understand the Import of ἴσα.—See Matt. xx. 12. Luke vi. 34. John v. 18. Acts xi. 17. Rev. xxi. 16. In all which Places it expresses not a bare Resemblance or Likeness only, but a real and proper Equality. As Milton speaks of CHRIST, alluding to this Passage, and finely illustrating its Sense;

Thron'd in highest Bliss,
Equal to GOD, and Equally enjoying

can declare his Generation * ? What Pencil can paint, what Language can express, his matchless Excellencies ? And may We not with equal Propriety demand ; Who can declare the meritorious Perfection of his Righteousness ? It is precious beyond Comparison : beyond Imagination.

The Honours which our LORD receives, are proportioned to the illustrious Characters, which He sustains.—John the Baptist, than whom a greater Prophet, or a better Judge, was not born of Woman, professes Himself unworthy, to stoop down and unloose the Latchet of his Shoes † : unworthy, though a burning and shining Light in his Generation, to perform the meanest Service to this PRINCE of Heaven.—Stephen, who leads the Van in the noble Army of Christian Martyrs, beheld such a Representation of his crucified MASTER's Glory ; as enabled Him to exult with divine Delight, even amidst the furious Assaults of his Persecutors, and under the insupportable Blows of his Murderers ‡. Assured, that JESUS has all Power in Heaven and Earth, by an Act of the most solemn Worship, He commits his departing Soul (that unspeakably important Trust !) to the omnipotent Hand of his REDEEMER §.—Nor by the first Martyr alone, but in all Churches of the Saints, and in every Age of Christianity, has the LORD JESUS been addressed, as the constant Object of his People's Adoration ; and acknowledged, as the ever faithful Depositary of their eternal Interests.

When Isaiab beheld a visionary Manifestation of CHRIST§, the first-born Sons of Light were waiting around Him, in Postures of dutiful Submission. These celestial Beings, whose very Feet are too bright for Mortals to view, veiled their Faces before his infinitely superior Effulgence. The Seraphs, who are all Zeal and all Love, celebrate his Perfections, and cried one to another, The whole Earth is full of his Glory.—And is not Heaven also filled with his Glory? Does not Heaven likewise resound with his Praise? The beloved Disciple, in a Vision no less clear and far more magnificent, beholds the LAMB that was slain, standing in the midst of a resplendent Throne. Which is most beautifully adorned with a circling Rainbow, and terribly dignified, by the Blaze of Lightnings; and awfully surrounded, with Peals of Thunder. Before this august Throne, and at the Disposal of the once slaughtered SAVIOUR, are seven Lamps of burning Fire; expressive of the DIVINE SPIRIT, in all the Variety of his miraculous Gifts, and sanctifying Graces*.—Four and twenty Elders, clothed in white Raiment, with Crowns on their Heads, and the Harps of GOD in their Hands, fall prostrate in deepest Homage before the LAMB. They strike the golden Strings, and sing that sublime eucharistic Hymn; Thou art worthy to take the Book, and to open the Seals thereof: for Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed Us to GOD by thy Blood, out of every Kindred, and Tongue, and People, and Nation; and hast made Us, unto our GOD, Kings and Priests †.

Behold the Hierarchies of Angels: they are in Number ten thousand times ten thousand—All are Children of the King immortal, and each is brighter than the Morning Star.—Hark! They raise their Voices, and awaken all the Powers of Harmony. Hosannas, loud and rapturous, fill the eternal Regions.—Do You enquire; Who is the Cause of this sacred Jubilee, and what is the Burden of this celestial Song? The very Person We are extolling, and the very Doctrine We would establish. Worthy, they cry, worthy is the LAMB that was slain, to receive Power, and Riches, and Wisdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Blessing.—Nor these alone, but every Creature which is in Heaven, and on the Earth, and under the Earth, and such as are in the Sea, join the immense Chorus. In sweet responsive Strains of Melody and Devotion, they sing and speak Praises to IMMANUEL: Blessing, and Honour, and Glory, and Power, be unto Him that sitteth upon the Throne, and unto the LAMB for ever and ever *.

This, You observe, is the devout Acknowledgment, not only of the Cherubim, the Seraphim, and the Spirits of just Men made perfect, but of every Creature.—The Sun, the Moon, and the Stars, which garnish the Heavens—Beasts and creeping Things, Mountains and Hills, fruitful Trees and all Cedars, which replenish the Earth—Metals and Minerals, Gems and Fossils, the subterraneous Riches of Nature, or Things which are under the Earth—Even all those Objects, which my Theron lately contemplated, do, each in a proper Way, magnify the LORD JESUS. They bear witness to his Power, as their CREATOR; they are subservient to his Designs, as our MEDIATOR; and, in this Manner, they all glorify his holy Name.

Under such Views of the blessed REDEEMER, enlarged and elevated even to Astonishment, is it possible to over-rate the Worth of his Obedience? Is it possible to lay too much Stress on his expiatory Sacrifice, or ascribe too much Efficacy to his vicarious Righteousness?

To the Honours which He receives, let Us add the Works which He has done. By these, in the Days of his Flesh, were displayed the Greatness of his Glory, and the Magnificence of his Majesty.

Behold! says the Almighty FATHER, My Servant; He who condescends to become my Servant in the matchless Work of Redemption; shall deal prudently, shall conduct Himself with all the Dignity and all the Sanctity of Wisdom. In Consequence of which, He shall be exalted, be extolled, and be very high †.—The Paraphrase of the Jewish Commentators on this beautiful Climax is, though inadequate, not contemptible. "The MESSIAH, they say, shall be higher than Abraham, more illustrious than Moses, and exalted above the Angels of Light, even above the prime Ministers * of Heaven."—What follows, is an Attempt to render this Exposition somewhat less defective.

Here, could You open my Chamber-door, and throw a Glance upon your Friend, you would find Him in the same Attitude, and under the same Perplexity, which were formerly observed in Phocion. Sitting one Day, amidst an Assembly of the People, and preparing to make a public Oration, He appeared uncommonly thoughtful. Being asked the Reason, "I am considering, said He, how I may shorten, what I shall have Occasion to speak."—The Compass of my Subject, would demand many Volumes; whereas, the Limits of my Letter, will allow but a few Paragraphs.

Our LORD gave Sight to the Blind. He poured Day upon those sightless and benighted Eyes, which had never been visited with the least dawning Ray.—The Dumb, at his Command, found a ready Tongue, and burst into Songs of Praise.—The Deaf were all Ear, and listened to the joyful Sound of Salvation.—The Lame, lame from their very Birth, threw aside their Crutches, and full of Transport and Exultation, leaped like the bounding Roe †.—He restored Floridity and Beauty

* Prime Ministers, this is almost a literal Translation of their Words, מלאכי השרת.

† We have the finest Representation of this Event, given Us by the inspired Historian, Acts iii. 8. And He, leaping up, stood, and walked, and entered with them into the Temple; walking, and leaping, and praising GOD.—The very Language seems to exult, in a redundant Flow of expressive Phrases; just as a poor Cripple, who never knew either the Comfort of bodily Vigour, or the Pleasure of local Motion, may be supposed to do, when suddenly and unexpectedly blessed with both. He would exert his new acquired Powers again and again; first in one Attitude, then in Another. Sometimes to try, whether He was really healed, and not under the pleasing Delusion of a Dream; sometimes from a Transport of conscious Delight, and to express the Sallies of Joy that sprung up in his Heart.

Beauty to the Flesh, emaciated by consuming Sickness, or encrusted with a lothesome Leprosy.—All Manner of Diseases, though blended with the earliest Seeds of Life, and riveted in the Constitution by a long inveterate Predominancy—Diseases, that baffled the Skill of the Physician, and mocked the Force of Medicine—these He cured, not by tedious Applications, but in the Twinkling of an Eye; not by costly Prescriptions, or painful Operations, but by a Word from his Mouth, or a Touch from his Hand; nay, by the Fringe of his Garment, or the bare Act of his Will.

Any one of these Miracles, had been enough to endear the Character, and eternize the Memory of another Person. But they were common Things, Matters of daily Occurrence, with our Divine MASTER. The Years of his public Ministry, were an unintermitted Series of such healing Wonders; or, if any Intermiſſion took place, it was only to make way for the more invaluable Miracles of spiritual Beneficence. Let Us consider these Things, my dear Friend. Let Us pursue and dwell upon these Hints. Let Us familiarize to our Minds the Power and Glory of CHRIST. Then We shall see abundant Cause to acknowledge—with Gratitude and Joy to acknowledge, That our Help is laid upon ONE that is mighty *. That He is the Rock, and his Work is perfect †.

Behold Him exercising his Dominion over the vegetable Creation. A Fig-tree, adorned with the most promising Spread of Leaves, but unproductive of the expected Fruit, wITHERS away at his Rebuke. It is not yet I cannot persuade myself, that it is to be compared with St. Luke's Draught, either in the Variety of Figures; in the Richness of Colouring; or in that Exuberance of Style, which, on this Occasion, is so happily significant, and so perfectly picturesque.

only stripped of its verdant Honours, but dried up from the very Roots *, and perishes for ever. A fearful, yet significant Intimation, of that final Ruin †, which will overtake the specious Hypocrite. Who, while lavish in outward Profession, is destitute of inward Piety.

His Eye looked through the World of Waters; discerned the Fish, which had just swallowed a Piece of silver Coin; and guided its Course to Peter's Hook ‡. 'Tis true, when the Gatherers of the sacred Tax came, to collect his Share for the Reparation of the Temple; He had not a Sufficiency of Money, to satisfy so small a Demand ||. Yet He takes occasion, from this most abject Poverty, to manifest the Immensity of his Riches.

† It is pleasing to observe, that the two Miracles, in which our LORD displayed his punitivè or windictivè Power, were exercised, not on the human Race, but on this insensible Vegetable, or some unclean Animals.—With regard to the latter Case, the Case I mean of the Swine, precipitated into the Deep, and perishing in the Sea, much opprobrious Clamour has been raised. As though the Action was injurious to the Property of the Owners.—Not to mention various Considerations, which prove the Wisdom and Benignity of our LORD's Procedure, I would only ask the Complainer or the Caviller, Whether it was not, according to the Mosaic Law, an Act of righteous distributive Justice?

That was a bitter, and, I think, an uncharitable Reflection, made by a satyrical Person, upon hearing of Bishop Kidder's Calamity, in the Palace of Bath and Wells. (He and his Lady were killed, by the Fall of a Stack of Chimnies.) What Business had He there? Intimating, that He was treated as He deserved. That He was an Intruder into the Preferment, and an unjust Supplanter of the pious (ejected) Bishop Kenn. But We may very truly, and very justly, apply the sarcastic Interrogation, on this Occasion; What Business had the Swine among the Gadarenes? Wherefore did the Sons of Israel debase and defile themselves, with this unclean Beast? It was a Kind of contraband Goods; prohibited by the Statute Law of their Kingdom; and for that Reason, a legal Forfeiture. So that to seize, confiscate, or destroy it, was only to administer Justice, and execute the Law.

‡ Matt. xvii. 27. How wonderful is this seemingly little Miracle! Or rather, what a Cluster of Wonders is comprized in this single Act!—That any Fish, with Money in its Mouth, should be caught—with Money just of such a Value—and in the very first Fish that offered itself—What a pregnant Display of Omniscience to foresee, of Omnipotence to over-rule, all these fortuitous Incidents!

|| About Fourteen-pence.

He makes the great Deep his Revenue; and bids the scaly Nations bring him their Tribute. Never was such Indigence associated with such Magnificence! And never, never let Us forget, that the Indigence was ours, the Magnificence all his own!

The Waters themselves, it may be said, are far more unmanageable, than their Inhabitants. Who can controul that outrageous Element? Which has destroyed so many gallant Fleets, with the Armies they bore; and which would laugh at the Opposition of the united World—The LORD JESUS walks upon its rolling Surges*. The rolling Surges, suspend their Fury; they even forget their fluid Nature, to support the Footsteps of their GOD.—He speaks, and the most tempestuous Agitations are a Calm: The madding Ocean, like the dispossessed Demoniac, comes to the Feet of JESUS, sedate, and peaceable, and in its right Mind. It is true; the Waves of the Sea are mighty, and rage horribly; but yet the LORD, who loved Us, and washed Us from our Sins in his own Blood, is mightier †.

The Winds are yet more ungovernable, than the madding Ocean. When these are hurled ‡ abroad, to shake the Earth, and tofs the Seas, who can curb their Rage? What can withstand their Impetuosity? Even the boif-

* He treadeth upon the Waves of the Sea, is one of the Prerogatives ascribed to the Supreme BEING, Job ix. 8. The original Word בַּמַּוֶּתֶינִים signifies a Sea, that rolls Mountain-high: and such we have reason to suppose, were the Waves on which our LORD walked; since the Vessel, to which He bent his Course, was βασιλικόν, lesbed, battered, tormented, by their vehement Concussions. Matt. xiv. 24.

† Psal. xciii. 5.

‡ This is the literal Translation of that beautiful Hebrew Phrase, which occurs Jonah i. 4.—The sacred Writer, describing the stormy Messenger, which was dispatched to arrest a fugitive Servant, says הַשֵּׁל—The LORD hurled forth a great Wind. The same Expression is applied to Saul, (1 Sam. xviii. 11.) when He darted his Javelin at David, with a Design to transfix and nail him to the Wall.—What an elegant, and how awful an Image! Storms and Tempests, with all their irresistible Fury and dreadful Ravages, are like missive Weapons in the Hand of JEHOVAH. Which He launches with greater Ease and surer Aim, than the most expert Warrior emits the pointed Steel.

terous Winds hear the SAVIOUR's Voice; and, as soon as they hear, obey. His Voice, more powerful to restrain, than brazen Dungeons to confine, chides * the furious Whirlwind. The furious Whirlwind is awed into immediate † Silence. That which a Moment ago, heaved the Billows to the Clouds, and filled with Outrage the howling Firmament; now, gently whispers among the Shrouds, and scarcely curls the smooth Expanse.

Something there is, even within the narrow Compass of our own Breasts, which affords Room for more signal Exertions of DEITY, than the turbulent Billows, or the resistless Storm. Agreeably to the Suggestion of a Prophet; For lo! He that formeth the Mountains; and createth the Wind; and, as a more pregnant Proof of divine Perfection, declareth unto Man what is his Thought, the GOD of Hosts is his Name ‡. The Possessor of such surpassing Power and Wisdom, can be no other, than the Supreme and only Potentate.—And who is this, but

* Chides—This is the Meaning of that fine expressive Word, ἐπιτιμᾶσθε, Matt. viii. 26. Which sets the Miracle in the most striking Light, and gives Us the grandest Idea of the Person, who wrought it. The Historian says not, He set Himself to oppose, like a General at the Head of his Troops; He strictly commanded, like a King issuing solemn Orders from his Throne; but He rebuked, like a Father chiding a heedless Child, or a Master reprimanding a negligent Servant.—It is one of the most unfurmountable Difficulties; it is absolutely the most marvelous Effect in Nature; yet accomplished only by a Nod from JESUS CHRIST.—The same Language, most gracefully majestic, our LORD uses, when speaking by his Prophet; Behold! at my Rebuke (בנערתי) I dry up the Sea. Isai. l. 2.

† Immediate—This Circumstance, as very much aggrandizing the Miracle, is, with great historical Propriety, remarked by the Evangelist. The Sea is known to have a prodigious Swell, and very tremendous Agitations, for a considerable Time after the tempestuous Wind ceases. On this Occasion, and in Obedience to its MAKER's Will, it departs from the established Laws of Motion.—No sooner is the Word spoken, but there is a Calm; not an advancing, but an instantaneous Calm; not a partial, but a perfect Calm. Matt. viii. 26. Mark iv. 39.

JESUS CHRIST? He knew, what was in Man*. He discerned the Secrets of the Heart; discerned the latent Purpose, before it disclosed itself in Action; even before it was uttered in Speech; nay, while it lay yet an unformed Embrio in the Mind.

His Glance pierced into Futurity: espied Events, in all their Circumstances †, and with the greatest Perspicuity, before they came into Being. The hidden Things of Darknes were open, the Contingencies of the Morrow were present, to his all-pervading Eye. Nay, the unthought-of Revolutions, that were to happen in distant Ages; the astonishing Catastrophe of dissolving Nature, and the awful Process of everlasting Judgment; all these He clearly foresaw, and particularly foretold.

Nor does He only penetrate the Recesses, but overrule the Operations of the Soul.—He so intimidated a Multitude of sacrilegious Wretches, that they fled, not before his drawn Sword, or bent Bow, but at the Shaking of his single Scourge ‡.—He so awed, by one short Remonstrance,

* John ii. 25. This all discerning Intelligence of the DEITY, is very emphatically expressed by the Psalmist, Psal. cxxxix. 1, 2. &c. Though the Sentiment, in one Clause, seems to be somewhat weakened by our Version. There is not a Word in my Tongue, would have a nobler Turn, and more extensive Meaning if rendered; Even BEFORE the Word is on my Tongue, Thou, O LORD, knowest it altogether. בי אין מלה בלשוני, Ets nondum Sermo est in Lingua mea.

† In all their Circumstances—See a very remarkable Exemplification of this Particular, Mark xiv. 13. There shall meet you—not barely a Person, but the Sex and Age are both specified—not two, or several, but one Man—not within any given Space of Time, but at the very Instant of your Arrival—not empty-handed, but bearing a Vessel—not of Wood or Metal, but an earthen Pitcher—filled, not with Wine or Milk, but with Water—carrying it into that very House, where the Preparation was made, and the Passover was to be celebrated.—What a Multitude of Contingencies! All minutely foretold by our LORD!

‡ John ii. 14, 15, &c. St. Jerom looks upon this Miracle, as one of the greatest, which our SAVIOUR wrought. And indeed the Circumstances are very extraordinary.—That one Man should undertake so bold, and execute so hazardous a Task—One Man, without a Commission from Cæsar; without any Countenance from the Jerusalem Rulers; without any Arms, either to terrify the Multitude, or defend Himself.

monstrance *, an Assembly of conceited and ostentatious Pharisees; that they could neither gainsay, nor endure the Energy of his Discourse. Though not to gainsay, was a tacit Acknowledgment of their Guilt; and not to endure, must cover them with public Confusion.—With a Word, the most mild and gentle † imaginable, He flung Terror into a whole Band of armed Men. Such as blasted all their Courage; and laid them as if struck with Lightning, stunned and prostrate on the Ground.

All Hearts are in his Hand. He turneth them, as the Rivers of Water, whithersoever He will ‡; with as much Ease, and with the same efficacious Sway, as the Current of the Rivers is altered and determined by every Inflection of the Channel.—Follow me, was his Call to James and John: Follow me ||, was all he said to Levi the Publican. His Word is a Work. He says to the Disciples, Follow me; they come—to the Leper, Be clean; He is cleansed—to the Paralytic, Arise, take up thy Bed, and walk; It is all performed, as soon as commanded.—Surely then We must confess, that the Voice, which is so mighty in Operation, is the Voice of a GOD, not of a Man!—Γεννητω is our LORD’s usual Word, when he grants a miraculous Cure: which exactly corresponds with that admired and magnificent Expression in Gen. i. 3.

earthly All, to attend a poor and despised MASTER.— Their Acquaintance, no doubt, would remonstrate a thousand Inconveniencies. Their Enemies would not fail to censure them, as rash Enthusiasts. But all these Considerations were lighter than Dust, were less than nothing, when set in Competition with two Words only from JESUS of Nazareth. Impressed, deeply impressed by his powerful Summons, such Loss they counted Gain, and such Obloquy Glory.— And shall we count it too high an Honour, or too grand an Office, for his Obedience unto Death, to make Us perfectly righteous before GOD, without the Co-operation of any Works, or any holy walking of our own?

He planted Bowels of Compassion in the unfeeling avaricious Wretch; and elevated, beyond the Height of the Stars, Desires that lay groveling even below the Mire of the Swine. The Slaves of Sin He restored to the Liberty of Righteousness; and unhappy Creatures, who were degenerated into the Likeness of the Devil, He renewed after the Image of the blessed GOD.— These were the Effects of his personal Preaching; these are still the Conquests of his glorious Gospel; and do not these declare his Dominion over the Intellectual Oeconomy? That the World of Minds, as well as of material Nature, is open to his Inspection, and subject to his Controul?

The Dead seem to be more remote from human Cognizance, than the Secrets of the Breast; less liable to any human Jurisdiction, than the warring Elements. What Potentate can issue a Writ of Release to the Grave? Or cite the dislodged Soul, to re-enter the breathless Corpse?— Yet this, even this, our mighty MEDIATOR executed. He opened the Eyes, which were sunk in Shades, and sealed in the Tomb. He bid the Heart, that had forgot its vital Motion, spring into Life and Activity. The crimson Flood, long congealed by the icy Hand of Death; which had not only lost its Pulse by Stagnation, but likewise changed its very Texture ture by Putrefaction *; circulates, at his Order, all florid and mantling with Health †, through the wondering Veins.—The Spirit, which had taken its Flight into the invisible State, which had taken its Place in eternal Habitations, returns, at our REDEEMER's Signal, to the Tenement of mouldering Clay; and, by the amazing Visit, proclaims his Sovereignty over those unknown Realms, and their mysterious Inhabitants.

As He recals from, so he admits into, the Abodes of future Happiness. His Hands, when swollen with Wounds, and nailed to the Tree, evidently sustained the Keys of Hell and of Death ‡. Then, even then, He opened and He shut either the Gates of the Grave, or the Portals of Paradise. What He says to the penitent Thief, is the Language of supreme Authority; To day shalt thou be with me in Paradise §. It is a royal Mandamus. He speaks from the Cross, as from a Throne. While executed as a Malefactor, He not only dispenses Pardon, but disposes of Seats in Glory.

Does our LORD's Superiority extend to those malignant Beings, the Devil and his Angels?—Even these, in Spight of all their formidable Strength §, and inextinguishable

* John xi. 39.

† Mantling with Health.—Such was the State of those Bodies, which our LORD raised from the Dead. Not weak and languid, like Patients beginning to recover, from a tedious or violent Illness. On the contrary, they were no sooner alive, than perfectly well. Their Appetite, their Vigour, and every happy Concomitant of Health, returned together with their Life.—To demonstrate this wonderful Circumstance, and render it more observable, our SAVIOUR, when he rescued the Ruler's Daughter from the Dominion of Death, commanded to give Her Meat. A Command, which, superficially considered, might seem unworthy of Notice. But viewed in this Connection, appears graceful and important; such as tends, if not to aggrandize the Miracle, yet to place it in the most striking Light. See Luke viii. 55.

tinguishable Rage, He makes his Footstool. He brake the Teeth of those infernal Lions; and rescued the helpless Prey, on which their bloody Jaws were closing. At his Command, they abandon their Conquests: and relinquish, however indignant, however reluctant, their long accustomed Habitations. His single Command, more forcible than ten thousand Thunderbolts, dispossesses a whole Legion* of those fierce and haughty Spirits: drives them, all terrified and deprecating severer Vengeance, to seek Rest in solitary Desarts, or to herd with the most sordid Brutes.

As the blessed JESUS treads upon the Necks of those Powers of Darkness, He receives the willing Services of the Angels of Light. The Angels, in comparison of Men, are styled Gods. How great must be their Lustre and Glory! Since their very Appearance struck Prophets almost dead with Fear, and tempted even an Apostle to Idolatry. Yet, when the first-begotten SON is brought into the World, these Gods are commanded to worship Him †. Though they excel ‡ in Strength, and

This I lay before the Reader, but dare not avouch for Truth, because it is not confirmed by Scripture. Thus much however, is evident from our unerring Book; That their Might is very great, and very formidable. Satan is called The GOD of this World. 2 Cor. iv. 4. He and his Angels are styled, The Rulers of the Darkness of this World. Eph. vi. 12. They had for many Ages, obtained an absolute Dominion, not over a few Kingdoms only, but over all the Nations of the Earth, Judea only excepted. The Apostle teaches Us to consider the Opposition of Flesh and Blood, even of all Mankind, though associated in one hostile League; as far less to be feared, than the Enmity and Rage of Principalities, and Powers, and spiritual Wickednesses.—After such an Account of our invisible Enemies, should not We cry mightily to our Captain, and their Conqueror? “LORD, never leave Us, nor forsake Us. But hide Us under the Shadow of thy Wings, and cover our Heads in the Day of Battle!”

‡ Would any One see a Sketch of the Glory and Excellence of the angelic Nature? Let Him see it, in that inimitably fine Stroke of the sacred Pencil. I saw another Angel come down from Heaven, having great Power, and the Earth was lightened with his Glory. Rev. xviii. 1. The last Clause is, I think, one of the most masterly Touches of descriptive Painting, extant in History, Poety, or Oratory. Milton gives

They graced the Solemnity of his Birth; they attended Him, after his Temptation in the Wilderness; they were the first joyful Preachers of his triumphant Resurrection: and, seated as He is on the Right-hand of the MAJESTY in the Highest,

—*They stand with Wings outspread,
Listening to catch their Master's least Command,
And fly through Nature, ere the Moment end.*

Behold Him, now, doing according to his Will, in the Armies of Heaven, and among the Inhabitants of the Earth—Swaying the Scepter, over the Legions of Hell, and the Powers of Nature—Exercising Dominion in the Hearts of Men, in the Territories of the Grave, and the Mansions of disembodied Spirits—Doing all this, not as a Delegate, but as a Sovereign. Not by a communicated Ability, but by his own Omnipotence. Pursuant to the Tenour of that Majestic Claim, *My FATHER worketh and I work. Not, my FATHER worketh by Me; but, I work in Concert with the FATHER. I perform the same marvelous Things; from

—————*On he led

In this Case, We have a whole Brigade of celestial Warriors; in the former, only a single angelic Being. Those are represented, as irradiating the Night, and outshining the Moon: this, as exceeding the Brightness of the Sun; diffusing additional Splendors on the Day; and illuminating, not a vast Plain, not a vaster Kingdom, but the whole Face of the Globe.—If such be the Lustre of the Servant, what Images can display the Majesty of the LORD? Who has thousand Thousands of those glorious Attendants ministering unto Him, and ten thousand Times ten thousand standing before Him? Dan. vii. 10.

the same underived Power; and by the same supreme Authority*.

Then let my Theron determine—under such Views of our SAVIOUR's unequalled Majesty, and unbounded Sovereignty, let Him determine—whether it be safer, to rest our infinite and eternal Interests, on our own Righteousness, rather than on His.

We have selected some few Manifestations of our REDEEMER's excellent Greatness. Even the Evangelical Historians, give us no larger a Proportion of his astonishing Deeds, than the First-fruits bear to a copious Harvest. Yet, were they all particularly enumerated, and circumstantially displayed, they would appear inconsiderable; compared with those far more distinguished Trophies of Almighty Power, which He has decreed, in some future Period to erect †.

He will gather to his sacred Fold, the People of his ancient Church; though they are dispersed into all Lands, and

* This is evidently the Sense, in which the Jesus understood our LORD: otherwise, they would not have charged him with the supposed Blasphemy, of making Himself equal with GOD. Ver. 18.—This is no less evidently the Meaning, which our LORD intended to express; as appears from his own explanation of the Passage. Whatsoever Things the FATHER doeth, these also doeth the SON likewise; ταυτα, ομοιως, The self-same Things, in the self-same Manner. Ver. 19—From hence St. Chrysothom very forcibly evinces, τι μονοθενς την προαιωνιον, υπαρξιν, την δημιουργικην δυναμιν, την εξεσιναν την αυθεντικην, το απαραλλακτον αυτη το προς τον πατερα, the eternal Existence, the underived Power, the all-creating Agency of the SON, and his absolute Equality with the FATHER. Πως εν τολμωσι τινες υπεργον λεγει τον υιον; πως αν ειη υπεργος ετος, ει απερ ο πατηρ ποιει, ταυτα η ο υιος ομοιως ποιει; πη γαρ το ομοιως, ει ο μεν υπεργος, ο δε δημιουργος; How then dare Any presume to style the Son of GOD a subordinate Agent? How can He be subordinate, if He acts in the very same Manner with the Almighty FATHER? If the One be supreme, and the Other subordinate, the το ομοιως the Sameness of Acting cannot subsist. There is an evident Disproportion, an utter Disparity.

† The Dignity of our LORD, considered as the CREATOR and PRESERVER of all Things, is not mentioned Here; because, something of this Kind is professedly attempted, in The Descant upon Creation, subjoined to the first Volume of Meditations among the Tombs, &c.

and most inveterately prejudiced against the Truth of his Gospel.—How mighty was his Hand, how illustriously outstretched his Arm, when He made a Path through the Surges of the Ocean; drove the Torrent of Jordan backwards; and fetched Rivers of Waters from the flinty Rock! Far more mighty will be its Operations, when He shall remove the seemingly unsurmountable Obstructions, to the general Restoration of the Jews; shall throw all their religious Apprehensions into a new Channel; and cause Tears of penitential Sorrow to start from their stony Eyes, Confessions of unfeigned Faith to issue from their blaspheming Lips.—Yet thus it will assuredly be. In the Volume of the divine Book it is written, *They shall look on Him, whom they have pierced, and mourn. They shall adore as the MESSIAH, the once despised Galilean; and fix all their Hopes of final Felicity on that very PERSON, whom their Fathers slew and hanged on a Tree.

Amazing Revolution in the religious World! Yet this, together with the Destruction of Antichrist, and the Illumination of the benighted Gentiles, may pass for small Incidents; compared with those stupendous Events, which will dignify, and signalize the closing Scene of Affairs.

To which I beg Leave to refer my Readers. And shall more than make amends for the present Omission, by transcribing a Passage from the Night-Thoughts; which present Us with a magnificent Display of this great Truth.

Here, the SON of the eternal GOD appears only, and all Nature is alarmed: nor Heaven nor Earth can keep their Standing: they flee away, like the frightened Roe.—What aileth Thee, O thou Earth, that thou fleest? And Ye Heavens, that Ye make Haste to escape? Surely, they speak, by this precipitate Flight, the inconceivable Grandeur of their Judge. Nor can the Tongue of Men and Angels speak it so emphatically.—How groveling are the loftiest Excursions of the Grecian and Roman Muse, compared with this Magnificence and Elevation of the prophetic Spirit!

Let Us consider the Passage a little more attentively. Volet hæc sub Luce videri. Masterly Performances, the more closely they are examined, —Then shall, not a Nation only, but Multitudes, Multitudes of Nations, be born in a Day * ; yea rather, in an Hour, in a Moment, in the Twinkling of an Eye. —All that are asleep in the Beds of Death ; even those who, perishing in Tempests, are sunk to the Bottom of the Ocean ; or, swallowed up by Earthquakes, are buried at the Center of the Globe ; all shall hear his Voice ; and hearing, shall awake ; and, awaking shall come forth.—Every human Body, though Ages have revolved, since it gave up the Ghost ; though Worms have devoured the Flesh, and Dissolution mouldered the Bones ; though its Parts have been grinded by the Teeth of Beasts, or consumed by the Rage of Fire ; dissipated in viewless Winds, or scattered over the boundless Globe ; lost to our Senses, and lost even to our Imagination ; yet will every human Body then be restored ; its Limbs reassembled, and not an Atom wanting ; its Frame rebuilt, and never be demolished more.

Then, shall the unnumbered Myriads of departed Spirits return from their separate Abodes ; and, commissioned by HIM who is the Resurrection and the Life, reanimate each his organized System.—Then, shall Satan, and his Accomplices, those execrable and horrid Criminals, be dragged from their Dungeons of Darkness, and receive their Doom at the REDEEMER's Tribunal.—Then, will Misery and Happiness, both amined, the more highly they charm.—It is not said, A few Herds of the Forest, a few Kings, or Armies, or Nations ; but the whole System of created Things, The Heavens and the Earth.—It is not said, They were thrown into great Commotions, but they fled intirely away ; not, they started from their Foundations, but they fell into Dissolution ; not, they removed to a distant Place, but there was found no Place for them ; they ceased to exist ; they were no more.—And all this, not at the strict Command of the LORD JESUS : not at his awful Menace, or before his fiery Indignation ; but at the bare Presence of his Majesty, sitting with serene but adorable Dignity on his Throne.

If this is not the true Sublime, in its utmost Scope, Force, and Beauty ; I must confess, I never saw it, nor ever expect to see it.

* Isai. lx. 8.

consummate, and both everlasting, be awarded by JESUS of Nazareth—Then, will He consign over the ungodly World, and the rebellious Angels, to Flames of Hell, and to Agonies of Despair. Then, will He invest the Righteous with the Inheritance of Heaven, and instate them in the Fulness of Joy.—His Word is Fate. His Sentence is irrevocable. Immutability seals, and Eternity executes, whatever He decrees.

And has this JESUS, so glorious, so majestic, so adorable—has HE vouchsafed to take our Nature, and become our Righteousness? Was HE made under the Law? Did HE fulfil all its Demands? Give perfect Satisfaction to the penal, and yield perfect Obedience to the preceptive? On purpose, that the Merit of all might be made over to Us?—Astonishing Condescension! Ineffable Grace! What Thanks are due, to such infinitely rich Goodness!—What a Remedy is here, for the Impotence and Guilt of fallen Man!—What a sure Foundation of Hope, what an abundant Source of Joy, to every One that believeth?

It is declared by the Oracle of GOD, That such an HIGH-PRIEST became Us, was absolutely necessary for our obnoxious and ruined Condition, *who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from Sinners—who is Heir of all Things, and the Brightness of the eternal FATHER's Glory †. It appears, I flatter myself, from the Letter already in your Hand, That CHRIST fully answers the former Character. From this Epistle, I hope it will appear, That He is the very Person described in the latter Text. From both, that He is what his Prophet styles, A SAVIOUR and a great One ‡.

Estimate now, my dear Friend, estimate if You can, the Dignity and Excellency of this Sublime PERSON. Then may You learn, how to state the Worth of his Righteousness, and the Degree of Affiance suited to his Merits. Rather you will perceive, that his spotless Birth, his perfectly obedient Life, his exquisitely bitter Death, are a Satisfaction of unknown Dignity; precious *, far beyond all the Graces of Men, and all the Duties of Angels; able to save to the uttermost, all that rely on them, and come unto GOD through them.

Consonant to this, are the Sentiments of that penetrating Critic and profound Scholar, Dr. Lightfoot. Who, treating of the same Subject says—"Add to all this the Dignity of his Person, who performed this Obedience: that He was GOD, as well as Man: and his Obedience is infinite. Such as, in its Validity, subdued Satan, and in its All-sufficiency satisfied the Justice of GOD."—After which, our celebrated Author makes this important and delightful Improvement; "Think, Christian, what a Stock of Obedience and Righteousness here is for thee, to answer and satisfy for thy Disobedience and Unrighteousness, if Thou become a Child of the Covenant. Here is enough for every Soul that comes to Him, be they never so many. Like the Widow's Oil in the Book of Kings, there is enough and enough again, as long as any Vessel is brought to receive it †." So that a Sinner, enriched with CHRIST's Righteousness, has no Need to wish for any Thing, cannot possibly obtain any Thing, to render him more completely righteous in the Sight of GOD.

We do not wonder, that Gentiles, who are ignorant of the REDEEMER; that Jews, who treat Him with contemptuous Scorn; that Professors of Religion, who deny his eternal GODHEAD; place little, place no Confidence in his Righteousness. But it is strange, that Christians, who know the SAVIOUR; who acknowledge his Divinity; and believe Him to be exalted above all Blessing and Praise—it is exceedingly strange, that they do not rejoice in Him; make their boast in Him; and say, with a becoming Disdain, of every other Dependence, Get ye hence *!

* This is expressed by the sacred Historian, with an Energy which no Translation can equal; την τιμην τε τελειωμενα ου ελιπησαντο απο υιας Ισραηλ. Matt. xxvii. 9.

The Obedience of CHRIST!—The Obedience of HIM, who walketh in the Circuit of the Skies †, and all the Kingdoms of the World are reputed as Nothing before Him!—The Obedience of HIM, who doeth according to his Will, in the Army of Heaven, and among the Inhabitants of the Earth ‡!—The Obedience of HIM, who is Alpha and Omega; the Beginning and the Ending; which is, and which was, and which is to come; the Almighty §!—Doubtless, such Obedience must be deserving, truly deserving, of all that Grace and Glory, which are, and will be communicated to his People, in every Period of Time, and through all Ages of Eternity. Worthy is the Lamb that was slain. No wonder, that such Obedience should justify the Ungodly. Should make Us poor fallen Creatures righteous,—perfectly righteous in the Sight of GOD—without the Concurrence of any good Works, or any holy Duties of our own ||.

Such an Assemblage of divine Perfections, must warrant, must demand, the most unreserved and the most unbounded Confidence.—There never was, no, not in all Ages, nor in all Worlds, any thing greater or richer, more dignified or exalted, than the Obedience of our LORD.—Nay; it is impossible to imagine, what could be so suited to our Wants, so proper for our Reliance,

|| May we not, in this Sense, understand the Words of the LORD, delivered by his Prophet? Look unto ME, and be Ye saved all the Ends of the Earth; for I am GOD, and there is nothing else. Isai. xlv. 22. I am GOD: this is the grand, all-dignifying, infinitely momentous Circumstance, There is nothing else (אין עוד) for a Sinner to trust in. He can have nothing else, look where-ever He will. He need have nothing else, be his Exigencies ever so great.—A GOD incarnate, undertaking his Redemption! or so sure to answer, more than answer all our Expectations.

Remember what the Apostle affirms, and you will not wonder at my Assertion. In HIM dwelleth all the Fulness of the GODHEAD bodily. How comprehensive and exalted is this Description! It collects into a Point, all the Rays of Majesty and Honour. It expresses in a Sentence, I say not whatever this Pen has written, but whatever of Dignity and Excellence the Bible itself contains.—The GODHEAD, the very Nature and Essence of the DEITY—The Fulness of the GODHEAD; unerring Wisdom, almighty Power, and whatever the great JEHOVAH challenges as his own.—All the Fulness; every incommunicable Attribute, in the most ample Measure, and in the highest Degree—All this dwells, not visits occasionally, but stately, invariably, eternally resides—Resides in CHRIST JESUS bodily; with an Union inconceivably close and intimate. Inasmuch that the GODHEAD inhabiting, and the Manhood inhabited, make but one and the same marvelous, matchless, adorable PERSON.

Therefore, adds the sacred Disputant, *ye are complete in HIM. Never was any Conclusion more weighty in itself, or founded on more solid Principles. Being united to CHRIST, and interested in CHRIST, Ye are filled with all that Fulness, which Man can receive, or GOD bestow.—He says not, Ye shall be; at some distant Period, or in some future State. But, Ye are; in this present Life, and at this very Hour. Ye are not only pardoned, but reconciled; and not only reconciled, but accepted as righteous; nay, ye are—and what can be said or desired more?—ye are COMPLETE. And not barely before Men or Angels, but before infinite Purity and Omniscience itself. And this, without the Concurrence of your own Deeds, only by being Partakers of HIM, who is the Head of all Principality and Power. In whom, Ye are made, what neither Adam in Paradise could boast, nor Angels in Heaven can claim, THE RIGHTEOUSNESS of GOD.—Amazing, charming Truth! What a Fountain is this, or rather what a Sea of fathomless Depth, to obliterate all Sins and supply all Wants! What a Mirrour of stupendous Grace, and ever to be adored Loving-kindness!

Here let our Meditations fix, and here let all our Expectations center. From this, not from any Thing of our own, let Us derive our Peace, our Joy, our supreme Complacency.—Into this Subject We can never dive too deeply. Of this Subject We can never think too magnificently. The Righteousness of CHRIST is the Master-Pillar, on which our present and eternal Welfare rests.

There hangs all human Hope : that Nail supports Our falling Universe.

This renders his Intercession prevalent. He is an Advocate, a successful Advocate with the FATHER. Why? Because He is JESUS CHRIST the Righteous*. —From hence results his Ability to justify. He shall justify Many, saith the LORD JEHOVAH. On what Consideration? Because He is my righteous Servant †.—This, and no other, is the meritorious Cause of our Salvation. Judah shall be saved; shall escape Damnation, and inherit Glory. On what Account? On Account of the righteous BRANCH raised up unto David ‡.

‡ Jer. xxiii. 5, 6. I believe, it will be needless to observe, that the Salvation, mentioned in this and other Passages of like Import, is not limited to a temporal Deliverance, but extends to a State of spiritual and eternal Happiness. The temporal is only a subordinate Blessing: a Kind of Appendage to the other: somewhat like the Halo round the Globe of the Moon, or that faint and secondary Range of Colours, which frequently attends the glowing Rainbow.

—Since then our Acceptance, Justification, and Salvation; since our Comfort in Time, and our Happiness to Eternity, all depend upon the Righteousness of CHRIST; how should we delight in contemplating its faultless, its matchless, its transcendent Excellency!—Grand! All-sufficient! In every Circumstance perfect!—Nothing equal to it, on Earth, in Heaven, throughout the Universe!—Surpassing the Multitude of our Sins and the Enormity of our Guilt! Surpassing all, that Men can express, or Angels conceive! Being truly, properly, absolutely DIVINE.

And is this Righteousness mine? Is this Righteousness yours, Theron? Is this Righteousness free for every Sinner? Pleasing, captivating, rapturous Thought!—Who can forbear exulting and triumphing, in the boundless Blessing! On such an Occasion, methinks, some Sallies of Enthusiasm, or even some Starts of Tautology, are the Language of Sensibility, of Propriety, of Nature.

Isaiab thought it such an inexhaustible Source of Joy, as should fill, more than fill the Heart of Sinners. Should overflow all Bounds, and pervade the whole Creation. Should ascend to the highest, descend to the lowest, reach the remotest, and affect even the most insensible Parts of the Universe. Therefore He cries; Sing, O ye Heavens; for the LORD, the LORD Himself hath done it. Our justifying Righteousness is finished; finished by JEHOVAH, sojourning in human Flesh. *Shout ye lower Parts of the Earth: break forth into Singing, ye Mountains: O Forest, and every Tree therein, join and augment the general Joy. For the LORD has, in an infinitely magnificent and an infinitely perfect Manner, redeemed Jacob; and glorified Himself in this most adorable Method of recovering Israel, more than by all his other marvelous Works.—O for the Tongue of a Seraph!—But even this would be defective: such Ardour cold, and such Energy languid.

* Isai. xliv. 23.

I have done: I add no more: I leave it—to some future Letter? to some more labour'd Essay? No; but to the Hymns of Heaven, and the Adorations of Eternity, to supply the Deficiency of my Acknowledgments.—In the mean Time, let me intreat my Theron to contemplate our LORD JESUS CHRIST, under that gracious and glorious Character, described by the Prophet, A PRIEST upon his THRONE *. Dignifying the sacerdotal Center by the regal Diadem; adding all the Honours of his eternal Divinity, to the Sacrifice of his bleeding Humanity.—Then, I promise myself, You will find it almost impossible, not to adopt the emphatical and ardent Protestation of the Apostle; GOD forbid, that I should glory, that I should confide, save only in the Cross of CHRIST JESUS my LORD; and in the consummate, divine, everlasting Righteousness, finished on that bloody Tree.

When You made the Tour of France and Italy; and, crossing the Alps, gained the Summit of some commanding Ridge—When you looked round, with Astonishment and Delight, on the ample Plains, which, crouded with Cities, and adorned with Palaces, extend their beauteous Tracts below—When You surveyed the famous Rivers, which roll in shining Dignity along the fruitful Vallies; stating the Boundaries of Kingdoms, and wafting Plenty through the Nations—When You shot your transported View to the Ocean, whose unmeasurable Flood meets the Arch of Heaven, and terminates the Landscape with inconceivable Grandeur—Did You, then, choose to forego the Pleasure resulting from such a Prospect, in order to gaze upon the naked Cragg of some adjacent Rock? Or, could You turn your Eyes from those magnificent Objects, and fasten them with pleased Attention upon a shallow Puddle, that lay stagnating at your Feet?

You, Who have beheld the Scene, can accommodate the Simile, with peculiar Advantage. For which Reason, I shall wave the Application. Only I would claim the Liberty of a Friend, and once more beg, with a benevolent Importunity beg of You, to consider diligently this mysterious Righteousness, which is both GOD's and the Christian's. GOD's, as to its Origin and Excellency. The Christian's, as to its Use and Enjoyment. Ignorance of this Doctrine, leads into two of the most dangerous Mistakes, and pernicious Evils—an unavailing Attempt to establish our own Righteousness—and a fatal Resolution of not submitting to the Righteousness of GOD. Therefore, I cannot forbear transcribing into my Paper, what is often breathed in Supplication from my Lips—

“ O Thou GOD of infinite Glory! thou GOD of “ unbounded Goodness! thou GOD of immensely rich “ Grace! Who hast given thy own adorable SON, to “ be the Atonement for all my Sins; to be my Right-

 “ Obedience, performed through ten thousand Years—
 “ to be a better Portion for me, than all the Riches in “ Heaven above, and in the Earth beneath—to be a “ more complete Salvation for me, than my Heart

Dear ASPASIO,

YOUR two Letters have reached my Hand; and I hope, they have not missed my Heart. I might inform You, what Pleasure they gave me, and how highly I esteem them. But You desire no such Compliments. You desire to see me impressed with the Sentiments, and living under their Influence. This would be the most acceptable Acknowledgment to my Aspasio, because it would be the most happy Effect to his Theron. May every Day, therefore, bring a fresh Accession of such Gratitude to me, and of such Satisfaction to You.

To watch for my Soul, and pray for my Salvation, I am thoroughly convinced, is the truest Instance of rational and exalted Friendship. Every Claim to that amiable Character, is defective and vain, if it does not extend to our spiritual Interests, and our everlasting Welfare. For which Reason, I need not intreat You to continue and perpetuate this best Exercise of social Kindness. Or if I do, it is rather to testify how much I prize the Favour, than to prompt your affectionate and ready Mind.

Your last found me at a Friend's House, which lies pretty near the western Ocean.—Yesterday, waked by the Lark, and rising with the Dawn *, I strolled into the

My Mind, but little affected with these inferior Entertainments, was contemplating an Object of infinitely superior Dignity. Contemplating that adorable BEING, who raised—from nothing raised this stupendous System of Things; and supports—with his Word supports the magnificent Frame. † THOMSON'S Winter.

Wrapt in Wonder, and lost in Thought, I rambled carelessly along, till I was insensibly brought to the Shore. Which, in these Parts, is prodigiously high and strong: perfectly well fitted, to stand as an everlasting *Barrier, against the impetuous Stroke of conflicting Winds, and the ponderous Sweep of dashing Surges.—Not that the Omnipotent ENGINEER has any Need of these impregnable Ramparts.—Here, it is true, they intervene; and not only repress the rolling Invader, but speak the supreme uncontrollable Power of their MAKER.—In other Places, all such laboured Methods of Fortification are laid aside. The CREATOR shews the astonished World, that He is confined to no Expedients, but orders all Things, according to the Pleasure of his own Will. He bids a low Bank of despicable Sand, sustain the Shock, and curb the Rage of furious assaulting Seas. Though the Waves thereof toss themselves, with incredible Fierceness, yet can they not prevail; though they roar, and seem to menace universal Destruction, yet can they not pass over † this slightest of Mounds.

A winding Passage broke the Declivity of the Descent; and led me, by a gradual Slope, to the Bottom.—The Moon being in her last Quarter, and the Tide at its greatest Recess, I walked for a while, where briny Waves were wont to flow.—The ebbing Waters had left a vacant Space, several Furlongs broad; equal in Length, to a very extended Vista; smooth on its Surface, as the most level Bowling-green; and almost as firm, as the best compacted Causey. Infomuch, that the Tread of a Horse scarce impresses it, and the Waters of the Sea never penetrate it.—Exclusive of this wise Contri-

* These, doubtless, are “the Doors and the Bars,” which the ALMIGHTY mentions in the Course of his awful Interrogatories to Job. The massy Doors, which can never be forced; the solid Bars, which can never be broke; and I may add, the conspicuous Columns, on which his Providence has inscribed that sovereign Mandate, Ne plus ultra. Or, as the Prohibition runs in his own majestic Words, Hitherto shalt thou go, but no farther; and here shall thy proud Waves be stayed. Job xxxviii. 11.

vance, the searching Waves would insinuate themselves into the Heart of the Earth. The Earth itself would be hollow as an Honey-comb, or bibulous as a Sponge. And the Sea, soaking by Degrees through all its Cavities, would, in Process of Time, forsake its Bed, and mingle with the Plains and Mountains. But this closely cemented or glutinous Kind of Pavement, is like claying the Bottom of the universal Canal. So that the returning Tides consolidate rather than perforate its Substance. By keeping it perpetually moist, they prevent the Sun from cleaving it with Chinks.—Such, I hope, will be the Case, with this Soul of mine, and the Temptations that beset me. Beset me they do, they will. But may they never win upon my Affections, nor gain Admittance into my Heart! Let them make me humble, and keep me vigilant; teach me to walk closely with my GOD, and urge me to an incessant Dependence on CHRIST. Then, instead of being ruinous, they may become advantageous; and instead of shattering, will only cleanse the Rock, on which they dash.

The mighty Waters, restless even in their utmost Tranquility, with a solemn* but placid Murmur, struck my Ear. The Billows, sometimes advancing to kiss the Sand; sometimes drawing back their curly Heads into the Deep; whitened, at their Extremities, into an agreeable Foam. Which, with the reflexive Representation of the azure Canopy, formed the Appearance of a majestic floating Mantle; tinged with a beautiful Blue, and edged with Fringes of Silver.—Dignity and Elegance, I find, are the inseparable Characteristics of the CREATOR'S Workmanship. As Comfort and Happiness, I sometimes perceive, are the very Spirit of his Gospel, and the genuine Produce of his Commands.

* This is described with inimitable Delicacy by HOMER;

Βη δ' ακων παρα θυι πολυφλοισβοιο θαλασσης.

There is, in the very Sound of the Epithet πολυφλοισβοιο such a fine Expressive Propriety; so happily adapted to the majestic Roar of the Ocean, and the pompous Swell of the Waves, Qualem neque nosstrare, & sentio tantum.

How numerous are these Sands! Bid an Accomptant take the Number of them. His Imagination recoils at the very Thought. "Number them! No; not the millionth Part, even in a thousand Years. Or should Time and Ability suffice, Figures would fail, and Words be insufficient." Nothing in the whole Round of Creation, can suggest a finer Image, to represent the greatest Multitude. It brings to my Mind one of the most picturesque and beautiful Passages, which I have met with in any Language. The Passage occurs in that noble Piece of historical and poetical Painting, the lxxviith Psalm. It describes the prodigious Quantity of Quails, with which the bountiful Hand of JEHOUVAH victualled, if I may so speak, the Israelitish Camp. He rained Flesh upon them as Dust, and feathered Fowls like as the Sand of the Sea.—Rained, is a very bold Metaphor; admirably expressive of Copiousness—As Dust; which in some parched Season, and near some populous City, covers and overwhelms the public Road—Like the Sand of the Sea! is an Advance upon the preceding Comparison, and displays the miraculous Supply in a more striking Light. Methinks, I see the feathery Legions, lying Heaps upon Heaps; closely wedged, in vast Extent, and proportionable Depth. Resembling those Beds of Sand, which the ever-working Surges have, for Years and Ages, been throwing up, on the Confines of the Ocean.

The Sand of the Sea! One would imagine, this Comparison was emphatical enough, to denote any Multitude. But in one Instance, it is incompetent; it falls short. In denoting the profuse Liberality of JEHOUVAH to his unworthy Creatures. Consider the Multiplicity of Conveniencies, Comforts, Delights, which He has commanded every Element to afford Us. Consider the various Blessings which his sparing, delivering, protecting Providence has vouchsafed Us. Consider those better, far better Things, which the Gospel of his Grace offers to Us, in this World; and which his infinite Goodness has prepared for Us, in another World.

Consider

Consider all this, and We may truly say, He poureth his Benefits around Us: He heapeth his Mercies upon Us: yea, his Mercies and his Benefits, are MORE in Number than the Sand.

The Sand, in another View, excites the Idea of great Extent, or large Capacity. Those Waters are wide, but this Border of encircling Gravel is wider still. It may be called the Rim of the Vessel, which contains the unmeasurable Waves. Are any Arms extended to such a Length, as those which stretch themselves quite round the World of Waters? Within whose ample Circumference, the Surges of the Atlantic and Pacific, the Billows of the northern and the southern Ocean, find Room to spread, and swell, and roll at large? Once again let me admire the uncommon Boldness, and exquisite Propriety of the Scriptural Comparisons. They set forth the Wisdom of Solomon, by this most apposite and magnificent Image. GOD gave Solomon Wisdom and Understanding, exceeding much; and Largeness of Heart, extensive and capacious, even as the Sand that is upon the Sea-shore.

A single Glance on his Accomplishments will evince the Truth of this Character. As a Moralist, He spake three thousand Proverbs; weighty with Sense, concisely worded, and of excellent Use in the Conduct of Life.—As a Poet, His Songs were a thousand and five; embellished (if We may judge from the Specimen, that is come down to our Hands) with the richest Imagery, animated with the tenderest Affection, and ennobled with the most refined Sentiments.—As a Philosopher, He had an extraordinary Insight into the Mysteries of Nature. For He made Observations on the Animals, which inhabit every Element; their Natures, their Qualities, their Uses. He spake also of Trees, from the Cedar-Tree, that is in Lebanon, even to the Hyssop, that springeth out of the Wall.—Yea; so unconfined was the Compass of his intellectual Abilities, that He gave his Heart to seek and to search concerning all Things, that are done under the Sun. With such Success did He prosecute his his Inquiries, that there came of all People to hear the Wisdom of Solomon. Studious Persons, from all the neighbouring Nations, resorted to his Court; that they might learn from this consummate Scholar, and kindle their Tapers at his Lamp. What added unspeakable Lustre to these distinguished Endowments, they were so many Handmaids to the great Mistress of all, divine Grace. He taught both Subjects and Foreigners, to fear GOD and keep his Commandments. Making all his Lectures subservient and conducive to true Religion.

Was ever Mind so wonderfully enlarged, and so richly furnished? Yet, when he comes to cast up the Reckoning, to acquaint Us with the Sum total of his Acquirements, He places this humbling Acknowledgment, at the Foot of the Account; That which is wanting, cannot be numbered. Much I have searched; much I have found; but that which is wanting, that which is still to be discovered, is incomparably more. The Objects of Science are an unbounded Abyss. I have only skimmed the Surface, and coasted the Shores. What remains to be explored, in those vast Spaces, which lie between the Range of a finite Mind, and the Perfections of the infinite GOD; this surpasses the Power of Language to tell, or of Arithmetic to count. It cannot be numbered.—Admirable Man! I know not which are most conspicuous, the Humility and Modesty of his Sentiments; the very superior Strength of his Faculties, and the vast Compass of his Knowledge; or the noble Similitude, by which the latter are displayed.

On one Side, the Atlantic Main rolled its Surges from World to World.—Immense, immense Diffusion of Waters! What a Spectacle of Magnificence! What an irresistible Incitement to Reverence and Awe! How it fills the Mind, and amazes the Imagination! 'Tis the grandest and most august Object under the whole Heavens. It reminds me of that apocalyptic Vision, which John, the enraptured Seer, beheld! As it were a great Mountain burning with Fire, was cast into the Sea, and the third Part of the Sea became Blood; and the third Part *of the Creatures which were in the Sea, and had Life, died; and the third Part of the Ships were destroyed. I have not Penetration enough to discover the spiritual Meaning of this Passage; but I discern a most dreadful Grandeur, in its plain and literal Sense.—If We consider the wonderful Compass, and the terrible Force of such an enormous Mass of Fire; if We consider its horrible and destructive Effects, on such a vast Body of Waters, as the third Part of the Ocean; how tremendous and astonishing is the Idea! Surely, nothing but divine Inspiration could suggest these Images; as nothing but an Almighty Arm can execute this Vengeance. Who would not fear an eternal KING, that has such Weapons and such Artillery, reserved against the Day of Battle and War †.

Spacious as the Sea is, GOD has provided a Garment, to cover it. Profound as the Sea is, GOD has prepared swaddling Bands, to inwrap it. Ungovernable as it may seem to Us, He over-rules it with as much Ease, as the Nurse manages a new-born Infant ‡. An Infant it is, before Almighty Power; and to an Infant it is compared, by JEHOVAH Himself; though, to our Apprehension, it raves like a stupendous Madman.—Tossing mighty Fleets, with their Thousands and Millions of Tons, like a Tennis-Ball; and shattering them, with their Ribs of Oak and Iron, like an Egg-Shell.

Yet if GOD commands, this outrageous Element opens a peaceful Bosom, and receives his People. It smooths the Way for their Passage, and stands as a Bulwark for their Defence. They march through the Midst of the Sea upon dry Ground, and the Waters, in hanging Heaps, or rather in fluid Mountains, are a Wall unto them on their Right-hand and on their left ||.—If he reverses his Mandate, they drive down, with an irresistible Sweep, upon the Hosts of Pharaoh; and overwhelm

The Chariots and Horses of Egypt. They pour Confusion upon Arrogance *, and disappoint the Designs of Persecution and Cruelty.—If He says, Be still: the bel- lowing Surges are hushed; and the gentlest Lamb is not so quiet. If He says, Destroy: even the quiescent Waters kindle into Rage; they rise in their MAKER's Cause; and ten thousand Lions, stung with Hunger, and rushing upon their Prey, are not so fierce. When He bids them execute any other Commission; the Horse broke to the Bit, the Spaniel disciplined to the Signal, are not half so dutiful and obsequious. Shall our Passions be more wild and headstrong than the Winds; more turbulent and ungovernable than the Billows? Forbid it, Almighty LORD! Thou that rulest the Raging of the Sea, and the Noise of his Waves; restrain, subdue, and calm the Madness of the People.

The Eye travels hard. It wanders over a vast Length, and vast Breadth of fluctuating Plains †. It reaches the Limits of the Horizon, where Skies and Waves seem to mingle. Yet it has scarce made an Entry upon the World of Waters.—Was I placed on the Summit of Atlas, or could I take a Survey from the Peak of Teneriffe, even in this commanding Situation, I should discern no more, than the Skirts of the great and wide Sea. The very Spirit of a Thraso breathes in every Syllable of this beautiful Prosopopeia. Never was the Language of Bluster, Ferocity, and Rhodantade, so finely mimicked.—How noble is the Turn, and how exalted the Sentiment, which follows; THOU didst blow with thy Wind; the Sea covered them; they sank as Lead in the mighty Waters. The GOD of Ijrael need not summon all his Power, or level the right-aiming Thunderbolts; He only gives a Blast with the Breath of his Displeasure, and the great Mountain breaks like a Bubble. All this insolent and formidable Parade is quashed; sinks into Nothing; expires in Shame and Ruin. Exod. xv. 9, 10.

and float all around ; yet Tracts incomparably broader, are still behind ; and Tracts of unbounded Extent, are behind even those.

Great then, O my Soul, inconceivably great, must that adored and glorious SOVEREIGN be, who sitteth upon this Flood ; and the World of Waters, is but as the Footstool to his Throne *. Nay ; Who holds the mighty Waves, diffused as they are, from Pole to Pole in the Hollow of his Hand ; and before whom, in all their prodigious Dimensions, they are but as the Drop of a Bucket.—How shall Reptiles of the Ground sink low enough in their own Apprehensions ! What Humiliation can be sufficiently deep for sinful Mortals, before this “ High and Holy ONE ! ” Yet how may they rise on the Wings of Hope ! How may they soar on the Pinions of Faith ! When, in the Language of his Prophet, and in his own SON’S Name, they thus address the everlasting GOD. Awake ! Awake ! Put on Strength, O Arm of the LORD ! Awake, for our Succour and Security, as in the antient Days, in the Generations of old. Art Thou not it, that bath cut Rahab, and wounded the Dragon ? Art Thou not it, which bath dried the Sea, the Waters of the great Deep ? That bath made the Depths of the Sea, a Way for the Ransomed to pass over † ?

How grand, surprisngly grand and majestic, are the Works, as well as the Attributes of an Omnipotent BEING ! What are all the Canals in all the Kingdoms of the Earth, compared with this immense Reservoiry ? What are all the superb Edifices, erected by royal Munificence, compared with yonder Concave of the Skies ! And what are the most pompous Illuminations of Theatres and triumphant Cities, compared with the resplendent Source of Day ! They are a Spark, an Atom, a Drop.—Nay, in every Spark, and Atom, and Drop, which proceeds from the Hand of the ALMIGHTY, there is the Manifestation of a Wisdom and a Power absolutely incomprehensible.

Let us examine a single Drop of Water, the very least Quantity, which the Eye can discern; only so much, as will just adhere to the Point of a Needle. In this almost imperceptible Speck, a famous Philosopher computes no less than thirteen thousand Globules. Amazing to conceive! Impossible to explicate!—If then in so small a Speck, abundantly more than ten thousand Globules exist, what Myriads of Myriads must float in the unmeasured Extent of the Ocean!—Let the ablest Arithmetician try to comprehend in his Mind, not the internal Constitution, but only the Number of these fluid Particles. As well may he grasp the Winds in his Fist, or mete out the Universe with his Span, as execute the Task.—If then we are utterly unable to number (which is the most superficial of all Researches) even the most common Works of the great JEHOVAH; how can We pretend to lay open the Secrets, and penetrate the Recesses of his infinite Mind? How can We pretend to investigate the whole Process, and solve all the Difficulties, of that highest and deepest of the divine Schemes, REDEMPTION.

I have sometimes been offended, I must confess, Aspasio, when You have enlarged upon the mysterious Truths of Christianity. And I have often been surprised, to observe, in our LORD's Character, the joint Appearance of human Weakness and heavenly Majesty. To see Him encompassed with every bodily Want, and every innocent Infirmary; yet claiming every divine Perfection, every Attribute of that peerless ONE, who shares not his Glory with another.—But I perceive, the Beam was in my own Eye, when I fancied, the Mote was in my Friend's. The Mist was not on the Scriptures, but Darkness on my own Apprehensions.

Is there, in every Ray of Light, and in every Particle of Matter, a Depth of Contrivance unfathomable by the Line of any human Understanding? And shall there be nothing abstruse or profound, nothing but what is level to our scanty Apprehensions, in the great * Things of GOD's Law, and the glorious † Things of his Gospel? To expect this, is just as wise in itself, and just as congruous to Nature, as to expect—a Sea, whose Cavities might have been digged by our Spade—a Sky, whose Arches are measurable by our Compasses—a Sun, whose Orb may be included in our Lanthorns.
nothing

When therefore I read of ONE uncreated and eternal BEING, subsisting in THREE Divine PERSONS ‡; when I hear of an infinitely pure and perfect GOD, made Flesh for the Redemption of sinful Men; when I meditate on the righteous and universal JUDGE, reconciling the World unto Himself, by the Death of his own SON;—when a thousand curious and inquisitive Thoughts are ready to rise on the Occasion; I will bid them first sound the Depths of a single Drop, and then apply their Plummet to the boundless Ocean. This, I am very sure, is not weak Credulity, nor wild Enthusiasm; but the maturest Dictate of Reason, and the very Precision of Truth.—Let then the great CREATOR make that sublime Declaration; As the Heavens are higher than the Earth, so are my Ways, than your Ways; and my Thoughts than your Thoughts ||. Let every human Creature add that humble Acknowledgment; O the Depths of the Riches, both of the Wisdom and Knowledge of GOD! How unsearchable are his Judgments, and his Ways past finding out §! And not Devotion only, but Reason and Truth, will say Amen to both.

‡ It is well said, by an Anonymous Author, “while the Scripture clearly distinguishes those Works, wherein the DEITY appears acting alone, it also points out THREE, who are often declared to be ONE, as acting each his Part in the same Work. And particular Care is taken to ascribe every divine Work and Perfection to HIM, who humbled Himself unto Death; that the Evidence might be very clear, where the Objection might seem strongest; and this not in a few more obscure Passages, but in the most open Manner throughout the Scripture.”

You see, Aspasio, how I am trying to adopt your Spirit. You will observe the willing Scholar, though not the great Proficient.—But stay! Is this right! To divert from such commanding Subjects, and take notice of mere Punctilios?—My Friend may spare his Frowns. I am surpris'd and angry at myself. Away with the little Arts of Self-recommendation. Self should be forgot, should be swallowed up and lost in devout Astonishment, when We are viewing the Magnificence, and meditating on the Wonders of Creation.

Behind me, and far off to the North, Cambria's dusky Coasts, just, and but just, emerged. Lost were all her Woods and Mountains. Instead of ornamented Towns, and cultivated Plains, a confused Mist, or a low-hung Cloud, seem'd to hover on the Ocean's remotest Brim.—Behind me! Remembrance is roused at the Expression, and Conscience sharpens her Sting. Ah! how often and how long, have I treated in this very Manner, the noblest Scenes, and the sublimest Joys! Have turned my Back—ungrateful and besotted Creature!—upon the heavenly Country, and wandered from the Regions of infinite Delight! Therefore now they appear dim. I have scarcely a Glimpse of their transcendent Excellencies.—Or if I see them by Faith, it is with frequent Intermissions, and much Obscurity.—Turn me, O Thou GOD of my Salvation, turn me from pursuing Phantoms, and attach me to thy blessed Self. Let me henceforth steer an invariable Course to IMMANUEL'S Kingdom. May its Treasures, as I advance, open to my View, and its Glories brighten in my Eye. lestial Shores!—But chiefly thou eternal SPIRIT breathe upon my Soul, both by thy convincing and comforting Influences! Nor ever cease to swell my Sails, and speed my Progress; till I arrive at *the Land, that is very far off. That happy Land, where I shall see the KING, the KING of Grace and of Glory, in all his transcendent and ineffable Beauty.

On my Left-hand, stood a Range of mountainous Cliffs. They arose, not sloping, but in a perpendicular Direction. Rocks piled on Rocks! Huge; black; horrid! Frowning over the Flood, and extending themselves, as far as the Eye could reach. Here, bending, inwards to the Land; there, bellying out into the Deep; every where projecting a Shade, several Leagues a-crofs the Ocean.

The Height of these Cliffs so formidable, that every human Creature who comes near the Summit, starts back terrified and aghast. Only a few straggling Goats venture to graze on the Top: and these, to a Person walking below, appear but as Specks of moving White. While the Sea-mews, that winnow the Air about the middle Steep, look like winged Animalcules, pursuing their little Sports in a different Region.—The Aspect of these Cliffs so wild and horrid, it is impossible to behold them without a shivering Dread. The Spectator is apt to imagine, that Nature had formerly suffered some violent Convulsions, or been shattered by the flaming Bolts; and that these are the dismembered Remains of the dreadful Stroke. The Ruins, not of Persepolis or Palmyra, but of the World!

Amazing! What adventurous daring Creature is yonder, gathering Sampfire from the Cavities of the Rocks! He has let Himself down several Fathom, beneath the bleak and dizzy Summit.—He gleans a poor Livelihood, from the Edges of Danger, shall I say? Rather from the Jaws of Death †. I cannot discover the Rope, to which he clings. He seems to be suspended over the tremendous Precipice, by a Thread, by a Hair, by Nothing.—I'll look no longer. The very Sight chills my Veins. While I view his perilous Elevation, I can think of nothing but a headlong Downfal, and fractured Bones; of Brains left to reek on the pointed Crags, and Blood streaming on the discoloured Beach.

Suppose (if the Mind can bear so shocking a Supposition) some poor Wretch, exposed on the Brow of this stupendous Promontory; without any Support for his Feet; and cleaving only to a weak slender Shrub, which but just adheres to the Crevices of the Rock. What tumultuous Throbbings seize his Breast? What a dying Paleness invades his Cheeks? What Agonies of Fear rend his Heart? As he Hangs, projecting over the ragged Precipice; and surveys the Ocean deep, wondrous deep below!—The Bough gives way. His only Hope fails. It yields more and more to his Weight. Good Heavens! He sinks! He sinks! O! for some friendly Hand, to snatch him from perishing! Millions, Millions of Gold, were the cheap Purchase of such a Mercy.

There was a Time, my Soul, when thou wast in a Situation, equally shall I say? Incomparably more dangerous. Tottering, not only on the Verge of Life, but on the very Brink of Hell. Often remember thy Peril. Often review the formidable Scene. Stand in silent Recollection, upon the Edges of the Precipice, to which Sickness led thee; on which Death pursued thee; and from which both were confederated to cast thee headlong.—Look down into the yawning Gulph, and the bottomless Abyss. See the infernal Prison, and the Sinners that are gone to their own Place. Hear their Weeping and Wailing, the Gnashing of their Teeth, and their inconsolable Anguish. Observe the Chains of Darkness; the devouring Flame, and the everlasting Burnings. Couldst thou have dwelt in that Lake of Fire and Brimstone? Couldst thou have taken up thy Abode amidst those hellish Fiends? Couldst thou have lingered

lingered out eternal Ages, in that insupportable and inconceivable Woe?—Bless then, adore and bless the compassionate Arm, which was stretched out, in the very Article of Need, to rescue Thee from this great, approaching, endless Perdition. Never, never forget that gracious Voice, which said—in Accents sweeter than the Music of the Seraphic Choir—“ Deliver him from going “ down into the Pit. Let his Health be restored, and “ his Day of Grace be prolonged.”

In some Places, the hideous Ruins not only tower to the Skies, but lean over the Strand. Prominent and frightfully pendulous, they nod Horror, and threaten Destruction on all below. A Person congratulates Himself, when he has got clear of the bending Precipice; and can hardly forbear thinking, that the enormous Load is withheld by some unseen Hand, till the execrable Wretch, doomed to a most astonishing Vengeance, is come within Reach of the Blow. And truly, if he had the Strength of the Elephant, or the Firmness of the Behemoth, this must grind Him to Powder, or even crush Him into Atoms.

How awful to consider! That there is a Day coming, when wicked Potentates, and haughty Monarchs, will beg of yonder Seas, to yawn compassionately deep, and hide them in their darkest Abysses; hide them from the piercing Eye, and avenging Sword, of inflexible Justice.—That there is a Day coming, when the soft Voluptuary, the wanton Beauty, and all the Ungodly of the Earth, will beseech those tremendous Ridges, with their insupportable Burden of Rocks, to rush down upon their guilty Heads*. If, by this means, they may be screened from the infinitely more dreaded Weight of divine Indignation.

Vain are their Cries; and vainer still would be their Refuge, should their passionate Requests be granted. Can Floods conceal the impious Wretches; when the Abysses of the Ocean shall be laid bare, and the Foundations of the World be discovered? When the Caverns of the Earth, and the Bottoms of the Mountains, shall be visible as the naked Plain?—Can Rocks secrete an obnoxious Rebel; when Rocks, with all their marble Quarries, and adamantine Entrails, shall dissolve like melting Wax? When Hills, that plunge their Roots to the Center, and lose their towering Heads in Air, shall start from their affrighted Base*, and flee away like Chaff before the Wind!—Good GOD †! What rack-

* This brings to our Remembrance a most sublime Description of the Divine POWER, which arises in a beautiful Climax, and terminates in this grand Idea, The Voice of the LORD is mighty in Operation, the Voice of the LORD is a glorious Voice. The Voice of the LORD breaketh the Cedars; yea, the LORD breaketh the Cedars of Lebanon. He maketh them also to skip like a Calf; Lebanon and Sirion like a young Unicorn. Psal. xxix. 4, 5, 6.

The Voice of the LORD is mighty in Operation. This is the general Proposition; which, in the following Sentences, We see most magnificently illustrated.—The Voice of the LORD breaketh the Cedars; when He speaks in Thunder, and bids the Lightning execute his Orders, the Trees, the Cedar-Trees, those sturdy Productions of the Earth, are shivered to pieces.—Yea, the LORD breaketh the Cedars of Lebanon; which, for Stateliness and Strength, surpass the Oaks of the Forest, surpass every Tree of the Field, almost as much as the Oak exceeds a Shrub.—It is a small Thing with JEHOVAH, to rend the Trunks, and tear up the Roots, of those massy Bodies; even Lebanon and Sirion, the incomparably greater Mountains on which they grow, skip like a Calf. They are thrown into strange Commotions. They are ready to spring from their Foundations. With all their Load of Woods and Rocks, they appear like some affrighted or some sportive Animal, that starts with Horror, or leaps with Exultation.

† Good GOD!—This Exclamation is introduced on a very serious Occasion, and used with an apparent Air of Reverence. Under which Circumstances, perhaps, it may sometimes be allowable, and not dishonourable to the Divine MAJESTY. But, when it is admitted into ordinary Conversation, on trifling Occurrences, and with a Levity of Temper; it is itself a very great Offence, and discovers a very irreligious Spirit.—It is so great an Offence, that the GOD of Heaven and Earth, declares Himself the Avenger of all such Transgressors. He will not hold them guiltless, or he will assuredly punish them. And if GOD condemn, who shall acquit? If HE will punish, who can deliver from his Hand?—It discovers a very irreligious Spirit; is a most dangerous Symptom; somewhat like a Plague-Spot on the Conversation. It shews, that there is no saving Health, no Life of GOD in the Soul. Was there any Sensibility in the Conscience, any Grace ing Anguish must they feel! What inexpressibly severer Torment must they fear! Who can implore, ardently implore as a most desirable Favour, what Imagination itself shudders to conceive.

In some Places, these mountainous Declivities lift their Brow aloft; plant their Basis deep; and, instead of portending a Fall, defy the Fury of the most impetuous Elements. Firmly consolidated, and stedfastly established, they have withstood the united, the repeated Assaults of Winds and Waves, through a long Series of revolving Ages.—The sacred Writers, I observe, select almost all the striking Images, which the whole Creation affords; in order to communicate their heavenly Ideas, with the greatest Advantage. Isaiab, describing the Security of the Righteous, takes his Comparison from the grand Spectacle before my Eyes. He shall dwell on high: his Place of Defence shall be the Munitions of Rocks *; inaccessible as those lofty Ridges, immovable as their everlasting Foundations.

Should it be asked, what these Munitions of Rocks may signify?—I find two Places of Refuge and Safeguard, pointed out in Scripture; to either of which, I believe, the Metaphor is applicable. He had Horns, says one of the divine Pindarics, coming out of his Hand: there was the hiding of his Power †. † Habak iii. 4. Horns were an Emblem of Strength. A Horn of Salvation, is put for a mighty and effectual Salvation. Luke ii. 69. Thou hast heard me from among the Horns of the Unicorns; Thou hast rescued me from the most potent and formidable Enemies. Psal. xxii. 21. Here the Word seems to denote that Power of JEHOVAH, to which nothing is impossible. And more than seems, if We consult the next Clause.—There was the Hiding of his Power; or, as it may be rendered, his powerful Hiding, a most secure Refuge, a Sanctuary absolutely inviolable. I have accommodated this Passage to a different Sense, Meditat. p. 130. 25th Edit. But the true Signification, most suitable to the Context, and most subservient to the Prophet's Design, is, I apprehend, and omnipotent Power was lodged in the great JEHOVAH's Hand; and this was the sure Defence, this the impregnable Garrison, for all his People.—The Church of CHRIST is said to be in the Clefts of the Rock * : That spiritual Rock, of which the Israelites drank in the Wilderness; whose venerable and precious Clefts were opened, when the bloody Spear tore up the REDEEMER's Side, and cut a wide and deadly Passage to his Heart. Surely, the Inhabitants of this Rock have Reason to sing †. What should disquiet them? Who can destroy them? Why should not the Voice of Joy be in their Dwellings, and that Hymn of holy Triumph in their Mouths? We have a strong City: Salvation hath GOD appointed, Salvation itself, for Walls and Bulwarks †.—Happy should I think myself, if I was interested in this SAVIOUR, and established on this Rock.

Yonder, on the Summit of the most conspicuous Cliff, is erected a grand and stately Pile: At the Top, my Glass discovers a superb Lanthorn; at the Foot, are the Huts of Fishermen, surrounded with various Sorts of Nets.—It is, I suppose, a Light-house. Intended to apprehend, given by Theron. It is somewhat like an exalted Sentiment in the Night-Thoughts; which, with a small Alteration, may serve as a Paraphrase on the Text:

And Nature's Shield the Hollow of his Hand.

A Christian's Shield the Hollow of his Hand.

Which presents Us also with such rich and charming Displays of the Glory of CHRIST's Person, the Freeness of his Grace to Sinners, and the Tenderness of his Love to the Church, as cannot but administer the most refined Delight to the believing Soul.—Considered in both these Views, I think, the Work resembles the Paradisaical Garden, described by MILTON; in which apprise the Sailor, of his Danger; and shew Him, where the Shelves lurk, and where the Whirlpool boils. Or else to point out the Course He should steer; and conduct him into a safe Road, and secure Harbour.

Both the Situation, and Design of the Building read me a Lesson: the one of awful Admonition, the other, of comfortable Instruction.—Comfortable Instruction. How massy and ponderous is the Edifice! Yet, there is not the least Reason to be apprehensive, of Failure or Insufficiency, in the Foundation. Was the Structure ten thousand Times larger; was its Weight ten thousand Times greater; the solid Rock would support it, with the utmost Ease, and the utmost Steadiness. Such is CHRIST; such are his Merits; such his glorious Righteousness, to those wise and blessed Souls, who rest all the Weight of their eternal Interests on Him alone. Such, did I say? Much surer. For *the Mountains may depart, and the Hills may be removed; but this divine Basis can never sink, can never be shaken.—Awful Admonition! For, it recals to my Memory that alarming, yet welcome Text †, which You styled the spiritual Light-house. Which has been as serviceable, to my distressed Mind, and bewildered Thoughts; as such an illuminated Watch-tower, to the wandering and benighted Mariner. May I often view it! Ever attend to its faithful Direction! And be with-held, by its Interposition, from that devouring Gulph, and that destructive Shoal, Dependance on Self-righteousness. Be led, by its Influence, into the Haven—the fair and happy Haven of Salvation and Grace.

Now I have mentioned Havens, I cannot but admire the State and Disposition of the Shore. I see, even in its rude and shapeless Form, a most pleasing Display of Divine Good-will to Men.—In arranging this vast Assemblage of Earth and Water, the ALMIGHTY Disposer has kept a continual Eye upon our Benefit. Were the Shores straight, like the Walls of our Garden; or smooth, like some polished Globe; they might seem more orderly and graceful. But how detrimental such a Piece of Delicacy, to Navigation, to Commerce, and the Prosperity of human Affairs! Our Ships, in stormy Weather, would be like straggling Parties of vanquished and flying Troops; pursued by an enraged Enemy, and shut out from every Fortrefs, every Place of Refuge.

This GOD's infinite Wisdom foresaw, and his infinite Goodness determined to prevent. For which Purpose, He made the Boundaries of the great Deep, not even and shapely, but most advantageously ragged and irregular.—Here, the Earth is scooped and excavated, for many Miles; as if it had been bored, by some prodigiously large Auger.—There it sinks, and turns, and winds, somewhat like the Wards of a Lock; giving easy Admission to our Ships and Fleets, but barring the Access of furious and destructive Surges.—Yonder, two huge Promontories, horrible to behold, advance, as it were with haughty Strides, into the Deep. They frown over the Abyss; but look, with the most smiling Aspect, on the weather-beaten Bark. Amidst the Arms of these frightful, but friendly Cliffs, the Sailor and his Vessel find Shelter, Repose, and Safety.—In one or other of these various Harbours, they drop their Fear, as they drop their Anchor; and defy the Rage of Tempests, and care not for all the Madness of the Ocean.

How many Thousands and Millions of Lives, has this kind provisional Safeguard, rescued from Destruction! Without these most commodious Receptacles the Sea would be covered with Wrecks; and the Waves be little better than a Grave for the Mariners. But, putting into some hospitable Port, they are beyond the Reach of Danger. Though howling Winds rend the Sky, and fiercest Hurricanes toss the Sea, they abide in perfect Security. Thus they abide, till the Storm is hushed; till the Billows subside; and a Calm takes place.

Such, methinks, is the State, the happy State of the Righteous. Who can say, with Faith and in Truth,

The

The eternal GOD is our Refuge. What Haven can be so safe, as his omnipotent Protection? As the Arm of his Power, and the Wings of his Providence? In the midst of Perils, their Persons are secure. Surrounded by Enemies, their Persons are undismayed. Even when it shall hail, coming down on the Forest; and the City shall be low in a low Place; thy People, O LORD, shall dwell in a peaceable Habitation, and in sure Dwellings, and in quiet Resting-places *.

Let

* Isa. xxxii. 18, 19. Upon this Text, I beg Leave to make a short Paraphrase, and add a critical Remark.—My People, says GOD, shall dwell in a peaceable Habitation, and in sure Dwellings, and in quiet Resting-places. Abiding in CHRIST; cleaving to his great Atonement; and always beholding themselves complete, in his everlasting Righteousness; they shall “pass their Time in Rest and Quietness.”—Having Peace with GOD; Tranquility in their Conscience; and Security from their spiritual Enemies.

This Tranquility, perhaps, is to be enjoyed only in halcyon Days; when Peace and Repose are common Blessings.—No, but in Times of Confusion and Disorder; when Danger spreads Alarm, and Ruin scatters Havock, all around. When it shall hail with a destructive Hail upon the Forest, and the City shall be utterly demolished. When GOD's Judgment, like an impetuous, irresistible, destroying Hail, shall beat down Forests, though the Growth of Ages; shall overthrow Kingdoms, whose Inhabitants are numerous as the Trees of the Wood; and lay mighty Cities even with the Ground.

A most beautiful Contrast, between the Security of JEHOVAH's People, and the Destruction of his Enemies. Which Contrast is, like all Isaiab's Images, painted in the most lively Colours; but much obscured, by the Masoretic Punctuation, and the English Version. It shall hail, coming down on the Forest. How unnecessary and jejune is the Circumstance of coming down, when connected with it shall hail! Can We suppose the latter to exist, without the former? Or does the Consideration of the former, add either Force or Beauty to the latter? Whereas, read the Words without the Points, or let them be pointed in the following Manner, בָּרַר בְּרוּחַ, and We are presented with a very significant and forcible Hebraism, Grandinando grandinabit; Hailing it shall hail. It shall hail with great Violence and Impetuosity, that bears down every Thing. Destroying alike Forests and Cities. Laying both the stately Trees, and superb Edifices, in Ruin.

I would not therefore translate בשפלה העיר תשפל The City shall be low in a low Place. The low Place, in this Connection, seems to be quite ἀπρεπὸς καὶ ἀσημαντόν, ungraceful and insignificant. If a City is demolished, it matters very little or not at all, whether the Work of Fate

Let me but once again survey those rude but majestic Elevations, those wild but noble Deformities, the Cliffs.—Fortifications, reared by an Almighty Hand, to protect us at once from warring Elements, and invading Enemies.—Ramparts, which overlook and command the Ocean; and viewed by distant Mariners, seem to touch or prop the Sky. Which have surrounded our Isle ever since the universal Deluge, and will be her never failing Defence even to the general Conflagration.—If some opinionated Engineer should take it into his Head, to suspect the Stability of those unshaken Bulwarks: if He should make Proposals for strengthening them with Buttresses, or girding them round with Cramping-Irons! How would his Project be received? With Approbation and Applause? Or with the Sneer of Contempt, and the Hiss of Indignation? “Fool that He is! To think of enlarging and corroborating these magnificent and everlasting Works of Nature, by the puny Piddlings of Art!”—Such, so foolish and preposterous, is that once favourite Conceit, of adding my own Performances, in order to increase the justifying Efficacy of CHRIST's Obedience. What a Disparagement this to the great, the divine Foundation! Which, for the Support of burdened, and the Security of indangered Sinners, is sufficient—is self-sufficient—is all-sufficient.

Hark! Whence is that shrill Noise? It is what Milton calls, the Sea-Mew's Clang. I look round and find her by her Voice. How she plays on the Breeze, and sports on the Surge! Free as the first, unconfined as the last. Sometimes I see her sweeping the lofty Cliffs, or skimming the level Deep. Sometimes I behold her springing in the Air, and soaring far above the Summit of the be executed, in a high or low Place. Whereas, the Circumstance, which the sacred Original describes, is truly important and awful. The Words may be translated, Dejiciendo dejicietur, or, In Planitiem humiliabitur. It shall be utterly overthrown, or made flat as a Plain. The whole City, with all its Buildings, whether mean or magnificent, shall be broken down; laid low as the Dust; low as Lowness itself.

Admiral's Mast. Anon she shoots as low into the Heart of the Ocean, loses our Sight, and seems lost to the World. On a sudden, the feathery Diver emerges; shakes the Brine from her Wings; rises on those strong Pinions; and, with a triumphant Scream, flits along the Shores, or sails through the Skies.

How wonderfully has PROVIDENCE fitted this and some other Animals, to sojourn in either Element? Be they in the moist or dry, in the dense or rare, in the buoyant Atmosphere or the overwhelming Flood, it is all alike to them. They are Citizens of either Region; and are presented, if I may so speak, with the Freedom both of Sea and Land.—Is not this a significant Emblem of that happy Temper described by St. Paul, and exemplified in his Conduct. I have learned, in whatever State I am, therewith to be content. I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound. Every where, and in all Things, I am instructed, both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound, and to suffer Need *.

Now We behold Him in Prosperity. He rides upon the high Places of the Earth, with Sun-shine all around Him. He is received as CHRIST JESUS, and respected as an Angel of GOD. People are willing to pluck out their own Eyes, and give them to him.—Ere long the Scene shifts, and We behold Him in Adversity. He is smitten into the Place of Dragons, and covered with the Shadow of Death. His own familiar Friends forsake Him. His Enemies come about Him like exasperated Bees. And the general Cry is, “Away with such a Fellow from the Earth.”—Yet what Equanimity is preserved amidst these startling Revolutions! Like the Caspian Sea, which neither ebbs nor flows, He is still the same: the same humble, zealous, heavenly-minded Christian. Unchanged by Vicissitude, He stoops with Dignity, or ascends with Ease. Alacrity in His Business, and Complacency in his Condition, are His inseparable Attendants. In all Things approving

* Phil. iv. 11, 12:

Himself the Minister of GOD, and the Friend of Man. —But let us hear his own Words. They are inimitably beautiful. I never read, in any Author, a greater Sublimity of Sentiment ; and I never observed, in any Description, a more genuine Magnificence of Spirit.

As amphibious Animals live and move, either in Air or Water ; so, says the Apostle, We pass unhurt and unaffected, *through Honour and Dishonour, through evil Report and good Report. As Deceivers, and yet true ; as unknown, and yet well known ; as dying, and behold we live ; as chastened, and not killed ; as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing ; as poor, yet making many rich ; as having nothing, yet possessing all Things . What a noble Superiority to all external Circumstances. This is Liberty indeed. He is more than Conqueror over every Wrong and over all Tribulation. This is the exalted Character. This the truly great Man.

How changeable is the Face of this liquid Element ! Not long ago, there was nothing from this stony Boundary, to the Horizon's utmost Verge, but the wildest Tumult and most horrible Confusion. Now the stormy Flood has smoothed its rugged Brow, and the watery Uprore is lulled into a profound Tranquility. Where rolling Mountains rushed and raged, threatening to dash the Clouds, and deluge the Earth ; there the gentlest Undulations play, and only just wrinkle the Surface of the mighty Bason. Where the dreadful Abyss opened its wide and unfathomable Jaws, to swallow up the trembling Sailor, and his shattered Vessel ; there a calm and clear Expanse diffuses its ample Bosom, alluring the Fish to bask in the Sun, and inviting the Sea-fowl to watch for their Prey.

In this fair floating Mirror, I see the Picture of every Cloud, which passes through the Regions of the Sky. But in its uncertain and treacherous Temperature, I see more plainly the inconstant and ever variable Condition of human Affairs.—Yonder go the Ships. Some associated, like Constellations in the Expanse of Heaven. Some solitary, like Planets on the ethereal Road. Two or three are perfectly distinguishable. Their Sails are all expanded. They swell to the Breeze, and catch the rambling Gales. Their Keel ploughs the Wave, and their Hull shaves the level Deep. The Mariners, delighted with these peaceful Seas, and this serene, soothing State of Things, have, perhaps, no Apprehensions of Danger. They think not of the irresistible Storms, which may gather around them; nor of the shipwrecked Dead, that lie buried beneath them. I wish them a prosperous Voyage. Yet, sincerely as I wish it, I durst not undertake to ensure it. Soon may Clouds darken the Scene, and Lightnings glare amidst the Gloom. Soon may the Winds howl, and the Tempest rave. Nor Man, nor Angel, can ascertain the Continuance of this halcyon Weather, so much as a single Day, or even to the next Hour.—And let me not fondly promise myself an uninterrupted Tenor of Serenity in my Mind, or of Prosperity in my Circumstances. Sometimes, indeed, my Heart exults under the Smile of Heaven, and the Favour of GOD. But soon; ah! too soon I am clouded with Fear, and oppressed with Corruption. I sigh out that passionate Acknowledgment, Wretched Man that I am! And add that wishful Inquiry, Who shall deliver me?—For this disordered State of Things, the afflicted Patriarch's Complaint, is the most apposite Motto, and the most wholesome Memento; *Changes and War are around me.—But there is a World, where disastrous Revolutions will be known no more. Where our Enjoyments will no longer fluctuate like the Ocean, but be more steadfast than the Rocks, and more immovable than the Shores.

In this World, We are never secure. Calamity comes like a Thief in the Night; at a Time, when We are not aware; and from a Quarter, which We did not suspect. Out of such a composed Sea, which is the very Image of Tranquility, sometimes Destruction rises. And rises in its most dreadful Form.—A prodigious Detachment of Water issues from the Deep; and, by some unknown but wondrous Force, advances into the upper Regions. It spreads amidst the Clouds, or becomes itself a black and horrid Cloud. The Sea boils as the whirling Column ascends; and the Air roars, as it receives the unusual Weight. Laden with Ruin, and big with Death, the tremendous Meteor lours. It hovers, for a while, on the groaning Atmosphere; as though it was singling out its Prey, or taking the surest Aim. Then bursts—in a Moment bursts, and with irresistible Impetuosity falls. The Rock, torn from the Summit of a Mountain, and thundering down the Cliffs, plunges not into the foaming Brine, with Half the Fury or Half the Noise. The very Ocean is startled at the Shock *.

—But if a Ship, an unfortunate Ship, happens to be within the Reach of this precipitated Deluge, alas! no Strength of Timber can sustain, no Art of Sailors can elude the Blow. All is lost, irrecoverably lost. The Vessel is dashed into Shivers, or sinks like Lead in the mighty Waters.—So, only ten thousand Times deeper, must sinful Men have sunk; sunk, under the Wrath of GOD and the Curse of the Law, had not our gracious REDEEMER bore the Burden of both, in his own Body on the Tree.

Here, I see an immense Collection of Waters, in a State of deep Repose. Could I extend my View to some remoter Tracts, I should behold every Thing

* We have a very remarkable and terrible Account of a Water-Spout, recorded in the Philosophical Transactions.—"A Spout (Anno " 1718) breaking on Emott-Moor, near Cohn, in Lancashire, the Coun- " try was immediately overflowed; a Brook, in a few Minutes, rose " six Feet perpendicularly high; the Ground, whereon the Spout " fell, which was sixty Feet over, was tore up to the very Rock, " which was no less than seven Feet deep; and a deep Gulph made for " above half a Mile, the Earth being raised on either Side in great " Heaps."—What were the stoutest Ship beneath such a Load of fall- ing Waters? Like an Egg-shell under the Weight of a Pyramid.

smoother and calmer still. It frequently happens, on the eastern Coasts of Africa, that not a Ridge swells, nor a Furrow sinks, the Surface of the Ocean. 'Tis all like a glassy Plain. The Waves are asleep. Not a Gale stirs. Even the downy Feather, hung on the Cordage, is motionless. The Sea stagnates. The Mariner is becalmed; and his Vessel reels, but scarcely creeps.—Whereas, could I survey the Straits of Magellan, or the Gut of Gibraltar, I should find a very striking Difference. There, the Waters pour in with Vehemence, and rush forwards with Impetuosity. All is there in strong Agitation, and rapid Progress. The Ship is whirled through the narrow Passage; and rides, as it were, on the Wheels of the Surge, or on the Wings of the Wind.—This, my dear Aspasio, is a true Image of what I have been, and of what I am. Some Months ago, when I was insensible of Guilt, all my Prayers were listless, and all my Religion was a Kind of spiritual Lethargy. I felt not in my Heart what I uttered with my Tongue. Hosannas were but an empty Ceremony, and Confessions froze on my formal Lips.—But, since the SPIRIT of GOD has awakened me from my Dream, and convinced me of my Sinfulness, I can no longer be satisfied with indolent and yawning Devotions, Trials and Temptations put strong Cries into my Mouth. My Soul mourns before the LORD: my Desires plead with the Blessed GOD: and I am ready to say, as the Patriarch of old, “ I cannot, I must not, I will not let “ Thee go, unless Thou blest me *.”

I see no Flocks of Sheep, with sober Affiduity, nibbling the grassy Plains. No Lambs, with innocent Gaiety, and in little Parties of Pleasure, frisking along the sunny Banks. Here are no Stables for the generous Steed, nor Pastures for the lusty Heifer. Nevertheless, these watery Regions are stocked with Colonies of proper and peculiar Inhabitants.

* Gen. xxxii. 26,

Inhabitants! Is such a Thing possible? Can any Creature live in this suffocating Element? Can they move and act, propagate their Species, and continue from Generation to Generation; where We, if immerfed but a few Minutes, inevitably 'perish?—'Tis wonderful indeed! What We could not have believed, had We not seen with our Eyes, or known by sure Experience. The Existence and History of Fishes, without the Comment of Experience; would have seemed a philosophical Romance; something to Imagination amusing, but in Reality impossible.—Yet, through the Almighty Power of our GOD, not only living Creatures, but the greatest of living Creatures, are formed from under the Waters *. In Number countless, and in Bulk matchless. Yea, and have their Being, Life, and Health, in what We reckon the Seat of Suffocation and Death.

They are all clothed and accoutred, in exact Conformity to the Clime. Not in swelling Wool, or buoyant Feathers; not in a flowing Robe, or a full-trimmed Suit; but with as much Compactness, and with as little Superfluity, as possible. They are clad, or rather sheathed in Scales. Which adhere closely to their Bodies, and are always laid in a Kind of natural Oil. Than which Apparel nothing can be more light; at the same Time nothing more solid, and nothing so smooth. It hinders the Fluid from penetrating their Flesh; it prevents the Cold from coagulating their Blood; and ena-

* Job xxxvi. 5. It is said in our Translation, Dead Things are formed from under the Waters. But I think it is said very improperly. The Word is רפאים. Which signifies Gigantes, Giants; vast Creatures; of prodigious Size; in their enormous Bulk; exceeding the Animals, produced on the dry Land, as much as the Children of Anak, or Goliath of Gath, exceeded in Stature the ordinary Sons of Men.

This seems to be the Sense of the Passage, And it is a Sense extremely proper; as it expresses a grand Peculiarity, distinguishing the aquatic Animals. A Peculiarity, on which it was both obvious and judicious, for the sacred Writer to touch; and which, I believe, first strikes our Attention, whenever We contemplate the Natives of the Deep. There is that Leviathan, of most stupendous Magnitude, was the first great Observable in the Psalmist's Survey.

bles them to make their Way through the Waters with the utmost Facility. If, in their rapid Progress, they strike against any hard Substance, this their scaly Doublet breaks the Force of the Blow; and effectually secures them from Casualties, at least from Harm.

Their Shape is slender and tapering; fitted to divide the Waters, and to traverse, with the least Obstruction, a very resisting Medium.—Their Tail is extremely flexible. It consists of vigorous Muscles, and acts with uncommon Agility. By its alternate Impulse, it causes a progressive Motion; and by repeated Strokes, it darts the whole Body to any Distance.—They have each a curious Instrument *, by which they increase or diminish their specific Gravity; sink like Lead, or float like a Cork; rise to what Height, or descend to what Depth, they please.—Where-ever I turn my view, I perceive a Wisdom, perpetually fruitful of new Designs; a Power, completely executing whatever is projected; a Goodness, still, still communicating Comfort and Happiness—communicating them, in various, unsuspected, innumerable Ways—Nay, communicating them, both by what is withheld, and by what is imported! As these Creatures have, probably, no Occasion for the Sense of Hearing; as the Impressions of Sound have very little, if any, Existence in their Habitation; to have given them the useful Furniture of Ears, would have been an Incumbrance, rather than a Benefit.

This is the Abode of Leviathan, hugest of living Creatures. Before whom the broad-limbed Elephant, and the tall-necked Camel, are mere Shrimps. A stretched-out Promontory, when He sleeps; a moving Island, when He swims; “making the Sea to boil like “a Pot,” when, unwieldily wallowing, He takes his prodigious Pastime.—Here, the voracious Shark, that Assassin of the finny Nations, roams and commits his Ravages: imbrues his horrid Fangs, and marks his rapid Path, with Blood.—Here dwelt that great, and greatly surprizing Fish, whose Fiercenefs and Avidity the Almighty SOVEREIGN employed as his Purfuivant, to arrest a fugitive Prophet, Whose ample Jaws, or capacious Entrails, were the Dungeon to confine a rebellious Subject, and the Cabin to lodge a penitent Offender. Whose Bulk and Strength and Speed were a kind of Vessel, transporting this Convict to the Bottom of the Mountains, and the Bars of the Earth *. After the Criminal was fufficiently chaftifed, and properly humbled, they served as a Galley with Oars, to convey Him safe to Land.

In the fame Element resides, (at least takes up Part of his Residence) that formidable Monster, who is made without Fear, and has not his like upon Earth. He esteemeth the pointed Iron as Straw, and ponderous Brass as rotten Wood. His Heart is as hard as a Piece of nether Millstone, and its Scales are a Coat of impenetrable Mail. Strength not to be resisted, much less to be subdued, lies intrenched in his sinewy Neck. His Eyes are like the Eyelids of the opening Day; and when He rolls those glaring Orbs, there seems to be another Morn risen on Mid-noon. His Teeth are terrible, jagged for Rapine, and edged with Death. His Throat is as a burning Furnace; Clouds of Smoke are poured from his Nostrils, and Flakes of Fire issue from his Mouth. None, no not the most resolute, dares provoke Him to the Combat, or even stir Him up from his Slumbers. He laugheth at the shaking of the Spear, and Sorrow marcheth in Triumph before Him †. Whenever He raiseth Himself, the Mighty are afraid; wherever He advanceth, Ruin is there.—If a mere Creature is capable of spreading such Alarm and Dread; how greatly is the CREATOR himself to be feared! Who can turn the most harmless Inhabitant of the Ocean, into a ravenous Alligator, or a horrid Crocodile! Who can arm every Reptile of the Ground, with all the Force and Rage of a Lion!

'Tis impossible to enter on the Muster-roll, those scaly Herds, and that minuter Fry, which graze the Sea-weed, or stray through the coral Groves. They are innumerable, as the Sands which lie under them; countless, as the Waves which cover them.—Here are uncouth Animals, of monstrous Shapes*, and amazing Qualities †. Some, that have been discovered by the inquisitive Sketch of the Crocodile's Picture. It exhibits a few Circumstances, culled from that inimitable Description, extant in the Book of Job. Which are given, either in the sacred Writer's own Words, or else in a paraphrastic Explanation of their Sense.

* Monstrous Shapes—Such as the Sword-fish; whose upper Jaw is lengthened into a strong and sharp Sword. With which He sometimes ventures to attack the Ships, though armed with Thunder; and is capable of piercing their Sides, though ribbed with Oak. This may be called the Champion of the Waters. Who, though never exceeding sixteen Feet in Length, yet confiding in a Weapon at once so trusty and so tremendous, scruples not to give Battle even to the Whale Himself.—The Sun-fish has no Tail; seems to be all Head; and was it not for two fins, which act the Part of Oars, would be one intire round Mass of Flesh.—The Polypus, remarkable for its numerous Feet, and as many Claws: by which it has the Appearance of a mere Insect, and seems fitted only to crawl. At the same Time, an Excrecence arising on the Back, enables it to steer and pursue a steady Course in the Waves. So that it may pass under the two-fold Character of a Sailor and a Reptile.

† Amazing Qualities—Among these may be reckoned the Torpedo, which benumbs on a sudden, and renders impotent, whatever Fish it assaults. And, which is yet more extraordinary, strikes even the Fisherman's Arm, when He offers to lay hold on it, with a temporary Deadness. By this means, it possesses the double Advantage, of arresting its Prey, and securing itself.—The Cuttle-fish, furnished with a liquid Magazine, of a Colour and Consistence like Ink. Which, when pursued by an Enemy, the Creature emits, and blackens the Water. By this Artifice, the Foe is bewildered in the Chace; and while inquisitive Eye of Man; and many more, that remain among the Secrets of the hoary Deep.—Here are Sholes and Sholes, of various Characters, and of the most diversified Sizes; from the gigantic Whale, whose Flouncings “tempest the Ocean,” to the evanescent Anchovy, whose Substance dissolves in the smallest Fricassée.—Some, lodged in their pearly Shells, and fattening on their rocky Beds, seem attentive to no higher Employ, than that of imbibing moist Nutriment. These, but a small Remove from vegetable Life, are almost-rooted to the Rocks, on which they lie reposed. While others, active as the winged Creation, and swift as an Arrow from the Indian Bow, shoot along the yielding Flood, and range at large the spacious Regions of the Deep.

Here is the Tortoise, who never moves but under her own portable Pent-house. The Lobster, which, whether She sleeps or wakes, is still in a State of Defence, and while the One vainly gropes in the Dark, the Other seizes the Opportunity, and makes his Escape.—The Nautilus, whose Shell forms a natural Boat. The dextrous Inhabitant unfurls a Membrane to the Wind, which serves him instead of a Sail. He extends also a Couple of Arms, with which, as with two slender Oars, He rows Himself along. When he is disposed to retire or to act the Recluse, He strikes Sail; and, without any Apprehension of being drowned, sinks to the Bottom. When the Weather is calm, and He has an Inclination to see the World, or take his Pleasure, He mounts to the Surface; and, self-taught in the Art of Navigation, performs his Voyage without either Chart or Compass: is Himself the Vessel, the Rigging, and the Pilot.—The Polypus, mentioned in the preceding Note, whose Method of producing its Young, is very singular, and very wonderful. The young One issues from the Side of its Parent, in the Form of a small Pimple. Which, lengthening and enlarging continually, becomes, in the Space of two Days, a perfect Animal; and drops from its Parent, to shift for itself. If this be wonderful, the Power of reproducing and multiplying itself, by that very Circumstance which destroys other Creatures, is incomparably more so. We are assured, from undoubted Authority, that this Insect, when cut into a Number of separate Pieces, becomes so many distinct and separate Insects. Each Piece forming itself into a Head, a Tail, and all the other Organs, which are necessary for the Existence and Preservation of animal Life. A Property this, absolutely unaccountable! A Process of Operation, tho’ in Reality natural, yet to our Apprehension miraculous!

clad in jointed Armour. The Oyster, a sort of living Jelly, ingarrisoned in a Bulwark of native Stone. With many other Kinds of Sea Reptiles, or as the Psalmist speaks, Things creeping innumerable.—I am surpris'd at the Variety of their Figure, and charmed with the Splendor of their Colours. Unsearchable is the Wisdom, and endless the Contrivance, of the All-creating GOD!—Some are rugged in their Form; clumsy in their Gait; and little better than hideous in their Aspect. Their Shells seem to be the Production of a disorderly Jumble, rather than the Effects of Skill and Design. Yet We shall find, even in these seeming Irregularities, the nicest Dispositions. These Abodes, uncouth as they may appear, are adapted to the Genius of their respective Tenants; are exactly suited to their particular Exigencies. Neither the Ionic Delicacy, nor the Corinthian Richness, nor any other Order of Architecture, would have served their Purposes half so well, as this coarse and homely Fabric.

Some on the other Hand, are extremely neat. Their Structure is all Symmetry and Elegance. No Enamel in the World is comparable to their Polish. There is not a Room of State, in all the Palaces of Europe, so brilliantly adorned, as the Dining-room and the Bed-chamber of the little Fish, that dwells in Mother of Pearl. Such a lovely Mixture of Red, and Blue, and Green, so delightfully staining the most clear and glittering Ground, is no where else to be seen. The royal Power may covet it, and human Art may mimic it; but neither the one, nor the other, nor both united, will ever be able to equal it.

But what I admire more, than all their Streaks and their Spots, more than all their regular, or romantic Shapes, is, The extraordinary Proviton made for their Safety.—Nothing is more relishing and palatable than their Flesh. Nothing more heavy and sluggish than their Motions. As they have no Speed to escape, neither have they any Dexterity to elude the Foe. Were they naked or unguarded, they must be an easy Prey to every every Free-booter, that roams the Ocean.—To prevent this fatal Consequence, what is only Clothing to other Animals, is to them a Clothing, a House, and a Castle. They have a Fortification, that grows with their Growth, and is a Part of themselves. By this means, they live secure amidst Millions and Millions of ravenous Jaws. By this means, they are imbarked, as it were, in their own Shell; and, screened from every other Assault, are reserved for the Use and Pleasure of Mankind.

This is the Birth-place of Cod, the standing Repast of Lent. This is the Nursery of Turbot, for its exquisite Relish justly styled, The Pheasant of the Waters. Hence comes the Sturgeon, delicious even in Pickle, and a Regale for royal Luxury: Hence the Flounder, dappled with reddish Spots * and a Supply for vulgar Wants—Here dwell the Mackarel, decked, when haled from

* Here is the Appearance of a Mistake: Not the Flounder, I apprehend, but the Plaice, is dappled with reddish Spots: Yet so very trivial is the Mistake, that to remark it might be deemed a Piece of refined Impertinence, did I not make some Amends by the following Observation. With which, I dare promise myself, the Reader will not be displeased. Especially, as it exhibits a very signal Instance of GOD Almighty's indulgent Goodness even to the meanest of his Creation, and alters the general Method of his Proceeding, whenever it is requisite, for the Benefit or the Comfort of any Animal.

The Flounder, the Plaice, the Sole, and almost all the flat Fish, are white on the under Side, while their upper Side is tinged with darkish Brown. By this Variation, they are not only rendered curious and beautiful, but on that Part which presents itself to the Spectator, they resemble the Colour of Mud. If You ask what is the Importance, what the Advantage, of such a Resemblance? Great. For, as the Creatures generally hover or float about the Mud, they are, by this Means, more easily concealed, and more frequently escape their Enemies.

What is still more remarkable; Providence, which has given to other Fishes an Eye on each Side of the Head, has, in this Species, placed both the Eyes on the same Side. Most nicely is this peculiar Regulation suited to the Peculiarity of their Condition. They swim but little, and always with their white Side downwards. Here therefore the Power of Seeing would scarcely be of any Service. Whereas, on the opposite Part of their Body, they have need of the quickest Sight, for their continual Preservation.—Admirable Disposition! Where nothing is to be feared, the usual Guard is withdrawn. Where Danger threatens, there the Guard is not only placed, but double!!

their native Element, richly decked with the most glossy Dies: the Herring, whose Back is motled with Azure, and his Belly sleek with Silver: the Salmon, in plainer Habit, but of larger Substance, and higher Esteem, than either or both the preceding.—These, when shotten and lean, wander wildly up and down the vast Abyss. When plump and delicate, they throng our Creeks, and swarm in our Bays: they repair to the Shallows, or haunt the running Streams.—Who bids these Creatures evacuate the Shores, and disperse themselves into all Quarters, when they become worthless and unfit for our Service? Who rallies and recalls the undisciplined Vagrants, as soon as they are improved into desirable Food? Who appoints the very Scene of our Ambushes, to be the Place of their Rendezvous? So that they come like Volunteers to our Nets? Surely, the Furlow is signed, the Summons issued, and the Point of Reunion settled, by a Providence ever indulgent to Mankind; ever studious to treat Us with Dainties, and load Us with Benefits *.

We have wondered at † our SAVIOUR's Penetration and Power—his Penetration, which, though the Sea was at a Distance, and Walls intervened, discerned the Fish that had just swallowed a Piece of Money—his Power, which, without any Delay ‡, brought the lawless Rambler; charged with the silver Spoil, to Peter's Hook. But is it not equally wonderful, to observe such innumerable Multitudes of finny Visitants, annually heaving our Friths, and crowding upon our Shores? Making this welcome Approach, at the most proper Periods of the Year, and in an orderly Succession of one Species to another. All which furnish our Tables with a wholesome and delicate Repast; at the same Time, that they yield to our Nation a Revenue *, more certain, and no less considerable, than the Mines of Peru.

Revenue,

These approach, while those of enormous Size and tremendous Appearance abandon the Shores. The latter might indanger the Fisherman's Safety, and would certainly scare away the valuable Fish from our Coasts. They are therefore restrained by an invisible Hand, and abscond in the Abysses of the Ocean. Just as the wild Beasts of the Earth, impelled by the same over-ruling Power, hide themselves in the Recesses of the Forest. ---A Ship, infected with a pestilential Distemper, is obliged to keep off at Sea, and not permitted to enter the Port, till she has performed her Quarantine. In like Manner, these Monsters of the Deep, whose very Business is Destruction, are laid under a providential Interdict. Only with this desirable Difference, that, as their Presence would always be pernicious, they are never suffered to come near. Their Quarantine is perpetual.

Ask now the Beasts, and they shall teach Thee; and the Fowls of the Air, and they shall tell Thee: or speak to the Earth, and it shall teach Thee †; and the Fishes of the Sea shall declare unto Thee—That the LORD is gracious—That his tender Mercies are over all his Works—That to Us He is superabundantly and profusely good. Having ordered all Things in the Surges of the Ocean, as well as on the Surface of the Ground, for our rich Accommodation, and for our greatest Advantage.

One Circumstance, relating to the Natives of the Deep, is very peculiar, and no less astonishing. As

* We are told, That the Banks of Newfoundland alone, bring in to the Proprietors of that Fishery, a Revenue of several Millions every Year.—And they will in all Probability, be an unimpaired Resource of Treasure, when the richest Mines now worked in the World, are choked up or exhausted.

they neither sow nor reap; have neither the Produce of the Hedges, nor the Gleanings of the Field; they are obliged to plunder and devour one another, for necessary Subsistence. They are a Kind of licensed Banditti, that make Violence and Murder * their professed Trade.—By this Means, prodigious Devastations ensue; and without proper, without very extraordinary Recruits, the whole Race must continually dwindle, and at length be totally extinct.—Were they to bring forth, like the most prolific of our terrestrial Animals, a Dozen only, or a Score at each Birth; the Increase would be unspeakably too small for the Consumption. The weaker Species would be destroyed by the stronger; and, in Time, the stronger must perish, even by their successful Endeavours to maintain themselves.—Therefore, to supply Millions of Assassins with their Prey, and Millions of Tables with their Food, yet not to depopulate the watery Realms; the Issue produced by every Breeder is almost incredible. They spawn, not by Scores or Hundreds, but by Thousands and by Millions †. A single Mother is pregnant with a Nation. By which amazing, but most needful Expedient, a periodical Reparation is made, proportionable to the immense Havock.

How welcome this Reparation is, and how very serviceable, let those forlorn People acknowledge, who

* To this, I believe, the Prophet alludes, in that remarkable Expression; Thou makest Men as the Fishes of the Sea. Thou sufferest Men to commit, without Restraint or Controul, all Manner of Outrages. What should be a civil Community, is a Scene of Oppression. The Weakest are a Prey to the Strongest, and every One seeks the Destruction of his Neighbour. Habak. i. 14.

† Mr. Petit found 342,144 Eggs in the hard Roe of a Carp, sixteen Inches long. Mr. Leuwenhoeck counted, in a Cod of an ordinary Size, 9,384,000 Eggs.—A Fecundity perfectly amazing! But admirably adapted to the pressing Exigencies of the watery World; we advert to this Peculiarity, it will give the utmost Emphasis to the Patriarch's metaphorical Expression, and an inimitable Beauty to his prophetic Wish ידנו לרב Let these my Grandsons grow into a Multitude; or, which is more exactly answerable to the Original, Let them multiply abundantly, even like the Fishes of the Ocean. dwell dwell under the northern Pole. Their Wants are few, and their Desires moderate. Yet moderate as their Desires are, they receive no Supply from the Orchard or the Furrow. Instead of Acres waving with yellow Grain, or Trees bending with ruddy Fruit, their Fields are frozen to Iron, and buried under Mountains of Snow.—Since the Earth denies them her usual Succours, the Sea takes them under her parental Care.—Even the wild tempestuous Ocean, seems to pity those poor Out-casts; and opens to them her Hand, or (if you please) administers to them her Teats. 'Tis said of the Founder of Rome *, that, when a helpless and exposed Infant, He was suckled by a ravenous Wolf. 'Tis certain, that the Natives of Greenland and Zembla, being abandoned by their common Mother, are nourished by the howling Billows.—These furnish them with Plenty of Fish: whose Bones yield Timber for their Huts, and Utensils for their Families; while the Oil and the Flesh, afford a warming Liquor, and a fattening Food, for their Meals. Which are to them, a much better Sustenance, more suitable to their Constitution, and Climate, than the Sallads of the Garden, or the Sheaves of the Harvest.—Thus does a gracious Providence give to all, even the most destitute of Men, not only their daily Bread, but the Bread which is most proper for their State †; is best adapted to preserve them in Health, in Vigour, and Cheerfulness.

As the Sea is peopled with animated Inhabitants, it is also variegated with vegetable Productions. Some, soft as Wool; others hard as Stone. Some rise, like a leafless Shrub; some are expanded, in the Form of a

* Romulus.

† This seems to be the Import of ἐπιβσιον, in the fourth Petition of the LORD'S Prayer. Daily Bread, in Connexion with the preceding Clause, (this Day) reads flat, and appears superfluous. But the Sentiment is weighty, and the Request very needful, if We understand the Word as Suidas has explained its Etymology, Οεπιτη εσια ημων αρμοζων; or as Agur has expressed its Meaning, Feed me with Food convenient for me. Prov. xxx. 8.

Net;

Net; some grow with their Heads downward, and seem to be hanging on, rather than springing from, the Juttings of the Rocks. These may, with much greater Propriety, than the famous Plantations of Semiramis, be called pensile Gardens. These—But, methinks, I hear the Check of inspired Wisdom; Hast Thou entered into the Springs of the Sea? Or hast Thou walked in the Search of the Depth *? A just Reproof! As my Walk reached no farther than barely the Purlieu of the Ocean; as neither You nor I have ever taken a single Turn among those submarine Groves; as Moses, Joshua, and Jonah, the only Writers that ever made the wonderful Tour, intent upon more important Themes, have left Us no Memoirs relating to this curious Point; I shall not venture to advance any Thing particular on the Subject. Only one Remark I would offer in general.—

The Herbs and Trees, subsisting on the Land, are nourished by the Juices, which permeate the Soil, and fluctuate in the Air. For this Purpose, they are furnished with Leaves, to collect the one; and with Roots to attract the other. Whereas, the Sea-plants, finding sufficient Nourishment in the surrounding Waters, have no Occasion to detach a Party of Roots into the Ground, and forage the Earth for Sustenance. Instead therefore of penetrating, they are but just tacked to the Bottom; and adhere to some solid Substance, only with such a Degree of Tenacity, as may secure them from being tossed to and fro, by the random Agitation of the Waves.

We see from this, and numberless other Instances, what a Diversity there is, in the Operations of the great CREATOR's Hand. Yet every Alteration is an Improvement, and each new Pattern has a peculiar Fitness of its own.—The same Oeconomy takes place, such a Difference of Administration I mean, in his Government of the rational World. In “choosing an Heritage for his People,” and assigning a Condition to each of his Servants, there is a great Variety with respect to Individuals; yet a perfect Uniformity, and complete Harmony, with respect to the Whole.—Some He calls out to a Course of distinguished Labours. They make an illustrious Figure in Life, and appear *as a City set on an * Hill!* Others He consigns over to Obscurity. They are like the Prophets, whom good Obadiab hid in a Cave, and are styled his secret Ones †. Those, the Cedars, which stand conspicuous on the Top of Lebanon: these, the Violets, which lie concealed at the Foot of a Briar.

St. Paul was eminently qualified for busy Scenes, and the most extensive Services. He is introduced, therefore, into Places of Concourse. His Ministry lies amidst the most renowned and populous Cities. Even his Imprisonment at Rome, seems to have been a providential Expedient for fixing Him, as it were on the Stage of public Observation, and in the very Center of universal Intelligence. Where, his Preaching was like plunging a Stone into the Midst of a smooth Canal; which not only affects the neighbouring Parts of the Surface, but spreads the floating Circles over all the wide Expanse ‡.—Whereas, the beloved John, being less fitted to bustle among a Crowd, is sent into the unfrequented solitary Island; there to indulge the Flights of heavenly Contemplation; and receive, with uninterrupted Attention, the mysterious Visions of GOD.—Job shall have Thorns in his Path; have the Dunghil for his Seat; and be exposed, as a Mark to all the Arrows of Tribulation. Solomon shall dip his Foot in Oil; shall be elevated on the Throne of Royalty; and surrounded with the most lavish Caresses of Heaven.

‡ Therefore the Apostle, speaking of his Abode and his Preaching at Rome, has these very emphatical Words; That all the Gentiles might hear. 2 Tim. iv. 17. which, considered in the preceding Light, have a peculiar Propriety. Because, to Rome they repaired from all Quarters; and from thence they returned, into all Parts of the known World.

In all this seeming, this more than seeming Contrariety, there is a Display, not only of sovereign Authority, but of consummate Benignity and Wisdom.—The great HEAD of the Church, acts like a judicious General; and appoints such a Station to each of his Soldiers, as corresponds with the Ability He gives. He acts like the most skilful Physician; and prescribes such a Remedy for all his Patients, as is most nicely suited to their respective Cases. He knows the precise Point of Time, the particular Place of Abode, the peculiar Circumstances of Condition, which are most exactly proper for each and every of his Children; and, like a tender as well as unerring Father, what He knows to be best, that He constantly allots.—I said like a General, like a Physician, like a Father. But the Comparison is low; the Language is inexpressive; CHRIST is all that is implied in these Relations, and unspeakably more—O! that We may rejoice in the Superintendency of such a SAVIOUR; and not only resign Ourselves to his Will, but thank Him for managing the Helm—Thank Him for steering our Course, through the Changes of the present Hour, and all the Uncertainties of Futurity. Since, whatever our froward and petulant Passions may suggest, The LORD's Ways are so far from being unequal, that they have all possible Fitness and Propriety; they are ordered in “Number, Weight, “and Measure.”

All is so very different from the Prospects, which lately presented themselves, that I can hardly forbear asking, Whether I am not translated into a new World?—Where are the fruitful Vales, garnished and enriched with the CREATOR's Bounty? Where are the branching Groves, vocal and harmonious with their MAKER's Praise? No cultured Field, no opening Blossom, not so much as a green leaf appears. None of my late Entertainments remain, only the cooling Zephyrs. Which are no longer perfumed with the Breath of Flowers, but impregnated with the Freshness of the Ocean. Yet, though all those lovely Landscapes are withdrawn; though the gurgling Fountain is silenced, and the blooming Garden lost: I am not far from the Origin, both of the Odours, which exhale from the One; and of the Crystal, which flows from the other. I am now upon the Margin of that grand Reservoir, which supplies the Country with its Fertility, and the Parterre with its Beauty*.—The Sea is the inexhaustible Cistern of the Universe. The Air and Sun constitute the mighty Engine, which works without Intermision, to raise the liquid Treasure. While the Clouds serve as so many Aqueducts, to convey the genial Stores along the Atmosphere; and distribute them at seasonable Periods, and in regular Proportions through all the Regions of the Globe.

I question whether the united Application of Mankind could, with their utmost Skill, and with all possible Percolations, fetch a single Drop of perfectly sweet Water †, from this unmeasurable Pit of Brine. Yet the Action of the solar Heat draws off, every Hour, every Minute, Millions and Millions of Tons, in vaporous

* Pliny supposes a Query made; Si quis velit reputare, ut Fruges signatur, Arbores Fruticesque vivant. To which He gives the following Solution; In Cælum Aquas migrare, Animamque etiam Herbis vitalem inde deterre. And from thence concludes; Omnes Terræ quoque Vires Aquarum esse Beneficii.

† I have not forgotten, what was lately affirmed in our public Papers; That a certain ingenious Gentleman, I think in the City of Durham, had found out the Art of sweetning Sea-water.—What he produced, might probably approve itself to the Taste, and not be without its Usefulness. Yet I cannot but query, whether it will be found to have all those fine, balmy, salutiferous Qualities, which distinguish and recommend the Rain-Water. Which has been exhaled by the kindly Warmth of the Sun; has been filtrated by passing and re-passing through the Regions of the Air; has been clarified in the highest and purest Tracts of the Atmosphere; has been farther refined, and quite perfected, by the searching Agency of the Winds.—I would not attempt to depreciate any valuable Invention; yet I should very much wonder, if the puny Alembic could equal this grand Apparatus of Nature.

Exhalations*. Which, being skilfully parceled out, and securely lodged in the Bottles of Heaven †; are sent abroad, sweetened and refined, without any brackish Tincture, or the least bituminous Sediment.—Sent abroad upon the Wings of the Wind, to distil in Dews, or pour themselves in Rain; to ooze from the Orifices of Fountains ‡; to trickle along the Veins of Rivulets; to rise in the Cavities of Wells; to roll, in many a head-long Torrent, from the Sides of Mountains; to flow, in copious Streams, amidst the Bosom of burning Deserts, and through the Heart of populous Kingdoms. In order to refresh and fertilize, to beautify and enrich, every Soil, in every Clime.

How amiable is the Goodness, and how amazing is the Power, of the World's Adorable MAKER!—How amiable his Goodness! in distributing so largely, what is absolutely necessary, and exceedingly beneficial. That Water, without which We can scarce perform any Business, or enjoy any Comfort, should be every One's Property. Should spring up from the Soil; should drop down from the Clouds; should stream by our Houses; should take a Journey, from the Ends of the Earth, and the Extremities of the Ocean, on Purpose to serve Us.—How amazing his Power! That a boundless Mass of fluid Salt, intolerably nauseous to the human Taste, should be the original Spring, which deals out every

* It is supposed, that from the Mediterranean Sea alone, there arises, in vaporous Exhalations, more than five thousand Millions of Tons, within the Space of one Summer-Day. Yet the Mediterranean Sea bears no more Proportion to the whole Extent of the Ocean, than a public Road bears to the Dimensions of a County, through which it leads.

† So the Clouds are elegantly styled in sacred Writ, Job xxxviii. 37.

‡ We are obliged to Clemens Romanus, for the most just and delicate Representation of Fountains and their Usefulness, that perhaps any where exists. Αειναιοι τε πιναι προ απολαυσιν και υβριαν δημιουργηθεισαι, διχα ελλειψεως παρεχουσαι τας προ ζων αιθροποις μαζας, 1 Epist. ad Corinth. He calls Fountains, the Breasts or Teats of the Earth. The Comparison, I believe, is his own: and nothing can exceed it, as to Propriety and Beauty.

palatable Draught to Mankind, and quenches the Thirst of every Animal ! Doubtless, the Power by which this is effected, can extract Comfort from our Afflictions, Advantage from our Calamities, and make all Things work together for our Good *.

Vast and various are the Advantages †, which We derive from the liquid Element : vast, as its unbounded Extent ; various, as its ever-mutable Surface.—The sweet Waters glide along the Earth, in spacious and sportive Currents. With their humid Train, their exhaling Moisture, and their gay Appearance, they enliven and exhilarate the adjacent Country. While Plenty follows, where-ever they flow.—By giving a continual Shake to the circumambient Air, they prevent its Stagnation ; they disperse their own Vapours ; and promote the Purity of their Sister-Element. Indeed, these watery Ramblers impart much the same Improvement to the Air, the Prospect, the whole Scene, as Vivacity and Cheerfulness add to the Temper of their rational Inhabitants.

These circulating Floods pass by opulent Cities, and receiving all their Filth, rid them of a thousand Nuisances. Which, when once committed to these fluid Scavengers, are as effectually secreted, as if they were buried at the very Center of the Earth.—Yet, though they condescend to so mean an Employ, they are fitted for more honourable Services. They enter the Gardens of a Prince, and compose some of the most delightful Ornaments of the Place. They glitter upon the Eye, as they float in the ample Canal. They amuse the Ima-

† The high Value which Mankind set upon this Element, and the many Benefits they receive from its Ministration, both these Particulars are very strongly expressed by the Hebrews. gination, as they ascend in curious Jet d'Eaus. They yield a nobler Entertainment, as, forming themselves into Sheets of sloping Silver, they fall in graceful or in grand Cascades.—If, instead of Beautifiers, We think proper to make Use of them as Drudges, they ply at our Mills; they toil incessantly at the Wheel; and, by working the hugest Engines, rid Us of Abundance of Fatigue, and save Us a proportionable Degree of Expence.

So forcibly they act, when collected; and most surprisingly they insinuate, when detached. They throw themselves into the Body of a Plant: they penetrate the minutest of its organized Tubes: and, subtil beyond all Expression, they find a Passage through Meanders, too small for the Eye to discern, too numerous and intricate even for Imagination to follow.—How difficultly does the Mason's Labourer, bending under the Burden of Mortar on his Head, push his Way up the Rounds of a Ladder! While these Servants in the Employ of Nature, carry their Load to a much greater Height; and climb with the utmost Ease, even without the Assistance of Steps or of Stairs. They convey the nutritional Stores of Vegetation, from the lowest Fibres that are plunged into the Soil, to the very topmost Twigs that wave amidst the Clouds. They are the Caterers for the vegetable World*; or (if I may be allowed the Expression)

By means of which, the *Trees of the LORD are full of Sap, even the Cedars of Lebanon which HE hath planted. Notwithstanding their prodigious Elevation, and vast Diffusion; though they are abandoned by Man, and deprived of all human Cultivation; yet, not a single Branch is destitute of Leaves, nor a single Leaf of Moisture.

Besides the salutary, cleanly, and serviceable Circulation of the Rivers; the Sea has a Libration, no less advantageous, and much more remarkable.—Every Day, this immense Collection of Waters, for the Space of five or six Hours, flows towards the Land. After a short Pause, it retires again to its inmost Caverns; taking up nearly the same Interval for the Retreat, as it required for the Access.—How great is the Power, which sets the whole fluid World in Motion! Which protrudes to the Shores such an inconceivable Weight of Waters, without any Concurrence from the Winds, frequently in direct Opposition to all their Force! How gracious also is the Providence, which bids the mighty Element perform its tumbling Revolutions, with all the Exactness of Time and Measure! Was it suffered to advance, with a lawless and unlimited Swell; it might sweep over Kingdoms, and deluge whole Continents. Was it irregular and uncertain in its Approaches, Navigation would be at a Stand, and Trade become precarious.—But, being constant at its stated Periods, and never exceeding its appointed Bounds, it creates no Alarm to the Country, and affords very considerable Aids to Traffic.

A Performance as beautiful, as its Subject is desirable.

* Psa. civ. 16.

I said,

I said, constant. For at the proper Hour, or rather at the precisely proper Minute, the Waters are sure to be in Motion. They flow with the most ready Obedience, like Servants at their Master's Call. They croud as it were in contending Multitudes, ambitious to perform their CREATOR's Will—Rushing up our large Rivers, they clear and deepen the Passage. In many Places, they spread a copious Flood, where a dry and empty Waste lay before.

Is the Sailor returned from his Voyage, and waiting at the Mouth of the Channel? The Flux is ready to convey his Vessel to the very Doors of the Owner; and without any Hazard of striking on the Rocks, or being fastened in the Sands.—Has the Merchant freighted his Ship? Would He have it transferred to the Ocean? The Reflux tenders its Service; and bears away the Load, with singular Expedition, and with equal Safety.—Behold, O Man! How greatly thou art beloved, how highly favoured by thy MAKER! In what Part of his Works has he forgotten or overlooked thy Welfare? Shew me a Creature, point out a Spot; in the Formation or Disposition of which, He has not been mindful of thy Interest? He has made Thee to have Dominion over the Works of his Hands, and has put all Things in Subjection under thy Feet. All Sheep and Oxen; the Fowls of the Air, and the Fishes; yea, and the Surges of the Sea *, are conducive to thy Benefit. Even these, wild and impetuous as they are, yield their willing Backs, to receive thy Load; and, like a tractable as well as indefatigable Beast of Burden, carry it to the Place, which thou shalt nominate.

What preserves this vast Flood in a State of perpetual Purity? It is the universal Sewers, into which are discharged the Refuse and Filth of the whole World. That which would defile the Land, and pollute the Air, is transmitted to the Ocean, and neither Mischief nor Inconvenience ensue. Those Swarms of Locusts—which, while living were a Plague to Pharaoh, by their loathed Intrusion; and when dead, might have caused a more dreadful Plague, by their noisome Stench—swept into the Sea, were neither pestilential nor offensive. How then is this Receptacle of every Nuisance kept clean? Why does it not contract a noxious Taint, and diffuse Contagion far and near? Such as would render it a Grave to the aquatic, and Bane to the terrestrial Animals?—'Tis owing, partly to its incessant Motion, partly to its saline Quality. By the One, it is secured from any internal Principle of Corruption; by the other, it works itself clear from every adventitious Defilement.

A Directory this, and a Pattern for me!—Thus may divine Grace, like the penetrating Power of Salt, cure the Depravity of my Heart, and rectify the Disorders of my Temper! Season my Words, and make all my Conversation favoury!—Thus may a continual Course of Activity, in my secular and my sacred Vocation, prevent the pernicious Effects of Indolence! Let me daily exercise, or be attempting to exercise, the Graces of Christianity. Lest Faith become feeble; lest Hope contract Dimness; and Charity wax cold.

When I began my Walk, the Waters were upon the Ebb. They slunk away from all the Strand, as an Army overpowered, though not put to Flight, withdraws from the Field. Now like the same Army, re-inspired by their Commanders, or re-inforced by an Accession of Troops, they are returning, as it were to the Charge.—Wave rises upon Wave, and Billow rolls over Billow. Their Progress is slow, but determined and persevering. Much of the smooth sandy Area is already over-run. The Extremities of the Rocks are covered. The foamy Invaders approach nearer and nearer. Nothing can divert, nothing retard their Course. Though *Canutus himself was in the Way; though his royal Authority and strict Prohibition interposed ; nay ; though all the Forces of his Kingdom were drawn up with Orders to stem the Torrent ; this grand Detachment from the Deep would scorn the feeble Opposition ; would not be checked so much as a single Moment ; but continue, still continue the wide expansive Swell, till it has reached the destined Point.—So, may I always abound in Communion with GOD, or in Beneficence to Men ; resigning one religious or charitable Employ, only to enter upon another ; and be thus pressing forward, still pressing forward, to the Prize of my high calling in CHRIST JESUS.—Differing from those regular Vicissitudes of the Ocean, only in one Particular ; That my Endeavours never ebb, my Soul never draw back. Since this would be, if temporary, to my grievous Loss ; if final, to my aggravated Perdition.

The Tide is, now, at its Height. The spacious sandy Plain, on which I lately walked, is quite overflowed. A Tract, almost unmeasurable, is taken from our Feet, and hid from our Eyes. A thousand Figures, and a thousand Footsteps, imprinted on the level Beach,

Reges in ipsos Imperium est Jovis.*

Some of his abject and designing Flatterers, had the impious Assurance to tell Him, “ His Power was more than Human.”—To convince them of their Folly, and rebuke them for their Falshood, He ordered his Chair of State to be placed on the Extremity of the Shore, just as the Tide began to flow. Here He took his Seat, in the Presence of the Parasites, and many other Attendants. Then with all that Dignity of Air, and Severity of Accent, which sovereign Authority knows how to assume, He said—“ Thou Sea, the Land on which I sit is mine ; nor has any One dared to invade my Rights, or disobey my Commands, without suffering the deserved Punishment. I charge Thee, therefore, on Pain of my highest Displeasure, not to enter these Territories, nor touch the Feet of England’s Monarch.”

When the rude Waves made bold to enter on the forbidden Ground ; nay, when those uncourtly Things presumed to rush upon the royal Seat, and even to dash his Majesty’s Person ; He started from his Throne, and bid every Beholder observe the Impotence of earthly Kings. Bid them remember, That HE alone is worthy of the Name, whom Winds and Waves and universal Nature obey.

are erased. And had there been ten thousand Times ten thousand more, they would all have been obliterated with equal Ease.—How happy are they, whose Sins are thus covered! Whose Iniquities are all blotted out! And not one of their Transgressions remembered any more!—Well, my Soul, be of good Comfort. Certainly the Blood of the divine REDEEMER, is able to do this for Thee; even for Thee, the chiefest of Sinners. What Guilt can be too great, for an infinite Atonement to expiate? What Guilt can be so great, as the Merit of an incarnate GOD? Offering the Body of his Flesh to Death—Offering the Blood of his Heart to be spilt—Offering his very Soul, and his whole Person, through the Eternal SPIRIT, as a spotless Victim, to GOD for Us!—Can I doubt, whether this immensely grand Propitiation, is able to do for my Conscience, what these reflux Waters have done on the Margin of the Ocean? Would not this be a Dishonour to the blessed JESUS, greater than the Lashes of the Scourge, and the Crown of Thorns; viler than the Insults, Mockery, and Spitting?

Consider the Sea in another Capacity, and it connects the remotest Realms of the Universe; by facilitating an Intercourse between their respective Inhabitants.—What short-sighted Beings are Mankind! How superficial their Views! How unavoidable therefore their frequent Mistakes! The Antients look'd upon this bottomless Deep, as an unpassable * Gulf. If our Forefathers were so egregiously mistaken in this Instance; let not Us too peremptorily pronounce upon any difficult or mysterious Point. Lest succeeding Generations, or a more enlightened State, should cover Us with the double Confusion of childish Ignorance, and foolish Conceit.

We have clearly demonstrated, We have happily experienced, the very Reverse of that grey-headed Surmise to be true. The Ocean, instead of being a Bar of Separation, is the great Bond of Union. For this Purpose, it is never exhausted, though it supplies the whole Firmament with Clouds, and the whole Earth with Rains. Nor ever overflows, though all the Rivers in the Universe are perpetually augmenting its Stores, and pouring in their tributary Floods.—By means of this Element, We travel farther, than Birds of the strongest Pinion fly; and discover Tracts, which the Vulture's Eye has never seen *. We make a Visit to Nations, that lie drowned in their midnight Slumbers, when every industrious Person on this Part of the Globe, is bestirring Himself in all the Hurry of Business. We cultivate an Acquaintance with the Sun-burnt Negro, and the shivering Icelander. We cross the flaming Line, We penetrate the frozen Pole, and wing our Way even round the World.

This is the great Vehicle of Commerce.—Not to mention the floating Castles, which contain whole Armies and their Commanders; which bear the Thunder of the Cannons, and all the dreadful Artillery of War; which are capable of demolishing Fortresses, and spreading Terror among Nations.—Let Us only contemplate the trading Vessels; how numerous! of what large Dimension! and of what prodigious Burdens! which are continually passing and repassing this universal Thoroughfare!

There go the Ships.—Ships, that are freighted, not with Sacks, but with Harvests of Corn; that carry not Pipes, but Vintages of Wine; that are laden, not with Bars of Iron, Blocks of Marble or Wedges of Gold, but with whole Quarries of massy Stone, and whole Mines of ponderous Metal. All which, lodged in these volatile Store-houses, and actuated by the Breath of Heaven, are wafted to the very Ends of the Earth: wafted, enormous and unwieldy as they are, more expeditiously than the light Berlin bowls along the Road: all most as speedily, as the nimble-footed Roe bounds over the Hills*.

Astonishing Ordination of eternal Wisdom! Yet most graciously contrived for the Benefit of Mankind! I can hardly satisfy my View, in beholding this rolling Chaos; stretched, ten thousand Times farther, than my Eye can reach. I can never cease my Admiration, in contemplating its amazing Properties.—That an Element, so unstable and fugitive, should bear up such an immense Weight, as would bend the firmest Floors, or burst the strongest Beams!—That the thin and yielding Air should drive on, with so much Facility and Speed, Bodies of such excessive Bulk, as the Strength of a Legion, or an Army, would be unable to move.—That the Air and the Water, acting in Conjunction, should carry to the Distance of many thousand Miles, what the united Force of Men and Machines, could scarcely drag a single Yard.—Puny and despicable are our Attempts: but great and marvelous are thy Works, O LORD GOD Almighty! If thou wilt work, says the Prophet, who or what shall let it †! Neither the Meanness of the Instrument, nor the Greatness of the Event. A Sling and a Stone shall lay the gigantic Bravo in the Dust ‡. An Ox-Goad shall do more Execution than a Train of Artillery §. Even a Worm shall thresh the Mountains, and beat them small, and make the Hills as Chaff ||. GOD ALL-SUFFICIENT is his Name, and out of Weakness He maketh his Strength perfect.—O! that We, my dear Aspasio—that I especially—may be strong in the LORD, and in the Power of his Might; Then as the light Air is made to act with a more forcible Impulse,

* A Ship, under a brisk and steady Gale, will sail at the Rate of 216 Miles in 24 Hours: persevering, if the Wind continues favourable, in the same rapid Career, for several Days together. A Course, which, considering both its Swiftness and Duration, cannot be equalled by the ablest Horse, perhaps not by the nimblest Creature that treads the Ground.

than the most vigorous Engines; as the fluid Water is made to sustain more ponderous Loads, than the most substantial Works of Masonry; so We, who in Ourselves are nothing but Impotence, shall be enabled to triumph over the Legions of Hell, and tread down all the Temptations of the World.

How are the Mariners conducted through this liquid Plain, than which nothing is more wide, and nothing more wild! Here is no Track to be followed; no Post of Direction to be consulted; nor any Shepherd's Hut, where the wandering Traveller may ask his Way. Yet the Voyage is, perhaps, no less than a thousand Leagues. Are the Voyages guided, by a Pillar of Fire in the Night, or a moveable Cloud in the Day? As the Sons of Jacob and Joseph were escorted through the eastern Deserts. No; but by a mean, contemptible, and otherwise worthless Fossil.

The Apostle James mentions it, as a very observable Fact; that the *Ships, which are so great, and driven of fierce Winds, yet are turned about with a very small Helm, whithersoever the Governor listeth. Is it not equally wonderful, that they should be led through such a pathless and unmeasurable Waste, by so small an Expedient, as the Intervention of the Loadstone †?—Till this surprising Mineral was discovered, and its Properties were improved, Navigation lay in its Cradle. Was, at best, a mere Infant, which crept timorously along the Coasts; was obliged to keep within Sight of the Shores; and, when once driven out beyond the narrow Sphere of her Land-marks, could neither ascertain her Situation, nor pursue her Voyage. But this Guide—when every Beacon on the Top of the Hills, is vanished from the acutest

† I am aware, that other Expedients are used for shaping a proper Course on the Ocean; such as making Observations, from the Sun and heavenly Bodies, by mathematical Instruments. But these, I believe, are only subordinate Aids to the Needle. The grand Regulator is the Magnet. I have heard an experienced Sailor declare; He would rather be without his Quadrant than without his Compass.

Ken ; where nothing but Skies are seen above, and Seas alone appear below—this Guide points out the proper Passage. This communicates an Intelligence, which shines clear in the thickest Darkness, and remains steady in the most tempestuous Agitations. This has given, not indeed Birth, but Maturity to Navigation ; and turned her swadling Bands into Wings. This has emboldened her to launch into the Heart of the Ocean, and enabled her to range from Pole to Pole.

A Needle touched by the Loadstone, guided Columbus through the vast Atlantic, and led Him to the Discovery of a new World. The Direction and Advices of this simple Instrument, have opened for our Sailors a Way to both the Indies. And a Sea-Compass, which cost, perhaps, no more than half a Crown, is the Means of conveying into our Harbours the Rarities and Riches of the Universe. Thus does GOD, both in the Operations of Nature, and the Administrations of Providence, accomplish the most important Ends by the most inconsiderable Means.—When the formidable Sisera is to be cut off, the Blow shall be given, not by some puissant Champion, but by the Hand of a Woman*. When Jericho is to be demolished, those impregnable Fortifications shall fall, not beneath the Stroke of battering Engines, but before the Sound of Rams Horns †.—When a hundred thousand Midianites are to be routed, the LORD of Hosts will gain this signal Victory, not by numerous Legions completely armed, but by a Handful of Israelites, accoutered only with Trumpets, Lamps, and Pitchers ‡.—Who would have thought, that from the Root of Jesse, a Root out of a dry Ground, should arise that great Tree, which stretches her Boughs unto the Sea, and her Height unto the Heavens, and her Branches unto the Ends of the Earth? That the despised Galilean and the Carpenter's Son, should be the SAVIOUR of the World, and the HEIR of all Things? Nay ; that a Person humbled like the meanest of Slaves, and executed like the vilest of Malefactors ; nailed to a Cross, and laid prostrate among the Dead ; that HE should restore Life and Immortality to ruined Sinners ; should open the Gates of Grace and Glory on lost Mankind ? That a few illiterate Creatures, taken from the Barge, the Oar, and the Net, should confute Philosophers, and convert Kings ; should overthrow the Strong-holds of Idolatry, and plant Christianity on its Ruins ;—This is a Circumstance, which though a Stumbling-block to some People, has considerably strengthened my Faith. It is perfectly agreeable to the ALMIGHTY's Manner. It is (if I may so speak) the distinguishing Turn of his Hand, and the peculiar Style of his Works. Whence does He raise the charmingly-beauteous Flower ? Whence the magnificent Myriads of the Forest-Oaks ? Whence the boundless and inestimable Stores of the Harvest ? From rude, from small, almost unnoticed Seeds ; from Principles, which bear not the least Proportion to their Effects.—Besides ; this most emphatically speaks THE GOD, It shews the Lighting down of his glorious Arm * ; and absolutely precludes all the Pretensions of human Arrogance, or finite Power. It appropriates the Honour to that Supreme AGENT, before whom the Easy and the Arduous are both alike. All Men that see it must confess, THIS HATH GOD DONE.

Through this Channel, are imported to our Island the choice Productions, and the peculiar Treasures, of every Nation under Heaven. So that You and I can breakfast upon a Dissolution of the American Kernel † ; and see the rich nutrimental Liquor froth in our Cups, without ever tempting the foaming Brine. We can steep the delicately-flavoured Chinese Leaf, in the Waters of our own Well ; or spend the Afternoon in our own Parlour, and be regaled with an Infusion of the finely-scented Arabian Berry. We can season the friendly Bowl with the Juices of the Orange, or refresh our clammy Palate with the Pulp of the Tamarind; without feeling that fervent Heat, which imparts such a poignant Relish to the former, and give a fever-cooling Virtue to the latter. We can pile upon our Salvers a Pyramid of Italian Figs; fill the Interstices with the Sky-dried Raisins of Malaga; and form a Summit for the inviting Structure, with the Pastacia Nut of Aleppo.—By this Means, the Eastern Spices exhale their Odours on our Tables; and the Western Canes transfuse their Sweetness into our Viands. We clothe our Bodies with the vegetable Fleeces* of the South, and line our Apparel with warm furry Spoils from the North. We can wear the Pearl, polished in the Abysses of the Persian Gulf; and walk on the Carpets, manufactured in the Dominions of the Great Mogul; yet neither expose Ourselves to the Rage of boisterous Seas, nor the more dreaded Treachery of barbarous People.—In short; by this grand and beneficial Expedient of Navigation, every Tide wafts into our Ports the Wealth of the remotest Climes, and brings the Abundance of the Universe, to be unladen on our Quays. London becomes a Mart of Nations; and almost every private House in the Kingdom, is embellished or accommodated from the four Quarters of the Globe.

Almost every private House.—Is not this more like a rhetorical Flourish, than real Truth? Are not all the Advantages I have mentioned the peculiar Portion of the Rich? Is not the Sea, like high Life and the gay World, somewhat capricious and partial? Bestowing lavishly her Favours on the Wealthy, at the same Time that She neglects the Needy?—Quite the Reverse. Like her most exalted yet most condescending CREA-

* Cotton, which is a sort of Wool, encompassing the Seed of a Tree.—Its Fruit is of an oval Form, about the Size of a Nut. As it ripens it grows black on the outside; and, by the Heat of the Sun, opens in several Places, discovering the Cotton through the Clefts, which is of an admirable Whiteness. See CHAMB. Dict.

TOR, She is no Respector of Persons. She deals out her Liberalities to All; to the Wealthy, such as are suitable to their Circumstances; to the Indigent, such as are best adapted to their Condition. If She ornaments the Abodes of the first, She employs the Hands of the last; furnishes these with gainful Labour, those with elegant Accommodations. What a Multitude of industrious People acquire a Livelihood, by preparing the Commodities intended for Exportation! And what a Multitude of dextrous Artificers maintain their Families, by manufacturing the Materials imported from abroad!

It is reckoned a valuable Species of Beneficence, to provide proper Work for the Poor. This withdraws them from many Temptations, and preserves them from much Wickedness. It hinders them from being a Burden to themselves, and a Nuisance to the Public. They might otherwise be idle, and as Vermin on the Body politic: or even mutinous, and as Vipers in the Bowels of the Nation. Whereas, by exerting themselves in a due Subordination, and with becoming Diligence, they are the very Sinews of the Community; or like the grand Wheel in the Machine of State, whose incessant Activity distributes Plenty, and pours innumerable Conveniencies through the whole.—What a Master then, or rather what a Mistress, is the Sea! How extensive her Correspondence, and how large her Demand for Workmen! Into what Branch of Trade does she not enter? What kind of ingenious Science, or useful Toil, does she not befriend? How many Millions of honest, but needy Persons are engaged in her Service? And how amply are they repaid for their Pains! They that go down to the Sea in Ships, and occupy their Business in great Waters, these Men see the Works of the LORD, and his Wonders in the Deep. They also that dwell among their own People, and abide in the Villages, even they enjoy the Bounty, and share the Advantages of the Ocean. They suck of the Abundance of the Seas, and of Treasures hid in the Sand.*

* Deut. xxxiii. 19.

For, though it is false Philosophy, to suppose the Waters themselves strained through subterranean Passages, into the inland Countries; yet it is an undeniable Truth, that their beneficial Effects are transfused into every Town, every Hamlet, and every Cottage.

Surely, the Inhabitants of our Isle, have Reason to turn the Prediction of Moses, concerning the Tribe of Joseph, into a devout and grateful Acknowledgment.—*Blessed of the LORD * is our Land. Blessed with the precious Things of Heaven, with the Dew, and with the Deep that coucheth beneath. With the precious Things brought forth by the Sun, and with the precious Things thrust forth by the Moon. With the chief Things of the antient Mountains, and with the precious Things of the everlasting Hills: and with the precious Things of the Earth, and the Fulness thereof †.*—May we also enjoy the Good-† Deut. xxxiii. 13, 14, 15, 16. Here seems to be an exact Summary, and a poetical Description of the Riches of Nature.—The precious Things of Heaven; or Rain, which descends from the upper; and Dew, which is formed in the lower Regions of the Firmament—The Deep that coucheth beneath; Seas, Rivers, Fountains, Wells, which lie in the Bosom of the Soil; and are Sources of Fertility and Plenty.—The precious Things brought forth by the Sun, must certainly denote the Herbs, Plants, Trees, and all Manner of Vegetables, with their respective Fruits.—The precious Things thrust forth by the Moon, may probably refer to the mineral Kingdoms; in the Formation of which, that Ruler of the Night may have a considerable Influence. The Moon is confessedly the Parent of Tides; and may put in Motion those bituminous and saline Fluids, which, circulating through the Pores of the Earth, and fixing in Beds of homogeneous Matter, are supposed to commence Minerals.—As our sacred Philosopher has already specified the vegetable Tribes, and (if I mistake not) the Beds of Fossils, the principal Things of the Mountains and Hills, should signify the Sheep, Goats, and other valuable Animals, which feed upon those vast Declivities. Then, the precious Things of the Earth, may express those Herds of larger Cattle, which have their Pasturage in the Plains, Valleys, and lower Grounds. A Sense, which recommends itself from this Consideration, That the Wealth of the Antients consisted chiefly in Cattle.—The Fulness thereof, may be a Kind of Recapitulation: a comprehensive Term, including the whole Produce of the terraqueous Globe; the magnificent Liberality of JEHOVAH to his People.

This for my Country. Now let me wish for myself.

*GOD of all Worlds! Source and Supreme of Things!

You see, Aspasio, I have been studying the Volume of Nature; endeavouring to read some of its capital Characters, and learn some of its instructive Lessons. The Sea has been the Page. But how superficial is my Perusal, and how scanty my Knowledge. Little, very little have I beheld or conceived, relating to those Works of Wonder, which the vast unfathomable Deep contains †—the Plants it produces, and the Creatures it nourishes—its stupendous Rocks, rising to the Skies; and its inaccessible Caverns, sinking to the Center—the Beds of Pearl, which are its native Growth; and the Loads

P. S. Monsieur Pascal, who was remarkably fond of Brevity, makes an odd Excuse for transgressing, on a particular Occasion, his favourite Rule. He intreats his Friend to pardon the unusual Length of his Epistle, by assuring Him, That he had not Time to make it shorter.—I cannot, it must be confessed, adopt this Philosopher's Apology. ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

I Thank You for your Letter, because it entertains and improves me. I thank you for your Postscript, because it is my Encouragement and my Apology.—I am set down to write, with a copious Stock of Materials. It will be far more difficult to contract, than to enlarge. I must therefore acknowledge myself obliged to your Candour, for affigning me the easier Task.—That Prolixity, which, in others, might be ungenteel and faulty; is, in me, an Act of Complaisance, and an Instance of Duty.

Though absent from You, I went with You in your late Ramble. Your descriptive Pen has made me Partaker of the ideal Delight: may Divine Grace enable me to share in the spiritual Improvement!—For indeed the Fields of Nature, and the Scenes of Creation; the wise Contrivance, and beneficial Order of the Universe; yield ample Matter for religious Improvement. They tell Us a thousand and a thousand animated, affecting, noble Things, concerning the blessed GOD, and his glorious Perfections. Yet they cannot tell Us the noblest Things. They cannot give Us the grandest View of the divine MAJESTY, nor present Us with the brightest Display of his Excellencies. Here the whole Creation falters, or rather confesses its Impotency. The Depth saith, It is not in me; and the Sea saith, It is not with me. It is not to be found on the Globe of the Earth, nor to be traced in the Circuit of the Skies. When You displayed the Beauties of the Morn, breaking forth from the Obscurity of Night; when You adopted that fine spirited Aspiration from our philosophic Poet; I could not forbear adding—" Thus may the gracious G O D, " who commandeth the Light to shine out of the Mid" night Darkneſs, ſhine into our Hearts; and give that " incomparably glorious Knowledge, the Knowledge of " his bleſſed SELF! which, though diſcernable through " all the Tracts of Creation, and derivable from every " Work of his Almighty Hand; yet no where beams " forth with ſuch complete and ſuch amiable Luſtre, as " in the Perſon of *JESUS CHRIST."—Here we behold all the ſublime Perfections of the DEITY, not only manifeſted with inimitable Splendour, but operating for our own Advantage. We behold them, as Job ſpeaks, for ourſelves †; and cannot but receive inexpreſſible Refreshment and Joy from the View.

When You walked beneath the Shade of thoſe huge, awful Solitude, on the wildeſt and moſt magnificent Appear-

When you described the dismal Situation of a Wretch, exposed on the Edges of the tremendous Precipice ; hanging over the ragged Rocks, and the unfathomable Gulf ; and cleaving only to a slender, treacherous, breaking Bough ; how heartily did I join in your adoring Acknowledgments to that kind, interposing, blessed Hand, which rescued us from an infinitely more threatening and dreadful Danger ! Rescued us, as Slaves, from the Dominion of the Devil : snatched us, Brands, from the inextinguishable Burnings. And bid Us (O marvelous, superabundant Goodness !) bid Us possess the Liberty of Righteousness ; bid Us inherit the Kingdom of Heaven.

When You mention the past Indolence, and the present Fervour of your Prayers, I could not forbear reiterating my Praises to GOD on your Behalf. This is a Proof, my dear Theron, that your Feet are in the Way everlasting. For it is written, They shall come with weeping, and with Supplications will I lead them †. This is the Work of the HOLY GHOST, moving and influencing your Heart. For what saith the Scripture ? I will pour upon them the Spirit of Grace and of Supplication ‡. And our LORD Himself mentions this, as the Indication of a hopeful Condition ; Behold ! he prayeth ||.—Had not Saul prayed before ! Yes, and made long Prayers too. But he never, till that Instant, was sensible of his undone and damnable Condition. Never cried to GOD from the Depths of his Distress, or from the Depths of his Heart. CHRIST.—His Prayers, till then, were somewhat like the Motes, which fluctuate in the Air, without any vigorous Impulse, or any certain Aim. But, in that Hour, they were like the Arrow, which springs from the strained Bow; and, quick as Lightning flies to the Mark.

I was pleased to find You, in the Process of your Letter, insensibly forgetting the Narrative; and so engaged by the Subject, that you spoke not as the Relater, but as the Beholder.—Thus may We always be affected, when We study the Oracles of Truth. Study them, not as cold unconcerned Critics, who are only to judge of their Meaning; but as Persons deeply interested in all they contain. Who are particularly addressed in every Exhortation, and directed by every Precept. Whose are the Promises, and to whom belong the precious Privileges.—When We are enabled thus to realize and appropriate the Contents of that invaluable Book; then we shall taste the Sweetness, and feel the Power of the Scriptures. Then We shall know, by happy Experience, that our Divine MASTER's Words, are not barely Sounds and Syllables, but they are Spirit, and they are Life *.

I was still more agreeably entertained, with your Picture of Commerce; and your Display of the Advantages, which We receive from Navigation. One Advantage, however, I can specify, which is greater than any, greater than all, You have celebrated. An Advantage, which will endear and ennoble Navigation, so long as the Sun and Moon endure. The Gospel, my Friend. the Gospel of our Salvation, was conveyed through this Channel. Without such a Vehicle, how could that inestimable Commodity have reached our Island? The Volume that comprizes it, and the Preacher that published it, both were imported, both brought to Us by Shipping. And may We not say, with the enraptured Isaiah? How beautiful are the Feet of them, that bring good Tidings ; that publish Peace ; that bring good Tidings of Good ; that publish Salvation ; that say unto Zion, thy GOD reigneth *. It is pleasant to hear their Voice ; pleasant to contemplate their Message ; and pleasant even to behold, the Ground on which they trod, or the very Waves over which they sailed.—This made the holy Prophet rejoice in Spirit, when he foresaw the extensive Spread of his MASTER'S Glory, and the certain Commencement of our Happiness. This put into his Mouth that affectionate and congratulatory Address ; which, in a very particular Manner, is directed to Us and our Countrymen : Sing unto the LORD a new Song, and his Praise from the Ends of the Earth : ye that go down to the Sea, and all that is therein ; ye Isles and the Inhabitants thereof. Let the Wilderness and the Cities thereof lift up their Voice ; let the Inhabitants of the Rock sing, let them shout from the Top of the Mountains. Let them give Glory unto the LORD ; and declare his Praise in the Islands †.

We read, in Ezekiel, of the most magnificent Fleet, that ever ploughed the Seas. The Snip-Boards were of the Fir-Trees of Senir, and the Masts of the Cedars ‡ of Lebanon. Oars were hewed from the Oaks of Bashan, * Isai. lii. 7. Never did Language bespeak an invaptured Soul, more significantly than this sacred Exclamation. The Prophet is all Wonder and all Joy. He is so enamoured with his Subject, and so captivated with the Glory of the Gospel, that He can never say enough of its Excellencies.—Good Tidings ; the very best, that Earth could receive, or Heaven proclaim. Good Tidings of Good ; a most comprehensive Good ; a Collection of every Blessing ; or all good Things in one. Publish Peace ; Peace with GOD, the everlasting King ; and that sweet Peace of Conscience, which the whole World cannot give. Publish Salvation ; or that Gift of Righteousness which is the meritorious Cause, together with that Spirit of Liberty and Spirit of Adoption, which are the rich and grand Constituents of Salvation : That say unto Zion, Thy GOD reigneth ; not Sin and Satan, not Lust and Appetite, oppressive Tyrants and worse than Egyptian Task-Masters ; but the All-wise and infinitely Gracious JEHOVAH. He, even He setteth up his pure, his peaceful, his spiritual Kingdom, in the Believer's Heart, in the Gentile Nations, and in all Lands.

and Benches of Ivory were brought from the Isles of Chittim. The fine Linen and broidered Work of Egypt, floated to the Wind, and formed the Sails. While Blue and Purple from the Isles of Elisbab, composed the Rigging, and cloathed the Mariners.—Let Us suppose, that the Freight of this splendid Navy, was proportioned, in Dignity and Value, to its sumptuous Tackling. Yet how poor, how despicable were either, were both, if estimated with the Treasures of the Gospel: those divine Treasures, which spring from the Imputation of our REDEEMER's Righteousness! And which have much the same kindly Influence on religious Practice, as Navigation, with all her Improvements, has upon Traffic.—Give me leave to confirm this Assertion, by selecting a few Instances, and applying them in a few Interrogatories.

One of the Benefits, proceeding from the Imputation of CHRIST's Righteousness, is Pardon. Pardon, not partial, but complete. A Pardon of each Sin, be it ever so heinous; a Pardon of all Sins, be they ever so numerous. For thus saith GOD the LORD, who sent both his Prophets and Apostles, preaching Peace by JESUS CHRIST. *I will pardon ALL their Iniquities, whereby they have sinned, and whereby they have transgressed against me.—To learn the desirable Nature of this Blessing, let Us step back into the Annals of History, and attend a traitorous unhappy Nobleman to his vindictive Exit. His Body is demanded by the Ministers of Justice. Reluctant and trembling, He is conducted to the Scaffold. There, the alarmed Criminal sees the mourning Block. Sees the glittering Ax. Sees the Coffin prepared for his Corps. Sees thousands of anxious Spectators; waiting, with eager Looks and throbbing Hearts, the fearful Catastrophe. In a Word; he sees Death advancing, with all the Solemnities of Horror and Woe.—Time elapses. The preparatory Ceremonies are dispatched. The fatal Period is arrived. No longer Respite can be allowed. He must submit to immediate Execution. He prostrates himself to receive the Stroke. But—seized with new Terrors, at the poised Ax, and approaching Blow, He starts from the dangerous Posture.—Again he bends, and again snatches his Neck from the impending Edge.—A third Time, He lifts his pale Countenance, to the pitying Crowds, and departing Light.—Once more He bows to the Block, and once more raises his Head, in wishful Expectation of the Royal Clemency.—At this critical Instant; at this Moment of awful Suspence; had a Messenger appeared, with a Shout of Joy upon his Tongue, and a sealed Pardon in his Hand; O! how transporting the News! welcome, inexpressibly welcome the Favour?—What was denied to his passionate Desires; denied to the importunate Solicitations of his Friends; is freely offered to Us in the Gospel of CHRIST: a Pardon of infinitely higher Consequence; which obliterates Millions and Millions of rebellious Acts: which extends its blessed Effects, not merely through the little Span of Life, but beyond the Gates of the Grave—beyond the Boundaries of Time—through all the Ages of Eternity.

How unfathomable is that immense Flood, on which my Theron lately exercised his Contemplation!—The toiling Plummets, with all their Length of Cordage, are unable to find a Bottom. Were the hugest Millstones, or the highest Towers, or the most spacious Cities, cast into that prodigious Gulf, they would be totally overwhelmed, and irrecoverably lost. Therefore the inspired Prophet, to shew the boundless Extent of the divine Mercies in JESUS CHRIST, and to denote the Fulness of their Pardon who are cleansed in the REDEEMER's Blood, hath illustrated both by this grand Similitude, Thou wilt cast all their Sins into the Depths of the Sea *—not one, or a few, but all their Sins—not barely behind thy Back, but into the Sea—and not into the Shallow Parts, but into the very Depths of the Ocean—so that they shall never rise up in Judgment; never be taken notice of; no, nor ever be remembered any more.

With an Act of total Indemnity, let Us join a thorough Restoration to Favour.—If the Wrath of an earthly King be as the Roaring of a Lion *; how much more tremendous is His Indignation, who is able to cast both Body and Soul into Hell! If the Favour of an earthly Sovereign be as Dew upon the Grass; how much more desirable and delightful HIS Loving-kindness, whom all Things in Heaven and Earth obey!—By the Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST, we are freed from all foreboding Apprehensions of the former, and established in the comfortable Possession of the latter. The Gospel renews and ratifies that joyful Proclamation of the angelic Host, Peace on Earth, and Good-will to Men †. GOD is not only pacified towards Believers, but well-pleas'd with them in his dear SON. Well pleas'd, says the Prophet, for his Righteousness sake. Beheld in this spotless Robe, they are the Objects of his complacential Delight, and He rejoices over them to do them Good.

Nay, they are made Children, Sons and Daughters, of the LORD Almighty ‡. And if Sons, then Heirs; Heirs of GOD, and joint Heirs with CHRIST §.—As many as received Him, to justify them by his precious Blood and imputed Righteousness, to them gave He Power, the Prerogative or Privilege, to become the Sons of GOD ¶. As verily and truly the Sons of GOD, as ever they were the Children of their natural Parents.—The Chief Captain mentioned in the Acts, purchased his Freedom of the Imperial City Rome, with a great Sum of Money ¶¶. If such a little transient Immunity, was so valuable in his Esteem; who can express the Worth, who can conceive the Dignity of this divine Adoption? Yet it belongs to Those, who receive the Gospel, and are interested in CHRIST.—They have Access to the Omnipotent BEING; such free and welcome Access, as a beloved Child to an indulgent Father. To Him they may fly for Aid, in every Difficulty; and from Him obtain a Supply, in all their Wants.

GOD, as the sacred Charter runs, is THEIR GOD. All his lovely, all his adorable Perfections, are their glorious Inheritance, and their exceeding great Reward. That eternal Power, to which nothing is impossible, exerts itself as their Guard; and that unerring Wisdom, from which nothing is concealed, acts as their Guide. His very Justice is no longer an incensed Adversary, demanding Vengeance or meditating Destruction; but a faithful Guarantee, to provide for the punctual Execution of the REDEEMER's Treaty, and for their complete Enjoyment of its various Blessings.—What a Privilege is this! Rather what a Cluster of Privileges is Here! Weigh the Kingdoms of the World; cast all the Glories of them into the Scale; and they will be found, when compared with these divine Prerogatives, emptier than the Bubble that bursts, lighter than the Spark that expires.

In the Gospel, which is the Ministration of Righteousness, are given exceeding great and precious Promises. Of such Value, that they were procured by the Blood of CHRIST; of such Certainty, that they are ratified by the Oath* of JEHOVAH. So durable, that, though all Flesh is Grass, and all the Goodliness thereof as the Flower of the Grass, this Word of our GOD abideth for ever †; so efficacious, that there are no such Cordials to revive our fainting, and no such Bulwarks to secure our endangered Souls. With these the Bible is as richly replenished, as the clear midnight Sky is bespangled with Stars. They are all Yea and

Another Benefit, given in consequence of the REDEEMER's Righteousness, is the sanctifying SPIRIT. A most comprehensive Blessing this! Our SAVIOUR intimates, that it includes every heavenly Gift, is an Assemblage of all good Things †.—It must, doubtless, be a singular Comfort to blind Bartimeus, when his Eyes were opened, and He beheld the all-cheering Light of the Sun ‡! So, and far more comfortable, are the in-lightening Influences of the SPIRIT; when they shine upon Us wretched Creatures, who sit in Darkness and the Shadow of Death. When they reveal an all-sufficient SAVIOUR, dying for our Sins, and rising again for our Justification.—Who can imagine the Satisfaction and the Transport of the Leper, when He felt Himself healed of his inveterate Disease? Felt the soothing Sensations of Ease, where Sores rankled and Pain raged! Instead of infeebling Languors and loathsome Deformity, Vigour braces his Limbs, and Comeliness blooms in his Countenance ||. Equally benign and equally salubrious, is the regenerating Agency of the Divine SPIRIT, on our depraved, polluted, sensual Minds.—How signal was the Recovery, and how welcome the Change! When that unhappy Creature, so wildly agitated by a mischievous Daemon, was reinstated in the peaceful Possession of Himself and his Faculties! When, instead of unnaturally cutting his own Flesh, or committing barbarous Outrages on innocent Travelers, He sat composed and attentive at the Feet of JESUS §! Receiving heavenly Instruction from his Lips, and learning the Meekness of Wisdom from his Example. So salutary and beneficial is the transforming Power of the HOLY GHOST the Comforter; softening the rugged, sweetening the morose, and calming the passionate Temper.—It is undoubtedly the utmost Improvement and the highest Happiness of our Nature, to have the Image of the blessed GOD re-instamped on our Hearts. This is an Earnest, and an Anticipation also, of endless Felicity. A Bud which will open in Heaven, and spread into immortal Glory. A Dawn, which will shine more and more, till the Sun of Righteousness arises and brightens it into everlasting Day. This Bud the sanctifying SPIRIT ingrafts, this Dawn the Grace of our LORD JESUS CHRIST diffuses, in the barren and benighted Soul.

In a Word: receive this Righteousness; and You have a Title to all Blessings, whether they be present or future, bodily or spiritual, temporal or eternal. From the necessary Conveniencies of Bread to eat, and Raiment to put on; even to the Crown of Glory, and the Fulness of Joy. All are dependent on, all are connected with, our REDEEMER's Righteousness*.— You see now, Theron, That our Scheme, has no Tendency to impoverish your spiritual Condition, or diminish your true Riches: any more than those Tracts of Water, which surround our Island, are detrimental to the Wealth of its Inhabitants. Detrimental! No; they are an inexhaustible Source of Treasure. They convey to our Use, the choicest Accommodations, and the most elegant Delights. Such as would in vain be expected, if the whole Ocean was converted into the finest Meads, and most fertile Pastures. So—but to apply this Comparison, would forestal your principal Question.

“Do not these Favours, though unspeakably precious in themselves, tend to the Introduction or Support of Ungodliness?”—Quite the Reverse. Have We Redemption through our SAVIOUR's Blood, even the Forgiveness of our Sins? We are redeemed, not that We may sink in Supinenefs, or launch into Licentiousness, but that We may be a peculiar People, zealous of good Works *.—Are We made the Children of GOD? Then let our Light so shine before Men, that others seeing our good Works, may glorify our FATHER which is in Heaven †. This is the genuine Consequence of such a Doctrine, and the proper Effect of such a Benefit.—Are We vested with sacred Privileges! These admonish Us, these urge Us, and these dispose Us, to walk worthy of HIM, who hath called Us to his Kingdom and Glory ‡. Shall not the Citizens of Heaven be animated with higher Views, than the Slaves of Appetite, and Drudges of the World?—Are We constituted Heirs of the Promises? The Grace which they ascertain, is intended to make Us Partakers of a Divine Nature ||; and the Encouragement which they administer, incites Us to cleanse Ourselves from all Filthiness of Flesh and Spirit, incites Us to perfect Holiness in the Fear of GOD §.—Such high Immunities are a most endearing Persuative, not to disgrace, but magnify, not to provoke, but please, their unspeakably beneficent AUTHOR.

I might farther observe, that Holiness is one of the most distinguished Blessings in our System. Nay, is the very central Blessing, to which all the others verge; in which they all terminate.—Were We chosen from Eternity? It was for this Purpose, that We may be holy and unblameable in Love ¶.—Are We called in Time? It is to this Intent, that We may shew forth the Praises of Him, who hath called Us out of Darkness into his marvelous Light .—Are We created again in CHRIST JESUS? It is to capacitate Us for acceptable Service, and to furnish Us unto every good Work ††. I will put my Spirit within You, saith the LORD. For what End? That Ye may walk in my Statutes, and keep my Judgments, and do them ††. Here comes in my Theron's Favourite, sincere Obedience. And GOD forbid, that We should hold the Door, or shut our Arms, against so acceptable a Guest!—For, very far from discarding sincere Obedience, We would only introduce it, under its due Character, and in its proper Order. Under its due Character, as the Fruit, not the Cause of our Interest in CHRIST's Righteousness. In its proper Order; as following, not preceding, the Gift of Justification.

These Privileges, my dear Friend, are salutary, as the Pool of Bethesda *. They are restorative, as the Waters of Siloam †. Or like that sacred Stream flowing from the Sanctuary; which healed the Rivers, healed the Sea, and made even the Desert flourish ‡.—If Justification by the Righteousness of CHRIST, had a Tendency, to subvert the Foundation of Holiness; to confirm the hypocritical Professor, in his Neglect of moral Duties; or discourage the sincere Convert from the Pursuit of real Virtue; it would, doubtless, be unworthy of any Acceptation, or rather worthy of universal Abhorrence. But I dare appeal, not only to the Nature of the Doctrine, and the Reason of Things, but to the Experience of All; yes, of all who have tasted, that the LORD is gracious ||.—“Speak, Ye who are enabled to believe, “that GOD is reconciled; has received the all-satisfying Atonement; and placed his SON's Righteousness to your Account! That He regards You as “his Children, and will receive You to his Glory!—“Have You not, under such Convictions, felt your “Hearts exulting with conscious Joy; and every Power “of your Souls springing forward, to glorify your heavenly FATHER—glorify Him by every Instance of “Obedience, Fidelity and Zeal?”

Can such invaluable Benefits have a prejudicial Influence on our Practice, if, to the Consideration of their superlative Worth, We add that unequalled Price, by which they were purchased?—HE who is high above all Height, humbled Himself to be made of a Woman, and born in a Stable; that We might be admitted into the Family of GOD, and exalted to the Mansions of Heaven. And will this great Humiliation, which is the Basis of our Happiness, prompt Us to look down with Contempt on Others, or entertain arrogant Thoughts of Ourselves?

The ONLY BEGOTTEN and the supreme Delight of the FATHER, was numbered with Transgressors, and ranked with Felons; that We might be joined to the innumerable Company of Angels, and associated with Saints in Glory everlasting. And will any One make this a Precedent or a Plea, for walking in the Counsel of the Ungodly; for standing in the Way of Sinners; or sitting in the Seat of the Scornful *?

All Manner of Evil was spoken of the faultless JESUS; his blessed Name was vilified by blaspheming Tongues, and his unblameable Conduct blackened with the foulest Aspersions; on purpose that We may be applauded, When We are judged, and each hear those transporting Words, WELL DONE THOU GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANT †! Will this embolden Us to dishonour our LORD, and stain our holy Profession? Shall We from hence be induced to open the Mouths of his Enemies, and furnish them with Occasion to speak reproachfully?

HE went, galled with the Lashes of the Scourge, and penetrated with the pungent Thorns; He went, loaded with the execrable Cross ‡, and marking the Road with his precious Blood; thus the King of Heaven went—to his Throne? lestial Sion, with Songs of Triumph on our Lips, and with everlasting Joy on our Heads. Does this invite Us to go, crowned with Rose buds, to the House of Riot; or go, muffled in Disguise, to the Midnight-Revel? Will it not rather incline Us, to sit down at his pierced Feet, and bathe them with our Tears, and take Delight * in mourning for our crucified LORD?

Behold! He hangs on the cursed Tree. There, there He hangs; rent with Wounds, and racked with Pain. He pours his Groans, and spills his Blood. He bows his Head, his patient princely Head, and dies—astonishing, transporting Consideration! He dies for You! He dies for Me!—And will this harden our Hearts, will this arm our Hands, to crucify Him afresh by any allowed Iniquity? Does not Reason suggest, and Christianity dictate, and all that is ingenuous enforce, the Apostle's Inference? If One died for All, then they which live, should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them †.

He thought upon Us, long before the Foundations of the World were laid; He remembers Us, now He is exalted to the Right-hand of the MAJESTY in the Heavens; and will never, never forget Us, through all the Revolutions of Eternity. And is this a Motive to forget his Name; to disregard his Word; or to imitate the shameful Neutrality and Indifference of Gallio? Impressed with a Sense of this invariable and everlasting Kindness, surely, We shall declare Ourselves, as those Captives in Babylon, concerning their dear native City Jerusalem: If I forget Thee, O blessed JESUS, let my Right-hand forget her Cunning; if I do not remember Thee, let my Tongue cleave to the Roof of my Mouth ‡.

* The Sorrow arising from such tender and grateful Views of the crucified JESUS, is that evangelical and godly Sorrow, which worketh Repentance unto Salvation not to be repented of, 2 Cor. vii. 10. Is it possible, Theron, for the Contemplation of such Goodness, to weaken the Motives, or relax the Springs of Obedience? As soon may lenient Balms kill, and rankest Poisons cure! Is such a Belief calculated to discourage Duty, and patronize Licentiousness? Just as much, as vernal Showers are fitted to cleave the Earth with Chinks, or Summer Suns to glaze the Waters with Ice.—When Antony made an Oration to the Soldiers, on Occasion of Cæsar's Death; when He shewed them their honoured Matter's Robe, transfixed with so many Daggers; when He reminded them of the Victories they had won, under their assassinated Commander; when he farther informed them, that their murdered General had remembered them in his Will—had bequeathed all his fine Gardens, and beautiful Walks, to their Use and Delight;—Heavens! How they took Fire; Revenge sparkled in their Eyes; Revenge flamed in their Bosoms; Revenge was all their Cry. They flew to the Houses of the Conspirators; laid them even with the Ground; and had they met with the Owners, would have tore them Limb from Limb.—Some such Repentment against Sin, will a Sense of our adored REDEEMER's Sufferings excite. Especially, when set home by his Blessed SPIRIT, and considered in Connection with those detestable Iniquities, which caused them; and with those invaluable Blessings, which were procured by them.—Nothing, nothing is so effectual to beget the most irreconcilable Abhorrence of all Ungodliness; to make the Remembrance of it, bitter as Wormwood; the Temptations to it, horrible as Hell.

Let me remind You of an Incident, related by your favourite Historian Xenophon.—Cyrus had taken Captive the young Prince of Armenia, together with his beautiful and blooming Princess; whom He had lately married, and of whom He was passionately fond. When both were brought to the Tribunal, Cyrus asked the Prince; what He would give, to be reinstated in his Kingdom? He answered, with an Air of Indifference; “That, as for his Crown, and his own Liberty, He valued them at a very low Rate. But, if Cyrus would restore his beloved Princess, to her native Dignity and hereditary Possessions, He should infinitely rejoice; and would pay (this He uttered with Tendernefs and Ardour) would willingly pay his Life for the Purchase.”—Could such a Declaration, so highly endearing, alienate the Affections of the Princess, or induce her to violate her Fidelity? Let her own Conduct answer the Query. When all the Prisoners were dismissed with Freedom, it is impossible to express, how much they were charmed with their royal Benefactor. Some celebrated his martial Accomplishments. Some applauded his social Virtues. All were prodigal of their Praises, and lavish in grateful Acknowledgments. And You, said the Prince, (addressing himself to his Bride) what think You of Cyrus?—I did not observe Him, replied the Princess.—Not observe Him! Upon what then was your Attention fixed?—Upon that dear and generous Man, who declared, “He would purchase my Liberty, at the Expence of his very Life*.”—Was her Heart impressed, were all her Thoughts ingrossed by that benevolent Offer? And shall ours be less affected with the incomparably more tender and endearing Love of CHRIST?—He was not only willing, but actually laid

Will not such Beneficence, so unmerited, so unequalled, win * the most reluctant, and melt the most obdurate Heart? || I cannot but think, the Reasoning is much more just, and the Principle much more efficacious, in Aspasio's Manner of stating the Affair, than in the following famous Lines:

*Self-love but serves the virtuous Mind to wake,
As the small Pebble stirs the peaceful Lake:
The Center mov'd, a Circle straight succeeds,
Another still, and still another spreads.
Friend, Parent, Neighbour, first it will embrace,
His Country next, and next all human Race:
Wide and more wide, th' O'erflowings of the Mind
Take every Creature in of every Kind.*

Self-love too often acts on the Affections, as a Blast on the Leaves, shrivels and contracts them. But the Love of CHRIST, like a vernal Sun on the tender Buds, opens, and expands them; till they become wide, as the Extent of his gracious Redemption; wide as the Compass of his rational Creation.—By Self-love I am almost necessarily in the Soul by the HOLY GHOST*, will diffuse itself through every intellectual Faculty, and extend to every Species of Duty. Till the whole Heart is filled with the Image, and the whole Behaviour regulated by the Law of the Blessed GOD.—So that I am persuaded, there is a great deal of Truth and Solidity, as every One must acknowledge, there is a peculiar Spirit and Beauty, in the Apostrophe of our Poet ;

*Talk they of Morals ! O thou bleeding Love !
Thou Maker of new Morals to Mankind,
The grand Morality is Love of THEE † !*

You mentioned the Loadstone, as most signally and most extensively serviceable in the sea-faring Business. Such is Faith, so efficacious, in practical Christianity.—This, perhaps, you think a scanty and defective Principle. The Property of turning to the polar Star, and pointing out the northern Part of the World, may seem equally mean and inconsiderable. But as the one is the very Soul of Navigation, the other is the very Life of Holiness.—It is somewhat like the Stone, which the Babylonian Monarch saw in his Dream, cut from the Rock without Hands ‡. Which, though despicable to human Appearance, was mighty in Operation ; destroyed the superb Statue ; became a great Mountain, and filled the whole Earth. Thus will Faith exert its kindly, yet triumphant Energy ; to every Corruption, that it may be subdued ; to every Virtue, that it may be cherished.

rily determined to malign the Persons, who cross my Inclinations, and obstruct my Interests. From the Love of CHRIST, I have a cogent Reason, and a most prevailing Inducement to love my very Enemies.—How does St. Peter analyze this Subject ? Not in Mr. Pope's, not in Lord Bolingbroke's Method. Godliness, or a supreme Love to GOD reconciled in CHRIST, He represents as the Root or Trunk ; then brotherly Kindness, or an affectionate Regard to Relations, Friends, Fellow-Christians, as some of the grand and master Branches : after this Charity, or a diffusive Good-will to all Mankind, as the Spread of Boughs, which complete and adorn the Tree. 2 Pet. i. 7.

* Rom. v. 5. † Night-Thoughts, N^o IV. ‡ Dan. ii. 34.

Faith is a real Persuasion, founded on GOD's Word, and wrought by his SPIRIT, that the Blessed JESUS has shed his Blood for my Sins; has fulfilled all Righteousness in my Stead; and obtained eternal Redemption for me *.

When the ALMIGHTY sunk the Cavities of the Ocean, and replenished them with the liquid Element, He provided an inexhaustible Source of Moisture, for the Refreshment of every Animal, and the Nutriment of every Vegetable. In like Manner, wherever He works this true Faith, He plants the Seed of universal Holiness, and provides for the Propagation of every Virtue. This Persuasion of the Divine Good-will, pacifies Conscience, and fills the Soul with Admiration, Gratitude and Joy. This Discovery of our Pardon and perfect Reconciliation in the Blessed JESUS, overcomes our natural Enmity, and excites a fervent Desire to please our most merciful FATHER. In short; this Experience, and these Views, of the abundant Grace of GOD in CHRIST, attract and assimilate the Soul; turning it into his amiable Likeness †, “as the Wax is turned to the imprinted Seal.”—What will be the Language of such a Person?

“Did my exalted MASTER empty Himself and become poor, that his most unworthy Servant might be filled with all the Fulness of GOD ‡? And shall not I cheerfully deny myself the expensive Pleasures of the World, that I may have somewhat to bestow on his needy Children?—Has the Death of CHRIST, as a Punishment, satisfied the most rigorous Justice for my Sins? As a Price, has it ran-

* This Definition of Faith may possibly, at the first View, dissatisfy and alarm even some pious People; implying, as they apprehend, too great a Degree of Assurance. But if they please to take it in Connection, with the Explanation and Adjustment, delivered in the Sixteenth Dialogue, I hope, all Cause of Disapprobation or Surprise will vanish. I flatter myself, that the Sentiment will be found, not only comfortable for the Sinner, but agreeable to Scripture; and truly unexceptionable, as well as highly desirable.

Such, my dear Theron, will be the Effects of Faith.
 Therefore, it is not in vain, much less to the Discouragement of real Virtue, that the Scripture lays such a Stress upon Faith: so frequently urges the Importance and Necessity of Faith: represents Faith, as the principal Work of the Divine SPIRIT, and the great Instrument of Salvation. Because it is a sure, a sovereign Means of purifying the Heart ‡, and never fails to work by Love ||.—Was Faith, as some People are apt to imagine, like a Candle put under a Bushel, or like the Lamps which burn in Sepulchres; it would then be an insignificant Labour to inculcate it, and no better than an empty Flourish of Words, to celebrate it. But we are infallibly assured, that Faith is a vital, an operative, a vic- torious Principle.

|| Gal. v. 6.

CHRIST is a Store-house of all Good. Whatever is necessary to remove our Guilt, whatever is expedient for renewing our Nature, whatever is proper to fit Us for the eternal Fruition of GOD, all this is laid up in CHRIST. And all this is received by Faith, for Application, Use, and Enjoyment.—Faith therefore is a living Principle of Holiness, because it possesses CHRIST, and Life in Him. Even as it is a sure Means of Justification because it receives CHRIST, and Righteousness in Him.—It is likewise as impossible, for the Sun to be in his meridian Sphere, and not to diffuse Light; as for this Faith to be exercised on CHRIST, and not to purify the Conscience and sanctify the Temper.

When Zaccheus BELIEVED, He became a new Man: his Bowels yearned with Compassion: the rapacious Publican was a Friend to the Needy, and a Father to the Poor*.—When the Macedonians BELIEVED, how eminently was their Spirit ennobled, and their Practice improved? Though pressed with Affliction, their Souls overflowed with Joy; and even in the deepest Poverty, they signalized themselves by the Abundance of their Liberality †.—When the first Converts BELIEVED, the Change in their Behaviour was so remarkable, the Holiness of their Lives so exemplary: that they won the Favour, and commanded the Respect, of all the People ‡.—In short; when Faith takes place, and CHRIST is applied, the Wilderness buds, and the Desert Blossoms as a Rose. The lame Man leaps like a Hart, and the Tongue of the Dumb sings. Old Things are passed away, behold all Things are become new.

Since the preceding Notes are so copious, I shall deny myself the Pleasure of particularizing the Beauties of this Clause. I leave it to the Lover of sacred Literature, to admire the Apostle's Expression, to be charmed with the Spirit of the Macedonian Believers, and to derive from both, Edification mixed with Delight.

ASPASIO TO THERON.

Dear THERON,

FAITH in the Righteousness of † JESUS CHRIST is a fundamental Principle, in that invaluable System of sacred and divine Philosophy—THE GOSPEL. By which the Heavenly TEACHER is continually training up Millions of rational and immortal Creatures, for the true Perfection of their Nature; for the final Fruition of their GOD; or, in other Words, for a State of consummate Happiness and everlasting Glory.—In this School, may You and I be humble Students, and daily Proficients! While Others are ambitious of glittering Distinctions, and sounding Titles, may it be our highest Aim, to answer the Character—of BELIEVERS! By this Character, the Supreme LORD distinguishes his chosen People, and denominates the Heirs of Salvation.—This Character stands fairest in the Book of Life, and most conspicuous in the Annals of Eternity.—This Character, however neglected or disesteemed among Men, will be remembered and had in Honour, when the pompous Names of Statesman and Generalissimo are known no more.

* These Images We may venture to style beautiful, because they are borrowed from the Apostle; βεβαιωμένοι εν τη πίστει. Col. ii. 7. αποκρηστη της πίστεως. Phil. i. 25. υπερειληνά η πίστις. 2 Thess. i. 3.

As Faith is of such singular and extensive Efficacy in genuine Christianity, methinks, I would have all our Meditations terminate on its glorious Object, and be calculated to invigorate so beneficial a Principle.—And so much the rather, as too many of our ingenious Writers run vastly wide of this Mark.—They teach Us to admire the Magnitude and Distances of the Planets; the annual and diurnal Revolutions of the Globe. They call up our most pleased Attention to the exact Arrangement, the exquisite Construction, and most curious Operation, of every Wheel and every Implement, in the Machine of Nature. At the same Time, they more than intimate, that this is the brightest Mirrour, wherein We may contemplate the divine Perfections. This the Scene of Order, from whence We may derive the best Rules, for harmonizing the human Mind. Hence they would animate our Devotion, and hence regulate our Life. Not without apparent Neglect, I fear, with supercilious Contempt, of that most illustrious Discovery of the Divine Excellencies, which was exhibited to the Children of Men, by GOD manifested in the Flesh. Thus they discard the Gospel, and would supplant the blessed JESUS; making the Universe their Bible, and Nature their Wisdom, their Sanctification, their Redemption.

But

But, blessed be GOD, We have not so learned Philosophy. We can place her at the Foot-stool, not on the Throne of her LORD; and bid her proclaim his Honours, not usurp his Office. Let Us, therefore, when we reflect on that stupendous Act, the Creation of the World out of Nothing; let Us remember, it was HIS Act, who obtained eternal Redemption for Sinners. When We contemplate that immense Theatre of Wonders, the Heavens and their shining Hosts; let Us not forget, that they are all HIS Work, who brought in everlasting Righteousness for the Ungodly.—Do We turn our Thoughts to the Ocean, that spacious and magnificent Canal, which covers more than half the Globe? It was formed by HIS Word, and is obedient to HIS Will, who loved Us and washed us from our Sins in his own Blood. Do We take a View of the Earth, that grand and inexhaustible Magazine, which furnishes such a Multiplicity of Conveniencies, for so many Millions of Creatures? It is all HIS Property, and wholly at HIS Disposal, who *emptied * Himself* for our Sake, and had not where to lay his Head.—For thus saith the inspired Philosopher; thus saith the Oracle of Revelation; All Things were made BY Him, and FOR Him †.

The great CREATOR has enriched this habitable Globe with a Profusion of Good. He has adorned it with a Variety, a Regularity, and a Beauty, which are perfectly charming. He has ennobled it with a Dignity, a Sublimity, and a Grandeur, which are at once delightful and astonishing. In all this, Reason cannot but discern a clear Manifestation of Power, a bright Display of Wisdom, and a rich Demonstration of Beneignity.—But will the CREATOR himself vouchsafe to be made Flesh; on Purpose that He may bleed and die for his Guilty Creatures? This is what, neither the utmost Penetration of Men, nor the very superior Intelligence of Angels, could ever have demonstrated, discovered, or conceived. This exceeds, whatever the Elements have produced, whatever the Sun has beheld ; as much as the Extent and Magnificence of the planetary System, exceeds the Dimensions and the Furniture of a Shepherd's Hut.—To reveal this, is the blessed Peculiarity of the Gospel. To know and believe this, is the distinguishing Prerogative of a Christian. To apply this, to dwell upon this, to connect this with all our Observations of the Universe, should be the favourite and habitual Employ of the Believer. This will improve Wonder into Devotion, and raise the Entertainments of Science into the Joy of Salvation. This will render every philosophical Speculation a Strengtheners of our Faith ; and make the various Scenes of Nature, a Guide to Grace, and a Step to Glory.—When this is done, then all Things attain their proper End ; and as they are by CHRIST, so they are for CHRIST.

But I forget myself, my Business, and my Promise. I am to establish the Point by incontestable Fact, not to embellish it by loose Harangue. With Pleasure I address myself to discharge the Obligation ; and exemplify, in a very memorable Instance, the Power of Faith on religious Practice.—From whence shall I fetch my Exemplification ? From the Memoirs of the Apostle of the Gentiles ? Here I find one, most concisely, and at the same Time most forcibly displayed.

Observe this Man in his unconverted State. He breathes out Threatenings and Slaughter against the Christians. Can any Thing denote a more iniquitous and savage Temper ? The roaring Lion, and the ranging Bear, are gentle Creatures, compared with this Monster in human Shape.—Still the Description of his Barbarity heightens. I was exceedingly mad against them ; I compelled them to blaspheme, and punished them in every Synagogue. The Practice, not of a Man, but of a Fiend ! 'Tis the very Picture of an incarnate Devil.—What has this infernal Wretch, that may recommend Him to the divine Favour ? If ever there was a Sinner on Earth, that had sinned beyond the Reach of Mercy, beyond the Possibility of Pardon, surely it must be this Saul of Tarsus.

But the divine Mercy, disdaining all Limits, is overflowing and unmeasureable. Where Sin has abounded like a Flood, divine Mercy abounds like an Ocean. The Favour of Man is backward to interpose, till something amiable or inviting appears in the Object. But the Grace of GOD is immensely rich and infinitely free. It prevents the most vile and hardened Rebels. It brings every Requisite and Recommendation, in its own unspeakably beneficent Nature. It accomplishes all its blessed Ends, not by any towardly Disposition in the Sinner, but by that one glorious Righteousness provided in the SAVIOUR.—This overtook the Persecutor on his Journey to Damascus. Light and Life were poured upon Him, not from any Dawn of Reformation in Himself, but from a very different Quarter, by opening, as it were, a Window in Heaven, while He was sojourning even in the Suburbs of Hell. He saw that JUST ONE. He received the inestimable Gift. He was made Partaker of the Salvation, which is in JESUS CHRIST.

See, now, what Effect this Faith has upon his Conduct. It causes a total Revolution in the Sentiments of his Mind. It gives a new Bias to every Faculty of his Soul. It introduces an absolute Change into the whole Tenour of his Behaviour. As great and marvelous a Change, as if You should behold some mighty Torrent, turned by the Shock of an Earthquake; and rolling those Waters to the East, which, from the Beginning of Time, had flowed incessantly to the West. He adores that JESUS, whom He lately blasphemed. He preaches that Faith, which He once destroyed. And He is ready to lay down his Life for those Believers, whom not long ago He persecuted unto Death.

It may be said; Is the Change as lasting, as it is surprising? We will only consider the converted Saul, in one very remarkable Point of Light.—After these Things were ended, says the sacred Historian, Paul purposed in the Spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome *.—Who can observe, and not admire, this plain unambitious Manner of relating a Series of Labour, the most signally successful, and the most extensively useful? Nothing in human Conduct ever surpassed the Greatness of the one, and perhaps nothing in historical Composition ever equalled the Simplicity of the Other.

St. Paul had already reduced Ephesus and Asia to the Obedience of CHRIST. He had already brought Macedonia and Achaia into Subjection to the Gospel. He had long ago erected the Standard, and spread the Triumphs of Christianity, in the Regions of Arabia. Yet, as if He had hitherto achieved nothing, He bends his Forces towards Jerusalem. Then he marks out Rome for the Seat of his spiritual Warfare. After this, he forms the same beneficent Design upon Spain: including, in his comprehensive Plan, the Metropolis and the Boundaries † of the known World.—The Universe is but just large enough, to be the Scene of his Activity and Zeal; He never discontinues the charitable Campaign, but with the last Breath of his Life; and He speaks of this unintermitted Course of arduous and dangerous Services, as if He was only going to make some friendly Visit, or join in a Party of innocent Pleasure; After I have been at Jerusalem, I must also see Rome ‡.

Which

‡ I am quite charmed, I must confess, with this very simple, but incomparably gallant Manner of the Apostle's speaking. Far beyond all the Pomp of Panegyric, it displays the Hero.

Which of your Alexanders, which of your Cæsars, which of all the Heroes renowned in Grecian or Roman Story, can vie with the Zeal and Magnanimity of this poor, despised Tent-maker? So poor, that he was constrained to work with his own Hands, for a Morfel of Bread: so despised, that He was frequently treated as the Off-scouring of all Things. Notwithstanding all these Discouragements, what did he not attempt, what did He not accomplish * for the Honour of his MASTER, and the Good of his Fellow-creatures?—He embarks in a Shallop; their Arrows would intercept the Shining of the Sun. Then, said Dieneces one of the Spartan Leaders, We shall have the Advantage of fighting in the Shade.—Just before the Battle of Agincourt, News was brought to King Henry's Camp, that the French were exceedingly numerous. That they would bring into the Field, more than six Times the Number of the English Troops. To which the brave Captain Gam immediately replied, Is it so? Then there are enough to be cut in Pieces, enough to be taken Prisoners, and enough to run away.—A commanding Officer, I think, among the Royalists, being besieged by the Parliamentary Forces, was summoned to surrender the Castle. The Summons he rejected. Upon which, the Enemy threatened, that if He persisted in his Resolution, the Walls should, without farther Delay, be battered to the Ground. What if they are? was his blunt Answer, I am not obliged to rebuild them.—Sir Thomas More, sometime Lord Chancellor of England, fell into Disgrace with the Sovereign, and was committed to the Tower. On which Occasion, the Lieutenant of the Tower made an Apology for the Diet, Lodging, and Accommodations, as unsuitable to the Dignity of so great a Man. No Apology, Sir, replies the courtly Prisoner: I don't question, but I shall like your Accommodations very well. And if You once hear me complain, I give You free Leave to turn me out of Doors.

Such calm Sentiments, so cool and sedate a Temper, amidst Circumstances of the most imminent Danger or the greatest Distress, argue an uncommon Fortitude and Superiority of Mind. But, if we consider the Nature of the Apostle's Enterprize; that it was nothing less than an open Attack on the Empire of Satan; a declared War against the whole idolatrous World; all which was to commence in Reproach and Persecution; was to be attended with Bonds and Afflictions; was to end in Martyrdom and Death—If We consider this, I believe, nothing will appear, at once so humble and so exalted, so modest yet so magnanimous, as the Turn and Air of his Expression; After I have been at Jerusalem, I must also see Rome.

* Ω τε μεγαλοπραξίμωνος ανθρωπος, said King Agessilaus, when He saw Epaminondas, the Spartan Hero, marching at the Head of his Troops. But never was there a human Character, whom this high Encomium

He expects * nothing but Poverty, Contempt, and Death; yet his Heart is big with the Hope of enriching, ennobling, and saving Ages and Generations. What Benevolence of Temper was this!—Should you enquire, concerning this illustrious Champion of the Cross; Who were his potent Auxiliaries? None but the Divine SPIRIT.—What were his mighty Weapons? Nothing but the Word of Truth and Grace.—Whence proceeded his intrepid, his enterprising, his all-conquering Resolution? Only from Faith, a lively Faith in JESUS CHRIST.

This, I think, is a sufficient Confirmation of my Doctrine.—Nevertheless I have another Instance to produce. One that was exhibited in an Age, when the glorious Object of our Faith shone with dim Lustre, and with distant Beams. Yet it may justly be admired, and will hardly be eclipsed, by the most inlightened among the Christian Saints.—To keep You no longer in Suspense, the Case I mean, is that which Moses records, and the Apostle celebrates. BY FAITH Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac: and He that had received the Promises, offered up his only begotten Son †.—As this is so singular an Example of the efficacious and triumphant Operation of Faith; unequalled in any Nation of the World, or under any Dispensation of Religion; You will give me leave to dwell a little on some of its marvelous Circumstances.

Abraham was an eminent and distinguished Servant of the Most High GOD. Favoured with peculiar Manifestations of the Divine Will, and dignified with the honourable Title of his MAKER's Friend ‡. Yet so exactly suited, as the Character and Conduct of the Apostle Paul. Of Him it will be said, and throughout all Generations, What hath GOD wrought by this Man!

even this Man, is harrassed with a long Succession of Troubles; and, which was reckoned in those Ages the most deplorable Calamity, goes childless *.

Long He waits, worshipping GOD with the most patient Resignation. At Length, an Oracle from the LORD gives Him Hope, gives Him Assurance of a Son. Joyfully he receives the Promise, and rests in humble Expectation of its Accomplishment.—Several Years run their Rounds, but no pleasing Infant prattles in his Arms, or is dandled upon his Knees. At last, the Handmaid becomes pregnant. But what a Disappointment was here! This is the Son of the Bondwoman, not of the free.

How afflicting the Case of this excellent Person! His Kinsfolk and Acquaintance see their Olive-branches, flourishing round about their Tables. Even his ungodly Neighbours have Children at their Desire, and leave the Residue of their Substance for their Babes. But Abraham, the Worshipper of JEHOVAH, the Favourite of Heaven—this Abraham is destitute of an Heir, to support his Name, to propagate his Family, or to inherit the Blessing.—O the Straits! to which the Believer is sometimes reduced! How does a sovereign Providence try his Faith, as it were in a Furnace of Fire! Not that it may be consumed, but refined, and come forth with augmented Lustre; to the Praise of ever-faithful, all-sufficient Grace.

GOD is pleased to renew the Grant, and assure Him more explicitly, That Sarah shall have a Son. But this Notice comes at a very late Period in Life; when Sarah is advanced in Years, and too old, according to the Course of Nature, to conceive. However, the pious Patriarch staggers not through Unbelief; but hopes even against Hope *.—Is it improbable? Is it difficult? Nay, is it to all human Appearance impossible? So much the more proper, for Faith to expect, and for Omnipotence to accomplish.

* There was so much Gall in this Calamity, that it embittered every other Species of Happiness. Visited by this Affliction, the Patriarch could taste no Joy in his late signal Victory; all his worldly Prosperity was insipid; and he seems to have been incapable of relishing any other Comfort; What wilt thou give me, seeing I go childless? Gen. xv. 2.—I would intreat the Reader to take particular Notice of this Circumstance. It will have the same Effect upon the Representation of Abraham's Obedience, and the whole Series of his Difficulties, as a magnifying Glass has upon the Objects to which it is applied.

At last, the Gift, so earnestly desired, is vouchsafed. Sarah has a Child—a Son—an Isaac. One who should be a Source of Consolation and Delight to his Parents; should fill their Mouth with Laughter †, and their Tongue with Joy.—With tender Care, doubtless, this pleasant Plant is reared. Many Prayers are put up, for his long Life, and great Happiness. The fond Parents watch over Him, as over the Apple of their own Eye. Their Life is bound up in the Life of the Lad ‡—He grows in Grace, as He grows in Stature. So amiable is his Temper, and so engaging his Behaviour, as could not fail of endearing him even to a Stranger: how much more to such indulgent Parents, after so long a State of Barrenness, and so many Expectations so frequently frustrated.

Now, methinks, we are ready to congratulate the happy Sire; and flatter Ourselves, that his Tribulations have an End. That the Storms, which ruffled the Noon of Life, are blown over; and the Evening of his Age, is becoming calm and serene.—But let not Him that girdeth on his Harness, boast Himself, as He that putteth it off §. Our Warfare on Earth is never accomplished, till We bow our Head, and give up the Ghost. The sharpest, the severest Tryal is still behind.

|| The Sentence, with which the inspired Historian introduces this affecting Narrative, is unhappily translated in our Bibles; אֱלֹהֵי אַבְרָהָם GOD did tempt Abraham.—This Expression seems, more than seems to clash with the Doctrine of St. James, Chap. i. ver. 13. And cannot often heard it with a Rapture of Delight.—Instantly He replies, “Here I am. Speak, LORD; for thy Servant is all Attention.” Hoping, no doubt, to receive some fresh Manifestation of the divine Good-will, to Himself and his Family; or some new Discovery of the Method, in which the divine Wisdom would accomplish the Promises, I will multiply thy Seed—I will make thy Seed as the Dust of the Earth—In thy Seed shall all the Families of the Earth be blessed.

Take thy Son; adds GOD. And might not Abraham reasonably expect, that, since his Son was arrived to Years of Maturity, He should be directed, How to settle Him in the World with Honour and Advantage; Where to find a virtuous and fruitful Partner of his Cares, his Joys, and his Bed?—He is commanded, not barely to take his Son, but his only Son; his Son Isaac; whom He loved. How must these affecting Images awaken all that soft Complacency, and all that tender Triumph, which are known only to the fond feeling Apprehensions of a Parent! Must not such an Introduction, so remarkably endearing, heighten his Expectation of some signal Mercy, to be conferred on the beloved Youth; and would it not render the Blessing peculiarly acceptable, more than doubly welcome?

Was he not then startled? Was he not horribly amazed? When, instead of some renewed Expression of the Divine Favour, He received the following Orders. *Take now thy Son—thy only Son—Isaac—whom Thou lovest—and get Thee into the Land of Moriah, and offer Him there for a Burnt-offering, upon one of the Mountains which I will tell Thee of. so affecting, or Message so alarming? Does GOD create the Apple of the Eye, only to be a Sheath for the Dagger? Does He impart the utmost Sensibility, only to inflict the most agonizing Pain? Every Word in this Injunction, softens and entenders the Parent's Heart; and, at the same Time, sharpens the Arrow, that must pierce it through and through.

Where now, Abraham, are all thy pleasing Prospects? How often didst thou say, in thy enamoured and delighted Heart; “This same shall comfort Us concerning our Trouble *. Many have been my Sorrows; but this Child, this dear Child, shall dry up my Tears, and bring me to my Grave in Peace.”—Alas! this lovely Flower is to be cut down, in its fairest fullest Bloom. All thy shining Hopes are overcast in a Moment. They are covered with Darknes and the Shadow of Death.—But let us attend to the tragical Story.

Abraham, take thy Son.—Who, but Abraham, could have forbore remonstrating and pleading, on such an Occasion?—Ananias, being charged with a Commission to Saul the Persecutor, takes upon Him to argue the Case with his Almighty SOVEREIGN. LORD, I have heard by Many concerning this Man, how much Evil He hath done to thy Saints at Jerusalem; and here He hath Authority from the chief Priests to bind all that call upon thy Name †. It can never be safe or expedient, to present myself voluntarily before Him; who came hither breathing out Threatenings and Slaughter against me. What is this, but to court Danger; and run, with open Eyes, into Ruin?—Thus Ananias. With how much greater Appearance of Reason, might Abraham have replied?

“LORD, have I not already left my Country; left my Kindred; and, at thy Command, left my Father's House? And wilt Thou now bereave me of my Child? Must I part, not with some admired Folly or darling Vanity, but with the most worthy

 “ this be taken away, while all those are left?”

Yes, Abraham; it is thy Son, and not Another’s, that is marked for the Victim.—What Distress, had He not been supported by Faith, what exquisite Distress must have overwhelmed this affectionate Parent! How could He refrain from crying out, and with a Flood of Tears?—“ If the Decree cannot be reversed; if it “ must be the Fruit of my own Body; Oh! that “ My Bowels! My Bowels! I am pained at my very “ Heart. If it was only to dismiss Him into some fo-“ Years; even this would be a sore Tryal. But to “ lose Him by the Stroke of Death; to have Him “ cut off out of the Land of the Living! Will not the “ Blow that dispatches Him, be fatal to Us both?

“ Yet, if He must die, and there is no Remedy;

 “ May not some common Distemper unloose the Cords
 “ of Life, and lay Him down gently in the Tomb?
 “ May not his fond Mother and myself seal his closing “ Eyes, and soften his dying Pangs by our tender “ Offices?”

No, Abraham. Thy Son must be slaughtered on the Altar. He shall have no other Bed of Death, than the Pile of hewn Wood; no other Winding-sheet, than his own clotted Gore. The sacrificing Knife, and not any common Disease, shall bring Him to his End.—And think not to satisfy thy sorrowing Fondness, by paying Him the last Honours of a decent Interment. It is the LORD’s Will, that He be cut in Pieces; consumed to Ashes; and made a Burnt-offering. So that nothing shall remain, to be preserved, or embalmed. It shall not

not be in thy Power to sooth thy Grief, by resorting to his Grave; and weeping at his Sepulchre; and saying—Here lies Isaac.

“ But if all must be executed; GOD forbid, that “ I should behold the dismal Tragedy! If my Isaac “ must be bound Hand and Foot for the Slaughter; if “ He must receive the Steel into his Bosom; and welter
 “ in his own innocent Blood; O! let it be far, far
 “ from the Sight of these Eyes!”

Even this Mitigation cannot be granted. Thou, Abraham, thou thyself must stand by; must look on; must see Him slain.—Nay, Thou must not only be an Eye-witness of his Agony, but be the Executioner of thy Isaac. Yes; thy Hands must lift the deadly Weapon; thy Hands must point it to the beloved Breast; thy own Hands must urge its Way, through the gushing Veins, and the shivering Flesh, till it be plunged in the throbbing Heart. GOD will not permit the Work to be done by Another. The Father, the Father must be the Murtherer.

Is not the wretched Father stunned and thunder-struck? Does He not stand fixed in Horror, and speechless with Grief? What Words can be mournful enough to express his Sorrows?—To murder a Son! Is it not impious, execrable, shocking? Nature recoils at the very Thought! How then can the best of Fathers perform the Deed?

How shall He answer it to the Wife of his Bosom, the Mother of the lovely Youth? Who bore Him in her Womb; who brought Him forth with Pain; and nursed Him up, amidst the fondest Careffes. Will She not have Reason to reproach Abraham, and say in the Anguish of her Spirit; A bloody Husband hast thou been to me *.

How can He justify it to the World? They will never be persuaded, that the GOD of Goodness can delight in Cruelty, or authorize so horrid an Action.—Will they not take up a taunting Proverb, and say at every Turn? “ There goes the Man, the Monster rather, that has “ imbrued his Hands in the Blood of his own Son!

 “ This is He that pretends to Piety; and yet could be “ so savage, as to assassinate, coolly and deliberately assas“ sinate an only Child!”—Might not Thousands of such Considerations, croud into his Thoughts, and rack his very Soul?

But GOD is unchangeable. Positive is his Word, and must be obeyed. Obeyed immediately too. Take now thy Son. The LORD's Command requireth Speed. No Time is to be lost, in bidding Adieu to his Relations, or in fruitless Supplications for revoking the Doom.—Prodigious Tryal! Was ever Precept like this Precept?—Yet, when JEHOVAH enjoins, to deliberate, is Disloyalty; to dispute, is Rebellion.

This the Patriarch knew. Therefore He waits not for a second Injunction.—He knew also, that Obedience is no Obedience, unless it be willing and cheerful. Therefore He consults not with Flesh and Blood. He is deaf to the Arguings of carnal Reason, and regards not the Yearnings of paternal Affection. But, without a murmuring Word, without a Moment's Delay, sets forward on his Journey. Not so much as betraying the least Uneasiness, to alarm his Wife; nor heaving the least Sigh, to create Suspicion in his Attendants.

And canst thou, Abraham, canst thou persist in thy Purpose? Can thy Heart firmly resolve, can thy Hand steadily execute? Execute this inexpressibly severe Task?—Is not this Child the Heir of the Promises, both temporal, spiritual, and eternal?—Is not the great MESSIAH, whose Day thou hast so passionately desired to see; whose Person is the Hope of all the Ends of the Earth; is not that great MESSIAH to spring from his Loins? From his Loins, whom thou art about to kill?—The Blessing, thou knowest, is appropriated to Him. The grand Entail is settled upon Him—upon Isaac by Name—upon Isaac alone. If He perish, all is lost.—Canst thou, then, at one Blow, destroy the Life of thy Son; sacrifice all thy earthly Joys; and cut off the Hopes of the whole World?—Will none of these Considerations discourage, dissuade, deter thee?

Most triumphant Faith indeed! Deservedly art thou styled, The Father of the Faithful. Thy Faith is stronger than all the Ties of Affection; stronger than all the Pleas of Nature; stronger than all the Terrors of Death—of a Death, in its Circumstances and its Consequences, incomparably more dreadful than thy own.

Now must He travel, during three tedious, and, one would think, most melancholy Days. With his Isaac constantly before his Eyes; with the tragical Scene, continually presenting itself to his Apprehensions; and nothing to divert his Mind, from dwelling upon every afflictive Incident.—Thus must He travel, aged as He is, to a great Distance; in Suspence and Uncertainty all the while. Not knowing, where the fatal Business is to be transacted; whether in a private Spot, or on a public Stage. Only on one of the Mountains which the LORD will tell Him of.—There seems to be a Combination of all Things, in order to aggravate the Tryal; and urge Him to Disquietude, if not to Distraction.

On the third Day, Abraham lift up his Eyes, and saw the Place afar off. Doleful Sight! The Slaughter-House of his Son! Does not the Prospect alarm all his tender Passions? No; it only awakens his Circumspection. The Servants are commanded to advance no farther. Here they must take their Stand, and keep their Distance. Lest a well-meaning, but unseasonable Compassion, should prompt them to interpose.—He Himself, with the Fire and the Knife in his Hands; and his Son, with the Burden of Wood on his Shoulders, went both of them together.—Who does not pity the dear devoted Youth, toiling under that Load, which must soon reek with his Blood, and soon reduce him to Ashes?—Mean while the intended Victim, wondering to see all these Preparations made, and no proper Animal near, asks this pertinent Question; My Father, behold the Fire and the Wood! But where is the Lamb for a Burnt-offering?

fering? Nothing could be more tender and moving than this Speech; which discovered such a Knowledge of Religion, and such a Concern for its Duties. Will not this rouse the Father's Anguish, and shake his Determination? How can He be the Death of so much Innocence, and so much Piety?

Faith overcomes all Difficulties. Unmoved and inflexible, the Patriarch replies; *GOD will provide Himself a Lamb for a Burnt-offering, my Son. He hides the awful Tidings from the inquisitive Youth, lest they should be too heavy and afflictive for Him to bear. Of his own Firmness and Perseverance He was sufficiently assured. But who can tell, whether Isaac's Courage and Self-denial may be equal to such a Shock? Therefore He smothered the Brand in his own Breast; and forbears, as long as possible, to disclose the terrible Secret. So they went both of them together. The One, wondering at the Strangeness of the Affair, and "not knowing that it is for his Life." The Other, with a Fire pent up in his Bones; and fearing more to reveal, than to execute the Work.

And they came to the Place, which GOD had told him of. 'Tis a Mountain. Far from the Resort of Men. A doleful Solitude indeed! Gloomy Shades, and hoary Trees; ragged Rocks, and hideous Precipices; the Sound of headlong Cataracts, mingled with the Yell of ravenous Beasts; have made some Mountains extremely formidable. But all these Circumstances, wild and tre-

* Abraham in this Answer, like many of the other Prophets in their Predictions, seems not to have thoroughly understood the Import of his own Words. What He Himself meant, I apprehend, is represented in the following Paraphrase of his Speech. Yet GOD so over-ruled his Tongue, that it more fully expressed the divine Decree, than the parental Idea.

GOD will provide Himself a Lamb for a Burnt-offering, my Son. Thus the Words are placed in the Hebrew. My Son comes last, and closes the Reply. That the tender Accents may be left to vibrate on the Father's Ear, and the dear distressing Image continue playing before his Mind.—This, I think, is a Delicacy not to be overlooked, and increases the Pathos of the Narrative.

mendous as they are, could never create a Terror, comparable to the Sadness and Horrour of this single Thought; "Here my Isaac must bleed; on this Eminence He breathes his last."

I should not wonder to see the Patriarch overwhelmed with Consternation. His Thoughts lost in a Tumult of Fear, Trepidation, and Perplexity. So as not to know, either where to begin; or how to proceed; or what to do. But Abraham is all Composure. He dispatches the preparatory Business, without the least Hesitation, or the least Precipitancy. As calmly, as when, "rich in Cattle, in Silver, and in Gold," He reared his Tent between Bethel and Hai.

Abraham builds an Altar there. An Altar, spacious, strong, and regular. Spacious, that it may receive, strong, that it may sustain, the Victim; and regular, that every Thing may be transacted with the utmost Decorum*. Nay; He lays the Wood in Order. Not huddles it together, with Haste and Confusion, into a rude Heap; but places each Piece in the properest Situation, to admit the Flames, and accelerate the Consumption of the Sacrifice. How must this slow Process, and all these solemn Formalities, afford Leisure for Reflection to strike deep, and employ all her Stings!

Every Thing is now ready for the most astonishing and dreadful Act of Obedience, that Men or Angels ever beheld. And now Abraham discloses the startling Secret: "Didst thou enquire concerning the Lamb? Thou thyself, my dear Child, art the Lamb provided for the Burnt-Offering.—Be not amazed. Let not thy Heart fail.—The GOD, who bestowed thee on my longing Desires, is pleased to require thee again at my Hand.—The LORD gave, and the

* The Scriptures are generally concise in their Narratives. But the Relation of this Story is remarkably circumstantial. The more effectually to engage our Attention, and interest our Affections; as well as the more illustriously to display the numerous Difficulties, and the pressing Tryals, which the heroic Patriarch encountered—surmounted—triumphed over.

“ LORD taketh away, let Us both adore the Name “ of the LORD.—Let Us confide in his promised “ Goodness, and unanimously profess, Though He slay
 “ me, yet will I trust in Him.”

It does not appear, that the amiable Youth resisted or gainsayed. He had Strength enough to oppose, and Speed enough to escape*, the Attempts of an aged Father. Either or both of which, the Law of Self-preservation might seem to dictate, and the Light of Reason to justify. But Isaac knew, that his Father was a Prophet. In this prophetic Character, He sees and acknowledges the Warrant of Heaven. And since his CREATOR calls, He is content to go.—Excellent Isaac ! Who does not admire thy Courage? Who is not charmed with thy Resignation? And must We, in a few Minutes, must We see Thee a pale, a bloody, a breathless Corpse?

Methinks, I shudder as We draw near the direful Catastrophe. The Father knows not how to relent, and the Son offers his † willing Throat to the Knife.—Nevertheless, that the Work of Destiny may be sure, and no one Particular relating to a Sacrifice omitted, Abraham binds Isaac his Son. I have known a stubborn Malefactor, quite unalarmed, when sentenced to the ignominious Tree; not at all impressed, with the most awful Representations of eternal Judgment; yet, when a Person came to measure him for his Coffin, the hardened Wretch was hard no longer. He started; turned pale; and trembled in every Joint.—Even such a Circumstance makes no Impression on Abraham; neither alters his Purpose, nor changes his Countenance. He measures his Isaac; measures those Limbs, which He had so frequently embraced, and so tenderly careffed; if not for the Coffin, yet for immediate Slaughtcr.

* According to Josephus, Isaac was, when He submitted Himself to the Slaughter, about twenty-five Years old. Others think, his Age was thirty-three; which makes Him more exactly resemble his suffering LORD. Then his Father must be above a hundred and thirty Years old. Either Account will justify Aspasio's Supposition.

Having bound Him—fuprizing Refolution!—bound Him for the Sword and for the Flame, He lays Him upon the Altar on the Wood. There, now lies Ifaac; the dear, the dutiful, the religious Ifaac! Abraham's Joy; Sarah's Delight; the Heir of the Promifes! There He lies, all meek and refigned; expecting, every Moment, the Stroke of Death to fall.—O Parents! Parents! Do not your Bowels yearn? Is not Humanity itfelf diftreffed at the Scene?—Say, thou who art a Father, what thinkeft Thou of Abraham's Obedience? Couldft Thou, to fuch a Son, have acted fuch a Part?

See! the Father, refolute to the very laft, unſheaths the murdering Blade; makes bare the innocent Boſom; and marks the Place, where Life may find the ſpeedieft Exit. His Heart is fixed! He ſtretches forth his Hand; He lifts the ſharpened Steel; and determined to finiſh at a Blow, is even now aiming—When—rejoice O ye Worſhippers of a gracious GOD! The ANGEL of the Covenant ſpeaks from Heaven, and with-holds the Patriarch's Hand, in the very Act to ſtrike. GOD, who only intended to manifeſt his Faith, and make it honourable, bids Him do no Harm to the Lad. Yea; GOD applauds his Obedience; and

* Upon this moſt ſeaſonable Interpoſition, the inſpired Hiſtorian makes a very judicious and edifying Remark. Which ſeems to be greatly obſcured, if not intirely ſpoiled, by our Tranſlation; In the Mount of the LORD it ſhall be ſeen. I muſt confeſs, I have always been puzzled to find, not only a pertinent Senſe, but any Senſe at all, in theſe Words. Whereas, the Original is as clear in its Signification as it is appoſite to the Purpoſe.—בהר יהוה יראה In the Mount the LORD will be ſeen; or, In the Mount the LORD will provide, q. d. “ This memorable Event gave Riſe to, at leaſt is an eminent “ Exemplification of, that proverbial Expreſſion, which is commonly “ uſed at this Day. substitutes another Sacrifice in Iaac's Stead; renews his Covenant with the Father, and not only reprieves the Life of the Son, but promises Him a numerous and illustrious Issue. Promises to make him the Progenitor of the MESSIAH, and thereby a Blessing to all the Nations of the Earth.

Tell me now, Theron, was there ever such an astonishing Effort of Obedience? Such a perfect Prodigy of Resignation? YET THIS HATH FAITH DONE*.—If you should ask, How was it possible for Abraham to perform all this, in the Manner described? The Answer is obvious. Because Abraham BELIEVED; or in other Words, was fully persuaded, that the Arm of the LORD, which had raised this Son from the barren Womb, was able to raise Him again even from dissected Limbs or from smoking † Ashes.—The same GOD, who required this Sacrifice, had expressly declared, In Iaac shall thy Seed be called. Therefore the Patriarch

* Heb. xi. 17. By Faith, Abraham, when He was tried, offered up Iaac.—The Faith, of which such glorious Things are spoken, to which such admirable Atchievements are ascribed, throughout this whole Chapter, was a Faith “in the Seed of the Woman,” the promised MESSIAH.—Or, could it be demonstrated (which, from Verse 26 alone, I will venture to pronounce impossible) that in all these heroic Instances of Obedience, there was no believing Regard to CHRIST; no Apprehension of his unspeakable Love; no Application of his transcendent Merits; our Argument would not lose its Force, but strike with redoubled Energy. For, if a Belief in very inferior Manifestations of the divine Goodness, Faithfulness, and Power, wrought so efficaciously on those antient Worthies; how much more victoriously must the same Principle act, under far brighter Displays of all the supreme Perfections, in the Person of JESUS CHRIST! —I would only add, that so long as this Chapter remains in the Bible, it will furnish an unanswerable Confutation of those Objections, which suppose the Doctrine of Faith to have an unkindly Influence on religious or virtuous Practice. Against all such Cavils, it will stand fast for evermore as the Moon, and as the faithful Witness in Heaven.

† He seems to have expected not only the certain, but the immediate Restoration of his slain Son. That he should be revived on the very Spot; before He left the Place; so as to accompany his Return. For, he says to his Servants, not I, but We will go, and Worship, and return. נשובה Ver. 5.

assured Himself, that the Promise would, in a Way known to infinite Wisdom, be most punctually accomplished. Hence he made no Dispute, and felt no Reluctance. His Faith disregarded all the Contrariety of Appearances; banished every uneasy Apprehension; and neither Fear, nor Sorrow, had place in his Breast. Confident of GOD'S Ability, and making no doubt of his Fidelity, He readily and chearfully * obeyed.

You admire, and very justly, this heroic Act of Obedience.—A Son, for whom He waited so long—received in so extraordinary a Manner—upon whom his Heart

* This Account, is so very extraordinary, that I shall not be surpris'd, if the Reader finds some Difficulty in giving his Assent to it. Especially, as He may have accustomed Himself to form very different Conceptions of this remarkable Affair; and may possibly be confirm'd in a different Train of Ideas, by seeing a Representation of the Story in a celebrated Print. Where the Father appears, clasping his Son in a tender Embrace; bedewing him with his Tears; and suffering as much through Grief, as the devoted Youth is going to suffer by the Knife.—But the Artist, I apprehend, had not so attentively examined the Circumstances of the sacred Narrative, nor so carefully compar'd them with other Passages of Scripture, as a judicious and worthy Friend of mine. From whom I learnt to consider this wonderful Transaction in the above-represented View. And I must confess, the more I revolve it in my Mind, the more I am convinc'd of its Propriety and Truth. That all was transacted, not with great Reluctance and extreme Anguish; but, as Chryso'stom very strongly speaks, μέλα προθυμίας ζήσεως και επιτεταμένω ποθῶ, with Alacrity and Zeal, with intense Desire and complacential Delight.

I flatter myself, the Reader will be of the same Opinion, if he pleases to consult the Tenth Chapter of Leviticus. Where Nadab and Abihu, the Sons of Aaron, are devoured with Fire from before the LORD. Yet Aaron is not allowed to mourn, even at such a terrible and afflictive Visitation. And when, through the Frailty of human Nature, He could not wholly refrain, He durst not presume to eat of the Sin-offering. Such Things, says He, have befallen me, if I had eaten of the Sin-offering, should it have been accepted in the Sight of the LORD?—Let me add, that we find not the least Indication of such agonizing Sorrow, nor indeed of any Sorrow at all, in the History as related by Moses. Neither could Abraham have been a proper Type of the eternal FATHER, making his only begotten SON a Sacrifice for Sin, if He had not willingly offered up Isaac. Indeed to offer willingly, seems to have been absolutely necessary, in every acceptable Oblation, and every religious Service. See 2 Cor. ix. 7. 1 Chron. xxviii. 9.

was set—in whom all his Expectations centered—who alone could convey to all Nations the promised Blessing—to offer this Son as a Sacrifice, and that by his own Hand—never was such an Instance of Obedience performed, attempted, or heard of.—Yet We shall both do well to remember, that Abraham was not justified by this, but by the infinitely more noble Obedience of JESUS CHRIST. His Faith, receiving this, relying on this, rejoicing in this, disposed and enabled Him for such wonderful Self-denial, Fortitude, and Duty.

If all this, which would otherwise have been utterly impracticable, was wrought by Faith; You need not suspect, of Weakness and Insufficiency, so approved a Principle. Far, far from enervating, it will invigorate every good Disposition; and instead of damping, will give Life to every religious Duty.—Cherish Faith, and You will of course cultivate Obedience.—Water this Root, and the Branches of universal Godliness will assuredly partake the beneficial Effects; will spread their Honours, and bring forth their Fruits.—Through the Power of Faith, the Saints have wrought Righteousness, in all its magnanimous and exemplary Acts.—The Doctrine of Faith is called by St. Paul, A Doctrine according to Godliness *; exquisitely contrived to answer all the Ends, and secure every Interest of real Piety.—The Grace of Faith St. Jude styles, Our most holy Faith †; intimating, that it is not only productive of Holiness, but that the most refined and exalted Holiness arises from this Stock; is produced by believing in JESUS.

Let Us then be diligent to exercise, and careful to increase, Faith in JESUS CHRIST. Let Us maintain the same zealous Solitude for this leading capital Grace, as the renowned Epaminondas expressed for his Shield. When that gallant General was, in an Engagement with the Enemy, struck to the Ground; his Soldiers carried him off, breathless and fainting to his Tent. The Moment he opened his Eyes, and recovered the Use of Speech, he asked—not whether his Wound was mortal? not whether his Troops were routed?—But whether his Shield was safe?—May We be enabled, my dear Friend, to keep our Shield safe! May We be strong, be steady, be lively in Faith! Then, I doubt not, We shall give Glory to GOD; receive Comfort to Ourselves; and abound in the Works of the LORD.

The Apostle prays, in behalf of his Ephesian Converts, that they may every One enjoy the Privileges of Grace, and each experience the Efficacy of Faith. Or, to use his own animated Words, That they may know, what is the Hope of their Calling in CHRIST JESUS; and what is the exceeding Greatness of his Power, to them-ward who believe *. Than which Prayer, nothing can close either this or the preceding Letter, with more Propriety, or with greater Dignity. As nothing can more fully express the Sentiments, the Wishes, the very Soul of

P. S. I said, “The infinitely more noble Obedience of “JESUS CHRIST.”—For, to this Obedience I would have our Thoughts continually directed. This surpasses the Services both of Angels and Men, in all their various and wonderful Orders. 'Tis true, compared with our Duties, Abraham's Obedience is like Saul's Stature; who, from his Shoulders and upward, was higher than any of the People. But when the Righteousness of CHRIST comes into View, it is somewhat like that magnificent Personage, described by St. John, in the tenth of the Revelation †.—Should such a sublime and majestic Being, appear amidst an Assembly, of the most renowned Monarchs in the World; how would their Splendour be eclipsed, and all their Grandeur dwindle into Meanness! Before such an illustrious Potentate of Heaven, who would take Notice of Cæsar; or bestow a Look upon Alexander? So, the Righteousness of CHRIST, being the Righteousness of HIM, who lay in the Bosom of the FATHER from Eternity; the Righteousness of HIM, who now sits on the right Hand of the Throne of the Majesty in the Heavens; this Righteousness being in itself most consummately perfect, and unspeakably ennobled by the Dignity of the Performer; all other Kinds, Degrees, or Forms of Righteousness, shrink, before it, into the Littleness of Pygmies, of Worms, of Mites. Could they speak, the Language of each would be; “Look not upon me for I am dim, yea, I am black. But look upon your LORD, for “HIS Works are marvelous, and HE is glorious in his Holiness.”

IT is very probable, while I am reading yours, You are perusing mine. But how unlike is my Friend, to the Representation he receives! How unlike the satisfied, unsuspecting, chearful Abramam! Why this dejected Air in your Temper? Why these pensive Strokes in your Letter*?—Let me anticipate your Reply, and make Answer to myself.—This Gloom, I trust, is a Sign of approaching Day.—Just before the Morning Dawn, the nocturnal Darknefs is blackest. And just before the Appearance of the SUN OF RIGHTEOUSNESS, the alarmed Sinner's Distress is frequently the deepest. I promise myself, the Hour is at Hand, which will put off your Sackcloth, and gird You with Gladness.

Another favourable Prefage is, That You take the direct and certain Way, to obtain substantial Comfort. The Righteousness of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, after which You inquire, about which You are solicitous, is a never-failing Source of Consolation. Because it acquits from all Sin; secures from all Condemnation; and renders the Believer unblameable and unreprouable in the Sight of GOD. Therefore, says the HOLY GHOST, His Name is as Ointment poured forth * : even that divinely precious Name—by which He has been celebrated in the preceding Epistles; by which He is distinguished in the Scriptures of Truth; by which, I hope, He will be more and more revealed in my Theron's Mind—THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS. The Discovery of Him under this most amiable and glorious Capacity, will indeed be like breaking open a Vial of the richest Unguents. Which not only fill the Room, and regale the Sense, with their delightful Fragrance; but refresh the Spirits, and rejoice the very Heart.—Might my Writing, or my Discourse, be as the Alabaster-box to contain, to convey, and present these reviving Odours; how highly should I think myself honoured, and how signally my Endeavours blessed!

You ask, “How this Righteousness of the Divine REDEEMER becomes ours?”—It is a Question, which I receive with the utmost Pleasure; and, with equal Pleasure, shall attempt an Answer. Or rather, as the SPIRIT of our GOD prompted the first, may the same unerring GUIDE suggest the last!—This He has abundantly done by his Prophets and Apostles. So that I need only have recourse to their Writings, and collect some Hints, which lie treasured up in those Store-houses of Wisdom.

There We are often told of Union with CHRIST. Believers are said to be *in CHRIST, and to be one with CHRIST†.—What is still higher, and implies a greater Degree of Nearness, They are Members of his Body, of his Flesh, and of his Bones ‡.—And, which denotes the most intimate Connection imaginable, They that are joined to the LORD JESUS, are one Spirit || with Him!—As these Expressions appear dark, and their Sense lies deep, it has pleased our all-condescending INSTRUCTOR to illustrate them, by a Variety of significant Types, and lively Similitudes. This Remark very opportunely reminds me of an Engagement, which, some Time ago, I undertook to execute, but have hitherto omitted.—To make it evident, that the blessed Doctrine, for which We have been pleading, is deducible from several Scripture Images §. A short Descant upon some of the principal, will, I hope, at once discharge my former Obligation, and satisfy your present Inquiry.

This was shadowed forth by the costly, odoriferous, flowing Unguent, poured upon Aaron's Head; which ran down upon his Beard, and descendid to the Skirts of his Cloathing. So the Merits of our great HIGH-¶ Pſal. cxxxiii. 2. What We render Skirts, is, in the Original, not כנף, but פִּי מְדוּתָי, The Mouth, or, as the Word is translated (Job xxx. 18.) The Collar of his Garments. It is hardly supposable, that the consecrating Oil flowed down to the very Bottom of the sacerdotal Vestments. But We may easily imagine it reaching the upper Hem, or the Opening round the Neck; what the Greeks call περιτραχηλιον.—This Sense will sufficiently preserve the Gradation; The Head; the Beard; the Clothes. Which seem to denote CHRIST, his more advanced Saints, and Believers of a lower Class.

PRIEST are derived down to all the Faithful ; even those of the meanest Station in Life, and the lowest Attainments in Religion.

Was it not typified by that instructive Vision, which the Prophet Zechariah saw ? *I have looked, and behold : A Candlestick all of Gold, with a Bowl upon the Top of it, and his seven Lamps thereon, and seven Pipes to the seven Lamps, which were upon the Top thereof : And two Olive-trees by it, one upon the right Side of the Bowl, and the other upon the left Side thereof ; which, through two golden Pipes, empty the golden Oil out of themselves . The Bowl and the Lamps were a proper Emblem of Believers : who are, by Nature, dry Vessels, and destitute of all Good ; yet should shine as Lights, in the Midst of a crooked and perverse Generation.—The Olive-trees, arrayed in Verdure, and abounding with Sap ; always emptying themselves, yet ever full ; are a very just Representation of CHRIST, of his unchangeable Love, and his inexhaustible Grace.—The golden Pipes, through which the Olive-branches transmit their Oil, seem to be figurative of Faith, in its various and repeated Actings. By these Channels of Conveyance, the unspeakable Benefits of a REDEEMER are communicated to our Souls, and replenish those empty Basons.

Another Type the Apostle mentions. The first Adam, He says, was a Figure of Him that was to come †. So eminent a Figure, and corresponding in so many Instances, that He styles our LORD JESUS the last Adam ‡. And why ? Because, like the first, He was a Covenant-head to his People, and transacted in their Stead. Were we made Sinners in Adam ? We are made righteous in CHRIST. Is Adam's Sin imputed to all his natural Offspring ? So is CHRIST's Righteousness to all his spiritual Seed. The Consequences of both, render the Doctrine more intelligible, and the Truth more undeniable. All Men are judged, condemned, dead || ; doomed inevitably to the Death of the Body, and justly liable to the Death of the Soul, on the Score of Adam's Transgression. All Believers are *acquitted, justified, saved; saved from the first Death, and made Heirs of the Resurrection; saved from the second Death, and intitled to Life eternal; by Virtue of CHRIST's Obedience.

This Union with CHRIST, was not only prefigured by Types, but displayed by a Variety of Similitudes, taken from the most familiar Occurrences of Life. By which it appears to be our Divine MASTER's Will, that We should live under the habitual Belief of this momentous Truth, and in the constant Enjoyment of this distinguished Privilege.—You cannot visit a Friend, or view your Children; You cannot enter your Garden, discourse with your Spouse, or contemplate your own Body, without a Representation and a Remembrance of this precious Blessing.

CHRIST says to his Disciples, Henceforth I call You not Servants, but Friends †. Friends are a second Self ‡. St. Paul, speaking of Onesimus, uses this remarkable Phrase, Receive Him, as Myself; and, which is still more emphatical, Receive Him, that is mine own Bowels ||. Is not CHRIST's Friendship of the most tender and exalted Kind? Is it not equal, is it not superior to that of Paul for Onesimus, or that of Jonathan for David?—Jonathan loved David as his own Soul. But CHRIST loved Sinners with a Love stronger than Death. They were dearer to Him than His own inestimable Life.—Jonathan exposed himself to imminent Danger, in vindicating David's Conduct. JESUS surrendered Himself to certain Death, in making Reconciliation for our Offences.—Jonathan interceded once and again with his Father in David's Behalf. CHRIST ever liveth, to plead his Blood, and make Intercession for Transgressors.—Jonathan stripped Himself of the Robe that was upon Him, and gave it to David, and his Garment, even to his Sword, and his Bow, and his Girdle *. Our REDEEMER, without stripping Himself, has clothed Us (such is the Prerogative of a Divine Person !) with the Robe of his Righteousness, and with the Garment of his Salvation. He has consigned over to Us all the Merit of his holy Life and propitiatory Death.

CHRIST stands related to his People, not as a Friend only, but as a Parent. He is called by a Prophet, THE EVERLASTING FATHER †; and we are said, by an Apostle, to be his Children ‡.—Children look upon themselves, as interested in the Wealth of their Parents. They expect, and not without reasonable Ground, to reap Benefit from it, while the Parents live; and to become Possessors of it, when they die. Accordingly the Father says in the Gospel; Son, all that I have is thine §.—Since the high and holy IMMANUEL vouchsafes to be our FATHER, can We suppose Him less generous than an earthly Parent? Or can We imagine that his Children shall have less to hope, than the Heirs of an earthly Progenitor? May We not, ought We not to regard all his communicable Goods, all the Benefits resulting from his meritorious Sufferings and perfect Obedience, as our Portion?—Especially, since He is the Testator § also; has bequeathed them to Us by Will; and, having submitted to Death, they become legally ours.

I am the VINE, says our LORD, Ye are the Branches ¶. They who believe, are ingrafted into CHRIST.—Take notice of a Cyon. What are the Consequences of its Ingrafture? It is embodied with the Substance of the Tree, and partakes of its Fatness. The Sap, imbibed by the Root, circulates into it; gives it vegetable Life; fills it with Buds, decks it with Blossoms, foms, and loads it with Fruit.—If then we are one with CHRIST, as much as the Branch is one with the Stock, it should seem probable, even upon the Principles of common Experience, that his Wisdom is ours, to enlighten Us; his Righteousness is ours, to justify Us; his Spirit is ours, to sanctify Us; his Redemption is ours, to make Us completely and eternally happy.—What seems probable from the Nature of Things, is rendered certain by the Words of Revelation. For thus saith our unerring Teacher; Of Him are Ye in CHRIST JESUS; Who of GOD is made unto Us Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification, and Redemption. In CHRIST JESUS; here the Union is expressed. Then follows, and from thence flows, a Communion with Him in all his mediatorial Blessings.

CHRIST is united to his People by a Tie, closer and dearer than the parental. They are not only his Children, but his Spouse. He is often called their Bridegroom, and is not ashamed to avow the tender Engagement; *I will betroth Thee to ME for ever. Yea, I will betroth Thee unto Me in Righteousness, and in Judgment, and in Loving Kindness, and in Mercies. I will even betroth Thee unto Me in Faithfulness. The condescending GOD multiplies, diversifies, accumulates his Words. And this, with admirable Propriety, as well as surpassing Goodness. The Honour is so high, and the Favour so great, We should hardly know how to believe it, and hardly venture to apply it. Lest therefore by a single Expression, it should not be sufficiently established, it stands ratified by repeated Affeверations, and with all the Energy of Language. So that, be the Grace ever so astonishing, We are assured, the Fact is equally certain! He that is our MAKER, is also our HUSBAND †.

Let

* I Mai. liv. 5. Thy MAKER is thy Husband; the LORD of Hosts is his Name; thy REDEEMER, the Holy One of Israel; the GOD of the whole Earth shall He be called. Wonderfully emphatical, and unspeakably precious Words! Thy MAKER is thy Husband. Lest any,

Let us consider what follows, upon such an Union. We may take for an Example, the Case of Boaz and Ruth. Soon as their Nuptials were solemnized, she that was poor became rich: from a Gleaner in the Field, she commenced Mistress of the Harvest: and, from abiding by the Maidens, had a Seat at the Master's Table.—If we are united to CHRIST by a Marriage Contract, the same Effects take place. We that were poor, are rich in Him. We who had nothing, possess all Things in CHRIST. We that dwell in Dust, are made to sit together with our exalted HUSBAND in heavenly Places*.

any, amazed at this Condescension and Grace, should stagger through Unbelief, and attempt to qualify the Expression; lest a Suspicion should arise, that the Expression, thus connected, can never mean the Self-existent, the eternal, infinite GOD; the Prophet explains Himself. The LORD of Hosts is his Name. He is no inferior or subordinate Person. He is none other than the supreme omnipotent JEHOVAH; who does according to his Will, among the Armies of the Sky, and the Reptiles of the Ground.—As this is a Doctrine of the last Importance, the sacred Writer pours greater Light upon it, and ascertains it with greater Precision. The holy One of Israel is his Name; possessed of all Holiness, Perfection, and Glory; whom the Church in all Ages and Places, acknowledge as the one adorable Object of their Worship, their Hope, their Faith.—To establish, beyond all Contradiction, this most joyous and ravishing Truth, it is farther declared; The GOD, not of Israel only, but of the whole Earth, and of all the Nations, shall He be called. Yes; HE, who is the Husband of his People, and loves them with the Complacency of a Bridegroom; HE now is, and sooner or later shall be recognized, as the sole Proprietor of the Universe. As the Creator, Governor, and GOD, of all Men, Creatures, and Things.

Let the Reader, at his Leisure, compare the foregoing Text, with those Passages in the New Testament, which represent CHRIST, as the Bridegroom and Husband of his Church. The Comparison will yield a most delightful and incontestible Proof, that our SAVIOUR is the LORD of Hosts, the Holy One of Israel, the GOD of the whole Earth. A Truth, which should never depart from our Minds; which should be interwoven with all our Meditations on CHRIST. Since it gives much the same Addition of Beauty, Dignity, and Glory, to the Privileges of the Gospel and the whole Plan of Redemption; which the Light of the Sun gives to the Flowers of the Garden, the Prospects of the Field, and the whole Face of Nature. See John iii. 29. Rev. xxi. 9. 2 Cor. xi. 2.

* Eph. ii. 6.

If you choose some modern Exemplification, what can be more pertinent, than the remarkable Instance of your Neighbour Arietta? She was lately left a Widow, by the dissolute and extravagant Bellario. Her Circumstances miserably embarrassed, and the Estate deeply mortgaged. Her Friends looked shy, and her Creditors became clamorous. Scarce a Day passed, but it made some new Discovery of Debts contracted by the Deceased. So that the Affairs of the Survivor appeared with a more melancholy Aspect, and in a less retrievable Condition. But, having won, first the Compassion, then the Affection, of the wealthy and illustrious Philander; how happily is the Face of Things altered! All her Debts devolve upon Him, and all his Dignity is derived to her*. He stands responsible, for whatever she owes; and She is a Sharer in whatever He possesses. Though ruined by her late Husband, She is more than restored by her present; has Reason to rejoice in his Affluence, and to glory in his Honours.—Have not We also Reason to rejoice in our heavenly BRIDEGROOM? Since a far more glorious Exchange subsists between Him and his mystical Spouse. He has bore the Curse, that We may inherit the Blessing. Sin was charged on Him, that Righteousness might be imputed to Us. In a Word, He has sustained our deplorable Miseries, that He might impart to Us his unsearchable Treasures.—Does the Law demand perfect purity of Nature, and perfect Obedience of Life? It must go to Him for Satisfaction. Do We want Grace, and Glory, and every good Thing? We may look to Him for a Supply. To HIM, Theron, in whom it has pleased the FATHER, that all Fulness should dwell †.

* Ubi Tu Caius, ibi Ego Caia, was the Roman Maxim. Agreeably to this Rule, which has obtained among all civilized Nations, the Scripture calls the Church by the Name of her Husband; and the divine Husband by the Name of the Church. To denote that interchangeable Relation, and Communion of Interests, which result from such a conjugal State. Compare Jer. xxiii. 5, 6. with Isai. xlix. 3. and Jer. xxxiii. 15, 16.

† Col. i. 19.

If any Thing can exprefs an Union, more intimate and inseparable than the conjugal, it is that of the Members with the Head. This Image is used by the HOLY GHOST, to shadow forth the Connexion between CHRIST and the Faithful. He is the Head over all Things, with respect to Rule and Supremacy; but a Head of Life, and Influence with respect to the Church *. —The Head and the Members constitute one natural Body; CHRIST and his Church compose one mystical Body. What Kindness is done, what Injury is offered to the Members, the Head regards them as done to itself. Accordingly CHRIST says to the outrageous Saul, who made Havock of the Church; Saul, Saul, why persecutest Thou ME †? He declares concerning those indigent Christians to whose Necessities We administer Relief; Inasmuch as Ye have done it unto them, Ye have done it unto ME ‡.—The Animal Spirits formed in the Head, are formed for the Benefit of the whole Body, and designed for the Use of all the Members. So the Righteousness wrought by JESUS CHRIST, is wrought out for his whole mystical Body, and intended for the Advantage of all his People; to be the constituent Cause of their Justification, and the meritorious Cause of their Salvation.

Being then so nearly related, so closely united to the blessed JESUS, it is no wonder, that Believers are now loved with the same fatherly Love, and will hereafter be Partakers of the same heavenly Glory ||.—What might we not expect from the ever faithful REDEEMER, if He vouchsafed to acknowledge but one of these endearing Names? Since He has engaged Himself to Us by all the Ties of Affinity and Affection; may we not promise Ourselves, and with the Assurance of Hope, every good Thing; Even all the Fulness of GOD § our Saviour.—Does not each of these tender Relations, subsisting between CHRIST and his Saints, imply an intire Property in one another, and a mutual Participation of all that belongs to either? If this is included in each separately, how much more in all conjointly? My Beloved is mine, and I am his. I dare not say, this is the Poesy of the mystical Ring. Lest the Thought should appear quaint, and below the Dignity of the Subject. But this expresses the Effect, the undoubted Effect of so enriching, so ennobling, so divine an Union.

How pleasing, yet how amazing the Thought! Shall We, who say to Corruption, Thou art my Father; and to the Worm, *Thou art my Mother and my Sister: Shall We be permitted to say, concerning the HEAD of all Principality and Power, We are Members of his Body, of his Flesh, and of his Bones †?—What a Mercy might We esteem it, not to be confounded before a M A J E S T Y so sublime and magnificent! What a Favour to obtain the least propitious Regard from the K I N G immortal and invisible! What an Honour, to be admitted into his Family, and numbered among the Meanest of his Servants!—But to be his adopted Children; to be his espoused Bride; to be the Members of his sacred Body—To have HIM for our everlasting Father, HIM for the Bridegroom of our Souls, HIM for our heavenly Head; who is the MAKER of all Worlds, and the SOVEREIGN of all Creatures! What Words can duly celebrate, what Heart can sufficiently admire, the Condescension and the Love of our adorable JESUS? Or who can justly question the Fruits of such a Fellowship, and the Consequences of such an Union? Question them! No, the Fruits are infallibly sure, as the Privilege is inexpressibly great.

Let me once again introduce Dr. Lightfoot, as a great and venerable Witness of both these Truths. “Laban “spake” high, when He said; These Children are mine, “and all these Things Thou seest are mine. But how high nothing can give Us a juster or fuller Explanation of the Apostle’s Assertion, We are Partakers of CHRIST ‡.

When some foreign Ladies, of the first Quality, paid a Visit to Leonidas’s Queen ; the Talk turned upon their rich Clothes, their costly Jewels, and splendid Equipage.
 After they had severally displayed their own Grandeur, they inquired after her Majesty’s Finery. What She had to distinguish Her from the Vulgar.—She replied, My illustrious Husband ¶. What else ? My illustrious Husband.
 —And as often as They repeated the same Question,
 She returned the same Answer.—Could this Queen speak of her royal Consort, in such admiring, rejoicing, self-gratulating Terms ? And shall not vile Sinners look upon their REDEEMER—that most majestic, yet all-condescending Bridegroom ; who is full of Grace and Truth, full of Merit and Righteousness—shall not they much more look upon HIM, as their Honour and their Joy ; the Object of their Dependence, and the

You once mentioned Self-importance. I hope, We have now renounced that specious Absurdity. Have abjured that Idol of Jealousy. It is as much a Delusion, as it is a Provocation. Nothing can give Us any Importance, but the Work and Worthiness of CHRIST.—Without these, We are despicable and abominable. Our Performances are Vanity; our Persons are Pollution; and both deserve to be treated, like that infamous King of Israel, to whom the Prophet Elisha declared; *As the LORD GOD of Hosts liveth, before whom I stand, surely, were it not that I regard the Presence of Jehoshaphat King of Judah, I would not look toward thee, nor see thee.—But the Work and Worthiness of CHRIST, give Us Acceptance with GOD, and Dignity before his Angels. These will afford Us Consolation on Earth, and procure for Us Estimation in Heaven. Through these, We may lift up our Heads with Courage, at the Judgment-Seat; and may make our Appearance with Honour, amidst the Inhabitants of Glory.—Let Us then exult, let Us triumph, in our heavenly Bridegroom. Forsaking all other Causes of Confidence, let Us keep our Hearts, our Affections, our Thoughts, only to HIM.

I should find it difficult, to refrain from the farther Prosecution of so engaging a Topic, did I not purpose to wait upon my Theron very speedily. Then I shall have an Opportunity of pouring into his Bosom all the Fulness of my Heart, with regard to this delightful Subject.—In the mean Time, let me exhort my dear Friend, to be of good Comfort. Heaviness may endure for a Night, but Joy cometh in the Morning †. This Sorrow of which you complain, may be the Fore-runner of spiritual and eternal Consolation.

A SPASIO had taken Leave of his Friend Camillus, and was come to revisit Theron. Whose Thoughts seemed to be in a State of much Fluctuation, and no small Anxiety. Hoping, that some proper Conversation on the Grace and Privileges of the Gospel, might compose and comfort his Mind. Might, while his Heart was softened by humbling Convictions, fix the Stamp of genuine Christianity; and deliver his whole Soul into the Mould of* evangelical Religion.

He arrived pretty late in the Evening: and, being somewhat weary with the Journey, soon withdrew to his Repose. The next Morning, as Theron walked abroad, to taste the cool Delights of the Dawn; He was greatly surpris'd, by meeting Aspasio.

the least Expectation of your Company, till Breakfast. Then indeed I promised myself a double Regale—The Refreshments exhibited on the Table; and those *wholesome Words of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, which, more precious than Manna, drop—

Afp. How, Theron!—Have You also learnt those soothing Arts, which polish the Speech, to deprave our Sentiment? Could I have suspected the enchanting Wiles of Flattery, from my sincere, my tried, my bosom Friend?

Ther. Your Friend is still sincere, and his Words are very remote from Flattery.—How welcome to the wind-bound Mariner, weary with Expectation, and sick with Disappointments, is the Visit of a propitious Gale! How welcome to the Fields, parched with Drought, and gasping for Moisture, are copious Showers of Rain! How acceptable to the Israelites, traveling through the inhospitable Desert; and pining for want of the Fruits of the Earth, was the miraculous Supply of heavenly Bread!—Yet, neither propitious Gales to the wind-bound Mariner, nor copious Showers to the thirsty Soul, nor heavenly Bread to the famished Israelites, could be more welcome to each respectively, or to all jointly, than your late Conversation, and later Correspondence, to my anxious Soul.

Afp. Why, I thought, you looked upon my Notions as chimerical! Is Theron also become credulous? Like one of us weak-headed Believers?—Has He quitted the Strong-holds of Reason? Is He vanquished by the Sling-stone of Faith? Or can He submit to this strange Method of Salvation, by embracing the Righteousness, and relying on the Obedience of Another?

Ther. I find, my Reason was a feeble Guide; or I myself not faithful to its genuine Dictates. I was blinded with Prejudice. I was intoxicated with Pride. A vain Conceit of my moral Powers, betrayed me, as I fear it has betrayed many, into a Contempt of the evangical Righteousness.—I held, what I thought an Honour to human Nature. I now retract my Opinion.—I now perceive, that as my natural Light could not discover the Way, neither can my personal Obedience put me in Possession, of Life and Salvation. No more Banter, Aspasio:—Have done:—I am serious, and very much in earnest. So much in earnest, that if all my Acquaintance of the Pharisaical Turn, or if all my Brothers of the Smile, should rally me on the Subject; I would frankly acknowledge my Error, and as freely sign my Recantation.

Asp. My dear Theron, I applaud your Resolution. You have no more Cause to be ashamed of such a Practice, than Philip had to be ashamed of the Imperfection in his Limbs. When, being observed to go lame, with a Wound received in Battle, he had this Consolation suggested by one of his Courtiers: “Never Blush, my royal Sir, for a Defect, which puts You in mind of your Valour, every Step You take.”—To sacrifice our Prejudices in the Search of Truth, is no less honourable, than to be marked with a Scar, in the Defence of our Country. And never surely was any Prejudice greater than that, which pretends, by personal Virtue and Morality, to supersede the Necessity of imputed Righteousness.

I beg Pardon for my Pleasantry. Since You are so very serious, a gay Air was quite unseasonable.—You cannot often complain, that I am guilty of this Fault. Nor can you easily imagine, the Satisfaction I shall enjoy; if, either my Letters, or my Discourse, have administered any Advantage to my Friend. I shall note it down, among the distinguished Blessings of my Life; and have an additional Obligation, to love the beneficent AUTHOR of all Good.

But, as I cannot be a furtherer of your Happiness, without the greatest Delight; so I cannot be a Witness of your Solitude, without a painful Regret. You must therefore permit me to ask the Cause of that unusual usual Vehemencé, which I observe in your Speech; and that deep Concern, which I read in your Countenance.

Ther. I have been considering very attentively, What is the present State, and what is likely to be the final Condition of my Soul.

My Hopes and Fears
Start up alarm'd and o'er Life's narrow Verge Look down—on what? A fathomless Abyss,
A vast Eternity!

My Sins, at the same Time, like an armed Host, are set in dreadful Array, and surround me on every Side. —Justice, like an injured and incensed Foe, unsheaths the Sword, and makes a loud Demand for Vengeance. —No Righteousness of my own presents itself, no Righteousness from the Works of the Law, to which I may fly for Refuge.—The Method of Salvation, in which I formerly confided, is a Bridge broken down; and leaves me, without affording any Possibility of Escape, abandoned to the approaching Enemy.

To a Person in such deplorable Circumstances, how reviving, how delightful, is the very Thought of being interested in the great REDEEMER's Righteousness!—I don't wonder now at a Saying of Luther's; which I have sometimes exploded, as strangely extravagant: "That, upon the Discovery of this glorious Righteousness, the Gates of Paradise seemed to fly open before Him, and the Dawn of Heaven was all in view."

Talking in this manner, they came to an elevated Terrace. Which, about an Hour before, had been shaved by the Scythe, and emitted all the Freshness of new-mown Herbage.—On one Side, a fine Champaign Country stretched its wide Dimensions.—On the other, a Flower-Garden exhibited the last Ornaments of the Year.—Here You might still see the tufted Vermilion, and the full-blown Ivory, glittering through Spangles of liquid Crystal.—There, You might trace the Foot-steps of the early Cattle, by many a recent Print on the dewy Lawn.—On the Walls and Espaliers, Autumn had spread her Stores; and was beginning to beautify their Rinds with many a ruddy Streak, or to breathe over their glossy Skins her delicate and inimitable Bloom.

Asp. See, said Aspasio, the Wisdom and Benignity which, in amiable and inseparable Conjunction, display themselves through the whole Oeconomy of the Universe! *GOD has made every Thing beautiful in his Time; every Thing serviceable in its Place. A little while ago, the flowery Meads delighted our Eyes, and the melodious Birds charmed our Ears. Now, the tasteful Fruits are preparing their Dainties; and presenting Us with a Collation, to regale our Palate.—The whole Earth, and all the Seasons, are rich with our CREATOR's Goodness. Yea, the whole Earth, and all that replenishes it, all that surrounds it, are full of his Presence. HE it is, who

*Warms in the Sun, refreshes in the Breeze, Glowes in the Stars, and blossoms in the Trees;
Lives through all Life, extends through all extent, Spreads undivided, operates unspent †.*

An habitual Belief of this Truth, gives Nature her loveliest Aspect, and lends her the most consummate Power to please. The Breath of Violets, and the Blush of Roses; the Music of the Woods, and the Meanders of the Stream; the aspiring Hill, the extended Plain, and all the Decorations of the Landscape; then appear in their highest Attractives; then touch the Soul with the most refined Satisfaction; when GOD is seen—when GOD is heard—and GOD enjoyed in all.—

of CHRIST throw a Shade over the Works of Creation? Does it not heighten their Beauties, and inliven their Graces?—It does; and to such a Degree, that the religious is the only true Philosopher; nor can the Pleasures of Imagination ever acquire their proper Relish, till they are ripened by the Exercise of Devotion.—With this View then, since my Friend forbears, let me attempt to speak: not to increase his Knowledge, but to beget Faith, and cultivate Devotion in Us both.

The spacious Canopy * over our Heads, is painted with Blue; and the ample Carpet under our Feet, is tinged with Green. These Colours, by their soft and cheering Qualities, yield a perpetual Refreshment to the Eye †. Whereas, had the Face of Nature glistered with White, or glowed with Scarlet; such ardent and dazzling Hues would, instead of exhilarating, have fatigued the Sight.—Besides; as the several brighter Colours are interspersed, and form the Pictures in this magnificent Piece; the Green and Blue constitute an admirable Ground, which shews them all to the utmost Advantage ‡. To render this fine Ground still more agreeable, it is diversified, the Green especially, by a Multitude of intermediate Kinds. From the deepest Verdure,

* What Aspasio calls the Canopy, Isaiah describes by כַּנָּפִים which We translate as a Curtain; but the exact Signification is, Sicut tenue, vel tenuissimum quid; Like some finely attenuated Expanse. Not like the Curtains or the Covering of the Tabernacle, which were Goats Hair and Badgers Skins, shaggy and coarse. But like some very fine Membrane, smooth and elegant, nicely polished and inimitably delicate. Than which Comparison nothing can more perfectly correspond with the Aspect of the Sky. Isai. xl. 22.

‡ If the Reader has Patience to go through the following Essay, He will find it, in the Issue, not altogether foreign to the main Subject.—If He pleases to consider it, as a kind of practical Comment, on that lovely Celebration of providential Goodness, His tender Mercies are over all his Works—This may possibly alleviate the Toil of perusing, and reconcile Him to the Length of the Descant, which borders upon Black, even to the palest, which makes a near Approach to Grey.

Had the Air been more humid and considerably thicker, it would have dimmed the Rays of the Sun, and darkened the chearful Day. The Lungs of all terrestrial Animals, had been clogged in their vital Functions. Men had been suffocated, without the strangling Noose; or drowned, without the over-whelming Flood.—Was it several Degrees more thin and subtilized, Birds would not be able to wing their Way through the Firmament; nor could the Clouds be sustained, in so attenuated an Atmosphere. It would want that balmy Softness, which continually feeds the Lamp of Life. It would even elude the Organs of Respiration; and We should gasp for Breath, with as much Difficulty, with as little Success, as Fishes haled from their native Element.

The Ground also is wrought into the most proper Temperature. Was it of a firmer Consistence, it would be impenetrable to the Plough, and unmanageable by the Spade.—Was it of a laxer Composition, it would be incapable of supporting its own Furniture. The light Mold would be swept away by whirling Winds; or the oozy Glebe soaked into Sloughs by the descending Rains.—Because, every Situation suits not every Plant; but that which is a Nurse to one, often proves a Stepmother to others; therefore, the Qualities of the Earth are so abundantly diversified, as properly to accommodate every Species of Vegetation. We have a Variety of intermediate Soils, from the loose disjointed Sand, to the stiff cohesive Clay: from the rough Projections of the craggy Cliff, to the softly swelling Bed of the smooth Parterre.

The Sea carries equal Evidences of a most wise and gracious Ordination. Was it larger, We should want Land for the Purposes of Pasturage, and the Operations of Husbandry. We should be destitute of sufficient Room for Mines and Forests; our subterranean Warehouses, and our aerial Timber-Yards.—Was it smaller, it would not be capable of recruiting the Sky, with a proper Quantity of vaporous Exhalations; nor of supplying the Earth with the necessary Quota of fructifying Showers.

Do We not discern very apparent Strokes of Skill, and the most pregnant Proofs of Goodness, in each individual Object? In the various Tenants of the Globe, and the several Appurtenances of this great Dwelling?—It is needless to expatiate upon the more eminent and conspicuous Beauties; all that shines in the Heavens, and all that smiles on the Earth. These speak to every Ear, these shew to every Eye, the adorable Munificence of their MAKER.—It is needless to launch into the Praises of the Valleys, delicately clothed with Herbage; or of the Fields, richly replenished with Corn. Even the ragged Rocks, which frown over the Flood; the covered Quarries, which yawn amidst the Land; together with the Mountains, those shapeless and enormous Protuberances, which seem to load the Ground, and incumber the Skies; even these contribute their Share, to increase the general Pleasure, and augment the general Usefulness. They variegate the Prospect; raise an agreeable Horror in the Beholder; and inspire his Breast with a religious Awe. They add new Charms to the wide Level of our Plains; and shelter, like a Screen, the warm Lap of our Vales.

We are delighted with the solemn Gloom, and magnificent Aspect of the Forest. One, who saw the Cedars of Lebanon, was transported with Admiration, at their ample Trunks, and towering Heads; their diffusive Spread, and verdant Grandeur. Compared with which, the stately Elm is but a Reed; and the branching Oak a mere Shrub*.—Was our Sight qualified for the Search,

* Mr. Maunder tells Us, He measured one of the Cedars of Lebanon, and “found it six and thirty Feet and six Inches thick; its Branches spread an hundred and eleven Feet; its Trunk from the Ground was about sixteen Feet, and then divided into five Branches, each of which would make a large Tree.”

We should discover a Symmetry and a Dignity, altogether as perfect, and far more wonderful, in those Groves of Moss *, which adhere to the rude Stone. We should contemplate, with greater Surprise, if not with greater Rapture, those diminutive Plantations; which strike their hasty Roots in the mouldy Confection, or wave their curious Umbrage over the perished Pickle †.

Who is not charmed with the Vine, and its generous warming Juices? With the Melon, and its delicious cooling Pulp? Yet, were all our Trees to produce Fruits of such exalted Qualities, or of such an agreeable Relish, what would become of the Birds! How small a Scantling of such choice Delicacies, would voracious Man resign to their Enjoyment!—That Provision may be made for the meanest Vagrant of the Air, as well as for the most renowned Sovereign of a Nation; there is, in all Places, a large Growth of Shrubs, covered annually with a Harvest of coarse and hardy Berries. So coarse in their Taste, that they are unworthy of the Acceptance of Man: so hardy in their Make, that they endure the extremest Severities of the Weather; and furnish the feathered Tribe with a standing Repast, amidst all the Desolations of Winter.

* See, for a Proof of this Remark, the Explanation of the tenth Plate, in that very curious, very entertaining, and no less instructive Piece, intitled Micrographia Restaurata.—Where our Author compares the Size of this little Vegetable, with the Dimensions of those vast Trees, which grow in the vigorous Climates of Guinea and Brazil. The Trunks of which are, according to the Report of Travelers, twenty Feet in Diameter. Whereas, the Body of this minute Plant, measures no more than the sixtieth Part of an Inch. The Thickness of the former, exceeding that of the latter, 2,985,984 Millions of Times.—So prodigious y various are the Works of the CREATOR.

† That whitish kind of Down, which shags the putrefying pickle; which incrusts the Surface of some corrupted Liquors; and constitutes what we call Mouldiness; is really a Cluster of little Plants. Each has a Root and a Stalk: Each spreads its Branches, and produces Seed in Abundance.

Frondesque, Fructumque gerit, velut ardua Quercus.*

The Fir, with her silver Bark, and shapely Cone; the Beech *, with her quivering Leaves and embowering Shade; are stately Decorations of our rural Seats. But, if there were no intangling Thickets, no prickly Thorns, where would the Farmer procure Fences, so closely wattled, or so strongly armed †? How could He guard the Scene of his Labours, or secure his vegetable Wealth, from the Flocks and the Herds? Those roving Plunderers, which accede to no Treaty, but that of forcible Restraint; submit to no Laws, but those of the coercive Kind.

Most People are fond of the Purslane's fleshy Leaves, and the ramified Fatness of the Brocoli: the Potato's mealy Orbs, and the Lentile's succulent Pods. We spare no Toil, We grudge no Expence, to have them flourish in our Gardens, and served up at our Tables.—But there are innumerable Herbs, which pass under the contemptible Character of Weeds; and yet are altogether as desirable to many Classes of Creatures, as these culinary Gifts to Mankind. Who shall be at the Pains to plant, to water, to cultivate, such despicable Produc-

* The Fir, the Beech, and such like Trees, are called in Hebrew, נהללי Ifai. vii. 19. Which Word is rendered, but I think very improperly, Bushes. It rather signifies the grand and most admired Plants. It is intended as a Contrast to the coarse and despicable Thorns, mentioned in the preceding Clause. And both taken together express all Sorts of Trees, from the towering Cedar to the groveling Shrub.

† Something to this Purpose is hinted in the Prophecy of Isaiab, by ירצה שמיר ושיח Terriculamentum Sentium & Veprium: There shall not come thither, the Terror of Thorns and Briars. Meaning those sharp and ragged Mounds, with which Vineyards, Corn-fields, and other cultivated Spots, were usually inclosed. Which deterred the most adventurous Cattle from forcing, or attempting to force, a Passage.—The Words are somewhat obscure, and have been greatly misunderstood. But, thus interpreted, they afford an easy Sense. They perfectly coincide with the Context, which foretels and describes an universal Desolation. “Places, formerly fenced about with Abundance of Care, shall lie exposed to every wandering and every mischiefous Foot. Tillage shall be discontinued; and the whole Country degenerate into a confused, disorderly Waste; without either the Distributions of Property, or the Improvements of Industry.” Ifai. vii. 25. Vid. VITRING. in loc.

tions? Man would rather extirpate, than propagate, these Incumbrances of his Acres. Therefore Providence vouchsafes to be their Gardener. Providence has wrought off their Seeds into such a Lightness of Substance, that they are carried abroad with the Undulations of the Air. Or, if too heavy to be waisted to the Breeze, they are fastened to Wings of Down, which facilitate their Flight. Or else, are inclosed in a springy Case; which, forcibly bursting, shoots and spreads them on every Side.—By some such Means, the reproducing Principle is disseminated; the universal Granary is filled; and the universal Board furnished. The buzzing Insect, and the creeping Worm, have each his Bill of Fare. Each enjoys a never-failing Treat, equivalent to our finest Venison; or to the “Fat of Kidneys of Wheat*.”

As the Seeds of some Plants are most artfully scattered abroad, when ripe; the Seeds of others are most carefully guarded, till they come to Maturity; and, by both Contrivances, every Species is not barely preserved, but in a manner eternized.—Some are lodged in the Center of a large Pulp; which is, at once, their Defence, and their Nourishment. This We find exemplified in the tasteful Apple, and the juicy Pear.—Some, besides the surrounding Pulp, are inclosed in a thick Shell, hard and impenetrable as Stone. We cannot pluck and eat one of those downy Peaches, or incrimsoned Nectarines, which so beautifully emboss the Wall, without finding a Proof of this Precaution.—Cast your Eye upon the Walnuts, which stud the Branches of that spreading Tree. Before these are gathered, the Increase of the Cold, and the Emptiness of the Gardens, will sharpen the Appetite of the Birds. To secure the fine Kernel from the Depredations of their busy assailing Bills, it is fortified with a strong Inclosure of Wood, and with the Addition of a disgusting bitter Rind.

+ The Fat of Kidneys of Wheat, Deut. xxxii. 14. A Sentence rich with Elegance! Such as would have shone in Pindar, or been admired by Longinus. Yet, I believe, its principal Beauty consists, in an Allusion to a remarkable Jewish Rite. In every Sacrifice, the Fat of the Kidneys was, as the most delicious Part of the Victim, set apart for GOD, and consumed on his Altar. Here, even the common People were treated like the DEITY. They lay under no Restraint, either from the divine Prohibition, or the Scarcity of the Grain. But were copiously supplied, and freely regaled themselves with the choicest, finest Part of this first and best of Vegetables.

If Grass was as scarce as the Guernsey-Lily; or as difficultly raised as the delicate Tuberose; how certainly, and how speedily, must many Millions of Quadrupeds perish with Famine! Since all the Cattle owe their chief Subsistence to this Vegetable, by a singular Beneficence in the Divine Oeconomy, it waiteth not, like the Corn-field and the Garden Bed, for the annual Labours of Man *. When once sown, though ever so frequently cropped, it revives with the returning Spring, and flourishes in a kind of perennial Verdure. It covers our Meadows; diffuses itself over our Plains; springs up in every Glade of the Forest; and spreads a Side-board in the most sequestered Nook.

Since the Nutrimment of Vegetables themselves, lies hid under the Soil, or floats up and down in the Air: beneath, they plunge their Roots † into the Ground, and disperse every Way their fibrous Suckers, to explore the latent, and attract the proper Nourishment: above, they expand a Multitude of Leaves †, which, like so many open Mouths, catch the Rains as they fall; imbibe the Dews as they distil; and transmit them through their nice Orifices, to the Heart of the Plant, or the Lobes of the Fruit.

I have touched upon the insensible Creation; and pointed out the Care of a condescending Providence, exercised over these lowest Formations of Nature.—The animal World, Theron, falls to your Share. its indulgent Regard to them, their Welfare, and all their Interests.—And how pleasing a Speculation must it be, to consider the universal Parent, spreading the Wings of his Benevolence, wide as the Arches of Heaven, over the immense Household of his Creatures! Cherishing all the Families of Earth, and Air and Skies, as tenderly, as officiously, as the Hen * cherishes her infant Brood, when she opens to them her warm Bosom, and covers them with her soft vital Down.

Ther. The Subject is in good Hands. Let Part the second be of the same Strain with Part the first, and there will be no Occasion to wish for a new Speaker. As to myself I have very little Inclination to talk. But I have an Ear open and attentive to your Discourse.

Asp. You put me in mind of the Philosopher, who presumed to read a Lecture on the Art of War, in the Presence of Hannibal. But his Impertinence was voluntary, mine is constrained.—Since you injoin me this Office, let Us pass from the vegetable, to the animal World. Here We shall not find any Tribe, nor any Individual neglected. The superior Classes want no Demonstration of their excellent Accomplishments. At the first Glimpse, they challenge our Approbation; they command our Applause. Even the more ignoble Forms of animated Existence, are most wisely circumstanced, and most liberally accommodated.

They generate in that particular Season, which is sure to supply them with a Stock of Provision, sufficient both for themselves, and their increasing Families.—The Birds lay their Eggs, and hatch their Young, when Myriads of new-born, tender Insects swarm on every Side. So that the Caterers, whether they be the male or female Parents, need only to alight on the Ground, or make a little Excursion into the Air; and they meet with a Feast ready dress'd, and all at free Cost, for the Clammant

* This seems to be the Image, to which the Psalmist alludes. Psal. cxlv. 9. This is the express Representation, which our SAVIOUR uses, Matt. xxiii. 37. And a most amiable Image, as well as a most picturesque Representation, it is.

Mouths at home.—If the Sheep are an Exception to this Rule, it is because they are consigned over to the Maintenance and Protection of Man. Because, they are tame and will admit, are valuable and will recompense, his assiduous Attendance. He therefore, when they yean, fills their Cribs with Fodder; and this fills their Udders with Milk. The Lambs, hardened by the Cold, become vigorous and lively: and, when their milky Diet fails, they find a Profusion of nutrimental Herbage on the Soil.

Their Love to their Offspring, while they continue in a helpless State, is invincibly strong. Whereas, the very Moment they are able to shift for themselves; when the parental Affection would be attended with much Solitude, and productive of no Advantage; it vanishes, as though it had never existed.—The Hen, while marching at the Head of her little Brood, would fly in the Eyes of a Mastiff, or even encounter a Lion, in their Defence. Yet, within a few Weeks, this inexpressible Tendernefs turns to Indifference. She abandons her Chickens to the wide World, and not so much as knows them any more.

If the GOD of Israel inspired Bezaleel and Aboliab with *Wisdom, and Understanding, and Knowledge in all Manner of Workmanship: the GOD of Nature has instructed, has furnished with Skill and Caution, the wild Inhabitants of the Bough.—The Skill, with which they erect their Houses, and adjust their Apartments, is inimitable. The Caution with which they secrete their Abodes from the searching Eye, or intruding Foot, is admirable. No General, though fruitful in Expedients, could plan a more artful Concealment. No Architect, with his Rule and Line, could build so commodious a Lodgment.—Give the most celebrated Artificer the same Materials, which these weak and unexperienced Creatures use. Scraps of Hair; a sorry Lock of Wool, or a coarse Sprig of Moss; and what Works, fair with Delicacy, or fit for Service, could they produce?

We extol the Commander, who knows how to take Advantage of the Ground. Who can make the Sun and Wind fight for Him, as well as his Troops. And, by every Incident, embarrasses the Forces of the Enemy, but expedites the Action, and facilitates the Success of his own. Does not this Praise belong to our feathery Leaders? Who pitch their Tent, (or if you please) fix their pensile Camp, sometimes on those lofty, sometimes on those projecting Branches; that wave in the upper Regions of the Air, or dance over the Eddies of the Stream. By which judicious Disposition, the vernal Gales rock their Cradle, and the murmuring Waters lull their Young. While both these Circumstances, so advantageous to themselves, terrify the Shepherd, and keep the School-Boy at a trembling Distance.—Some hide their little Household from View, amidst the Shelter of intangled Furze. Others remove it from Reach, in the Center of a thorny Thicket. By one Stratagem or another, they are generally as secure and unmolested, in their feeble Habitations; as the Foxes, which intrench themselves deep in the Earth; or as the Conies, which make their Houses in the Rock *.

* Prov. xxx. 26.

† Aspasio has ventured to say, She intends—And one is almost tempted to think, from the Preparation which the little Creature makes, that She had really set down, and counted the Cost, and concerted her Scheme. As though she had deliberated with Herself—“ I shall lay, not a couple of Eggs, but near a Score. From these I am to produce a House full of Young. But how shall I have Warmth (unless Art supply, what Nature has denied) sufficient to hatch the Embrios, or cherish the Infants?”—The Truth, I believe, is; That, in all her seeming Foresight, and circumspect Behaviour, She acts, She knows not what. Only She acts, what eternal Wisdom knows to be necessary, and what all-condescending Goodness prompts her to perform.

and will be obliged to nurse up, a very numerous Issue. Therefore, with the correctest Judgment, She designs, and with indefatigable Assiduity finishes, a Nest proper for her Purpose. It is a neat Rotund; lengthened into an Oval; bottomed and vaulted with a regular Concave. To preserve it from Rain, it has several Coatings of Moss. To defend it from Cold, it has but one Window, and only a single Door; or rather, the Window and the Door are the same. To render it both elegant and comfortable, it has Carpets and Hangings of the finest, softest Down. By the Help of this curious Mansion, our little Lady becomes the Mother of Multitudes. The vivifying Heat of her Body is, during the Time of Incubation, exceedingly augmented. Her House is like an Oven, and greatly assists in hatching her Young. Which no sooner burst the Shell, than they find themselves screened from the Annoyance of the Weather; and most agreeably reposed, amidst the Ornaments of a Palace, and the Warmth of a Bagnio.

Perhaps, We have been accustomed to look upon the Insects, as so many rude Scraps of Creation, and to rank them amongst the Refuse of Things. Whereas, if We examine them, without Prejudice, and with a little Attention, they will appear some of the most finished Pieces of divine Workmanship.

Many of them are decked with a Profusion of Finery. Their Eyes are an Assemblage* of Microscopes: whose

* The common Fly, for Instance. Who has many natural Enemies; and, by a certain petulant Familiarity, or malapert Officiousness, creates to Herself many more. Whenever She has a Fancy for it, She will take a Lion by his Beard; and makes no Scruple to set her Foot, upon the Nose of a King. On Account of this unceremonious and blunt Behaviour, every Body quarrels with Her. Every Hand and every Foot is lifted up against Her. She finds no Quarter, from the most generous of Men, or the most harmless of Animals.—Surely then She has Cause to be peculiarly circumspect and vigilant. Yet her Head is so fixed, that it is incapable of turning, in order to observe what passes, either behind or around Her.

Mechanism is inconceivably nice ; whose Polish is exquisitely delicate ; and whose whole Form is touched into the highest Perfection. Their Cloathing has all the Variety and Lustre of Colours. It is set with an Arrangement of Pearl, of Diamonds, and Gold. It is bordered with Fringes, or lined with Furs, richer far than Silks and Velvets. In short ; their Cloathing is not to be equalled, as to Delicacy and Splendour, even by the most brilliant Court : no, not amidst all its Blaze of Gems, and Pomp of Drefs.

Their Wings are the finest Expansions imaginable. Cambric is mere Canvass, and Lawn is coarse as Sack-cloth, compared with those inimitable Webs. The Cases, which inclose their Wings, glitter with the most glossy Varnish ; are scooped into ornamental Flutings ; are studded with radiant Spots ; or pinked with elegant Holes.—Not any among them but are equipped with Weapons, or endued with Dexterity, which qualify them to seize their Prey, or escape their Foe ; to dispatch the Business of their respective Station, and enjoy the Pleasures of their particular Condition.

Now I am in a talking Humour, give me leave to celebrate the Endowments, and assert the Honours of my puny Clients. Yet, not so much to support their Credit, as to magnify their all-gracious CREATOR.—What ? If the Elephant is distinguished by a huge Pro-

Under so great a Disadvantage, and amidst such unparalleled Dangers, how can She escape Destruction ? It would be absolutely impossible ; had She not an Expedient for her Preservation, altogether as extraordinary, as her Condition is perilous.—PROVIDENCE, surprisngly wise in its Contrivances, and equally bountiful in its Gifts, has furnished Her, not barely with a Retinue, but with more than a Legion of Eyes. Inasmuch, that a single Fly is supposed to be Mistress of no less than eight thousand. Every one of which is lined with a distinct optic Nerve. Every one of which is a Kind of Centinel, that always keeps an exact Look out ; and is ever ready to apprize Her of the least approaching Harm. Or, to speak more plainly, by Means of this costly and amazing Apparatus, the little Creature sees on every Side, with the utmost Ease and with instantaneous Speed ; even without any Motion of the Eye, or any Flexion of the Neck, bofcis ? His meanest Relations of the reptile Line, are furnished with curious Antennæ * ; remarkable, if not for their enormous Magnitude, yet for their ready Flexibility, and acute Sensation. By which they explore their Way, even in the darkeſt Road : they diſcover and avoid, whatever might deſile their neat Apparel, or endanger their tender Lives.

Every one admires that maſtiff Creature the Horſe ; his graceful Head, and ample Cheſt ; his arching Neck, and flowing Mane ; his cleanly turned Limbs, and finely adjusted Motions. With an impetuous Bound, He flings Himſelf over the Ditch ; and with a rapid Career, pours Himſelf † through the Plain. With unwearied Application, He carries his Rider from one End of the Country to another ; and with undaunted Bravery, ruſhes into the fierceſt Rage, and amidſt the thickeſt Havock of the Battle.—Yet the Ant, in Proportion to its Size, is equally nimble ; equally ſtrong ; and will climb Precipices, which the moſt courageous Courſer dares not attempt to ſcale.—If the Snail is ſlower in her Motions, She is under no neceſſity of treading back the Ground, which She has paſſed. Becauſe, her Houſe is a Part of her travelling Equipage. So that whenever She goes abroad, She is ſtill under her own Roof ; and wherever She ſtraggles, is always at Home.

dinary Solidity, and an uncommon Lightness. By means of the former, the Inhabitant dwells in Security. By means of the latter, the Habitation is transferred with Ease.—Were her Eyes sunk as low, as the Body which She trails along the Ground, they would yield but little Service, and be exposed to continual Danger. Both these Evils are prevented by an Expedient, which None but a GOD, who is wonderful in Counsel, could have devised; and which None but a GOD, who is infinite in Benignity, would have devised for such a Reptile. As the Fly has her Microscopes, the Snail has her Telescopes. Her Eyes are fixed on the Extremity of four delicately shaped Tubes*. Surpassing, as to curious Contrivance and wonderful Agency, far surpassing, all the Instruments in the Optician's Shop, and every artificial Rarity in Sloane's Collection.—These Tubes, terminated with their living Glasses, the dextrous Manager lengthens or contracts, at her Pleasure; straitens like an Arrow, or bends like an Osier. These She sheaths in her Head, when She has no Occasion to use them, nor any Inclination to look about Her. Or else, elevates them to a considerable Height; turns them in any Direction; and applies them to any Object.—How excellent is thy Loving-Kindness, O GOD! How rich thy Munificence! And both vouchsafed (most amiable Condescension!) even to a crawling Insect! Surely then, the Children of Men may reasonably, may confidently put their Trust under the Shadow of thy Wings †.

But see! the Eagle stretches her Pinions, and demands our Notice. The Eagle is privileged with Pinions, that out-strip the Wind. Elevated on which, She looks down on all that soars; and sees flying Clouds, and straining Wings, far below. Her optic Nerve so strong, that it meets and sustains the dazzling Beams of Noon ; her wide surveying Glance so keen, that, from the most towering Heights, it discerns the smallest Fish, which sculks at the very Bottom of the River. The Mole, 'tis true, is none of your sprightly or exalted Geniuses ; but an humble hardy Drudge. The Mole, I am sensible, is no Favourite with Mankind ; but despised and persecuted, as an abominable Outcast. Yet even this poor Outcast, in her groveling and gloomy State, is far from being disregarded by divine Providence. Because she is to dig a Cell in the Earth, and dwell, as it were, in a perpetual Dungeon, her Paws serve her for a Pickaxe and Spade. Her Eye, or rather her visual Speck, is sunk deep into a Socket, that it may suffer no Injury from her rugged Situation : it requires but a very scanty Communication of Light, that she may have no Reason to complain of her darkling Abode. I called her subterranean Habitation a Dungeon ; and some People, perhaps, may think it a Grave. But I revoke the Expression. It yields her all the Safety of a fortified Castle, and all the Delight of a decorated Grot.

Even the Spider, though abhorred by Mankind, is evidently the Care of all-sustaining Heaven. She is to live upon Plunder ; to support Herself, by trepaning the idle, insignificant, sauntering Fly. Suitably to such an Occupation, she possesses a Bag of glutinous Moisture. From this she spins a clammy Thread, and weaves it into a tenacious Net. Expert as any practised Sportsman, she always spreads it in the most opportune Places. Sensible that her Appearance would create Horror, and deter the Prey from approaching her Snare, when watching for Sport, She retires from Sight. But constantly keeps within Distance, so as to receive the very first Intelligence of what passes in the Toils ; and be ready to launch, without a Moment's Delay, upon the struggling Captive. And what is very observable, when Winter chills the Earth, and no more Insects ramble amidst the Air, foreseeing that her Labour would be vain, she discontinues her Work, and abandons her Stand.

I must by no means forget the little Monarchy, which inhabits the Hive. The Bees are to subsist, not as a lawless Banditti, but as a regular Community. 'Tis theirs to earn a decent Livelihood by honest Industry; not to glut themselves with Carnage, or enrich themselves by Rapine: For which Purpose, they are actuated by an invariable Inclination to Society. They possess the truest Notions of domestic Oeconomy, and have enacted the wisest Laws for political Government.—Their indulgent CREATOR has made them a Present of all necessary Implements, both for constructing their Combs, and for composing their Honey. They have each a natural Pannier, with which they bring Home their collected Sweets: and they form for themselves the most commodious Storehouses, in which they deposit their delicious Wares.—Though made for Peace, they know how to use the Sword. They can take up Arms with the utmost Resolution and Intrepidity, when Arms are requisite to guard their Wealth, or repel their Foes. Without going thro' a Course of Botany, they can readily distinguish every Plant, which is most likely to yield the Materials proper for their Business. Without serving an Apprenticeship in the Laboratory, they are complete Practitioners in the Art of Separation and Refinement. They are aware, without borrowing their Information from an Almanack, that the vernal Gleams, and Summer Suns, continue but for a Season. Mindful of this Admonition *, they improve to the utmost every shining Hour; and lay up a Stock of balmy Treasures, sufficient to supply the whole State, till the Blossoms open afresh, and their flowery Harvest returns.

Let the Peacock boast, if he pleases, his elegant Top-knot and lofty Mien; his Neck adorned with varying Dyes, and his Train bespangled with a Round of Stars.

VIRG.

—Yet let him know, that the despised Butterfly, and even the loathed Caterpillar, are as sumptuously arrayed as Himself. Their Gems sparkle with as high a Lustre, their Robes glow with as great a Profusion of Colours. Nay; all their Ornaments have, in Point of Elegance and Delicacy, just the same Superiority to his, as the Phaeton engraved on a Connoisseur's Ring *, has to the Phaeton carved in a Statuary's Shop.

Does Beauty fit in State on that lordly Bird? She shines in Miniature on the vulgar Insect. Is the Master of this lower Creation, ennobled with the Powers of Reason? The meanest Classes of sensitive Existence, are endued with the Faculty of Instinct. Which gives them a Sagacity, that is neither derived from Observation, nor waits for the Finishings of Experience: which, without a Tutor, teaches them all necessary Skill: and enables them, without a Pattern, to perform every needful Operation. And, what is far more surprising, never misleads them, either into erroneous Principles, or pernicious Practices: never fails them, in the nicest or most arduous of their Undertakings †.

Can you have Patience to follow me, if I step into a different Element, and just visit the watery World?—Not one among the innumerable Myriads, which swim the boundless Ocean, but is watched over by that exalted Eye, whose Smiles irradiate the Heaven of Heavens. Not one, but is supported by that Almighty Hand, which crowns Angels and Archangels with Glory.—The condescending GOD, has not only created, but beautified them. He has given the most exact Proportion to their Shape, and the gayest Colours to their Apparel; a polished Smoothness to their Scales, and a remarkable Sleekness to their Skin. The Eyes of some are surrounded with a scarlet Circle; the Back of others is diversified with crimson Stains. View them, when they glance along the Stream, or while they are fresh from their native Brine; and the burnished Silver is not more bright, the radiant Rainbow is scarce more glowing, than their vivid, glistering, glossy Hues.

* See DERHAM's Phys. Theol. B. viii. C. 4.

† In his, says Pliny, speaking of Insects, tam parvis atque nullis, quæ Ratio, quanta Vis, quam inextricabilis Perfectio!

Yet, notwithstanding the Finery of their Apparel, We are under painful Apprehensions for their Welfare.—How can the poor Creatures live, amidst the suffocating Waters?—As they have neither Hands, nor Feet, nor Wings, how can they transact their Affairs, or how escape their Enemies?—We are soon freed from our Fears by observing, that they all possess the beneficial, as well as ornamental Furniture of Fins. These, when expanded, like Masts above, and Ballast below, poise their floating Bodies, and keep them steadily upright.—We observe, with farther Satisfaction, the flexible Play, and vigorous Activity of their Tails. With which they turn short; spring forwards; and shoot themselves through the Paths of the Sea, more swiftly than Sails and Oars can waft the Royal Yatch.—But We are lost in Wonder, at the exquisite Contrivance, and delicate Formation of their Gills. By which they are accommodated, even in that dense Medium, with the Power of Breathing, and the Benefits of Respiration. A Piece of Mechanism this, indulged to the meanest of the Fry; yet surpassing, infinitely surpassing, in the Fineness of its Structure, and the Facility of its Operation, whatever is curious in the Works of Art, or commodious in the Palaces of Princes.

Ther. Some Persons, Aspasio, have the Art of giving Dignity to trivial, and Spirit to jejune Topics. I cannot but listen, with a pleased Attention, to your Discourse; though it descends to the lowest Scenes, and meanest Productions of Nature.—To make such philosophical Remarks, was usually my Province; to add the religious Improvement, yours. But my Thoughts, at present, are wholly taken up with the Consideration of my SAVIOUR's Righteousness. I can hardly turn my Views, or divert my Speech, to any other Subject.

All

All those amiable Appearances of the external Creation, which I was wont to contemplate with Rapture, afford but a languid Entertainment to my Mind.—Till my Interest in this Divine REDEEMER is ascertained, the Spring may bloom; the Summer shine; and Autumn swell with Fruits: but it will be Winter, cheerless, gloomy, desolate Winter in my Soul.

Asp. You say, Theron, you attended to my cursory Hints. Then, your own superior Discernment could not but perceive, how every Part of the exterior World is adjusted, in the most excellent and gracious Manner.—Not the coarsest Piece of inactive Matter, but bears the Impress of its MAKER's fashioning Skill. Not a single Creature, however insignificant, but exhibits evident Demonstrations of his providential Care. His Hand is liberal, profusely liberal, to all that breathes, and all that has a Being.

Let me only ask—and to introduce this Question with the greater Propriety; to give it a more forcible Energy on our Minds; was the principal Design of the preceding Remarks—Let me ask; Does GOD take Care for Oxen *? Is He a generous Benefactor to the meanest Animals, to the lowest Reptiles? Are his munificent Regards extended farther still, and vouchsafed even to the most abject worthless Vegetables? And shall they be withheld from You, my dear Friend, or from me?—Not one among all the numberless Productions, which tread the Ground, or stand rooted to the Soil, wants any Convenience, that is proper for its respective State. And will his heavenly FATHER deny Theron, what is so necessary to his present Comfort, and his final Happiness? Impossible †!

† I know not how to forbear transcribing a Paragraph, from one of our periodical Papers; which contains a Proposal for adapting natural Philosophy to the Capacity of Children. Wishing, at the same Time, that the ingenious Author would enlarge his Sketch into a Treatise; and execute the Plan, which He has so judiciously projected, and of which He has given Us so delicate a Specimen.

Ther. I wish for, but I can hardly hope to partake of, that spiritual Blessing! which always included my whole Happiness, and now ingrosses my whole Concern.

Asp. Not hope to partake of!—What Pretence, what Shadow of Foundation, has this desponding Temper, either in Reason, or in Scripture? Is it not evident from the whole Book of Revelation? Is it not apparent, through the whole Compass of Nature; That the Almighty LORD, “who governeth the World with the “Palm of his Hand*,” is remote, infinitely remote, from a niggardly Disposition. He not only provideth for the Wants, but even satisfieth the Desire of every living Thing †.

Consider those stately Poppies, which are now the principal Ornament of the Garden. They have no Tongue to request the least Favour. Yet the ever-gracious MAKER, clothes them from his own Wardrobe, and decks them with exquisite Beauty.—Observe the young Ravens, which sit carelessly croaking on yonder Boughs. Do they cry ‡ for Food? It is in hoarse unarticulate Accents. Yet the all-supporting GOD, hears Meaning in their Noise; and supplies their every Need, from his own spontaneous Bounty.—If He accommodates the former, though incapable of asking; if He attends to the latter, though insensible of their Benefactor; can He disregard our pressing Wants? Will He reject our earnest Petitions? Especially, when We seek such pure and exalted Gifts, as it is both his Delight and his Honour to bestow.

After some Remarks on the Sagacity of Birds, their Industry, and other surprising Properties, He adds;—“Is it for Birds, O LORD, that Thou hast joined together so many Miracles, which they have no Knowledge of? Is it for Men who give no Attention to them? Is it for the Curious, who are satisfied with admiring, without raising their Thoughts to Thee? Or is it not rather visible, that thy Design has been to call Us to thyself, by such a Spectacle? To make Us sensible of thy Providence and infinite Wisdom; and to fill Us with Confidence in thy Bounty, who watchest, with so much Care and Tenderness, over Birds, though two of them are sold but for a Farthing?”

* Eccclus. xviii. 3. † Psal. cxlv. 16. ‡ Psal. cxlvii. 9.

O! my Friend, look abroad into universal Nature, and look away every disquieting Thought.

Ther. Did You inquire what Pretence I have for this desponding Temper! Alas! I have more than a Pretence. I have a Reason. A Reason too obvious; my great Unworthiness!

Asp. Pray where was the Worthiness of the stiff-necked Israelites? Yet the LORD *bare them, and carried them, all the Days of old—Where was the Worthiness of Saul the Blasphemer? Yet the blessed JESUS made Him a chosen Vessel, and set Him as a Signet on his Right-hand.—You deserve nothing at the Hand of GOD our SAVIOUR. And what did Joseph's Brethren deserve from the Viceroy of Egypt? Yet he delivered them from Famine, who sold Him to Slavery. He settled them in the choicest Territories, who cast Him into the horrible Pit. He shewed Himself a Friend and a Father to those unnatural Relations; who were his actual Betrayers, and his intentional Murderers.—And can You persuade yourself, will You harbour a Suspicion, that CHRIST is less compassionate than Joseph? Shall a frail Mortal out-vie IMMANUEL in Beneficence?

Ther. Is not some Righteousness of our own indispensibly required, in order to our Participation of the Righteousness of CHRIST?

Asp. Yes, such a Righteousness as Zaccheus the Publican, or the Philippian Jailor possessed.—Zaccheus was a Man of infamous Character, and Chief among the Extortioners. The Jailor was a barbarous Persecutor, and in Purpose a Self-murderer. Yet our LORD says to the former; This Day, without enjoining any Course of previous Preparation; this very Day, will I abide at thy House. And bring even to such a scandalous †

* Isai. lxii. 9.

† Scandalous—For the Neighbours say, on this Occasion, He is gone to be Guest with a Man, that is a Sinner; a notorious Sinner. See the Import of αμαρτωλος, in such a Connexion, Luke vii. 37.

Dwelling, impart even to its profligate * Owner, my great Salvation. St. Paul directs the latter, without insisting upon any antecedent Duty or Reformation, to believe on the LORD JESUS. And assures the poor Sinner, trembling on the very Brink of Despair, that, in so doing, He shall be saved.

“ Thus, might He have added, was I myself saved. “ Not while I was exercising Righteousness; not when “ I had obtained Righteousness; but in the very midst “ of my Ungodliness and Cruelty. While I was “ breathing out Threatenings and Slaughter, against the “ Disciples of my LORD; nay, when I was drawing “ nigh to Damascus, and upon the Point of executing “ the most diabolical Designs.”

Are not these remarkable Cases, so many Acts and Precedents of the Court of Heaven? Were they not recorded for our Observation, Imitation, and Comfort? —If so, nothing is required, in order to our Participation of CHRIST and his Benefits, but only that We receive them. Receive them, as the freest of Gifts, or as Matter of mere Grace, vouchsafed to the most Unworthy.

Ther. Is it not necessary, that We have, at least, a Conviction of our Need of these Benefits, and a Sense of their unspeakable Worth?

Asp. Not as the Condition of our enjoying them. Not as giving Us a Warrant to claim or possess them. The proper Business of such Convictions is only to act as Stimulatives; exciting Us, earnestly to covet, gladly to receive, the unspeakably needful Gifts. —Come; only come; is our MASTER's Language. Without staying to acquire any goodly Qualities, is his Meaning.—Our REDEEMER and his Benefits, are like a free Port. You enter, without paying any Duty. And though

* Profligate—Neither is this too severe a Censure on Zaccheus. Because, none but an abandoned shameless Wretch—No Son of Abraham, till He was lost to all Sense of Decency, would undertake the Office, which the chief of the Publicans exercised.

the Plague, the Plague of Guilt be in your Vessel, You need not stay to perform Quarantine; no, nor delay a single Moment.

Ther. Surely, to come without any Holiness, without any decent Preparative, must be a gross Indignity to the Divine JESUS. Whoever presents a Petition to any earthly Sovereign, will think it absolutely necessary, not to appear in a slovenly Deshabille, much less in filthy Raiment. Does not our LORD Himself, in the Parable of the Wedding-Garment, inculcate this very Point, and caution Us against a presumptuous Approach?

Asp. In this Parable, CHRIST is both the Bridegroom, the Feast, and the Wedding-Garment*. And who are invited to an Union with this Bridegroom? To be Guests at this Feast? To be arrayed with this Wedding-Garment?—The Messengers are sent, not to the Mansion-houses of the Rich, or the Palaces of the Mighty; but to the High-ways and Hedges. Where Misery mourns; and Poverty pines; and Baseness hides her Head.—To whom is their Message addressed? Not to the Amiable or Accomplished. But to the Poor, the Maimed, the Halt, the Blind †. Persons, who have no recommending Endowments, but every lothesome and disgustful Property. Yet these (mark the Passage, my Friend; mark well the encouraging Circumstance) these are not only allowed, but intreated—importuned—and, by all the Arts of Persuasion, by every weighty or winning Motive, compelled to come in.—After all this, surely, it cannot be an Act of Presumption to accept, but must be a Breach of Duty to refuse the Invitation.

Ther. You take no Notice of the Man, who was found without a Wedding-Garment. Which is by far the most alarming Incident, and that which gives me no small Uneasiness.

Asp. And does my Theron take proper Notice of the Divine Declaration? I have prepared my Dinner, says

the KING eternal. All Things are ready *. “ What“ ever is necessary for the Justification, the Holiness, “ the complete Salvation of Sinners, is provided in the “ Merit and the Grace of my SON. Let them come “ therefore, as to a nuptial Banquet; and freely enjoy “ my Munificence; and feast their Souls with the royal “ Provision.”

The Man without a wedding-Garment, denotes the specious superficial Professor; who is called by CHRIST's Name, but has never put on CHRIST JESUS by Faith.—Shall I tell You more plainly, whom this Character represents? You yourself, my dear Theron, was, some Months ago, in the State of this unhappy Creature. When You trusted in Yourself, and thought highly of your own, thought meanly of your SAVIOUR's Righteousness. If your former Mistakes made You resemble Him, like a Partner or a Brother; take heed, lest your present Objections rank You in the Number of his Neighbours or Cousins.

Let Us imitate a better Example. Imitate the returning Prodigal. He came, with no Recommendation, either of Dress, of Person, or of Character. None but his Nakedness, his Misery, and an Acknowledgment of Vileness, which had every aggravating, not one extenuating Circumstance. Yet He was received—received with Indulgence—received with Caresses—and, without staying to provide any handsome Apparel of his own, was clothed with that best Robe, the Robe of a SAVIOUR's Righteousness.

Let Us accustom Ourselves to consider this incomparable Robe, under its proper evangelical Character. It is not a Matter of Bargain, nor the Subject of Sale, but a Gift, The Gift of Righteousness, says the Apostle. And Gifts, We all agree, are not to be purchased, but received.—That We may not unaccountably neglect, what We so perfectly know, the Parable You mention, is a strong, standing, seasonable Admonition. It teaches Us another Kind of Fear, than that which has alarmed your Mind. It teaches Us to fear, lest, by not accepting this sacred Gift, We incur the divine Displeasure.

Ther. How, Aspasio! Can this be the Sense of the Passage?

Asp. The Guests, You know, consisted of poor Outcasts. They were collected from the Highways and Hedges. Now, We cannot suppose, that People in such Circumstances, from such a Situation, and coming at a Minute's Warning, should be able to furnish themselves with a Dress, suitable to the grand Occasion. We must therefore suppose, (which is very conformable to the eastern Customs) that the King had ordered his Servants, to accommodate each Guest from the royal Wardrobe. That each might have this additional Token of his Sovereign's Favour; and all might be arrayed in a Manner, becoming the Magnificence of the Solemnity.—The unhappy Person, who was bound Hand and Foot, and cast into outer Darkness, had, no Doubt, an offer of the nuptial Suit. But He refused, either to receive it, or to wear it; and rudely made his Appearance in his own Garments. Which, however they might comport with his private Station, or answer his personal Conveniencies, were infinitely too mean for this illustrious Ceremony.—The King, resenting such a Behaviour, as an Insult on his Majesty, and a Contempt of his Bounty, most justly condemned the negligent and disdainful Wretch to a severe Punishment. A Punishment, You will observe, not for the Commission of former Iniquities, but for the Refusal of present Grace.

Ther. “The Refusal of present Grace!” Is this the only Crime, with which You can suppose Him or me chargeable?

Asp. Not the only, but it is the most provoking, and the most destructive Crime.

Ther. Is nothing then, nothing to be done on our Part?

Asp. You are an Admirer of Nature, Theron. Read your favourite Book, or hear your favourite Author.

*Nature is christian, preaches to Mankind,
And bids dead Matter aid Us in our Creed.*

Ther. Explain yourself, Aspasio. I should be glad to find in the Volume of Nature, any Thing adapted to remove my Distress, and encourage my Hopes.

Afp. When the ALMIGHTY made Man, and placed Him in this Habitable World, did He say? “Here is a dwelling-place, furnish yourself with Accommodations. Here are Materials; let your own Skill form the Trees, the Fruits, the Grain.”—Or did He say? “Here they are, ready formed to your Hand; only do something, in order to qualify Yourself for them, or entitle Yourself to them.”—No; his Language was; “They are fully prepared. You are welcome to make Use of them all. They are my free Gift to my needy Creatures.”

In like Manner, when He sent his SON into the World, to make the Atonement for Sin, and to work the justifying Righteousness. He said not to fallen Man; “Do your Part in this grand Business. At least make Yourself, in some Degree, meet for these Benefits.”—No; but He spoke, or rather now speaks in the Gospel, to this Effect. “The Work is all done; with a Perfection that is absolute, and admits of no Addition. The Benefits are, not to distinguish Merit, but to recover the ruined. Therefore, as ruined, undeserving, guilty Creatures, You are welcome to apply and enjoy them all.”

Ther. What! Is not Heavenly-mindedness to be exercised? No Victory over our Lusts gained? No Fruits of Sanctification produced?

Afp. These legal Apprehensions! How closely they cleave to my Theron's Mind! But, I hope the Word of GOD, which pierceth to the dividing asunder the Soul and Spirit, will give the severing Blow.—And what says that sacred Word? It describes the Gospel, as a Will

Will or Testament *; and all its glorious Blessings, as Legacies bequeathed by the dying JESUS.—When your old Acquaintance Charicles, left You a handsome Legacy; what did You do, to establish your Title, and make it your own?

Ther. My Title was pre-established, by my Friend's Donation. I had nothing to do, but to claim, to accept, and to possess.

Asp. Do the very same, in the present Case. CHRIST, having merited Pardon, and obtained eternal Redemption, made his last Will, and recorded it in the New Testament. There He disposes of those unsearchable Riches. And who are his Legatees? Not the Holy or the Heavenly-minded, but Sinners, lost Sinners of Mankind. Under this Character, You are to claim, accept and possess the great TESTATOR's Beneficence. Sure You cannot suppose, that CHRIST's Kindness is less sincere, or that CHRIST's Donations are less valid, than those of an earthly Defunct.

Ther. This Illustration hardly reaches the Point. I speak not of doing any Thing, under the Notion of Merit, but of Qualification. That which may, not entitle Us to CHRIST, but only prepare our Way to Him.

Asp. By such Notions, instead of preparing your Way to CHRIST, You fill it with Stumbling-blocks, Precipices, and deep Pits.—As to Qualification, if there

* Heb. ix. 16, 17. This Notion not only runs through the Scriptures, but stands conspicuous even in their Title Page.—What are they called? THE OLD and THE NEW TESTAMENT.—What is a Testament? An authentic Deed, in which Estates are transmitted, and Legacies bequeathed. In other Testaments, some earthly Possession; in this, the heavenly Patrimony, even all the Riches of Grace, and the everlasting Inheritance of Glory. Did we consider the Scriptures in this Light, it would be a most engaging Invitation, to search them with assiduity and Pleasure. What Child is willing to continue ignorant of a deceased Parent's last Will and Testament? Who does not covet to know, what Honours, Hereditaments, and Wealth, devolve to his Enjoyment, by such an interesting and venerable Conveyance?

be any such Thing, it is our extreme Indigence ; and this, I presume, you are not without. Other Qualification, neither Reason prescribes, nor Scripture requires.

Reason prescribes no other.—The Gifts of the eternal SOVEREIGN are intended, not to recognize our imaginary Worth, but to aggrandize our Ideas of his immense Liberality. They are intended to shew forth the exceeding Riches of his Goodness ; which pardons and saves, not only without Merit, but against Demerit. To answer such a Design, the unworthy and the Sinners are duly qualified ; nay, are the only qualified Persons.

Scripture requires no other.—The ever-merciful SAVIOUR says not ; They are unqualified for my Salvation. They have no valuable or noble Acquirements. But this is his tender Complaint ; They will not come to me, just as they are ; with all their Sins about them ; with all their Guilt upon them ; that they may have Life *.

Pray take Notice of this Text ; and you will see Things placed in a new Light. You will behold CHRIST under a new Character, and his Benefits ranged in a new Order. Sanctification, Heavenly-mindedness, and a Victory over our Lusts are not the Qualities which he requires, but the Blessings which He confers. Not what We bring to Him, as introductory Conditions ; but what We receive from Him, as the Fruit of his Sufferings, and the Effect of his Grace.

Ther. “ The Unworthy and Sinners, the only qualified !” Of this Expression I cannot but take particular Notice.—The Judas should stand in the first Rank of qualified Persons ! While the devout Centurion, whose Prayers and Alms came up as a Memorial before GOD, must thereby be unqualified for the Favour of Heaven.

Asp. If you observed my Expression, I spoke in the hypothetical Manner †.—Made a Supposition, rather than

* John v. 40.

† If the Reader should think, that Theron's Objection is not fully answered, the Deficiency may, in this Manner, be supplied.—Judas was sufficiently qualified, as a lost Sinner ; but He refused the Grace, through than advanced an Assertion. If there be any Qualification, this is the only one. But strictly speaking, there is no such Thing. The impulsive or inclining Cause of all GOD's Favour shewn, of all GOD's Goodness exercised is—from the Creature? No; but from Himself, Himself alone. He has Mercy, not because this or that Person is amiable, is meet, or qualified, but because he will have Mercy.—As for our Need of Mercy and Reconciliation, arising from a State of Sinfulness, this can no more constitute a real Qualification for the Blessings, than an Act of Rebellion can qualify for the first Honours of the State.

But this We must allow; That such Need, such Misery, such Sinfulness, illustrate the Freeeness, and manifest the Riches of Grace. This also We should never forget, that GOD's first and leading Purpose, in all his favourable Dispensations to fallen Man, is, to demonstrate the Sovereignty, and display the Glory of his Grace.—The LORD, promising a very extraordinary Deliverance to Israel; promising all the Blessings of the new Covenant, says; not for your Sakes, be it known unto You, do I this * signal Act of Kindness.—For Ye have disobeyed me in your own Land, and dishonoured me among the Heathen.—What then is the Inducement? We find it in the following Declaration; I, even I am HE, that blotteth out your Transgressions for my own Sake †. Because, I am unspeakably kind. Because, I delight in Loving-kindness, and have Pleasure in the Salvation of Sinners.—What is the End of all? It is FOR THE PRAISE OF THE GLORY OF HIS GRACE ‡. A proper Motto for all the Displays of divine Benevolence to sinful Creatures. Especially, for the Gift of a perfect and everlasting Righteousness. Which is, to Man, the Blessing of Blessings; and to GOD, the Glory of Glories.

through Distrust and Despair. Cornelius, instead of being unqualified for, was an actual Partaker of divine Grace. Which inclined Him to offer up Sacrifices of Acknowledgment, after He had relied on the only Sacrifice of Atonement. See Vol. I. page 226.

Ther. This is a Gift indeed!—To be interested in all the Merits of CHRIST! To have his immaculate Righteousness imputed to my Soul!—So that from henceforth there shall be no Fear of Condemnation, but a comfortable Enjoyment of freest Love, and a delightful Expectation of completest Glory!

Asp. Admirably spoken! Of all these Blessings CHRIST's Righteousness is truly meritorious, and certainly productive. And why should You not, by receiving the latter, enjoy the former? Why should Diffidence, like a malignant Spectre, haunt your Thoughts; thwart your Paths; and hold back or unnerve your Hand?

If this rich Donation, surpass your very Thoughts, and fill You with grateful Astonishment; it is so much the better adapted to exemplify, what the Scripture very emphatically styles, the abundant, the superabundant, the exceeding abundant * Grace of our GOD.—GOD is a boundless Ocean of Love; ever flowing, yet absolutely inexhaustible. See! What an innumerable Variety of Benefits, are transmitted from yonder Sun, to gladden all the Regions of Nature! Yet the Sun is but a Spark; its highest Splendor, no more than a Shade; its uninterrupted and most profuse Communications of Light, a poor diminutive Scantling; compared with the Riches of of Divine Benignity.

The Servant in the Parable, who owed ten thousand Talents †, craved only some merciful Forbearance. Whereas, his generous Lord remitted the whole Sum, and gave him an Acquittance in full; I forgave Thee all that Debt ‡.—You wonder, and very deservedly, at such vaſt Generoſity. But, what had been your Admiration, if You had ſeen the noble Maſter admitting this obnoxious Slave, to a Share in his Dignity? What, if he had made ſo worthleſs a Wretch, the Child of his Family, and the Heir of his Eſtate? This, You are ready to ſay, would exceed the Bounds of Credibility: Yet GOD Almighty's ſtupendous Beneficence exceeds all this. He not only ſpares guilty Creatures, but makes them his Children; makes them Inheritors of his Kingdom; and, as an Introduction to all, or rather as the Crown of all, makes them Partakers * of his Son.

Ther. The Gift is ineſtimable; of more Value than all Worlds. It will render me bleſſed and happy, Now and for Ever.

Aſp. Then it is perfectly agreeable to the glorious Goſpel of the bleſſed GOD. Hear, what the firſt Writer † in the Chriſtian Church ſays, upon this charming Subject.—“ The Goſpel comprehends a Diſcharge from they worthy to be allowed Admission, to a magnificent Court and a royal Banquet?

Affure Yourself, the greatest Unworthiness is no Objection in GOD's Account. Since He never looks at any Thing amiable in the Creature, that may engage Him to shew Mercy; nor yet at any Thing abominable in the Creature, that may withhold Him from shewing Mercy. Not for your Sake, but for my own Sake, is his invariable Decree.

With regard to Worthiness, this is as much disavowed by the Gospel, as equivocal * Generation is exploded by the modern Philosophy. The Gospel being a gracious Provision, made, by the supreme royal Prerogative, for the Relief of the Ruined, and the Salvation of the Ungodly.

Nay; this Notion of yours is diametrically contrary to the Gospel, and totally subversive of the Covenant of Grace.

Ther. In what Respect?

Asp. Because it would make our own Duty and Obedience the Terms. Whereas, the Terms were CHRIST's Sufferings, and CHRIST's Obedience. These are the Hinge on which that great Transaction turns, and on which the Hope of the World hangs.

Ther. Be more particular, Aspasio.

* Asp. The first Covenant was made with Adam, for Himself and for Us. Breaking it, He lost his original Righteousness, and became subject to Death. Became at once a Bankrupt and a Rebel. In this Guilt, in this Misery, We and all his Posterity shared.—Now You cannot suppose that the Almighty MAJESTY would enter into a fresh Covenant, with an insolvent and attainted Creature. It pleased, therefore, the SE-

* The Ancients imagined, that many Vegetables and Insects were produced by, I know not what, plastic Power in the Sun and other Elements. This is called equivocal Generation.—Whereas, the modern Philosophers maintain, that every Individual of this Kind, derives its Being from some Parent Vegetable, or Parent-Animal. This is styled univocal Generation.—The former Opinion is now universally rejected, as irrational, chimerical, and to the last Degree unphilosophical.

COND PERSON of the adorable TRINITY, to undertake our Cause; to become our Surety; and put Himself in our Stead. With Him the second Covenant was made. He was charged with the Performance of the Conditions; thereby to obtain Pardon and Righteousness, Grace and Glory, for all his People. I have made a Covenant, says the LORD JEHOVAH, not with fallen Adam, or any of his guilty Race, but with my CHOSEN ONE *. And the Terms were (You will permit me to repeat the momentous Truth) not your Worthiness or mine, but the Incarnation, the Obedience, the Death of GOD's ever blessed SON.

Ther. Has Man then no Office assigned, no Part to act in the Covenant of Grace?

Asp. He has: but it is a Part, which my Friend seems very loth to discharge. His Part is to accept the Blessings, fully purchased by the SAVIOUR, and freely presented to the Sinner. His Part is not to dishonour the REDEEMER's gracious Interposition, and infinitely sufficient Performance, by pretending to any Merit of his own. His Part (why will You constrain me to reiterate in this Manner?) is not to bring Money in his Hand, with the ten Brethren; but, with an empty Hand, and like an impoverished Lazarus, to take hold of GOD's Covenant †.

* Psal. lxxxix. 3. It is generally allowed, that this Psalm, in its sublimest Sense, is referable to CHRIST; and in its full Extent, is referable only unto CHRIST. If so, I think it would be more significant and emphatical, to render בְּחִירִי My CHOSEN ONE.—This will furnish out a very clear and cogent Argument to prove, that the Covenant of Grace was made, not with Us, our Ancestors or Successors, but with the LORD JESUS CHRIST in our Name. Just such an Argument as the Apostle uses, to convince the Galatians, That the Promises of the Covenant were made to the same Divine PERSON, Gal. iii. 16.—From both which Premises this important Conclusion follows; That Justification and every spiritual Blessing are the Fruit of CHRIST's Obedience; are lodged in Him as the great Proprietary; are communicated to Sinners, only through Faith, or in a Way of Believing. See Zech. ix. 11.

Ther. If this be the Nature of the New Covenant, I must confess, that I have hitherto been ignorant of it, and of the Gospel.

Afp. And from hence arises your present Distress. To this, not to your Unworthiness, but to this I ascribe your Perplexity and Anguish.—You are a Philosopher, Theron; and have been accustomed to examine the Proportion of Objects, rather than to weigh them in the Balance of the Sanctuary. Here, you find such Accounts of divine Grace, and such Distributions of divine Favour, as break through and supercede all the Rules of Equity and Proportion maintained among Men. This quite overthrows your Conclusions, drawn from the Fitness of Things.—Overthrows, did I say? Let me correct myself.—Is it not fit, highly fit, that We should, however unworthy in Ourselves, magnify the Grace of our GOD?

Ther. Most certainly.

Afp. How can this be done, but by expecting great and superlatively precious Blessings from his Hand?—Alexander, You know, had a famous, but indigent Philosopher, in his Court. Our Adept in Science, was once particularly straitened in his Circumstances. To whom should He apply, but to his Patron, the Conqueror of the World? His Request was no sooner made, than granted. Alexander gave him a Commission, to receive of his Treasurer whatever He wanted. He immediately demands, in his Sovereign's Name, ten thousand Pounds.—The Treasurer, surpris'd at so large a Demand, refuses to comply: but waits upon the King, and represents the Affair. Adding withal, how unreasonable He thought the Petition, and how exorbitant the Sum.—Alexander heard Him with Patience. But, as soon as He had ended his Remonstrance, replied; “ Let the Money be instantly paid. I am delighted “ with this Philosopher's way of thinking. He has done “ me a singular Honour. By the Largeness of his Re“ quest, He shews the high Idea He has conceived, “ both

“ both of my superior Wealth, and my royal Munificence.”

Thus, my dear Theron, let Us honour, what the inspired Penman styles, The marvelous Loving-kindness of JEHOVAH. From the King, whose Name is the LORD of Hosts, let Us expect—I say not, what corresponds with our low Models of Generosity—I say not, what We suppose proportioned to our fancied Deserts—but what is suitable to the unknown Magnificence of his Name, and the unbounded Benevolence of his Heart. Let Us expect such divinely rich Blessings, as surpass all created Power, and all human Apprehension. Then We shall no longer be afraid, assuredly to trust that gracious Declaration, JESUS CHRIST is made of GOD unto Us Wisdom, and Righteousness, and Sanctification, and Redemption. JESUS CHRIST hath given Himself for Us, and does give Himself to Us; together with all the Blessings of his Purchase, from the Pardon of our daily Infirmities, even to eternal Life in Glory.

Ther. Yes; upon Condition, that We fight the good Fight, and finish our Course of Duty. Henceforth, says the Apostle; after this is done, there is laid up for me, and for other victorious Soldiers, for other faithful Labourers, a Crown of Righteousness.

Asp. But is it vouchsafed, on account of their successful Warfare, or persevering Obedience? If so, Israel may vaunt themselves, and say; Mine own Hand, not the REDEEMER's Interposition, hath saved me *.

Not to repeat what has already been alledged, in Opposition to this Opinion—Not to produce what might farther be urged, from a Variety of scriptural Testimonies—I shall only desire You to observe, what the Apostle Himself adds in this very Place. There is laid up for me a Crown of Righteousness: but is this the Pay, proportionate or owing to his own Services? Is it what he claims and demands, on the Foot of Duty performed?—The very Title of the Reward implies the contrary. It is a Crown of Righteousness, because purchased by the meritorious and consummate Righteousness of CHRIST.—The Action of the Judge declares the contrary: which the LORD, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that Day. It is, You see, a Gift; an Act of Favour; the issue of unmerited Bounty; what neither Saint, nor Martyr, nor Apostle enjoys, but only by way of gracious Donation*.

You have been complaining of your Guilt. Why will You increase and aggravate it? Why will You add Robbery to all your other Transgressions?

Ther. Robbery!

Asp. Yes, Theron. By all this Backwardness to receive CHRIST and his Benefits, You are really robbing GOD; robbing Him of the brightest Jewel in his Crown; the Honour of—his free Grace—his rich Mercy—his matchless, incomprehensible, heavenly Bounty.

Ther. Ah! my Aspasio! You don't know my State. You cannot conceive my Guilt †. I was, by Nature, a Child of Wrath. I have been, by Practice, a Slave

* 2 Tim. iv. 8. The Word αποδοσει, as it stands in the present Connection, is, I think, very properly explained by a late pious Professor of Divinity at Glasgow: Proficitur Fiduciam suam de gratuita Mercede, quam DEUS gratis promisit omnibus Fidelibus, & ut justus Juxta, juste simul & ex Gratia rependet, non ex Merito ullo nostro, sed priora Dona sua gratuita posteris gratis, cumulando. DICSONI Expos. Analyt.

† I believe, No One experienced in the spiritual Life will suspect, that Theron speaks out of Character.—Conscience, when once alarmed, is a stubborn and unceremonious Thing. It pays no Deference to Wealth; it never stands in Awe of Grandeur: neither can it be soothed by the Refinements of Education, nor pacified by the Attainments of Learning. And We generally find, that a most unaccountable Propensity to Self-writhings, strongly possesses the newly-awakened Sinner. He is perpetually raising Objections, founded on the Want of personal Merit; notwithstanding all our Remonstrances, to quiet his Fears, and remove his Jealousies. It is indeed a hard Task, for a Mind, naturally leavened with legal Pride, to come naked and miserable to CHRIST—to come, divested of every Recommendation, but that of extreme Wretchedness; and receive, from the Hand of unmerited Benignity, the free Riches of evangelical Grace.

of Sin. What is worse, I am still corrupt; have still a carnal Heart.—And has not such a Wretch forfeited all Title to the Divine Favour? Nay, does not such a Wretch deserve the Vengeance of eternal Fire?

Ass. That We all deserve this Misery, is certain beyond Dispute. I am glad, that We are sensible of our horrible Vileness. Now We are to believe, that the LORD JESUS has satisfied Divine Justice; has paid an immensely glorious Price, on purpose to obtain for such damnable Wretches, both the Manifestation, and all the Fruits, of the divine Good-will. According to the Import of that charming Scripture, When we were Enemies (and what is there in an Enemy, to bespeak Favour, or deserve Benefits?) *We were reconciled to GOD by the Death of his SON.

You have great Guilt.—But is this a Reason, why You should be prohibited the Blessings of the Covenant? Contemplate the State of that forlorn and wretched Out-cast, described in the sixteenth of Ezekiel. An Infant in its Blood: this represents a Sinner, who has nothing to excite Love, but all that may provoke Abhorrence. Hear what the HOLY ONE of Israel says, concerning such an One. When I saw Thee, washed, and purified, and made meet for my Acceptance? No; but when I saw Thee polluted in thy Blood †; loathsome with Defilement, and laden with Iniquity. Then, even then I said unto Thee, Live: I spread my Skirt over Thee; and Thou becamest mine. Can you think of any Reason, why such a sordid Object should be cherished and caressed, but Mercy alone; mere Mercy, properly so called? Yet this is the Manner of GOD's Proceeding, not barely with one People, but with Sinners of every Denomina-

* Rom. v. 10.

† The Words are peculiarly emphatical; not only doubled, but redoubled. To denote, at once, the Strangeness of the Fact, yet the Certainty of the Favour. When I passed by thee, and saw thee polluted in thine own Blood, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy Blood, Live: Yea, I said unto thee when thou wast in thy Blood, Live. Ezek. xvi. 6.

tion;

tion; not in one Period of Time only, but through all Ages and all Generations.

You are still corrupt.—What then! Does this hinder You from being relieved by the SAVIOUR's Righteousness? Does it not rather prove You to be one of those, whom He came to seek and to save?—You are a Governor of the County-hospital, Theron. You have been industrious in promoting, and are active in supporting that excellent Institution; where Medicine with her healing Stores, and Religion with her heavenly Hopes, act as joint Hand-maids to Charity. What are the Circumstances, which render any Persons the proper Objects, for an Admission into your Infirmary?

Ther. Their Poverty and their Distemper. Without Poverty, they would not need; and free from Distemper, they would not prize, the Benefit of our modern Bethesda.

Asp. Apply this to the Case under Consideration. The whole World is in a State of spiritual Disorder. CHRIST is styled, by the inspired Writer, The LORD our Healer *. The Gift of his Righteousness, the Balm of his Blood, and the Influences of his SPIRIT, are the sovereign Restorative. And sure it cannot be a fanciful Persuasion of our Health, but the real Misery of our Disease, which renders Us proper Objects of his recovering Grace.—He came, not to call the Righteous, but Sinners †. To give them Repentance, and Newness

* Exod. xv. 26.

† I came, not to call the Righteous, but Sinners to Repentance. Matt. ix. 13. Many Persons, I am apt to suspect, mistake the Meaning of this sweet Passage; and turn the freely flowing Benefits of the Gospel, into the rigorous Requirements of the Law.

They reckon, our LORD's Calling to Repentance, is like a School-master calling the Youths to their Task, or like a Householder calling his Servants to their Work. Whereas, it is like Joseph, the Governor of Egypt, calling his Brethren, each to receive a Suit of Apparel, and all to partake of his hospitable Banquet.

CHRIST, as a SAVIOUR, is the greatest of Benefactors. When, therefore, He calls to Repentance, his Intention is, not to demand, but to bestow; not to enjoin, but to impart. HE is exalted, says the Apostle, to give Repentance. Acts v. 31.

of Life; which He effects, by giving Himself to them, as their whole Salvation.

Ther. But, if any foolish and refractory Patients have abused our Beneficence; it is a standing unalterable Rule of the House, never to admit them a second Time; however pressing their Exigencies, or however powerful their Recommender. I have, not once only, but through the whole Course of my Life, abused the marvelous Loving-kindness of the LORD.

Asp. And is not the LORD superior to all his Creatures, in Acts of Pardon, as well as of Power? Yes; as those Heavens are higher, than this prostrate Earth; so much more enlarged and extensive is the divine Clemency—than the widest Sphere of human Kindness, shall I say? Rather than the boldest Flights of human Imagination.

*Since Adam fell, no Mortal, uninspir'd,
Has ever yet conceiv'd, or ever shall,
How kind is GOD*.*

Your Statutes are inexorable, in case of one notorious Irregularity committed. But the free Gift of a REDEEMER's Righteousness is vouchsafed, notwithstanding many Offences, unto Justification †. It is the Glory of our Almighty RULER, and redounds to the Honour of his crucified SON, to pass over ‡ not a single Transgression only, but a Multitude of Provocations; to be altogether as unequalled in Mercy, as HE is absolutely supreme in Majesty.

As it is the grossest Pride, to entertain high Notions of our own Accomplishments, or to expect eternal Life on the Score of our own Obedience; so it will be the greatest Affront to the Grandeur of CHRIST's Merits, and the Freeness of his Grace, if we suppose our Crimes too heinous to be forgiven, or our Persons too vile to be accepted.

Ther.

Ther. I have often thought; If I was as holy and righteous, as some Persons, whom I know; if I had such Dominion over my evil Affections, and brought forth such Fruits of Righteousness, as I have observed in some Christians; I could then confidently believe.

Asp. Then you would lay your own Holiness and Righteousness, as a Foundation for your Faith; not the infinitely tender Mercies, and the unalterably sure Promises of the LORD. In this Case, You would act like the Mason, who purposes to dig his Materials from a Cloud of Smoke, not from the Stones of the Quarry.

Besides; this Method would not only miscarry, but contradict the Design of CHRIST's Coming. He came to save Sinners, and to justify the Ungodly. According to your Notion, He must come to save the Righteous, and to justify the Godly. He must be a Physician, not to the Diseased, but to the Healthy; and his Blood must cleanse, not the Defiled, but the Pure.

Whatever my Friend may have thought, I will not scruple to affirm; That, if He was indeed a righteous and godly Person, the LORD JESUS, as a SAVI-OUR, would have nothing to do with him. But, being a sinful and ungodly Man, I will venture to add, what the People said to blind Bartimeus; Be of good Comfort; He calleth Thee. Calleth thee, that Thou mayest be justified, sanctified, saved. Therefore, come boldly to HIM, rely cheerfully on Him, that You may obtain this great Mercy, and share this rich Grace.

Theron paused.—These Considerations seemed to operate: This Anodyne to take effect.—Desirous to improve the favourable Juncture, and impart more strong Consolation, Aspasio added,

How often did the Inhabitants of Jerusalem disregard the Warnings, and reject the Counsels of our Blessed LORD! How justly might HE have sworn in his Wrath; “They shall never hear the joyful Sound of “ my Gospel more. The Blessings, which they have
“ so

“ so wantonly despised, and so wickedly abused, shall “ be irrevocably withdrawn.”—Instead of passing such a Sentence, this is the Charge, which, after his Resurrection, He gives to his Apostles: Let Repentance and Remission of Sins be preached, in my Name, to all Nations, BEGINNING AT JERUSALEM*.—“ At Jerusalem, LORD!
 “ Have not the Men of that ungrateful and barbarous
 “ City been deaf to thy tenderest Importunities? Did “ they not persecute Thee unto Condemnation and “ Death? Are not their Weapons, still reeking, as it “ were, with thy Blood; and their Tongues still shoot“ ing out Arrows, even bitter Words? By which they “ would murder thy Character, as they have already “ crucified thy Person.”—Yet these Wretches (and could any be more inhuman? Could any be more unworthy?) are not only not abhorred, but unto them is the Message of Grace, and the Word of Salvation sent.
 Nay, to shew the unparalleled Freeness of our RE-DEEMER’s Grace, These are first upon the heavenly List. The glad Tidings of Pardon and Life, which are to be published through the World, must begin (amazing Mercy!) MUST BEGIN at Jerusalem.

Ther. Thus much I may venture to profess in my own Behalf: That I long for this Blessing—I pray for this Blessing—But I cannot see my Title, to this comprehensive and inestimable Blessing, clear.

Asp. I behold it perfectly clear. Not because You long for it, and pray for it. But because CHRIST and his Righteousness are granted † unto You, in the sure irrevocable Record of the Gospel.

Ther.

* Luke xxiv. 47.

† By this Grant, We have a Title to CHRIST; yes, says Mr.
Boston, by Virtue of this Grant, “ CHRIST is ours, even before “ We believe. Not that We have a saving Interest in Him, or are

 “ and the common Salvation; which fallen Angels have not. So

Ther. Can you mention a Passage, in which these precious Blessings are granted ?

Asp. Easily and readily. If any Man thirst, let him come unto me and drink.—Some Days ago, a worthy Clergyman, who lately came to settle in the Neighbourhood, did Himself the Honour of making one at your Table. After Dinner, You shewed Him your Library ; We took a Walk in your Garden ; and made the agreeable Tour of the Fish-ponds. Then—with that amiable Frankness of Mien and Accent, which is so peculiar to my Friend, and endears all his Favours—You told Him ; “ That He was as welcome to any Book in your “ Study, as if the whole Collection was his own. That “ if on a Visit from some Acquaintance of superior “ Rank, He should wish to be accommodated with a “ more delicate Entertainment than usual; the Produc- “ tions of your Waters, and of your Hot-beds, were in- “ tirely at his Service. And that his Acceptance of “ your Offers, without the least Shyness or Reserve, “ would be the most pleasing Compliment, He could “ pay You on the Occasion.”

Ther. Why do You leave the sacred Text ? Why desist from opening the Treasures of Scripture ; only to gild a Potsherd, and make Earth and Ashes vain ?

Asp. Not to make Theron vain, but to make Him ashamed of his Distrust. In the Manner of doing this, I follow the Example of my unerring MASTER. He deduces his Argument for Faith in the everlasting FA-

“ Possession of CHRIST and his Salvation.”—See Mr. BOSTON'S Notes upon a Book, entitled The Marrow of modern Divinity.

A Book, designed to guard equally against antimonian Licentiousness, and legal Bondage. The Thoughts are just and striking ; the Arguments solid and convincing. The Diction is familiar, yet perspicuous ; and the Doctrine exceedingly comfortable, because truly evangelical.—The Notes are, I think, a Master-piece of candid and judicious Criticism. In which the nice Discernment of the Logician, sifts, distinguishes, and adjusts the rich Furniture of the Divine.—Perhaps, I may venture to say, that this little Treatise pours as much Light upon the Gospel and Grace of CHRIST ; and, together with the Notes, affords as many important Distinctions in Divinity, as any Book of its Size whatever.

THER,

THEY, from the Sensations which earthly Parents feel towards their Children. He appeals even to the Experience of bad Men, and to the Yearnings of their own Bowels, for a Vindication and Display of the divine Compassion. *If Ye then, being evil, know how to give good Gifts unto your Children, how much more shall your heavenly FATHER give good Things to them that ask Him ? But we return to the Application of our Text.

Thus said my Friend. And what says the PROPRIETOR of all Good?—If any Man, however unworthy his Person, or obnoxious his Character, thirst.—Thirst for something, to make Him truly happy.—Saying, with them of old Time, “Who will shew Us any “Good?”—Let Him come unto ME, the Fountain of living Waters; and not only taste, or sip, but drink his Fill.—Though He has hitherto been hewing to himself broken Cisterns, and labouring for that, which satisfieth not. Nay; though He has frequented the polluted Stream, and not only beguiled Himself with Vanity, but defiled Himself with Iniquity. Yet let Him turn to Me, and He shall neither meet with a Repulse, nor find his Wishes mocked. He shall obtain substantial Satisfaction; even the Forgiveness of his Sins, the true Righteousness, and everlasting Life †.—Since then the Invitation is so absolutely free, what have You to do, but without Scruple or Doubtfulness, to drink? To receive the Promise as your Portion, and to look upon the Blessings as your own?

That Clergyman has not the least Suspicion of being disappointed, in case He should send for a Brace of Carp from your Canal, or a fine Melon from your Garden.—Why is He so confident? Because He has done You any signal Service? No! but because You have passed your Word, and made the generous Offer.—And why should You harbour the least Doubt concerning the Divine Veracity? Why should You call in question your Right to these heavenly Treasures? Since it is founded on a Grant, altogether as free, altogether as clear, as your own indulgent Concession; and infinitely more firm, than any human Engagement. Founded on the Fidelity of that sublime BEING, who “remembers his Covenant and Promise to a thousand Generations.”

* Matt. vii. 11.

† Nothing less than these Blessings, can be meant by the Drink which CHRIST gives; as nothing less than these, can satiate the weary Soul.

Ther. It is impossible to confute, yet difficult to believe, what You urge.

Asp. What I urge, is not the Voice of a few dubious Passages, nicely culled from the Book of GOD, or forcibly wrested by the Interpretation of Man. The whole Tenour of Inspiration runs, with the greatest Perspicuity, and the greatest Uniformity, in this delightful Strain.—Let me, out of a Multitude, produce another Express from the Court of Heaven. Ho! every One that thirsteth, come Ye to the Waters, even He that hath no Money. Come Ye, buy and eat: yea; come, buy Wine and Milk, without Money and without Price.*—Wine and Milk, signify the Justification of our Persons; our Sanctification thereby; and the Hope of eternal Glory. These are nourishing and refreshing to the Soul, as Milk the richest of Foods, and as Wine the best of Cordials, are to the Body.—These, You see, are to be received and enjoyed, without Money, and without Price. Without any Merit of our own; without any Plea deduced from Ourselves; by poor, undone, perishing Bankrupts.—They are thus free for every One. No Exception is made. No exclusive Clause added. It is not said, Any One that is worthy; but Every One, that thirsteth.—And this is mentioned, not as a Qualification entitling; but as connecting the Invitation with those Circumstances †, which must make it more eminently gracious,

* Ifai. lv. 1.

† Those Circumstances—that is, the Unhappiness and Misery occasioned by Sin; which, and not any gracious Habits, are set forth under

gracious, and more particularly interesting.—To leave no Room for any misgiving Apprehensions, the kind Invitation is repeated; buy and eat; buy Wine and Milk. The invaluable yet free Tender, is confirmed again and again; He that hath no Money; without Money; without Price. And both are pressed upon Us with a very remarkable Ardour, with the most affectionate Vehemence; Come Ye; Come Ye; yea, come.

Had our heavenly BENEFACTOR permitted Us to draw up this Instrument of Conveyance, and word it according to our own Wish; what Language could We have contrived, to render either the Grant more free, or our Claim more secure?

Ther. These are chearing Truths; and as cogent, as chearing. They amount to little less than a Demonstration. Methinks, I am ready to profess, in the Language of Agrippa; Almost Thou persuadest me, to trust and not be afraid.

Asp. If I have almost persuaded, my GOD will altogether persuade. This is the Work of his blessed SPIRIT. Which he accomplishes, by such gracious Words, under the Notion of thirsting. This Thirst all Men are labouring to quench; some one Way, some another. The Gospel points out the only Way of doing it effectually, and invites Us to make Use of the happy Expedient.

Every One that thirsteth; “thirsteth for the Grace of GOD, and “for the Blessings of the Gospel,” says Mr. Poole. Whose Annotations, though on critical Points accurate; on historical Subjects perspicuous; are not always, on doctrinal Heads, so truly evangelical, as might be wished.—“This Thirst, He adds, implieth a vehement, “and active Desire of Grace.” Does not such an Exposition place the greatest Part of Mankind, yea even of the visible Church, quite beyond the Compass of this gracious Invitation?—But to our unspeakable Comfort, the following Verse decides the Question, against the celebrated Commentator, and in Favour of the miserable Sinner. The thirsty are those, who spend their Money for that which is not Bread, and their Labour for that which satisfieth not. Which is the Case with unreasonable, foolish, wicked Men. These therefore are invited. Whereas, they who thirst for Grace; whose Thirst is vehement and active; they are not spending their Money at this unprofitable Rate. On the contrary; they are labouring for that, which is substantial Bread, and, of all Things in the World, most satisfying.

and fuch encouraging Words, as thofe We have been quoting.—And can You diftruff the Sincerity of the divine Overtures? If the Overture is real, your Title is unquestionable.—Nay; there is more than an Overture. You have an actual Gift, from the Almighty MAJESTY. To Us, fays the Prophet, a Child is born *. To Us—He repeats the precious Truth; to declare his exuberant Joy †, and denote the absolute Certainty ‡ of the Thing—a Son is given. Even GOD's own SON, the ever-blessed JESUS, to be our PROPITIATION, our SURETY, our complete REDEEMER.

why should We not, with an Assurance of Faith, receive the Gift, and look upon it as our own? Why should we not confide in a Gift from JEHOVAH; and reckon it firmer, than the firmest Deed? Far more inviolable, than any royal Patent?

Ther. My Servant never affronted my Authority. If He had vilified my Character, or insulted my Person, should I then have been inclined to make the same advantageous Settlement?

Ans. Herein appears the infinite Superiority of the divine Bounty. GOD is rich in Mercy, not only to the Obedient and Grateful, but to the Unthankful and unworthy. To the LORD our GOD, says the Prophet, belong Mercies and Forgivenesses; in Measure superabundant, and in Continuance unwearied. And this, notwithstanding We have offended Him, by our manifold Failures in Duty. Nay, have *rebelled * against Him*, by the most flagrant Violations of his Law.

In sweet Concert with his prophetic Lesson, sings the transported Psalmist, Thou LORD, in thy sacred

* Dan. ix. 9. The Original is מרדנו. Than which no Expression, in the Hebrew Language bears a more obnoxious Signification. It denotes the most audacious and the most flagitious Impiety. It denotes that Rebellion which is as the Sin of Witchcraft; and that Stubbornness, which is as the Iniquity of Idolatry. Yet, all virulent and execrable as it is, does not suppress the Yearnings of divine Pity, nor supersede the Exercise of divine Forgiveness.—With a Word derived from the same Root, Saul, when exasperated almost to Madness, upbraids Jonathan. And we know Persons so extremely incensed, never speak in the softest Terms; never touch the Subject with a Feather, but make their Tongue like a sharp Sword.

May I venture to add? That our Translators seem to mistake the proper Application of the afore-mentioned Passage. They represent Saul's Invektive, flying as wide of the Mark, as it is over-charged with Malice.—Son of the perverse rebellious Woman! This might be asserted, without the least Impeachment of Jonathan's personal Loyalty.—Besides, is it not excessively indecent, as well as absolutely unreasonable, to reflect upon the Mother, for the Misdemeanours of the Son? Surely, the Clause should be rendered, in perfect Consistence with the Genius of the Original. Thou Son of perverse Rebellion; or, more agreeably to the English Idiom, Thou perverse rebellious Wretch!
1 Sam. xx. 30.

Humanity,

Humanity, hast ascended up on High: ascended, from the low Caverns of the Tomb, to the highest Throne, in the highest Heavens.—Thou hast led Captivity captive: hast abolished Death, that universal Tyrant; and subdued those Powers of Darkness, which had enslaved the whole World.—Like a glorious and triumphant Conqueror, Thou hast also received Gifts; not merely for thy own Fruition, but to confer on Others, by way of honorary and enriching Largeſs.—What are thoſe Gifts, Theron?

Ther. The Gifts of the Goſpel, I ſuppoſe: Pardon of Sin, the Influences of the HOLY SPIRIT, and the various Privileges of Chriſtianity. Which conſtitute the preſent Happineſs of Mankind, and prepare them for future Blifs.

Aſp. You rightly judge.—And for whom were thoſe royal, thoſe heavenly Donatives received? If You have an Inclination to beſtow, a finely-wrought Piece of Plate, or an exquisitely finiſhed Picture; what Names preſent themſelves to your Thoughts? What Perſons are the Objects of your Choice? The approved Friend, or distinguished Favourite, I make no Queſtion.—But for whom (let me aſk again ſince it is a Point of the laſt Importance) were thoſe heavenly Donatives deſigned?

Ther. Let me recollect.—Thou receivedſt Gifts—not for fallen Angels, but for Men—And not for thy Friends, but for thy Enemies—yea, for the Rebellious alſo*.—Merciful Heaven! What a Word is this! And does it come from the GOD of Truth?—Gifts! Divine Gifts! Gifts of unſpeakable Value, and eternal Duration! And theſe to be conferred on Enemies, on the Rebellious! Wretches, who are deſtitute of all gracious Qualifications; who deſerve not the leaſt Favour; but have Reaſon to expect the Frowns of Indignation, and the Sword of Vengeance!

Aſp. Thus it is written, in thoſe ſacred Conſtitutions; which are far more ſtedfaſt and unalterable, than the Law of the Medes and Persians.—Thus it is spoken, by the Mouth of that Almighty BEING; with whom there is no Variableness, nor the least Shadow of Turning.—Let Us not, my dear Friend, by unreasonable Unbelief, frustrate all these Promises, and reject our own Mercies. Let us not, by an evil Heart of Unbelief, make GOD a Lyar; and make Ourselves, of all Creatures, most miserable.

Formerly, 'tis true, We used to consider the divine Justice, as an unfurmountable Bar to our Happiness. In such a Case, the just GOD and eternal Misery, appeared inseparable Ideas. But the Gospel has shewed Us an Expedient, whereby it is consistent with the Glory of all the divine Perfections, to save even the worst of Men. It shews Us, how the LORD JEHOVAH may be inflexibly just, yet receive such guilty Wretches to his Mercy, his Favour, his everlasting Good-will.—O! let Us not render this unexpected, and divinely rich Grace, of none Effect with regard to Ourselves, by saying each in his Heart; “What signifies all this to me? “Unless I can find some superior Excellency in myself “—something, whereby the DEITY should distinguish me, as his Favourite—for which He should respect me, as more deserving than others.”

Ther. Thanks, Aspasio, many Thanks for your Admonition. It is both kind and salutary. Methinks, it begins to cheer my Spirit, and dissipate my uneasy Apprehensions. O! May these Clouds on my Mind, follow those in the Firmament! For a considerable Time, they hung abroad their extensive Sables, to damp the Ardour, and abate the Glare of Day. The Sun has been colouring their fleecy Skirts, and spreading over the floating Screen a Variety of interchangeable Hues. Now He begins to edge them with Gold, and shine them into Silver. A sure Indication, that (like the glittering, but transitory Toys, which they represent) they will soon be swept from the Horizon, and seen no more.—The bright Orb, while we are speaking, bursts the Veil;

Veil; and, from a voluminous Pomp of parting Clouds, pours a Flood of Splendor over all the Face of Nature.—We shall quickly perceive this open Situation, too hot to consist with Pleasure; and must be obliged to seek for Shelter, in the shady Apartments of the House.

Asp. We must. And will You admit me Theron, into those Apartments?

Ther. Admit You, Aspasio!—I am surpris'd at your Question. I thought You had known me better: and am sorry, it should be needful to assure You, that my House is as much yours, as it is mine. The more freely You command it, the more highly you will gratify the Owner.

Asp. May I believe my Theron? Does He speak from his Heart? Or must I conclude, that He plausibly professes, what He has no Intention to perform?—Would You be pleas'd, If I should obstinately persist in these dishonourable Suspicions, notwithstanding all your friendly Protestations?

Ther. My dear Aspasio, I see Your Design. I see, and am ashamed. Ashamed to think, that I should fancy myself more punctual in my Professions, than GOD is true to his Word.—LORD, I believe. Help Thou mine Unbelief!

D I A L O G U E XVI.

OUR Friends had agreed upon a Visit to Philenor. They rode through a fine, open, fruitful Country. Which was covered with Crops of ripened Corn; and occupied by several Parties of Rustics, gathering in the copious Harvest.

The Rye, white and hoary as it were with Age, waved its bearded Billows, and gave a dry husky Rustle before the Breeze.—The Wheat, laden with Plenty, and beautifully Brown, hung the heavy Head; and invited, by its bending Posture, the Reaper's Hand. Plats of Barley, and Acres of Oats, stood whitening in the Sun. Upright, and perfectly even, as though the Gardener's Shears had clipped them at the Top, they gratified the Spectator's Eye, and gladdened the Farmer's Heart.—Beans partly clad in native Green, partly transformed and tawny with the parching Ray, were preparing the last Employ for the crooked Weapon.—Some of the Grain lay flat, in regular Rows, on the new-made Stubble. Some were erected, in graceful Shocks, along the bristly Ridges. Some, conveyed homewards on the loaded Waggon, nodded over the groaning Axle.

The Villages seemed to be empty, and all their Inhabitants poured into the Plains. Here were Persons of each Sex, and of every Age.—The lusty Youths, stooping to their Work, plyed the Sickle; or swept, with their Scythes, the falling Ranks. The sprightly Females, followed, binding the Handfuls into Sheaves, or piling the Swarths into hasty Cocks.—Dispersed up and down were the Children of the Needy, gleaning the scattered scattered Ears, and picking their scanty Harvest.—Nor were the old People absent; but crawling into the Sun, or sitting on a shady Eminence, they beheld the Toils—the pleasing Toils, which they once sustained.

This is the most joyful Period of the Countryman's Life; the long expected Crown of all his Labours. For this, He broke the stubborn Glebe, and manured the impoverished Soil. For this, He bore the sultry Beams of Summer, and shrunk not from the pinching Blasts of Winter. For this, He toiled away the Year, in a Round of ceaseless but willing Activity. Knowing, that *the Husbandman must labour, before he partakes of the Fruit.—And will not the blessed Hope of everlasting Life; will not the bright Expectation of consummate Bliss, animate Us with an equally chearful Resolution, both to resist the Temptations, and discharge the Duties of our present State?

Short seemed the Way, and quick passed the Time, as they traveled through such Scenes of rural Abundance, and rural Delight.—Before they were aware, the Horses stopped at Philenor's Seat. Where they found, to their no small Disappointment, that the Master was gone abroad. They alighted however and took a Walk in the Gardens.

The Gardens, at proper Intervals, and in well-chosen Situations, were interspersed with various Pieces of Statuary. At the Turn of a Corner, You are—not shocked with a naked Gladiator, or a beastly Priapus—but unexpectedly entertained with the Image of Tully. He is just risen from his Seat, and upon the Point of addressing Himself to some important Oration. A revez * Tim. ii. 6. Beza thinks, that in settling the Construction of this Verse, the Adverb αποστον should be connected with the Participle υποπιωσινα. If so, the Translation exhibited above, may bid fair for Acceptance: and, one of the most celebrated Historians, may have the Honour of commenting on the greatest of the Apostles; Næ illi falsi, sunt, qui diversissimas Res expectant. Ignaviæ, Voluptatem, & Præmia Virtutis. SALLUST. i. e. They are, beyond all Dispute, most egregiously mistaken, who hope to unite these incompatible Things, the Pleasures of Indolence, and the Rewards of Industry.

rential Awe appears in his Countenance; such as silently acknowledges, that He is going to plead before the Rulers of the World. His thoughtful Aspect, and gracefully expanded Arm, speak to the Eye, before the Tongue has uttered a Syllable. We look round for the venerable Audience, and are agreeably surpris'd, to find nothing but Hedges and Trees.

You enter an Alley, lined on either Side with a verdant Fan; and having no Variety of Objects to diversify the intermediate Space, your View is conducted to a magnificent Building at the End. As you walk along, contemplating the masterly Performance in Architecture, a sudden Opening diverts your Attention: and presents you with some striking Imitation of virtuous or heroic Life.—Not the Macedonian Madman; nor Sweden's royal Knight-errant; nor Cæsar, infamously renowned for his slaughtered Millions; but the truly gallant Czar. A drawn Sword in his Hand, and a commanding majestic Sternness on his Brow. The Weapon is held in the most menacing Posture; and many a Spectator has been observed to start back, with Apprehensions of Fear. It is that gloriously severe Attitude, in which the graceful Citizens of Narva beheld Him, and in which all Posterity will admire Him; when He turned upon his own victorious, but ungovernable Troops, and threatened to drench the Dagger in their Hearts, if they did not immediately desist from Rapine * and Slaughter; immediately allow Quarter to their vanquished Foes.

If here the Marble threatens, and the Hero frowns, in yonder Alcove the Pencil has displayed a softer Scene. There, in a lonely Recess, and under the melancholy Shades of Cypress, the brave Abradates claims our Pity.

* “ As soon as the Soldiers were Masters of the Town (Narva) they fell to Plunder, and gave themselves up to the most enormous Barbarities. The Czar ran from Place to Place, to put a Stop to the Disorder and Massacre. He was even obliged to kill with his own Hand several Muscovites, who did not hearken to his Orders.”

VOLTAIRE'S Hist. Charl. XII.

Fallen is the generous Warrior, and prostrate on the Ground. See his manly Features, serene and intrepid still, though a dying Paleness has clouded all. Closed are those sprightly Eyes, which used to glow with Courage and martial Ardour. Closed, alas! never to be opened more; no, not to behold his amiable Panthea.—The amiable Panthea, kneeling on the Earth, and bending over the Corpse, has raised the lifeless Head. Her own droops like a Lily surcharged with Rain; yet she has placed the lovely Burthen on her Arm, and bathed it with her Tears. See! with what Tenderness she supports it, and with what Fondness she cherishes it. While Cyrus, to express a distinguished Regard for the deceased Prince, clasps his cold Hand. Distressing Mistake! He starts, He is amazed, to behold that able and trusty Arm, suddenly falling from the Shoulder-Blade. The Tear swells into his Eyes, and speaks the Sorrow of his royal Heart. But what can speak the Anguish, which moans in thy Countenance, and rends thy Heart, thou afflicted Panthea! O! that thou hadst known the Truths, and tasted the Comforts of Christianity! Then might thy Resignation to Providence have been as exemplary, as thy Fidelity to thy Lord. For want of this most consolatory Knowledge, what frantic and fatal Purposes are forming in thy Breast! We are shocked at the Apprehension of so horrid a Deed. We turn away from the Sight, and would lose the very Thought, in some more pleasing Spectacle.

Behold a Spectacle, more pleasing, and very different. Under a circular Dome, supported by Pillars of the Doric Order, and in a spot where several Walks center, stands—not the Venus a Medicis; corrupting, while it captivates, the World—but a Spartan Mother. Her Habit decent and graceful; somewhat like the Juno Matriona of the Romans, as She is finely depicted in Mr. Spence's Polymetis. Her Air stately and resolved; expressive of Dignity, yet mingled with Softness. She holds a Shield: is in the Act of delivering it to her Son; a Youth, setting out for the Army, and going to hazard hazard his Life, in the Defence of his Country. She is supposed to add that spirited and magnanimous Exhortation, which is engraven on the Protuberance of the Buckler—ἦταν, ἢ ἐπιτάς—Bring it back, my Son, as thy Trophy; or, be brought back upon it, as thy Bier.

I am particularly pleased, said Theron, with the Contrivance of this last Ornament. It is regulated by one of the most refined Rules of Art; not to lavish away all the Beauty at a single View, but to make a skilful Reserve for some future Occasion.—The Dome and the Columns afford Pleasure, when beheld at a considerable Distance. The fine animated Figure in the Midst displays its Graces, on a nearer Approach. By which Means, the Attention is kept awake, and the Entertainment continues new.

But what I principally admire, is the Spirit or Style of the Decorations in general. They put me in mind of a very just Remark, which Mr. Pope has somewhere made. It is, if I remember right, to this Effect.—“A Man not only shews his Taste, but his Virtue, in the Choice of his Ornaments. A proper Piece of History, represented in Painting on a rich Man’s Walls, (or exhibited in Imagery amidst his Gardens) is very often a better Lesson, than any He could teach by his Conversation. In this Sense, the Stones may be said to speak, when Men cannot, or will not.”—All but the comparative or satyrical Part of the Observation, I would apply to the Prospect before Us, and its worthy Owner.

Asp. Philenor’s Gardens are, I think, more chaste and delicate in their Ornaments, than a certain collegiate Church. In the latter Place, We might reasonably expect the strictest Adherence to Purity, if We should not meet with the Symbols of Piety, and Incitements to Religion.—What then would be the Reflections of a judicious Observer, if, in such a solemn and venerable Edifice, He should see a huge brawny Fellow stuck up against the Wall; with his Posteriors half bare; his whole Body more than half naked; and in an Attitude none of the most decent*.—Excuse me, Theron. I confess myself ashamed, even to recite the Description. How then can the Spectacle itself become the House of Divine Worship?

Ther. But perhaps this same brawny Fellow may represent a Heathen Demigod; one of the Idols worshipped by Antiquity; the tutelary Deity of Valour.

Asp. And will this justify the Practice? Does not this add Profaneness to Immodesty? Are We Christians to thank Hercules for the Valour of our Warriors, and make our Acknowledgments to Pallas for the Conduct of our Generals? Shall We Christians behold with Admiration, or recognize as our Benefactors, what the Apostle has stigmatized under the Character of Devils †?

If HE, who overthrew the Tables of the Money-changers, had taken a Walk in these famous Cloysters, I am apt to suspect, He would have paid no very agreeable Compliment to this fine Piece of Statuary. Take

* Referring to the Monument, lately erected for MAJOR GENERAL FLEMING, in Westminster-Abbey. Where, under the General's Bust, are placed Hercules and Pallas, Hercules, with his Club and Lion's Skin, in the Manner above related. Pallas, with a Mirror and a Serpent at her Side.—The Reader may see a Picture and an Explanation of this Monument, in the Gentleman's Magazine for August 1754.

As this Church has been the Burial-place of the most illustrious Personages, for many Centuries; as it is the Place, where all our Kings receive their Crowns, and many of them deposit their Ashes; as it is singularly eminent for its Antiquities and Monuments; there is a large Resort both of Natives and Foreigners, to view its grand and awful Curiosities. Whatever, therefore, is erected in a Place so circumstanced and so distinguished, should not only display an Air of Elegance, in the Execution, but include a Beauty of Holiness in the Design. Because, nothing can lay claim to the το καλον, which is not possessed of the το ωρειον. Nor can any Performances, thus situated, be pronounced truly graceful, but such only as correspond with the Character, and subserve the Design of the sacred Edifice.

It was thought, by a very able Critic and a very candid Writer, that mere Impropriety of Taste, in ornamenting one of the Monuments, called for his Censure. Surely then a Violation of Decency, and an Approach to Paganism, call more loudly for public Animadversion, and proper Reformation. See Spect. Vol. I. N° 26.

† 1 Cor. x. 20.

these Things hence, would probably have been his Command; and, make not the Precincts of your Temple a Chamber of Pagan Imagery, his Rebuke.*—Neither is it at all unlikely, that the Image itself, notwithstanding its inimitable Workmanship, might have shared the Fate of its Kinsman Dagon,

—————*When the captive Ark
Maim'd his brute Image, Head and Hands lopt off

When He fell flat, and sham'd his Worshippers †.*

Ther. But how should the Artist express the great Achievements and the shining Qualities of his Hero, if You will not allow Him to make use of these significant Emblems?

Asp. I question, whether they are so very significant. The Mirror seems to characterize a Fop, rather than a Soldier. It leads Us to think of a soft Narcissus, admiring Himself; rather than a sagacious General, planning the Operations of the Campaign.—Besides; is sacred Literature so destitute of proper Emblems, that We must borrow the Decorations of our Churches, and the Trophies of our Conquerors, from the Dreams of Superstition or the Delusions of Idolatry? How just and expressive are those emblematical Representations, exhibited in Ezekiel's Vision? Where Activity and Speed are signified, by Hands in Conjunction with Wings; and the deep, the complicated, yet ever harmonious Schemes of Providence, by a Wheel in the Middle of a Wheel ‡.—With what Propriety and Force are the noblest Endowments pictured, in the Revelation of St. John, and their grand Machinery! Superior Wisdom and Benevolence of Heart, are described by the Face of a Man; Strength of Mind and Intrepidity of Spirit, by the Visage of a Lion; Calmness of Temper and indefatigable Application, by the Features of an Ox; a penetrating Discernment, and an expeditious Habit of acting, by the Form of a flying Eagle *.

These Hieroglyphics are graceful, are pertinent, and such as every Spectator will understand. Whereas, the Devices of our new monumental Encomium are, to the Unlearned, hardly intelligible; to the Serious, little better than profane; and to every Beholder, indelicate if not inmodest.—Philenor, I imagine, would blush to admit them into his Walks or Avenues. And I am sorry to find them received into the most antient †, most renowned, and most frequented Church in the Kingdom.

Talking in this Manner, they stroll into a spacious Lawn, terminated by a very remarkable Grove; formed on that uncommon Plan, proposed by Mr. Addison, in one of his Spectators.—It consists wholly of Evergreens. Firs, clad in vegetable Silver, point their resinous Leaves, and shoot aloft their towering Cones. Laurels arrayed in glossy Green, spread their ample Foliage, and throw abroad their rambling Boughs.—Bay-trees are expanded into a Fan, which no Weather can tarnish; or rounded into a Column, which knows not how to moulder. While the Lauristinus runs out into a beautiful Irregularity of Shape; and compacts her reddening Gems, in order to unfold her whitening Bloom.—In one Place lies a Dale, gently sinking, and coated with the Chamomile's natural Frieze; which never changes its Colour, never loses its Gloss. Near it, and scooped, You would imagine, from the same Hollow, rises a Mount, softly swelling, and shagged with Furze; gay in their own perennial Green, and generally decked with golden Blossoms.—Here, You are led through a serpentine Walk, and Hedges of Box; and find, perhaps, a solitary Pyramid or a capacious Urn, each composed of unfading Yew. There You look through a strait Alley, fenced on either Side, and arched over Head, with mantling Philirea; at the Extremity, appears an Obelisk sheathed in Ivy, and ornamented with its fable Clusters, as with Wreaths of living Sculpture.—Scattered up and down, are several Sorts of Holly; some striped with White; some spotted with Yellow; some preparing to brighten and beautify the Scene, with Berries of glowing Scarlet.

* Rev. iv. 7.

† Some Antiquarians trace back the Origin of this Church, even to the Reign of Lucius. Which is more than the Space of 1500 Years. Others suppose, that Sebert, King of the East-Saxons, about the Year of our LORD 605, built the first religious Structure on this Spot. All agree, that it was re-edified and enlarged by Edward the Confessor; and that the present stately and magnificent Fabric, was founded by Henry III.

The greatest Part of the Plantation is, not ranged in order, but thrown into little Groups, or rude Clumps. Which form an agreeable Variety, resulting from Art, yet resembling Confusion.—The whole ascends, Tree above Tree, in a regular Slope; from the diminutive Mezereon, to the lofty Cypress, or the loftier Pine. By this Disposition, the Stems and Trunks being concealed, nothing is displayed to your Sight, but the leafy Tops. The several Shadings of whose Attire, greatly diversified and judiciously intermixed, compose a magnificent Sheet of Verdure. To this the free and enlarged Opening of the Lawn, affords a full View, and gives the most advantageous Aspect. Than which, especially in the Winter-Season, nothing can be more grand, more enlivened, or more pleasing.

Asp. There must be something wonderfully agreeable in a Plantation, which appears lively and fruitful, when all its Neighbours of the wood-land Race, are barren, bleak, or dead. But how much more chearing and delightful must it be; when decrepit Age, or bodily Infirmities, have laid waste the Gratifications of our youthful Prime; to find a solid undecaying Pleasure, in the Favour of GOD, and the Hope of Glory!—Now indeed the feathered Tribes resort to the more flowing Umbrage of the Poplar and the Ash. But amidst December's Cold, You shall observe them forsaking the leafless Woods, and flocking to this friendly Receptacle;

hopping across the sunny Walks, or sheltering themselves, in the wet and stormy Day, under these trusty Boughs. So, the many thoughtless Creatures, who turn their Back upon Religion, amidst the soft and soothing Caresses of Prosperity; will want, extremely want, its sovereign Supports, under the sharp and distressing Assaults of Adversity, Sickness, and Death.

This Collection, it is true, may not equal the Groves of annual Verdure, in Floridity of Dress; but it far exceeds them, in the Duration of its Ornaments. Ere long, yonder showy Branches will be stript of their Holiday Clothes: whereas, these will retain their rural Honours. These will be adorned with Flowers, and enriched with Berries; when those are nothing but Rags, Nakedness, and Deformity.—Rags, Nakedness, and Deformity! Such will be every Shelter, and every Refuge for our poor, imperfect, sinful Souls; excepting only the Righteousness of our LORD JESUS CHRIST. Every Thing else, will *fade as a Leaf; which the Summer nurses, but the Winter is sure to destroy. This, my Theron, and this alone is an Evergreen: always free for our Acceptance, and always effectual to save.

Ther. An Evergreen it is; or rather, the choicest Fruit in the Garden of Paradise. But it seems to be quite beyond my Reach. JESUS CHRIST has finished every Requisite, without any Exception, which may procure Acceptance for the guilty Person, and afford Relief to the guilty Conscience—

Asp. Of the most profane Wretch, that lives.—Add this to your Belief, or else You curtail the Grace of GOD, and diminish the Merit of CHRIST.

Ther. This is what I was going to add; I believe also, that if I was interested in this divine SAVIOUR, sinful as I am, my Conscience would have Peace, and my Soul should live. But alas!—

* Isai. lxiv. 6.

Asp. Your Manner of speaking brings to my Mind, what I have somewhere read, concerning an Infant born with a Snake about its Neck. A strange Kind of Neck-lace, You will say, for a human Creature to come into the World with. Perhaps, you will suspect, or even more than suspect That Fancy must be the Mother, and the Midwife also, of this very singular Birth. Yet have a Care, You don't realize the Story. You have made an excellent Acknowledgment; which is like a fair and promising Infant. These buts and ifs, these Doubts and Surmises, are a poisonous Snake. Tear away the mischievous Incumbrance. Never suffer it to twist itself around the Neck of your good Confession. You believe that CHRIST has thoroughly finished the great Work. Believe also, that there is no clogging or intervening Condition; no recommendatory Duty to be performed, in order to your full Participation of CHRIST; of his Peace-speaking Blood, and his Life-giving Righteousness. Only believe, and they are actually your own.

Ther. This is one of those Sayings, which have often puzzled my Mind. I cannot conceive, how such grand Blessings, and such a complete Felicity, should be made ours, only by Believing.

Asp. This, or something very much like it, puzzled and offended Naaman the Syrian. "Wash! Only wash! In Jordan! The common Water of the commonest River! Can this be attended with such extraordinary Consequences! Can this cure a Man of his inveterate Leprosy?"—Thus We are apt to argue: Only believe the Report of the Gospel! Only believe, that GOD freely gives Us his incarnate SON, and all spiritual Blessings with Him! Is it possible, that this simple Expedient should be productive of such noble Effects?—Surely, if We would obtain Remission of Sins, Deliverance from Death, Righteousness and everlasting Life, We must do some great Thing.

Faith, in this Respect, is like its divine Object. It "has no Form nor Comeliness;" nothing pompous or shewy. It seems a little Thing, it really is a little Thing. But it pleases the most high GOD, to compass his magnificent Ends, by little and ordinary Means. CHRIST dwelleth in our Hearts, saith the Apostle. How! By pious Works and laborious Pre-requisites. No; but merely by Faith.—Ye received the SPIRIT. How? By the Works of the Law? By your own Labour and Travail? No; only by the Hearing of Faith.

Besides; can you conceive any other rational Way, whereby We may apprehend an unseen CHRIST, and take Possession of a promised Salvation, but only by assuring Ourselves, that they are given to Us; and, in Consequence of this Gift, regarding them as our own Property?

Iber. At other Times (so strange is my Inconsistency!) I entertain such an Idea of the Greatness of Faith, that I say within myself, “I cannot believe.” My Mind is, as You formerly hinted, like the withered Arm.

Asp. This Difficulty on your Mind, because of the Greatness of Faith, is wholly founded on Mistake. The Gospel informs You, that whatever is necessary for your Salvation, is already done and obtained by CHRIST. That whatever is done and obtained by CHRIST, is freely given You by the GOD of all Grace. Consequently, that You are called only to receive a Gift, not to perform a Work.

You, on the contrary, suppose; That Something more is to be done, Something to be acquired or executed by Yourself; before You may venture to call the Riches of CHRIST your own. This creates the insuperable Difficulty. This renders your Mind like the withered Arm.—Whereas, when these Truths of the Gospel are made manifest to your Conscience; when You are enabled to see, that what CHRIST has wrought, is absolutely sufficient to procure all spiritual Blessings; that what GOD has said, is equally sufficient to warrant an Application of all to Yourself; then HE, who bids You stretch out, strengthens the withered Hand.

And

And will He not strengthen? Can You doubt the Sincerity of his Call, or his Willingness to save the Weak and the Wicked? Then go to Mount Calvary. There listen to the Sounding of his Bowels, and see the Flowing of his Mercies *. Cannot You read a Language in each streaming Wound, and hear a Voice in every dying Pang?—Do they not all speak his infinite Love, even to wretched helpless Sinners? Do they not all address You with that tender Remonstrance, O Thou of little Faith, wherefore dost Thou doubt †?

Ther. Still the Difficulty recurs. Whether it be from any wrong Apprehension, of some great Thing to be done; or from an Averseness of submitting to the Way of Salvation by Grace; or an unaccountable Distrust of the Certainty of what GOD has promised; whatever be the Cause, I am sure, I feel my Impotence. Experience teaches me, what the Apostle affirms; No Man can say, with all his Heart, that JESUS is the LORD, who hath bought me with his Blood, but by the HOLY GHOST.

Asp. You feel your Impotence—to what? To receive a free Gift, and call it your own? To trust wholly, and without Reserve, on the Word which GOD has spoken, and on the Work which CHRIST has wrought? Consider the Case in this View, or else You will not only feel, but occasion Impotence. You will not only find, but increase Difficulty.

I would employ my Thoughts, neither on the Greatness nor Littleness of Faith; neither on the Ease nor Difficulty of believing. I would rather dwell upon the superabundant Grace of GOD, manifested in CHRIST, and granted to the most Unworthy. On this only proper Ground of Claim, I would endeavour, diligently endeavour, to assure my Soul of Salvation. In this Manner, waiting and praying for the divine SPIRIT, whose Office it is, to testify of CHRIST, and bring near the REDEEMER's Righteousness. Yet his Influences are not only to supercede, but to encourage our own Efforts.—*Lay hold on eternal Life; here is our Duty. Our Sufficiency is of GOD†; here is our Encouragement. And O! what a glorious Encouragement, to have the Arm of Omnipotence, for our Support and our Succour!

Ther. How, or in what Manner, does the Divine SPIRIT work Faith in the Heart of a Sinner? You wonder, perhaps, that I ask such a Question. But my Apprehensions are strangely dull, and my Views very dim, with regard to spiritual Things. If, in this Respect, I have any Sight, it is like his, who saw Men as Trees walking; saw these several Objects, but so obscurely, so confusedly, that He could not distinguish one from the other, only by the Circumstance of Motion.

Asp. The most enlightened Minds see only in part; and all have Reason, to make the blind Beggar's Supplication, their own Request; LORD, that I may receive my Sight!—The Operation of the Holy SPIRIT in producing Faith, is thus described by a Master in Israel; “The Divine SPIRIT brings CHRIST and his Righteousness nigh unto Us in the Promise of the Gospel; clearing at the same Time our Right and Warrant to intermeddle with all, without Fear of vicious Intromission; encouraging and enabling to a Measure of confident Application, and taking Home all to Ourselves, freely, without Money, and without Price.”

Ther. The true Belief, is so refined and exalted a Virtue, that I very much question, whether I shall ever be able to attain it.

Asp. The true Belief is never to be considered, in the Light You mention. Not as a refined and exalted Virtue; but as a Receiving of those Benefits, which, received and enjoyed, are the Source of all virtuous and godly Affections. When, proceeding upon the divine Grant, You behold CHRIST as your Righteousness and Strength, then You truly believe. You believe that Truth, which can never disappoint nor fail. You receive that Gift, which enriches with Grace, and entitles to Glory.

Ther. Is not your Definition of Faith very refined and exalted?

Asp. Give me Leave to inquire, how You became acquainted with my Definition of Faith?

Ther. I am not so inattentive a Reader of your Letters, as to forget your Account of this momentous Point. "Faith, You say, is a real Persuasion *, warranted by GOD's Word, that the blessed JESUS has shed his Blood for my Sins; has fulfilled all Righteousness in my Stead; and obtained eternal Redemption for me."

Asp. Where is the extraordinary Refinement of all this? Nothing can be more plain; more simple; or better suited to the meanest Capacity.—Where is the unfurmoutable Difficulty of all this? To believe such Things, is not Work or Labour, but Rest and Peace.—It is nothing more than crediting a Report. A Report, made by infinite Veracity, for Men to believe. A Report, made by infinite Goodness, for sinful Men to believe. Were not our Minds strangely prejudiced, and unaccountably darkened, nothing would appear more becoming and reasonable; nothing would prove more practicable and delightful.

Ther. Does Faith then amount to a Persuasion?

Asp. The Apostle, describing the Faith of the ancient Saints, declares; They saw the Promises afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them. They saw the Promises of Salvation, by a REDEEMER to come ; this implies a Knowledge of them—they were persuaded ; this implies a Conviction of their certain Truth—they embraced * them ; this denotes an Application of all to themselves. And these Things were written for our Example ; that We should go and embrace them likewise.

* Budeus and Stephens derive the original Word from $\pi\epsilon\pi\epsilon\iota\sigma\tau\alpha\iota$, He is persuaded: and, I think, very properly. For, whatever We believe, of that We have a real Persuasion.—The latter most accurate and masterly Critic gives this Interpretation of $\pi\iota\sigma\tau\iota\varsigma$. Persuasio certa, quam in nobis efficit Spiritus Sanctus, de Salute in Christo promissâ, quam sibi quisque credendo applicat. To corroborate which Exposition, He adds; Hac etiam in Significatione Nomen Fidei a Theologis Latinis receptum fuit.

The same Apostle, enlarging on the Faith of Abraham, adds ; Being fully persuaded, that what GOD had promised, He was also able to perform †. Here, You see, is Persuasion—full Persuasion—first, of GOD’S Will, because He had promised ; then, of his Power to accomplish his Word, even though natural Impossibilities stood in the Way. In this twofold Persuasion, the Faith of our Father Abraham consisted. And We are called to tread in the Steps of his Faith : consequently, to be persuaded of GOD’S Will to save Us, from Sin and Hell ; of his Power to save Us by the Blood and Righteousness of his SON :

Ther. Is Faith, Christian Faith, a Persuasion that all these Blessings are for me ? Does it imply a special Application of the Benefits to a Man’s own Self ?

Ans. Don’t You wish, that it may imply and comprehend all this ? Is it not infinitely desirable ? Will it not be inexpressibly comfortable ? If it really was Matter of doubtful Disputation, methinks, We should long to have it ascertained and established. But, blessed be the divine Compassion, it is as little to be doubted, as it is earnestly to be desired.

Hear what a very valuable Writer delivers on this Subject. Exhorting to believe on the LORD JESUS, He thus explains his Meaning ; “ That is, be verily “ persuaded in your Heart, that JESUS CHRIST, is “ yours, and that You shall have Life and Salvation by

* Hebrews xi. 13.

† Rom. iv. 21. Compare Rom. xiv. Ver. 14. with Ver. 22. There, I know and am persuaded, is the apostolical Exposition of the Word Faith. See also 2 Tim. i. 12. Where πεπεισμαι is explanatory of πιστευσα. I am persuaded, gives the true Meaning of I have believed.

“ Him ; that whatsoever CHRIST did for the Redemption of Mankind, He did it for You.”

If this Writer’s Opinion has not Weight enough to incline the Scale, hear our own Church. You once apprehended, that my Attachment to the Church of England was unsettled and wavering. Judge now, who has most thoroughly imbibed her Doctrines, and is most invariably tenacious of her true Interests.—The first Part of the Homily concerning the Sacrament, addresses each Reader in particular, and gives Him this Definition of Faith. “ It is a Belief, not only that the Death “ of CHRIST is available, for the Remission of Sins, “ and Reconciliation with GOD ; but also that He “ made a full and sufficient Sacrifice for Thee, a perfect “ Cleansing for thy Sins.”

If You acquiesce not in either of these Determinations, hear an infallible Umpire. I live, says the Apostle Paul, by Faith in the SON of GOD ; or, to express myself in a more clear and determinate Manner, I live by a firm Persuasion, that He loved me, and gave Himself for me. This pacifies my Conscience. This is the Source of my Joy, and the Motive to my Obedience. In short ; this is the Principle of my whole spiritual Life.

My Notion of Faith, You see, is not without a Precedent. It is undeniably the Voice of our Establishment ; it is apparently the Sense of Scripture ; and it gives Us a clear intelligible Idea, suited to the most common Acceptation of the Word. Such as would naturally arise in the Mind of a Stranger, who, without any Bias on his Judgment, should inquire into the Purport of our Religion, or consider the Language of our Bible.

Ther. How suited to the most common Acceptation of the Word ?

Asp. When You sent a Message to your Tenant—who, in his last Sickness, expressed so much Uneasiness on account of his numerous Family, and embarrassed Circumstances—assuring Him, that you had canceled the Bond, and forgiven his Debt. When You told the poor

poor Woman—whose Husband fell from the loaded Waggon, and broke both his Legs—that you would order a Surgeon to attend Him, and would continue his weekly Pay. How did they regard, how receive your promised Kindness? So let Us credit the gracious Declarations of our GOD; so receive the joyful Report of his Gospel; and then we shall answer the Import of the Word Faith—then we shall truly believe.

Ther. Where have We, in Scripture, any Thing parallel or similar to these Instances?

Asp. Have You never read the Words of Micah; Who is a GOD like unto Thee, that pardoneth Iniquity, and passeth by Transgression *? Here is the gracious Declaration—He will turn again; He will have Compassion upon Us; He will subdue our Iniquities †. Here is the joyful Report.—And why my Friend, why should We pay less Credit to the ever-living JEHOVAH, than to a Man “whose Breath is in his Nostrils?” Is there Treachery with the HOLY ONE of Israel? Does the LORD make, and then violate his Promise?

Ther. GOD has never violated his Promise, when it was expressly made, and particularly applied. But, in this Circumstance, there is a wide difference between the Case of your Friend and the Case of his poor People. I named the Object of my Compassion, in one of the Instances; and made a personal Application, in the other. Neither of which is done in the Scriptures.—I don't find it any where revealed in the Bible, That CHRIST shed his Blood for me in particular. Neither have I read, in the old Testament or the new, That the LORD JESUS fulfilled all Righteousness for Theron. Therefore I cannot see, what Ground I have to believe this Proposition, from any scriptural Authority.

Asp. But my Friend, it is revealed and You have read, That the LORD JESUS shed his Blood for Sinners. And are You excluded from the Benefit?

When an Act of Indemnity is published, even the greatest Transgressors, the Ringleaders in the Rebellion, have nothing else to do, but only to enquire, whether they are excepted. They are not to expect, that their Names should be mentioned, as the particular Objects of their Sovereign's Favour. It is sufficient, abundantly sufficient, if they are not particularly disclaimed. If this is not done, they may, they ought, they do, most confidently claim the royal Clemency in behalf of themselves. So ought you and I to act, in the important Case under Consideration.

Farther; You are not acquainted with the History of the three Children, condemned by Nebuchadnezzar to the burning fiery Furnace. You have read, in the old Testament, an Account of their Faith; and You find it proposed, in the new Testament, as a Model for ours.—Let Us then consider, What their Faith was. Did they say within themselves? “GOD is able, 'tis true, and willing to deliver his Servants. This is affirmed in the Books of Moses and the Prophets. But We no where find it asserted, that He is willing to deliver Us; to deliver Sbadrach, Mesbec, and Abednego from this horrible Death.”—Not such their Method of arguing. On the contrary; they assured themselves, that what the LORD had promised to his Servants in general, He would make good to them in particular. Hear their own Words. They are worthy to be had in everlasting Remembrance. Our GOD, whom We serve, is able to deliver Us from the burning fiery Furnace; and He will deliver Us out of thine Hand, O King. This was their Profession. This their Confidence.—Since We are called to an Imitation of their Faith, ought not such to be the Language of our Souls? “Our REDEEMER, in whom We trust, is able to save Us to the uttermost; and He will save Us, from thy Guilt, O Sin; from thy Malice, O Satan.”

Ther. Still, if I am not named, methinks, I should be pointed out, by some distinguishing Circumstances. This is the Way of Scripture. Antiochus, the Persecutor of the Jews, is not indeed named by the Prophet Daniel. But He is painted in such very significant Colours, as most evidently declare, for whom the Picture was drawn. It is not expressly said, either in the second Epistle to the Thessalonians, or in the whole Book of the Revelation, that the Popish Faction is Antichrist. But it has so many of his Features, that (as a judicious Person said) if any Hue and Cry was made for the latter, I should, without any Scruple, apprehend the former.

Asp. Will this content You? Will this be sufficient to persuade You? Then it is very fully and very exactly done.—When the Grace of GOD is revealed, the Objects of this ineffable Goodness are characterized; and I am beyond Measure mistaken, if You do not find Yourself in the Number.

They are described by their Family, their Disposition, their Practice.—What says eternal Wisdom, when she makes a Tender of her inestimable Blessings? To You, O Men, not to fallen Angels, I call; and my Voice is, not to this Man or that Man exclusively, but to the Sons of Men indefinitely*. Pray, have You no Relation to this Family?—What says the holy Apostle, when He publishes the unalterable Counsels of Heaven? This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation, that CHRIST JESUS came into the World to save—the Upright? the Unblameable? Was this the Case, our Hopes would be covered with a Cloud; or rather, totally and finally eclipsed. But see! they are clear as the Light, and conspicuous as the Noon-Day. For He came (cheering, charming Word!) He came to save Sinners †. Cannot You discern your Name in this List? I am sure, I can see mine written, as it were, in Capitals.

Consonant to all which, is the Declaration of another sacred Envoy. Who speaking of his celestial MASTER, says; He suffered—the PRINCE of Peace, the MONARCH of the Universe, suffered—for whom?

They,

They, in whose Behalf this matchless Ransom was paid, must have an undeniable Right, to look upon Redemption as their own. And blessed, for ever blessed be GOD, it is most peremptorily said, He suffered for the Unjust *.—Now can You say, That You are not comprehended in this, or the preceding Descriptions? Do they not resemble and represent Theron, as Face answers to Face in the Water?

Ther. This I cannot deny. This is certainly true.

Asp. That no Part of our Character might be omitted, and no Sort of our Misery pass unrelieved, it is farther declared; When We were without Strength, CHRIST died for the Ungodly †. When We were ungodly, and considered only as ungodly Creatures; neither possessed of any Thing amiable, nor having the least Ability to acquire it; nay, when We were chargeable with horrid Guilt, and incapable of expiating a single Offence; then, even THEN, CHRIST died, and for such abominable Wretches he died.

To sum up the whole Evidence. Are We not of the human Family? Are We not, in our Spirit and Behaviour, Sinners? Have We not been unjust ‡ towards our Fellow-creatures, and ungodly towards our great CREATOR? Are We not, in all these Respects, without Strength, to recover Ourselves, or make any Satisfaction for our Transgressions?—If We are (and upon these Questions, Incredulity itself will scarcely demur) let Us not frowardly reject, rather let Us thankfully receive, those spiritual Treasures; which, by virtue of the afore-cited Conveyance, are made over to such People. Which, by several other Clauses in the Will and Testament of our crucified LORD, evidently devolve to such Persons.

Ther. Is it possible, Aspasio? Can We be warranted and encouraged to receive these Treasures, in a Capacity, and under a Denomination, which I should think more likely to exclude Us; disinherit Us; and overthrow all our Pretensions?

Asp. This may seem strange, but it is true. All the Blessings of the Gospel proceed upon a Supposition of Sinfulness. CHRIST is made Wisdom unto his People; but what Occasion for the Accession of Wisdom, unless it be in the Case of Ignorance and Folly? CHRIST is made Righteousness; but who can stand in need of a justifying Righteousness, if they are not in themselves unprofitable and guilty? CHRIST is made Sanctification; and does not this imply a State of Corruption to be remedied, a Body of Sin to be destroyed? CHRIST is made Redemption; and from what are Persons redeemed, but from Chains and Bondage, from Misery and Ruin, from all Manner of Evil?

It is also a most precious and invaluable Truth. Such as I would hold fast, and never, never let go. When I search for my own Endowments, I find nothing that I dare venture to plead. Being, in my best Moments, and amidst my choicest Duties, a Sinner. As this is, at all Times, my undoubted Character, I have at all Times an undoubted Warrant to say, The Uncreated WISDOM called me: the blessed JESUS came to save me: the Great MESSIAH suffered Death for me.

Let me illustrate the Point.—Romulus You know, the Founder of the Roman Empire, was a poor Prince: had but a Handful of Subjects, and very scanty Territories. What Expedient could He devise, to enlarge the Boundaries of the one, and augment the Number of the other? He issued a Proclamation, addressed to Outlaws and Criminals; all that were involved in Debt, or obnoxious to Punishment. Promising, that as many as would settle under his Dominion, should be secured from Prosecution, and vested with considerable Privileges.—We will suppose a Person in those distressed Circumstances. Upon hearing the welcome Invitation, He hangs down his Head, and with a dejected Air, cries; “ I am a Debtor, I am a Criminal, and therefore un-

“worthy of the royal Protection.” What Answer should be made to such a dispirited Complainer? Make the same to Yourself, whenever You are inclined to renew the present Objections.—Remembering, that the infinite and eternal SOVEREIGN, to display the Magnificenc of his Majesty, and manifest the Riches of his Goodness, has commissioned his Ambassadors to publish in every Nation under Heaven—“That all unhappy Sinners, who are oppressed by the Devil and liable to Damnation, may come to CHRIST. May look upon CHRIST as their Ransom and Righteousness. May, in this Manner, obtain Pardon, Justification, and all the Privileges of Children.”

Ther. At this rate, the vilest Miscreants have as clear, nay have the very same Warrant to believe in CHRIST, and receive his Salvation, as the highest Saints.

Asp. The very same. In this Respect there is no Difference. All have sinned, and must sue for spiritual Blessings, not as deserving, but as guilty Creatures; must receive them, not as the Recompence of their own Worth, but as the Issues of infinite Mercy.

The Promise is exprefs and unlimited, Whosoever believeth in CHRIST, shall not be ashamed. Here is no Pre-eminence of the Jew above the Greek. No Precedence given to the Man of Decency and Sobriety, before the shameless and abandoned Profligate.—This is farther confirmed by undoubted Fact. St. Peter, speaking of the vilest Miscreants, says; *GOD gave them the HOLY GHOST, even as He did unto Us; and put no Difference between Us and them. They were altogether as welcome to CHRIST and his Salvation, as We the Apostles of the LORD.

Should You ask the highest Saints, On what their Hopes are grounded? This, or something to this Effect, would be their Reply—“on the Grant of CHRIST and his Salvation, most clearly set forth, in the Scriptures of Truth. There We hear it declared; Unto ‡ Acts ii. 39. It has been objected, That the Passage produced by Aspasio, does not exactly suit his Purpose. “ Because, the People, to whom the Apostle speaks, were, not the Congregation in general, but those particular Hearers, who were pricked in their Hearts; that is, were endued with godly Sorrow, and savingly changed.”

To which I reply, by putting a Query upon the Objection, and lodging a Caveat against the Interpretation.—First for the Objection; “ The People, to whom the Apostle speaks, were not the Congregation in general, but those particular Hearers, who were pricked in their Hearts.” Does the Apostle address himself to those only? I think not. I hope not. Because, this would represent the Gifts

Ther. This is a pleasing Supposition. But it would be more satisfactory, if You should refer me to any of the Saints, actually speaking in this Manner.

of GOD, as depending on some Qualifications in Man. Consequently, would destroy the Freeness of the Gift, and eclipse the Glory of Grace. Whereas, if We suppose the Promise addressed to Sinners, as Sinners, without any Thing to distinguish one from another; then, all is perfectly free, and Grace shines forth in its native Lustre.—The Promise is extended to the whole Audience, every one of You. To their Children; Their Children that were at Home; Their Children that were unborn; Their Children of the latest Generations. And these, I presume, could neither be pricked in their Hearts, nor savingly changed.—Besides; it seems plain, from the Course of the Narrative, that the Address is directed, not to any select Number, but to the promiscuous Multitude. For, the discriminating Sentence follows in Verse 41. Then they, amongst this promiscuous Multitude, that gladly received his Word, were baptized.

“Were pricked in the Heart; that is, were endued with godly Sorrow, and savingly changed.” Against this Interpretation I am to lodge a Caveat.—Cain, and Saul, and Judas, κατενευσαν τη καρδια, were pricked in Heart. They had Stings of Anguish in their Consciences, and the Dagger of Distress in their Souls. Yet none ever imagined, that they were truly converted.—These People were ignorant of CHRIST and the Way of Salvation. What shall we do? implies their Want of this necessary Knowledge. They did not so much as see the Place of Refuge; therefore, could not be arrived at it. Could not be safe, or savingly changed.—Not to multiply Arguments. The Apostle must certainly be the best Judge of his Hearers State, and the best Expofitor of his own Meaning. Did He consider this Circumstance in so advantageous a Light? No; He neither regards it, as constituting the Grace of Repentance, nor springing from the promised Gift of the HOLY GHOST; it was not Faith in CHRIST for the Remission of Sins, neither was it a Pledge of Security from the Wrath which was coming on that untoward Generation. This is evident from his own Words—Repent—for the Remission—Ye shall receive—Save Yourselves. A Way of speaking, which supposes those, whom He addresses, to be destitute of the Blessings mentioned.

This, if I mistake not, is the Truth of the Case. Those People, convinced of their horrible Wickedness, in crucifying the SON of GOD, were filled with the most alarming Apprehensions. As yet, they had no Notion of a divine REDEEMER, dying for his very Murderers. They were, therefore, under what some Writers call, a Law-work. And can the Law, which worketh Wrath, produce a saving Change, or rather the Change which accompanieth Salvation? This would take away the Honours of CHRIST, and transfer them to Moses. This would confound the Letter which killeth, with the Spirit that giveth Life.

Asp. Isaiab, You will allow, was a Saint of no inferior Rank. Yet He breathes the Spirit I am describing, and acts the Part I am vindicating. Turn to that Epitome of the Gospel, his fifty-third Chapter. There You may observe Him, claiming a Share in the greatest of all Privileges, Salvation through the Blood of CHRIST. How does He advance and maintain his Claim? Not in the Capacity of a sanctified, but under the Character of a sinful Person. These are his Words; The LORD hath laid on him, on his Son CHRIST JESUS, the Iniquity of Us all *. Of me, and of my Brethren in Piety, does He mean? No; but of me, and of my Fellow-transgressors. This is evidently implied in the Clause I have quoted. In the preceding Part of the Verse, the Prophet explains Himself, and leaves no Room for Hesitation. All We, like Sheep, have gone astray; We have turned every One to his own Ways. Yet our Transgressions, our Iniquities, the GOD of all Mercy has transferred from us, and charged upon his beloved SON.—As the vilest Miscreants are indispensibly obliged to confess the former, they have an apparent Right to profess, to assert, and to believe the latter.

Ther. The vilest Miscreants have a Right—an apparent Right to believe—to believe that all their Sins are laid upon CHRIST! This is surprising Doctrine. I know not how to credit it, though You take so much Pains to establish it.

Asp. It puts me in Mind of that memorable Prediction, recorded by Habakkuk, and quoted by Peter. Behold! I work a Work, of such immensely rich and inconceivably free Goodness, that You shall not believe, even though a Man declare it unto You.—The LORD, I trust, who opened Hagar's Eyes, to discern the Fountain of Water, for the Refreshment of her Son, will open my Friend's Eyes, to discern this infinitely more precious Fountain, for the Consolation of his Soul.

* Isai. liii. 6,

O the Riches, the unsearchable Riches of the Kindness and Love of GOD! He makes a Grant of CHRIST and his heavenly Kingdom, to the most contemptible Wretches on the Face of the Earth; yea, to the most detestable Creatures on this Side Hell!—At this You wonder. At this We ought all to wonder. This will be the Wonder of Saints and Angels, through a boundless Eternity. Yet though We wonder, let Us not gainsay nor murmur. Let not the Creature refuse the Bounty of the CREATOR, because it is unutterably great. Neither let the elder Brother repine, because the young Prodigal enters at the same Door, and is admitted to the same Table with Himself.

I have alledged the Testimony of the Saints, let me add the Decision of their King. GOD so loved the World, even that World, which, the Apostle John assures Us, is not only fallen, but lieth in Wickedness. Yet, fallen and apostate as it is, GOD so loved it, that He gave his only begotten SON, to bring in a perfect Righteousness, and obtain eternal Redemption.

Ther. But the Question is, For whom?

Asp. For the World most certainly. None else. Nothing else, is mentioned. It is not said, For the choicest Part of the World; its best Inhabitants, picked and culled from the Refuse. But for the corrupt and vicious World, these Things are given. That, being believed and accepted, they may be saving Health to their Souls.

Ther. “For the World*.”—Does this general Form of Expression warrant any One, to make a particular Application of CHRIST and all his Benefits, to Himself?

Asp. Pray do You find any Restriction of the Grant? Is any Exception made, relating to this or that particular Set of Men? Is not the Extent of the Gift as wide as the World? If so, it warrants any One, it authorizes every One *, to make a special Application of CHRIST to Himself.

In other Instances, such a general Expresssion not only warrants, but produces a particular Application. When Jonah, in pursuance of the divine Command, cried and said; Yet forty Days, and Nineveh shall be overthrowen. Here was no particular Mention of Man, Woman, or Child. Neither the King, nor the Nobles, nor the Commons were specified. Much less was each and every Inhabitant threatened by Name. Nevertheless, this general Denunciation alarmed them all; was influential on them all. Infomuch that the People of Nineveh believed GOD, and proclaimed a Fast, and put on Sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least †. — They believed; hence We learn the true Nature of Believing. “GOD speaks to me; and what He speaks, “He will perform;” is its genuine Profession. Hence We likewise discover, who they are which ought, in this Manner, to apply the general Word; all, from the least even unto the greatest.

Ther. The Case is not parallel, Aspasio. This was a Denunciation of Vengeance, not a Promise of Grace.

Asp. And can You, Theron, can You suppose? That GOD is more liberal of Vengeance, than He is communicative of Grace. Vengeance is his strange Work, but in Mercy and Loving-kindness He delighteth.—Are We bound to believe and apply his dreadful Threatenings? Not allowed to believe and apply his precious Promises? Surely, the LORD’S Ways are not so unequal.—When the Law says, Cursed is every One, that continueth not in all Things ‡; should not every Hearer take this to Himself, and submit to the Sentence of just Condemnation? When the Gospel says, HE came to save that which is lost ||; should not every Hearer take

* If there were any Man, to whom the Grant of a SAVIOUR did not particularly belong; that Person would have no Warrant to believe; He would do right in disbelieving; what the Scriptures represent as the greatest Sin, would become his bounden Duty.

this also to Himself, and embrace the Tender of free Salvation?

However, if You dislike this Instance, I will give You another; which is not of the vindictive, but of the beneficent Kind.—When the Manna made its first Appearance in the WilderNESS; when the Israelites knew, neither what it was, nor for whom intended; both these Particulars were explained by Moses. This is the Bread which the LORD hath given You to eat *. No Mention is made of any individual Person. Yet the whole Congregation looked upon this as an undoubted Permission, both for themselves and their Children, to gather, to fetch home, and to use the miraculous Food.

Ther. GOD gave the Manna to all the Israelites, both good and bad. But does He give CHRIST with this unlimited Freeness?

Asp. Our LORD Himself, alluding to this very Miracle, vouchsafes You an Answer. My FATHER giveth You the true Bread from Heaven †. The Language is nearly the same as Moses used; and it expresses the very same unlimited Freeness.—My FATHER giveth You his incarnate SON, and his divinely excellent Righteousness. These are Bread indeed; Bread, which came down from the Regions of Heaven; and Bread, which nourisheth the Soul for the Joys of Heaven.—This my FATHER giveth You; though not in actual Possession, yet in Right to possess. This He giveth You ‡, by Way of free indefinite Grant. Without which, any Attempt to possess, even in the most upright of Men, would be illegal and presumptuous. By virtue of which Grant, the Bad as well as the Good

‡ “ The Receiving of CHRIST necessarily presupposes this Giving of Him. There may indeed be a Giving, where there is no Receiving; for a Gift may be refused. There may also be a Taking; where there is no Giving; which is a presumptuous Action, without Warrant. But there can be no Place for receiving CHRIST, where there is not a Giving of Him before.” Boston's Notes.

—it is your own Expression, and therefore I make use of it. Though, in Reality, None are good, till they receive CHRIST. Which, were his Benefits of the exclusive Sort, would be Cause of infinite Anxiety to Mankind. But our great Consolation is, that One as well as Another, the idolatrous Gentile, as well as the professing Israelite, has an unquestionable Warrant to claim them for Himself.

Ther. Unquestionable! Is not this Expression too peremptory? That such a Grant should be made to Believers, I can easily conceive. But is it made to Sinners, to any Sinners, to the most abandoned Sinners?

Asp. Yes, Theron, to Sinners. And when Sinners receive the Grant, then they commence Believers.—Was it made to Believers only, no Man living would inherit the Blessing. Because all Men are, by the Depravity and Impotence of their Nature, originally concluded under Sin and Unbelief. It is therefore a Source of Comfort and a Store-house of Relief, for the most guilty Creatures, even in their most desperate Circumstances.

What said our LORD JESUS? My Father giveth You: that is, the People who stood around, and heard his gracious Voice. Many of whom were in a carnal State habitually, and even then were in a murmuring wicked Frame*.—What says his Prophet? He cries out in a Rapture; O my lost Brethren, to Us a Child is born; to Us a Son is given! Not to Us, who were regenerate, and become Children of Light. But to Us Children of fallen Adam; to Us undone Sinners of Mankind; who walked in Darkness, and dwelt in the Shadow of Death †.—What saith GOD the LORD? He that created the Heavens, and stretched them out? I will give Thee, meaning his beloved SON, for a Covenant; it is not said of Believers, but of the People; it is not said, of new Creatures, but of the Gentiles: Who were the vilest of all Creatures, or, as You have properly spoke, the most abandoned Sinners.

† Isai. ix. 2, 6.

That we may understand more clearly the Signification of these Terms, and see the true Extent of this Gift, it is added; I will give Thee to open the blind Eyes, and to bring out the Prisoners from the Prison *. Miserable and guilty Wretches, blinded by the Devil, and enslaved to their Lusts; these are not set aside. Nay; these are expressly named. They are the very Patentees in the heavenly Grant. An obedient and a dying SAVIOUR is as much given to them, that they may receive Him, and be saved; as the City of Refuge was appointed for the Manslayer, that He might fly thither, and be secure; or as the brazen Serpent was lifted up on a Pole, that the wounded Israelite might look to it, and be healed.

Here then the Grant and the Gift are mentioned; the Persons to whom the Grant is made, and for whom the Gift is provided, are specified. They are Sinners; blinded and enslaved Sinners; or, if there be any other more obnoxious Sort, they are all comprehended in this one Word, Gentiles. Only allow the divine Speaker to be sincere; then We shall see, in these precious Texts, a most cheering Hope even for the vilest Sinners. Hope, that they may be justified, escape the Curse, and find Favour with GOD. Nay; We may boldly affirm; That, proceeding on these Words of the eternal KING, even the vilest Sinner is allowed, is authorized to say; "GOD gives me his SON, to be my Covenant Surety. I take Him at his Word. The SURETY and all his Merits, and all his Benefits, are mine."

Divinely rich Bounty! Enough to charm and astonish the Universe. But not too great for the infinite JEHOVAH to exercise. O, let Us not refuse what, on this Consideration, the unerring SPIRIT calls our own Mercy †. Let Us adore the Beneficence of our GOD. Let Us believe his promising Word. And, in this sweet, this easy Manner, obtain both present and final Salvation.

* Isai. xlii. 6, 7.

† Jonah ii. 8.

Ther. I have one Scruple more, which, at this Instant, arises in my Mind. The Righteousness of CHRIST, according to the Apostle, is upon all that believe. Therefore, it is not the Sinner's, but the Believer's Portion.

Asp. If this was true, sure, the Gospel, which reveals this Righteousness, could not be glad Tidings. I will suppose a Congregation of ignorant and ungodly People, of Heathens and Idolaters. The Minister lifts his Voice and cries; "The Righteousness of GOD the SAVIOUR is not for You. You are not Believers, and therefore have no Right to receive the Blessing."—What a discouraging, nay, what a killing Message!—Whereas, if the Ambassador of CHRIST makes this Proclamation; "I know, You are an Assembly of vile and abominable Sinners. Nevertheless, I am commissioned to preach glad Tidings to You. The infinitely glorious SON has died for such Transgressors as You. And the infinitely gracious FATHER freely offers his perfect Righteousness to You." This is indeed a joyful Sound.

Besides, Theron, You don't attend to the Apostle's Expression. He says, the Righteousness of GOD is upon all them that believe. Such Persons actually possess it. They wear the Robe. They are clothed with Salvation. And here lies the Difference between the vile Miscreant and the real Saint. Not that one was originally better than the other: not that one has a clearer Grant of CHRIST than the other: but the latter has put on the Wedding-garment, and uses it to his unspeakable Honour and Happiness; the former is admonished to throw aside his filthy Rags; and invited to put on this heavenly Raiment.

Ther. Let me recollect—CHRIST is given for the World, the apostate World, to believe on—CHRIST has died, not for the Righteous, but for the Ungodly—CHRIST came in the Flesh to save Sinners, even the chief of Sinners.—Well, Aspasio, if these Things are true (and how can they be otherwise? since they are the express Doctrine of Scripture) it is pity, but they were more generally known. For my part, I must confess, they are not only new, but strange to me. Though I have read them in the Bible, yet when I come to consider them, and compare them with what passes in my Breast, I find they are quite contrary to my usual Ways of thinking.

Asp. You remind me of a valuable Person, whom I once numbered among my Acquaintance, and whose Way of thinking somewhat resembled your own. Will You give me leave to relate his Case?

Ther. Most gladly. It will be some Kind of Consolation to hear, that Others have laboured under the same Difficulties with myself, and been subject to the same Distresses. If I am informed of their Deliverance from those Distresses, it will be like shewing me an opened Door, for effecting my own Escape. If I am likewise acquainted with the Manner of their Deliverance, this will furnish me with a Clue to guide my Steps.

Asp. This Person was roused from a Habit of Indolence and Supineness, into a serious Concern for his eternal Welfare. Convinced of his depraved Nature and aggravated Guilt, He had Recourse to the Scriptures, and to frequent Prayer. He attended the Ordinances of Christianity, and sought earnestly for an assured Interest in CHRIST. But found no stedfast Faith, and tasted very little Comfort. At length, He applied to an eminent Divine, and laid open the State of his Heart. Short, but weighty was the Answer he received. "I perceive, Sir, the Cause of all your Distress. You do not, you will not, come to CHRIST as a Sinner. This Mistake stands between your Soul and the Joy of Religion. This detains you in the Gall of Bitterness; and take heed, O! take heed, lest it consign you over to the Bond of Iniquity." This Admonition never departed from the Gentleman's Mind; and it became a happy Means of removing the Obstructions to his Peace.

Remember this little History, Theron; and may it prove as efficacious for your Good, as it is pertinent to your

your Circumstances! Remember, that the free Grant of CHRIST, made in the Word of Truth, and addressed to Sinners of Mankind, is the only Basis and Ground-work of Faith. An Apostle, after all the Labours of his exemplary Life, can have no better. And a Magdalene or a Manasseb, as a Motive and Encouragement for their turning to the LORD, have the very same.

But we digress from the principal Subject. Since You disapprove my Account of Faith, I must desire You to favour me with a Description, more correct and unexceptionable. For, as You justly observed, this is a very momentous Article.—Is not CHRIST the Source of all spiritual Good, and Faith the main Channel of Conveyance? Surely then it should be made and kept, as clear as possible.—Is not CHRIST the Foundation of all true Godliness, and Faith the Master-arch in this sacred Structure? Surely then it should be raised and turned with the utmost Care.

D I A L O G U E XVII.

T H E R O N .

PALÆMON's Account is this—Faith, He says, is a firm Persuasion, that JESUS CHRIST has shed his Blood, and fulfilled all Righteousness; has sustained the Punishment due to Sin, and obtained full Reconciliation with GOD. That all this Grace, and each of these Benefits, are free, perfectly free; for You, for me, for others. In consequence of this Persuasion, the Sinner flies to CHRIST, comes to CHRIST, and trusts in CHRIST for his own Salvation.

Asp. I have the highest Regard for Palæmon's Judgment; and I cannot but think, my Opinion is confirmed even by his.—The Act of flying to CHRIST, implies an Intention to get out of Danger; it implies a Discovery of CHRIST, as the appointed Safety; and consists in making Use of Him as such. When the Manslayer fled to the City of Refuge, He made Use of that privileged Place for his own Protection. How can this be done, with regard to a bleeding, dying SAVIOUR, but only by a Persuasion that He is mine? That his Sufferings were in my Stead, and that his Death is my Safe-guard.—What is meant by Coming to CHRIST, We may learn from Jeremiab. Behold! We come unto Thee, for Thou art the LORD our GOD. Coming, You see, includes or proceeds upon a real Persuasion, that the LORD is our GOD. While we are wholly destitute of this Persuasion, We stand at a Distance, and our Souls are afar off. We are never brought nigh; We never come in the Prophet's Sense; till We are taught to say, each One for Himself, Thou art the LORD

LORD my GOD *.—The Act of Trusting in CHRIST is much of the same Nature. It presupposes, that CHRIST is the Trustee of the Covenant of Grace; it proceeds upon a Conviction of his Faithfulness in executing the Office; and it is a solemn Surrendering or Giving up the whole Affair of our Salvation into his Hand. Giving it up, not in Uncertainty of Success (this would be mistrusting, rather than trusting) but with a Certainty, in some measure, suitable to the Fidelity and Ability of HIM, with whom We have to do.

If You still are doubtful, whether any such Persuasion is implied in Trusting, let Us choose a Referee. Let Us carry our Controversy to the King of Israel. Inquire of David, why He trusts in the LORD, and what He means by trusting? To both these Inquiries He answers distinctly and fully. “The LORD is my high Tower, my Shield, and He in whom I trust †. He is a Shield—

* Jer. iii. 22. This Text relates to the backsliding Israelites. It is observable, that they do not lay Claim to the LORD as their GOD, because they are Penitents. But are encouraged to return, from the bare Belief of his gracious Declarations. The Return of the Children of GOD, after backsliding, is of the same Nature, and proceeds upon the same Grounds, as their first Approach. According to that invariable Rule, As Ye have received CHRIST JESUS the Lord, so walk Ye in Him.

This Doctrine is taught and represented under the same Image, Isai. xlv. 24. To HIM shall Men come. What does this figurative Expression signify? The Prophet himself answers our Question, and explains his own Meaning. Surely, shall one say, in the LORD have I Righteousness. When People believe this in their Heart, and profess this with their Mouth, then they come unto the LORD.

† Psal. cxliv. 2. See also Psal. xxxi. 14. Isai. xii. 2. and especially 2 Kings xviii. 30. Where Rabsbakeb, the Affyrian General, gives Us an Exposition of the Word trust. This Man, unacquainted with theological Controversies and nice Distinctions; having no other Information, but what was derived from common Sense, and the common Principles of Mankind; sees all that We contend for, comprehended in the Expression, Let not Hezekiah make You trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver Us. To trust in the LORD, is, according to this abnormis Sapiens, to say from the Heart, and declare with the Mouth.—The LORD will deliver—He will deliver Us—He will surely deliver Us.—Must it not be a Shame to Christians, if they have meaner Apprehensions in trusting in JEHOVAH, than an Heathen and an Idolater!

“ He is my Shield—Of this I am persuaded, and therefore I trust in Him; or this I believe, and in so doing, I trust on Him.”

Ther. This Air of Assurance, which runs through all your Representations of Faith, appears somewhat presumptuous in my Eye. It is as if People pretended to know and claim their Seat in Heaven, before the Judgment Day.

Asp. And is this so strange or presumptuous a Thing? In former Ages, People made no Scruple to declare; We know, that if our earthly House of this Tabernacle were dissolved, We have a Building of GOD, a House not made with Hands, eternal in the Heavens. And these are People, whom You need not blush to be like, nor be afraid to copy after.

The Papists, I own, take great Offence at the Word Assurance, and utterly explode the Doctrine*. But they are no infallible Guides, for Us to follow; neither are they very inviting Patterns, for Us to imitate. You and I, Theron, cannot reasonably be offended, at the Expression, or the Doctrine; if We recollect what We have been taught, in the first Stage of Life, and what is professed, in the last Scene of Mortality. We are taught even from our Infancy, that the Sacrament of the LORD'S Supper, is not only a Sign of Spiritual Grace, but a Pledge to assure Us thereof †. At the Interment of the Dead, We profess our sure and certain Hope of a Resurrection to eternal Life ‡. That this is always applied, with due Propriety, in our Burial-Service, I will not venture to assert. That it sufficiently countenances my Sentiments, None will undertake to deny. If this countenances, the Apostle authorizes them; when He addressess Us, with this very remarkable Exhortation; *Having therefore, Brethren, Boldness to enter into the Holiest by the Blood of JESUS, let Us draw near with a true Heart in full Assurance of Faith; with a firm Persuasion of Acceptance; with a certain Expectation of Success.

* One of their unrighteous Decrees, established by the Counsel of Trent, is; “ If any shall say, that justifying Faith is nothing else but a Confidence or Assurance of the Mercy of GOD, pardoning Sins for CHRIST'S Sake, let Him be accursed.”—Must We not call the Assembly, which could pass such horrible Doctrine into a Law, the Synagogue of Satan? Ought We not to expostulate, with such a dogmatizing and damning Spirit, in the Words of the Apostle? O full of all Subtilty and all Mischief, thou Child of the Devil, thou Enemy of all Righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right Ways of the LORD? Acts xiii. 10.

After all, if You dislike the Word Assurance, We will change it for the more softened, and more modestly-sounding Term, Appropriation.—St. Chrysostom says, Η ΠΙΣΤΙΣ ΙΔΙΟΠΟΙΕΙΤΑΙ ΤΟΝ ΘΕΟΝ. which is translated and expounded by a pious Divine of our own; “Faith, He tells Us, is a Work of the HOLY GHOST in the Soul, enabling it to appropriate the Blood and Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST, for the Remission of Sin, and its Justification unto eternal Life.”

Ther. You change Assurance for a more softened, not for a more intelligible Term. I must desire to know, what You mean by the Word Appropriation.

Asp. To appropriate, in the theological Sense, is to take home the Grace of GOD; or apply to One’s Self, what lies in the common indefinite Grant of the Gospel. Is CHRIST the Treasure hid in the Field? To appropriate this Treasure, is to receive and use it as our own Portion. Is CHRIST the Balm of Gilead, full of saving Health? To appropriate this Balm, is to take and apply it for the Recovery of our own Souls. And without such an Appropriation, how can We either be enriched by the former, or healed by the latter?

Let me farther explain my Meaning, and exemplify the Position, by considering CHRIST in his several Offices. CHRIST, as a Priest, is made to guilty Creatures Righteousness. When We appropriate the Grace of our great HIGH PRIEST, this is the Language of our Hearts, In the LORD have I Righteousness †.—CHRIST, as a Prophet, is made to ignorant Creatures Wisdom. When We appropriate the Benefits of our unerring PROPHEET, this is the Persuasion of our Souls, *Though I sit in Darkness, the LORD will be a Light unto me.—CHRIST, as a King, is made unto depraved Creatures Sanctification. When We appropriate the Munificence of our Almighty KING, this is our comfortable Trust, The LORD will deliver me from every evil Work †.

* Heb. x. 19, 20.

Ther. The Scripture never uses the Term Appropriation. Will it not draw off our Attention from the Form of sound Words, lest Us by the Apostle? Will it not lead Us into a Strife about Phrases, devised by human Wisdom? Perhaps, bewilder Us among Oppositions of Science, falsely so called? Some Persons, You must be sensible, have affirmed; That it is enough to know the Truth, and believe what JESUS has done. According to that which is written; By his Knowledge shall my righteous Servant justify many.

Asp. Do You experience this to be enough, Theron? Is this sufficient to dispel your Fears, and calm your Conscience? Does this comfort your Heart, and fill You with all Joy?

The scriptural Knowledge; that which the HOLY GHOST teaches; is of the appropriating Kind. And if the Doctrine be contained in Scripture, it should seem an over-refined Scrupulosity to cavil with the Diction.

By his Knowledge shall my righteous Servant justify many. That is, by the Knowledge of Him, as our Atonement, and our Redemption; who was wounded for our Sins, and bruised for our Iniquities. Thus the Prophet expounds his own Text; and lends Us a Clue, that may lead Us into our LORD's Meaning, when He declares; This is Life eternal, that they may know Thee the only true GOD, and JESUS CHRIST whom Thou hast sent. That they may know Thee, O GOD, as completely reconciled, and infinitely gracious to them. That they may know JESUS CHRIST, as the sole Cause of this blessed Reconciliation; by satisfying Justice, and bringing in an everlasting Righteousness.

This is consonant to that general Maxim, laid down by the Apostle, We have known and believed—What? That GOD is Love? This is Part of the Truth, but not the whole.—That He exercises it freely, and with overflowing Abundance? Neither does this come up to the Measure of the Believer's Knowledge.—But We have known and believed the special, the distinguishing Love, which GOD hath towards Us, in JESUS CHRIST.—This is the Knowledge, which justifies the Ungodly, and sanctifies the Sinner. In this Knowledge, You see, there is an Application to Ourselves; a Belief that the Blessing is our own; or, in other Words, an Appropriation, Towards Us.

Ther. So then an Application to Ourselves, or a Belief that the Blessings of the Gospel are our own, is what You mean by Appropriation.

Asp. Add, our own by Virtue of the divine Grant, and this is my very Meaning. That an Appropriation of this Kind is included in the Essence of Faith, is the Sentiment I would maintain.—Which Sentiment might be confirmed, if such Confirmation were demanded, by a Multitude of the most illustrious Witnesses. Witnesses so illustrious, that they were a Blessing to the World, and an Honour to human Nature. So numerous, that, without giving an Abstract of their Testimonies, it might seem tedious only to recite their Names*.

Ther.

* If the Reader should inquire after their Names, He will find some of them enumerated in the following Catalogue. Luther, Calvin, Melancthon, Beza, Bullinger, Bucer, Knox, Craig, Melvil, Bruce, Davidson, Forbes, &c.—Ursinus, Zanchius, Junius, Piscator, Rollock, Danaeus, Wendelinus, Chamierus, Sharpus, Bodius, Pareus, Altingius, Trigelandii (Gisbertus & Jacobus), Arnoldus, Maresius, the four Professors at Leyden, Wallæus, Rivetus, Polyander, Thysius; Wollebius, Heideggerus, Essenius, Turretinus, &c.—Many eminent British Divines, Bishop Babington, Ther. I will dispense with your Recital of their Names, only let me have a Specimen of their Testimonies.

Asp. First, let me present You with Dr. Owen; than whom England has produced few Writers, either more judicious or more devout. “Faith, He tells Us in his Catechism, is a gracious Resting upon the free Promises of GOD in JESUS CHRIST for Mercy, with “a firm Persuasion of Heart, that GOD is a reconciled Father to Us in the SON of his Love.”

Next, let me introduce an Author of Renown, from our Sister Country, Scotland. Mr. Davidson asking, “What is that Faith, which is the only Instrument of this strait Conjunction between CHRIST crucified and Us?” Teaches his Disciple to reply; “It is the sure Persuasion of the Heart, that CHRIST, by his Death and Resurrection, hath taken away our Sins; and cloathing Us with his own Righteousness, has thoroughly restored Us to the Favour of GOD.”

To these I would add the learned and justly celebrated Altingius, Professor of Divinity at Heidelberg. “Faith, He says, is a Knowledge of the Grace of GOD in CHRIST, together with a fiduciary Reliance on it, or an Application of it to a Man’s own Self.”

These Testimonies are but as the Tythe to the whole Crop. Yet these are more than enough to exempt me from the Charge of Singularity. You will not wonder therefore, if I still abide by the good old Doctrine, which is espoused by so many of the ablest Judges; which was the darling Tenet of almost all our Reformers; and which is the avowed Belief, not of a few bington, Davenant, Hall; Mr. Perkins, Pemble, Willet, Gouge, Rogers, Burgesi, Owen, Marshal, &c.

If we were apparently and demonstrably in an Error, yet, to err with such Company, and in the Footsteps of such Guides, must very much tend to mitigate the Severity of Censure. But, I believe, few serious Persons will venture to charge Error and Delusion upon such a venerable Body of Protestant Divines; so eminent for their Learning; so exemplary for their Holiness; and whose Labours were so remarkably owned by GOD.

single Persons only, but of many famous Protestant Churches.

Ther. Pray let me hear, what the Protestant Churches say. Their Testimony, though not infallible, is doubtless very considerable.

Asp. The Testimony of the English Church is already produced. You shall now have the Declaration of the Church of Scotland. In her national Covenant, She has these memorable Words; “ We detest and refuse the “ usurped Authority of that Roman Antichrist, his general and doubtful Faith.” From which Words We naturally draw these two Conclusions—That, since the Popish Faith is a doubtful Faith, the Protestant Faith is an assured Faith—That, since the Popish Faith is a general one, the Protestant Faith must needs be a Faith of special Application.

Now let Us hear the unanimous Suffrage of the Churches of the Palatinate. It is enquired, in the twenty-first Question of their public Catechism, “ What “ is true Faith?” To which this Answer is returned. “ It is not only an Assent to all the Truths, which GOD “ has revealed in his Word; but it is an assured Trust, “ wrought by the HOLY SPIRIT in my Heart, that “ Remission of Sins, compleat Righteousness, and eternal Life are given; freely given, not to others only, “ but to myself; and all this, from the mere Mercy of “ GOD, through the alone Merits of CHRIST.”

Omitting the Confessions of several other foreign Churches, I shall only subjoin the Doctrine of the Dutch Divines, as it is delivered in their Brief Compendium of Christian Religion. Quest. What is a sincere Faith? Ans. “ It is a sure Knowledge of GOD and his Promises, “ revealed to Us in the Gospel; and a hearty Confidence, “ that all my Sins are forgiven, for CHRIST’s Sake.”

With all these Testimonies, which are the Voice of Nations, I have the Happiness to coincide. Only some of them are much stronger, in displaying and maintaining the special Fiducia, or appropriating Persuasion.—From this View of Things, You will at least allow, that the

the personal Application of CHRIST, and the assured Confidence in CHRIST, are not (as they have very indecently been called) the Fiction of a crazy Brain.—Especially, as I apprehend, the Determinations of Scripture, and the Experience of scriptural Saints, are all on our Side.

Ther. You have now brought the Cause to the proper Bar. When a Question so important is debated, and an Interest so momentous is concerned, I cannot acquiesce in any Authority less than divine. I cannot, and indeed I think, We ought not. Nothing should satisfy Us on such an Occasion, but the Word, which is unerring and decisive; the Word, by which We are to stand or fall eternally. Whence does it appear, that the Determinations of this divine Word, are on your Side?

Asp. From the noblest Description of Faith, which Language itself can form. The Writer to the Hebrews, having mentioned the Life of Faith, the Perseverance of Faith, and the End or Reward of Faith, proceeds to a Definition of this leading Grace. *Now Faith is the Substance of Things hoped for, the Evidence of Things not seen.—The Evidence †, exhibiting not a faint Surmise, but a clear Demonstration, both of invisible Blessings, and of our Right to enjoy them. The Substance ‡, realizing what is promised; and giving Us, as it were, a Possession of good Things that are remote, a present Possession of good Things that are future.

Ther. What are those Blessings, and these good Things?

Asp. I will inform my Theron; and in such a Manner, from such Passages, as shall farther ascertain my † Ελεγχος.

* Heb. xi. 1.

‡ Υποστασις. Perhaps the Reader may prefer Dr. Dorrdridge's Exposition of this Passage. Which, though somewhat different, is truly excellent. Faith, He says, is the confident Expectation of Things hoped for, upon the Security of the divine Promise. It is also the powerful Conviction of Things which are not seen, but of whose Certainty there is such a full Persuasion, that they act upon the Mind, as if they were present.

Representation of Faith.—What says the Apostle of the Gèntiles? I preached unto You the Gospel *.—And what is the Substance of this evangelical Message? CHRIST died for our Sins †.—That so exalted a Person as the SON of GOD, and LORD of Glory, should die, is wonderful—That He should die for Sins, the most abominable Objects, and for Sinners, the most detestable Creatures, is abundantly more wonderful—That He should die, not for Sins in general, but for our Sins in particular, this is inexpressibly wonderful, and at the same Time inexpressibly comfortable—Here we have the Gospel and its capital Blessing, expressed in this Proposition, CHRIST died for Sins. Here We have Faith and its principal Acting, expressed in this Proposition, CHRIST died for our Sins. Till the former is preached, the Doctrine is not Gospel; till the latter is believed, it should seem from St. Paul's Account, the Conviction is not Faith.

Let me produce another Instance, extracted, like the preceding, from the Rolls of Heaven. This is the Record, that GOD hath given to Us, eternal Life ‡; not proposed it, on I know not what Conditions, but hath given. Freely and fully; without any Reserve; and with a Liberality suited to his incomprehensible Goodness, He hath given the richest of all Gifts; and not to some only, or to Others, but to Us, even to Us.

Ther. To Us, that is, to the Apostles and their Fellow-Saints. As the Epistle was written by an Apostle; it is certainly addressed to Men of like Mind; to the Saints that are upon the Earth, and such as excel in Virtue.

Asp. True: but was eternal Life given to them, because they were Apostles? No, verily; but because CHRIST died for them.—Did CHRIST die for them, because they excelled in Virtue? In no wise; but because they were miserable Sinners.—Eternal Life was purchased for them, when they were Sinners. It was consigned over to them, when they were Sinners. And

‡ 1 John v. 9.

neither the Purchase, nor the Gift, were founded on their being Saints, but aimed at making them so.

That CHRIST died for our Sins—That GOD hath given to Us eternal Life—These are the Blessings, of which Faith is the Evidence; these the good Things, of which Faith is the Substance. This is the Honey in the evangelical Hive: and I am at a loss to conceive, how it is possible to taste the Honey, without some Appropriation of the good Things to Ourselves.—This Appropriation, if I mistake not, is comprehended in the several figurative Descriptions of Faith, which occur in holy Writ.

Theo. Favour me with some of those Descriptions. I begin to see a peculiar Beauty, and an unequalled Richness, in the Figures of Scripture. Nothing yields me a more refined Pleasure, than to investigate and discover the exact Sense of those instructive Images. It is somewhat like kindling the consecrated Incense: which, when rising in a Flame, diffused Light, when spreading in Clouds of Fragrance, distributed refreshment.

Asp. Faith is styled, *A looking unto JESUS. But if We do not look unto JESUS, as the Propitiation for our Sins, what Comfort or what Benefit can We derive from the Sight?—A receiving of CHRIST †. But can I have any Pretence to receive Him, and take Possession of his Merits, unless I am convinced, that they are offered or given to me? This is what neither the Dictates of Conscience will allow, nor the Laws of Reason authorize.—A resting upon CHRIST ‡. But how can We rest on a Surety, if We have no Persuasion, that He

* Heb. xii. 2.

† John i. 12.

‡ I find two Words in the Original, which express the Privilege and the Duty of resting on CHRIST. נח which implies such a State of Acquiescence, as silences the Clamours of Conscience, and composes the Perturbation of the Spirit. מנוחה which signifies the Refreshment and Repose of a weary Pilgrim; when He arrives at the End of his Journey, and is settled for Life in a secure, commodious, plentiful Habitation. Psal. xxxvii. 7. Isai. xxviii. 12.—“It is not possible, says Mr. Boston, to conceive a Soul resting on CHRIST for Salva“tion,

He has interposed on our Behalf? Or how confide in a Payment, which We believe to be made for others, not for ourselves?—Surely, Theron, when I rest upon an Object, I use it as my Support. When I receive a Gift, I take it as my own Property. And when the Israelites looked unto the brazen Serpent, they certainly regarded it as a Remedy, each particular Person for Himself.

Ther. To cast Ourselves upon CHRIST as an all-sufficient SAVIOUR; and rely on Him, for our whole Salvation; is not this real Faith? This is what I heard, sometime ago, from a celebrated Pulpit.

Asp. The Persuasion, that CHRIST is an all-sufficient SAVIOUR, is undoubtedly a Persuasion of what is true. But it is short of the Truth, for which I am pleading. Neither does it come up to the Faith, by which I am saved; unless I honour his declared Goodwill, as well as his all-sufficient Power; and on the Authority of the former, regard the latter as my own.

You credit one Part of the Report, that CHRIST is a sufficient SAVIOUR, on the Testimony of GOD who cannot lie. Why should You not credit the same authentic Testifier*, when He repeatedly declares, that this SAVIOUR, with all his Sufficiency, is really given to You? So given, that your most confident Appropriation cannot be disappointed.

This is what was taught, from the Pulpit of infallibility; and by those first of Preachers, who spake as the HOLY GHOST gave them utterance. Let the con-

“tion, without a Persuasion, that it shall have Life, and Salvation through Him.” And I may add, It is equally impossible, without such a Persuasion, to enjoy the Acquiescence or obtain the Repose, hinted in the aforementioned Texts.

* The LORD, speaking by the Prophet Isaiab, seems to wonder, that any can doubt of his Will, after they have heard his Call. “Wherefore when I came, was there no Man, and when I called was there none to answer? Isai. 1. 2. Sure it must be owing to some Suspicion of my Power to save. With respect to my Willingness, there can be no Room for Hesitation. My Call puts this Matter beyond all reasonable Doubt.”—Therefore He proceeds, in the following Words, to give the most unquestionable Proofs of his Omnipotence. Is my Hand shortened, that it cannot redeem? &c.

the Doctrine *. It speaks what I wish for my Friend, for myself, and for my Fellow-sinners.

Let Us shift our Situation, and view the Point in another Light. Consider the blessed and glorious Object of our Faith.—CHRIST is represented by the Similitude of Bread, heavenly Bread, for the hungry Soul. Faith is characterized by eating the Food. Can this be done without a personal Application?—CHRIST is held forth under the Image of living Waters, ever running and always free for the thirsty Appetite. But let them run ever so copiously, let them be presented ever so freely, they will neither quench the Thirst, nor refresh the Spirits, unless they are drank †. To do this is the Business of Faith.—CHRIST is described as a Garment, to clothe the Naked, and beautify the Deformed. Faith is expressed, by putting on this commodious Garment, and wearing this beautiful Robe. Can any Idea, or any Expression, more strongly denote an actual Appropriation?

Ther. It is evident, that many holy People in former Ages, were not possessed of Assurance.—What is the Language of David? It is all Despondency. I am cast out of the Sight of thine Eyes.—To the same melancholy Tune is the Harp of Asaph strung. Is his Mercy clean gone for ever? Doth his Promise fail for evermore?—The

* Such was the Doctrine, taught by that judicious Writer, Mr. Boston. “ This Blood is for me, says the Believer; for my Pardon, “ my Peace, my Sanctification. And therefore I will venture my All “ upon it, for Time and for Eternity.”

† Thus the Church of England explains those mysterious Expressions, Who eateth my Flesh, and drinketh my Blood. In the Rubrick for administering the Sacrament to the Sick, She makes this public Declaration; “ If He do stedfastly believe, that JESUS CHRIST hath “ suffered Death upon the Cross for Him, and shed his Blood for his “ Redemption, earnestly remembering the Benefits He hath thereby, “ He doth eat and drink the Body and Blood of our SAVIOUR “ CHRIST, profitably to his Soul’s Health.”—This should be of some Weight; at least, with the Members of our Church. For my own Part, I give my Assent and Consent most readily and unfeignedly. Neither can I see, how it is possible to feed on the heavenly Manna, any other Way.

same jealous and distrustful Air breathes in the Complaint of the Church. The LORD hath forsaken me, and my LORD hath forgotten me.—Why then should Aspasio set up a Rule, which was too high to be reached, and too strict to be observed, even by those eminent Saints?

Asp. You should rather ask; Why have the best Judges, and the most exemplary Christians, in their several Writings, set up this Rule? Why have the Apostles of our LORD, and the SPIRIT of our GOD, speaking in the Bible, set up this Rule?—To which I might reply; Because it is, of all Precepts, the most beneficial. Therefore, they have not so much set it up, under the Notion of a strict Rule; as they have set it forth, under the Character of an open Door for the chief of Sinners.

Your Complaint, when put into its proper Language, seems to run thus; “Why must We be obliged to proceed upon GOD’s bare Word? Why must We be obliged to trust in CHRIST alone, or to assure Ourselves of Salvation by HIM?” Whereas, instead of a Complaint, it should be Matter of Exultation. We should rather express Ourselves in this Manner; “Bless the LORD, O my Soul; that I a Sinner, a vile Sinner, should be allowed to take CHRIST, and all his Salvation, as my own; and thus to assure myself of Pardon, Holiness, and Glory.”

This Blessing was certainly enjoyed by the holy Men of old. But like every other Species of Felicity in this World, it was enjoyed after an imperfect Manner.—They had an assured Persuasion of GOD’s present Favour, and of their own final Happiness. Nevertheless, this assured Persuasion was liable to the Assaults, both of outward Temptations, and of inward Corruptions. Which might, for a While, impair its Vigour, or eclipse its Lustre, though not destroy its Being. As, under a transient Swoon, the Spirits fail, the Colour departs, but the vital Principle subsists.

You

You may farther observe, concerning those pious Persons, that, when they cease to exercise this Confidence of Faith, they lament the Failure; I said, this is my Infirmity *.—They chide themselves for it; Why art thou cast down, O my Soul?—They encourage themselves against it; Hope in GOD †, it is thy unquestionable Privilege.—How could they do this? On what Grounds, or from what Motive? If they had no Persuasion, that their Ransom was paid, and their GOD reconciled. Consequently, that all their Doubts were an Injury to his Fidelity and to his Goodness.

Nay, the Church, even under her darkeſt Apprehenſions, ſtill ſpeaks the Sentiment, ſtill retains the Grace, for which I am pleading. My LORD, uttered with her Lips, argues an applicatory Faith in her Heart.—So copious and pregnant are the Evidences of this precious Doctrine! It is confirmed by that very Paſſage, which was produced for its Confutation.

Ther. If this be the Sentiment of the Church in general, is it alſo the Temper of her particular Members? Was each of them animated by this firm and lively Faith?

Aſp. Let theſe particular Perſons appear, and answer for themſelves.—Hear the Declaration of the Pſalmiſt; Bleſs the LORD, O my Soul, and all that is within me, bleſs his holy Name ‡. What is the Cauſe of this holy Tranſport and devout Praise? Is it, becauſe GOD poſſibly may, becauſe He probably will? No; but becauſe HE actually does forgive: Who forgiveth all thine Iniquities.—Take notice of Job's Belief, and Job's Support, amidſt his unexampled Sufferings. I know that my REDEEMER liveth; not only that there is a Redeemer, but that He is, together with all his ſaving Benefits, mine. Which being a Truth ſo ſweet and delightful, is expreſſed a ſecond Time; whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf §, to my own Advantage, and for my own Comfort. I shall see him exerting his almighty Power and infinite Mercy, to rescue my Body from the Grave, and to deliver my Soul from Hell.—What was Habakkuk's Security, amidst the threatening, the tremendous, the triumphant Malice of his own, and his Country's Enemies? The LORD GOD is my Strength. He says not, I wish, I pray, for the divine Favour, and the divine Succour; but I am persuaded, they both are mine; my inestimable Portion, and my inviolable Safeguard. He will make my Feet like Hind's Feet, so that I shall escape from all Danger; and He will make me walk upon mine high Places, beyond the Reach of every Evil*.

Ther. Is this the Language of Believers under the New Testament Dispensation?

Asp. Under every Dispensation, Theron.—They who lived before the Law, were persuaded † of the Promises; had not the least Distrust with regard to the Certainty of their Performance. Nay; they embraced them ‡ as their own; they received them with a particular Application; and hugged them, as it were, to their very Souls.—They who lived under the Law could say; As far as the East is from the West, so far hath He removed our Transgressions from Us §.—Our Transgressions; He hath removed; from Us. This is the Acknowledgment, not of David alone, but of the Jewish Church. Every true Israelite either made it, or was authorized and exhorted to make it.—And can You imagine, that, in the Days of the Gospel, when our Advantages are greater and our Light is clearer, our Faith should be weaker? St. Peter makes a Profession, which excludes all Doubting; I am a Witness of the Sufferings of CHRIST, and also a Partaker of the Glory that shall be revealed ||. St. Paul answers in the same heroic Strain; I am persuaded that neither Life, nor Death, nor any Creature, shall be able to separate me from the Love of GOD, which is in CHRIST JESUS my LORD *. With both which, the Confession of Faith recorded by St. Luke, is exactly correspondent; We believe, that through the Grace of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, We shall be saved even as They †.

Ther. Was not this a Privilege peculiar to the Apostles?

Asp. By no means. All Believers are Brethren, and have like precious Faith.—St. Paul congratulates Himself and the Christians at Ephesus, with these delightful Words; In whom we have Redemption, through his Blood, even the Forgiveness of Sins. Forgiveness He mentions, not as a Blessing proposed for their Acquisition, but as assigned over to their Enjoyment. What was imparted to their Souls, and manifested in their Consciences. Their present Portion, as well as their future Plea.—St. Peter exhorts all his Converts, dispersed in various Parts of the World; Gird up the Loins of your Mind, and hope to the End; or, as the Word should rather be translated, hope perfectly, hope assuredly, for the Grace that is to be brought unto You at the Revelation of JESUS CHRIST ‡. Maintain, not a dim, but a bright Hope; not a wavering, but a steady Expectation, of eternal Life. That free, but grand Gift of which the LORD JESUS, at his second Coming, will certainly make You Partakers.—The Apostle, writing to his Hebrew Converts, encourages them all to hold fast the Confidence—

Ther. Confidence! This is a strong and bold Word. It has sometimes given me a little Disgust. But re-

* Rom. viii. 29.

† Acts xv. 11. This, We may observe, is the Apostle's Explanation of Faith; of that Faith, which the Gentiles exercised. It is a Belief, that We are, that We shall be, saved. Both these Ideas are comprehended in the original, σωθῆναι. We are saved, by Purchase; shall be saved, by Power. Are saved inchoatively; shall be saved eternally.

‡ 1 Pet. i. 13. Εἰς τέλος οἱ μέχρι τέλους, signify To the End. But τελειως, as far as I can recollect, is never used in this Sense, either by sacred or profane Writers. It may be rendered perfectè, integrè, in this Connection, cum firmâ Fiduciâ, with a firm Affiance.

collecting, that it is scriptural, I made no Objection. However, I would gladly know, to what it refers.

Asp. To their final and everlasting Salvation. It is explained by the sacred Writer Himself. Knowing, that Ye have in Heaven, a better and a more enduring Substance. This is the Confidence, which they are excited to hold fast.—He adds, *and the Rejoicing of Hope firm unto the End. Whence it appears, that a Hope amounting to Confidence, and the Joy which naturally results from such a Hope, were the common Portion of Christians; possessed, not barely by some few exalted Saints, but by the Followers of JESUS in general.—I might bring many more Instances. But why should I multiply Proofs? Since the beloved Disciple declares! These Things have I written unto You, that believe on the Name of the SON of GOD, that Ye may know that Ye have eternal Life †.

Ther. True, Aspasio. This coincides with my Apprehensions. The Scriptures were written—first that We may believe, and be entitled to eternal Life—next, that We may have the Knowledge of our Belief, and a Consciousness of our Title. The Apostle supposes his Correspondents to possess the former, yet not to have attained the latter.

Asp. Is it certain, that He makes such a Supposition? He writes, I imagine, not with a View of leading them to either, but of confirming them in both.—He intimates, that the Privilege and the Comfort should go together. If We believe, that CHRIST is our Surety; We would be persuaded, that he has paid our Debt, and satisfied Justice to the very uttermost Farthing. If We believe, that CHRIST is our Bridegroom; We should rest assured, that his Righteousness, his Inheritance, and his Kingdom are ours. And why should We take Pains to separate, what GOD's Word and the very Nature of Things have united? Will this turn to our Advantage? Must it not issue in our Loss?—Besides, according to your own Interpretation, whoever falls short of this chearing Knowledge, falls short of one great End for which the Scriptures were written. He receives not his full Reward. He only gleans, where He might reap: Or rather, He is tossed on the Ocean: whereas, they that believe, have gained the Port; have dropped their Anchor; and enter into Rest *.

Ther. Believed! What! That our Sins are laid upon CHRIST? That He was obedient in our Stead? That all spiritual Blessings are thereby procured for our—even for our Enjoyment? Is this the Faith, which the Apostle means?

Asp. The Blessings You have enumerated, are the Sum and Substance of the Gospel. And I know of no other justifying Faith, but that which relates to the Gospel, and believes its Report †. Nor can I think, that any other Belief will administer the Tranquility, or produce the Rest, specified by the Apostle.—But why this insignificant Expression, I think? Hear a better Judge, and a more authentic Witness. Hear what a celebrated Divine and an admired Poet says, upon the Subject. Who has very happily stated the true Nature of Faith; that great Duty, and great Privilege, of the Gospel!

To credit what the Almighty saith!
I' embrace the Promise of his Son,
And call the Joys of Heaven our own!*

Our own! If We omit this Circumstance, how poor and mean a Thing is Faith! Unworthy to be distinguished, as the leading Doctrine of the whole Bible. Scarce worthy of a single Wish from any One, or of another Word from Us.—If We do not comprize this in our Faith, what do we more than apostate Spirits? They are persuaded, that CHRIST and his Benefits are bestowed on the Elect, on the Converted, on Believers. But they cannot believe, that GOD gives CHRIST and all spiritual Blessings to them. They have no Ground for calling these Blessings their own.

Here, I find, lies the Core and Root of our Controversy. This is the precise Point to be settled; What it is to believe? What is included in this very important Word?—This Question might renew our Dispute, and cause the past Arguments to recur. Whereas, I would gladly get rid of Disputation. We have already been too long detained in these disagreeable Paths. However, since You have given the Occasion, let me avail myself of another Text or two. For I would willingly drive this Nail to the Head; and not leave my Friend unconvinced, on a Subject of the utmost Consequence.

The LORD declares by his Prophet, I, even I am He, that blotteth out thy Transgressions. To believe, is to subscribe this Declaration; to subscribe with our Hand, and profess from our Heart, “LORD it is done, as “Thou hast said.”—Faith is, if I may so speak, the Echo of the divine Voice. It eagerly catches, and punctually reverberates the joyful Sound. Does GOD say, Thou art my People? Faith replies, Thou art my GOD: not barely desiring, but confidently averring, an Interest in his Favour. This Explanation of Faith, is given Us by a Wisdom, which cannot be deceived; by a Fidelity, which cannot deceive*.—Once more. Our LORD bears this Testimony concerning Thomas; Thomas, thou hast believed. Now then, I think, We have an infallible Touchstone. Provided We can discover, what that is, which JESUS CHRIST calls Believing. Whatever it be, it is the Determination of Truth itself; and should pass for a Verdict, from which there lies no Appeal. And this, this is the Confession, which Thomas made, and to which CHRIST refers;

* Hof. ii. 23. It may not be impertinent, and it will be very comfortable to observe; That this Passage respects, not a virtuous and obedient, but a wicked and rebellious People. GOD commands even them, who had hitherto walked altogether in sinful Courses, to call Him their Father, in the very Step of their Return.

My LORD, and my GOD *. This, this expresses, what our Divine MASTER calls Believing. When, therefore, We confess with our Lips, and are persuaded in our Hearts, that JESUS is our LORD, who bought Us with his Blood; that JESUS is our GOD, who will exert all his adorable Perfections for our Good; then We truly believe. We believe, in our SAVIOUR's Sense of the Word. We have that Faith, which He allows to be genuine.

Ther. Is this the constant Language of Faith?—According to this Account, there is no Difference between the Infant and the Adult; between the new-born Babe, and the full-grown Man in CHRIST. Your spiritual Children, Assasio, must be Men from their Birth; nay, born in all the Vigour of Manhood. Whereas, the Apostle makes an evident Difference between the Babes, the young Men, and the Fathers; between Faith, the Assurance of Faith, and the full Assurance of Faith. If We are told of a Patriarch, who was strong in Faith; We read of some Roman Converts, who were weak in the Faith; and We hear our LORD speaking to Disciples, who were fearful and of little Faith.

Assp. Between Faith, and the full Assurance of Faith, the Apostle makes a Difference. The one is the most exalted Pitch, where the other is but an inferior Elevation. Yet both are Rounds of the same Ladder. I don't remember, that the sacred Writer any where distinguishes between Faith and Assurance. ΠΙΣΤΙΣ and ΠΕΠΟΙΘΗΣΙΣ, Faith and Confidence are joined in the Epistle to the Ephesians. It is the Opinion of the best Critics, that the Sense of the latter is included in the former. The Critic's Opinion is confirmed by the Apostle's Manner of speaking, We have Access with Confidence through Faith †. Could yonder Sun diffuse Warmth through the Air, if it had no Warmth in itself? Impossible! No more could Faith produce Confidence in the Believer, if, in its own Nature, it did not contain the same.

* John xx. 28, 29.

The Case of little Faith, I think, may be explained from our LORD's own Expostulation; O Thou of little Faith, wherefore didst Thou doubt? Here was a Faith, not only in CHRIST's Power, but also in his Will. Nay; here was an appropriating Faith, by which the Apostle applied both to himself.—“ I very believe, “ that my Divine MASTER is able to preserve me, “ even though I venture to tread upon this tempestuous “ Sea. I am persuaded likewise, that He will uphold “ me, and not suffer his Servant to perish in the hazardous Enterprize.” Nothing less than this could have produced that hazardous Enterprize, or have emboldened Him to walk upon the rolling Billows.

Do You not discern, in this Instance, some Degree of personal Application, some real Assurance of Faith? 'Tis true, this Faith was violently assaulted by Doubts, and greatly infeeble by Fears *, yet still, it was of the applicatory Kind. He can, He will, were expressive of its Nature; though the boisterous Winds, and the terrifying Appearance of Things, almost drowned its Voice, or stifled the Words in their Utterance.

Ther. If You allow no Difference between Faith and Confidence, I am very sure, St. John puts a Difference between Babes, young Men, and Fathers.

* I must beg of the candid Reader, to take particular Notice of this Limitation; and must intreat the impartial Examiner, not to forget this Concession. We no where suppose, that a Freedom from all Fears, and a Superiority to all Doubts, are essential to the Believer, or form his invariable Character. We speak of Faith considered in itself; and only affirm, that an appropriating Persuasion, or an Assurance of Salvation by CHRIST, is its true, genuine, adequate Nature. That which properly answers to the divine Report, and to the divine Grant of a SAVIOUR. That which properly takes hold of, and depends upon, the Faithfulness of GOD, pledged in his Word.—This Assurance, We allow, may be encumbered with Doubts, and may conflict with Fears.—But still it is Assurance—real Assurance—and proves itself to be such, by opposing and struggling with the contrary Principle.

Asp. He does, Theron. And so would I. Neither can I think, of any Thing more proper to explain my Meaning, or establish my Tenet, than your own Comparison.—In some fruitful Family, You may see one Child in Leading-strings; another able to walk by itself; a third come home, improved and cultivated, from the School of Literature. Observe their Speech. One lisps out a few broken Sentences; another talks intelligibly, but very incorrectly; the last has learned to express Himself, with tolerable Propriety. Yet each speaks the same Language, notwithstanding the various Degrees of Fluency in their Utterance, or Purity in their Diction.—So Faith always speaks one and the same uniform Language. Whether She lisps or stammers; whether She whispers in faint Accents, or raises her Voice in a more manly Tone; this is still the unvaried Import of her Speech; GOD, even our own GOD, will give Us his Blessing.—Can You forget, how St. John addresses his little Children? I write unto You, little Children, because your Sins ARE FORGIVEN.*

Ther. Will not this Account discourage some, and offend others, whose Experience comes short of any such Persuasion?

Asp. I would not offend the meanest, nor discourage the weakest of my REDEEMER's Servants—As for Offence; that cannot be given, and ought not to be taken, when all we advance is strictly conformable to the unerring Oracles. Whereas, to qualify and attenuate the scriptural Descriptions of Faith, in Complaisance to our own Experience—to make the unhappy Fluctuations and unworthy Suspicions, which possess the Breasts of some particular Christians—to make them the Rule of explaining, or the Measure of enforcing so capital a Duty; this, sure, would be an Offence to GOD, an Injury to his Word, and detrimental to the Welfare of Souls.

With regard to Discouragement; I cannot conceive, how this should ensue, from informing Sinners, that they have a Right to apply CHRIST, and all CHRIST's Merits to themselves: or from exhorting Sinners to do this, without any Hesitation, and with a resolute Dependence. In this Case, to doubt is to be discouraged. As much as You want Certainty, so much You want Consolation. The proper Way to comfort these distressed People, is not to allow but to dissipate their Doubts; to blow away those dead Ashes, that the smothered Embers may shine and glow.

Were We to inquire after the Cause of that Disquietude and Despondency, which are so common among modern Professors, I am inclined to suspect, We should find it lying hid in their wrong Apprehensions both of CHRIST, and of Faith.—They look upon CHRIST, as a rigorous and forbidding Monarch, who insists upon some hard Terms and high Qualifications. Whereas, his Heart and his Arms are ever open. His Heart as open, as infinite Love can set it; his Arms as open, as infinite Merit can make them.—They look upon Faith, as containing a Possibility only, or at most a Probability of Salvation through his Name. It is with them a Kind of Peradventure. A Situation of Mind, fluctuating and pendulous. “Perhaps, I may succeed, and be eternally blessed. Perhaps, I may be rejected, and eternally ruined.” Such a State of Suspense, in an Affair of everlasting Consequence, cannot but create Uneasiness and Anxiety.

This Uneasiness and Anxiety seem to have been little known in the earlier and better Days of the Church. And why? Because Christians were then exposed to the Rage of Persecution? Because they were placed nearer the Time of CHRIST's personal Abode on Earth? I rather think, because they were taught this particular and comfortable Application of CHRIST and his Righteousness. They exercised a confident Affiance on JESUS, as their own REDEEMER; and were shewn a more direct Way to obtain this blessed Confidence, than merely to search after their own renewed Qualities.

Ther. Surely, Aspasio, in this Particular You differ, not from me only, but from the Generality of the Orthodox.

Asp. I am sorry to find myself under a Necessity of differing from any worthy Persons, much more of disagreeing with the Generality. This I can safely aver, that it is not from an Affectation of Novelty, or any Fondness for Disputing, but from a disinterested Regard to the Truth of the Gospel. I should be glad to have the Concurrence of all the Serious, and all the Pious. But I dare not purchase their Approbation, I dare not attempt a Coalition of Sentiments, by diminishing the boundless Riches of Grace, or restricting the absolute Freeness of Salvation in CHRIST.

You are pleased to remind me of the Orthodox. Pray, my dear Friend, what is the Standard of Orthodoxy?—Is it the Word of Revelation? This speaks once, yea twice; nay some Hundreds of Times in our Favour.—Is it the Doctrine of our Reformers from Popery? With these We jar not, but exactly harmonize.—Is it to be taken from the old Confessions of Faith, and the Catechisms of protestant Churches? To these We appeal, and have the Sanction of their Authority.—Has the modern Way of treating and stating this momentous Subject so much to alledge for its Support?

Let me further ask—Are We better than our Fathers? Is Christianity in a thriving Condition, or practical Religion on the advancing Hand? The Reverse, the melancholy Reverse is undeniably true.—When our Writers enforced, and our Preachers urged, what I am defending, Professors were alive, and animated with the Power of Godliness. Whereas, now We seem to be degenerated into the mere Form. *We have a Name to live, but are languid, listless, and if not dead, yet ready to die.—It behoves Us therefore to consider, whether the Declension, the Decays, the Unfruitfulness so justly lamented in the present Age, may not be owing to the Absence of this appropriating Belief, of this assured Persuasion.

A sweet Assurance of Pardon, a comfortable Persuasion of our Reconciliation with GOD, an established Hope of eternal Glory through JESUS CHRIST; these will be operative in the Soul, as “a Torch in the Sheaf.” These will inkindle Love, and increase Watchfulness; these will beget the true Humility of Mind, and work an unfeigned Abhorrence of Sin; these will enlarge the Heart with Charity, and exalt the Affections above the World. These are the proper, and the only effectual Means of making the Man of GOD perfect; that is, thoroughly furnished to every good Work *.

But the doubting Frame is not fitted to yield any of these Fruits. Nay, I am apprehensive, there are several Graces, which can hardly be exercised, several Duties, which can scarcely be performed, so long as this Spirit of Diffidence prevails.

Ther. Name them, Aspasio.

Asp. I am afraid, lest I should seem to arrogate the Office of a Teacher; which neither becomes my Condition, nor is agreeable to my Temper.

* For the Display and Confirmation of these Points, I do, with great Pleasure, and without any Diffidence, refer to Mr. MARSHALL'S Gospel Mystery of Sanctification. Which I shall not recommend in the Style of a Critic, nor like a Reader of Taste, but with all the Simplicity of the weakest Christian; I mean, from my own Experience. To me it has been made singularly instructive, comfortable, useful. Though I have often read it, I am never weary of reading it. And every fresh Perusal, still gives me fresh Improvement, Consolation, and spiritual Strength. Inasmuch, that was I to be banished into some desolate Island, possessed only of two Books besides my BIBLE, this should be one of the two; perhaps, the first that I would choose.

Should any Person, hitherto a Stranger to the Work, purchase it on this Recommendation, I must desire to suggest one Caution.—That He be not surpris'd, if, in the Beginning, He meets with something new, and quite out of the common Road. Or, if surpris'd, that He would not be offended, but calmly and attentively proceed. He will find the Author's Design opening itself by Degrees. He will discern more and more the Propriety of his Method. And what might, at the first View appear like a Stumbling-block, will prove to be a fair, compendious, ample Avenue—to the Palace of Truth—to the Temple of Holiness—and to the Bowers of Happiness.

Ther.

Ther. I beseech You my dear Friend, let Us wave Ceremony, and have nothing to do with Compliments. My Soul is in jeopardy. My present Comfort, and my everlasting Happiness, are at stake. And shall We suffer any little Punctilios to overbear such weighty Considerations?

Suppose, You are a Teacher; I have great Need, and am very desirous, to become your Scholar. For I freely confess, that, knowing as I may seem in other Instances, I am very ignorant in the great Peculiarities of the Gospel. And a Heathen would reproach me, if I should choose to continue in Ignorance, rather than submit to Information.

Nay; though I have read the Scriptures in a critical View, I have been an utter Stranger to their spiritual Meaning. Here, I am uninstructed as a Babe; here, therefore, I ought to be teachable as a Babe. Yes; in this respect I would become as a little Child, that I may enter into the Knowledge, and possess the Privileges of the Kingdom of Heaven.

Asp. Your Answer, Theron, shall be a Law.—Love to GOD, is the first Commandment; and without all Peradventure, is the principal Grace. But, is it easy, is it possible to love GOD, before We have any Persuasion of his Love to Us? This is what the Apostles did not, could not do. And, if it exceeded their Ability, it will doubtless be above the Reach of our Capacity. The Thing may be attempted, the Practice may be urged. We may see the Necessity of it, and desire to perform it. But We shall never, never be able to exercise it, till We have some comfortable Apprehension of GOD's Reconciliation and good Will to Us. We love HIM—Wherefore? From what Inducement? Because HE first loved Us †; and because this Love hath been made evident to our Consciences, by the Light of Faith.

* HOR.

† 1 John iv. 19.

What think You of Delight in GOD? This also is a christian Grace; of eminent Distinction, and unspeakable Value. But how can two walk together, except they be agreed? We never covet an Intimacy with the Person, who declares Himself our Enemy. Nay, if there be only a Suspicion, that He bears Us a secret ill Will, We shall be jealous of trusting Him, and averse to approach Him. This was the Case of our first Parents, immediately after the Fall. Instead of drawing near to their CREATOR, with Pleasure and Gratitude; they fled from Him, with Anxiety and Terror. And why? Because they were under the alarming Apprehensions of his Displeasure.—Whereas, let Us once believe, what the Apostle affirms; *When We were Enemies, We were reconciled to GOD by the Death of his SON. Let Us cordially credit, what the Prophet repeatedly declares; Therefore will the LORD wait that He may be gracious unto You; and therefore will He be exalted, that He may have Mercy upon You †. Then We shall seek his Face with Alacrity. Our Affections will be on the † Isai. xxx. 18. That admirable Commentator VITRINGA, who generally draws his Bow with a steady Hand, and shoots his Arrow with the exactest Aim, Here seems to have missed the Mark. Waiting to be gracious, according to his Interpretation, implies a Delay in the Exercise of the Attribute, and is the same as to abstain from being gracious. Had this been the Meaning, the Language would probably have been, not לחנננו but מחנננו.

Waiting to be gracious rather signifies, to stand over a People with the continued Tenders of Grace and Mercy, even while they refuse to accept them. This was the Case with GOD and Israel. GOD promised to defend the Israelites; they obstinately refused to confide in his Protection. GOD dissuaded them from trusting in the Succour of Egypt; they presumptuously resolved to rely on that broken Reed. Therefore, says GOD, I will—withdraw my slighted Mercy; deny my despised Assistance;—This would be the Manner of human Procedure. But the LORD's Ways are not as Man's Ways. His Long-suffering triumphs over our Perverseness. Therefore, He says, “I will not deal with them according to their Folly. I will not turn away from them in Displeasure. I will even wait for them, and wait upon them, till they see their Error, and accept my Favour.”

Wing to salute their Almighty BENEFACTOR. We shall joy in GOD through our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Ther. To the Enjoyment of many spiritual Comforts, and the Exercise of several delightful Graces, I acknowledge, an assured Faith is necessary; but—

Asp. Ay, Theron, You may well hesitate. It will be difficult to fill up the Chasm in your Discourse. For my part, I know not any Duty of Holiness, which can be performed aright, without some Degree of this confiding Faith.—We are to *walk worthy of HIM, who hath called Us to his Kingdom and Glory: but if We doubt, whether We in particular are called, how can this influence our Conversation?—We are to be Followers of GOD, as his dear Children †. But if We do not, cannot, will not believe, so as to cry “Abba, “FATHER,” how can such a Consideration sway our Hearts?—Nay; upon what Principles can such a Person address Himself to discharge any Office of the christian Life? We are to abound in the Works of the LORD, from the animating Prospect of a glorious Resurrection ‡. This He cannot do; because He apprehends Himself to have no Lot or Portion in the blessed Hope.—We are to open our Hands in Charity to others, under a View of that heavenly Kingdom, which was prepared for Us before the Foundation of the World ||: We are to cleanse Ourselves from all Filthiness of Flesh and Spirit, on account of those precious Promises, which are freely given to Us in CHRIST JESUS §: but where unbelieving Doubts predominate, these endearing and invigorating Motives are lost. The Man has no Interest in the encouraging Promises, has no Title to the blissful Inheritance; consequently, these Sinews of —Amazing Condescension and Goodness! I was going to say. But divine Condescension and Goodness are, if I may so speak, infinitely more than amazing.

Once again ; A true Christian, instead of dreading, loves the Day of CHRIST's final and glorious Appearing. St. Peter tells Us, He looks for it, with pleasing Expectation, as Sisera's Mother for the triumphant Return of her Son. He hastens to it, in ardent Desire, as the enamour'd Bridegroom to the wish'd-for Hour of his Nuptials. Which, I think, can neither be a rational nor a practicable Thing, unless We have some chearing and established Hope, that when He shall appear, We shall be like Him, and see Him as He is.

Ther. Such a Man may make Prayers and Supplications. Though He cannot rejoice in the Privileges, He may request them at the Throne of Grace.

Asp. Prayer is a great Duty, and as great a Privilege. I wish my dear Theron the Spirit of Grace and Supplication. This will be better, incomparably better and more advantageous, than a Key to hidden Treasures. But how can You pray with humble Boldness, or with lively Hope, unless You believe ? Believe, that CHRIST is your High-Priest ; is your Intercessor with the FATHER ! and, with all the Incense of his infinite Merit, presents your Petitions ? Then, and then only, can You have, what the Apostle calls, Boldness and Access with Confidence *. Take notice of these vigorous Expressions ; and at your Leisure consider, whether they countenance the

* Eph. iii. 12. Προσῆλθε, Access with a chearing and graceful Assurance ; such as those Petitioners enjoy, who are introduced to the royal Presence by some distinguished Favourite.—As when Joseph's Brethren were presented to Pharaoh, by the Prime Minister of Egypt, and Deliverer of the Nation. Gen. xlvii. 2. Παρρησια, A Boldness or unrestrained Liberty of Speech ; such as Children use, when they present their Addresses, and make known their Requests, to an indulgent Father.—As when Achjah, a beloved Daughter, solicited her Suit at the Hand of Caleb, her generous Parent, Judg. i. 15. Εν εὐπροσδοκίᾳ, With a well-grounded and steady Confidence, that We shall obtain both a favourable Acceptance, and a gracious Answer.—As when Esther, made her Petition to a Sovereign, who had stretched out the golden Sceptre, and promised to grant whatever She asked. Esther v. 6. And all this, the suspicious and misgiving Temper.—At present observe, how yonder Lark warbles and mounts in the Firmament; as if she was bidding Adieu to the Earth, and going to mingle with the Skies. An Image this, of believing Prayer! Should a Fowler shoot the soaring Songster through the Wing, how would she fall from her Elevation, and flutter on the Ground! An Emblem that, of distrusting Prayer.

I know not how to leave this Subject, without attending to the Testimony of St. James: than which, nothing can be more awful, and nothing more decisive. It should really alarm the doubting Disposition, as much as any Solicitation to the most horrid Sin. It should alarm the whole religious World, as much as the Beacons, suddenly kindled and all on a Flame, would alarm the Inhabitants of the maritime Coasts. *Let Him pray in Faith, nothing doubting; for He that doubteth is like a Wave of the Sea, driven by the Wind, and tost. Nay; the Apostle adds—and it is an Addition greatly to be regarded. It should abide with Weight on our Consciences. For it comes from a Casuist, who could neither be too indulgent, through an Excess of Compassion; nor too rigorous, through an Extravagance of Zeal—let not that Man, the doubting Suppliant think, that He shall receive any Thing of the LORD.

Never then, my worthy Friend, never more be an Advocate for Doubtings. Pursue them with Fire and through the Faith of CHRIST; through the Worthiness of his Person, and Prevalence of his Intercession. Which have more Weight and Influence in Heaven, than all Arguments, Motives, or Considerations, whatever.

* Jam. i. 6. N. B. Nothing doubting, is the Apostle's Explanation of Faith.—An Explanation, which he learned from the Lips of his divine MASTER. See Matt. xxi. 21.—Μηδεν διακρινόμενος is, in our Translation, nothing wavering. But the very same Expression is rendered, Acts x. 20. Nothing doubting. The Sense is, either Way, alike. Though, I think, Nothing wavering, corresponds too nearly with the Comparison, like a Wave; makes something of a disagreeable Jingle; and flattens the Force, or supercedes the Necessity, of the following Illustration.

Sword. Give them no Quarter. Deal with them as Saul was commanded to treat the Amalekites.

Ther. Do You then assert, that None can be a true Believer, or find Acceptance with GOD, if He be liable to any Doubts ?

Asp. Far be the Thought from my Heart, farther still the Assertion from my Lips.—That there is no Doubting in Faith I aver; and so does common Sense; and so will every thinking Person. To receive CHRIST, and doubt of it, is impossible. To believe, that GOD hath given to Us eternal Life, and at the same Time to doubt of it, is self-contradictory. In short; to doubt of what We believe, is utterly inconsistent.—Yet, though there is no Doubting in true Faith, there may be many Doubts in the true Believer. Because, He does not always exercise his Faith, and never is perfect in his Faith. He knows and enjoys, only in Part.

So far from asserting, what You suggest, that I verily think, there is not a Believer on Earth, whose Faith is wholly free from Intervals of Failure, or from the Assaults of Doubting. Corruption, in-bred Corruption, fixes its cancrus Tooth in this, as well as in every other Gift of Grace. The most advanced Saint, who can steadily say, LORD, I believe; has Reason to add, Help Thou mine Unbelief!—This however I maintain, that all Kinds and every Degree of Doubting, are no less sinful, than they are prejudicial. They are what the Gospel censures, condemns, forbids*. They are what Christians must renounce; oppose; and treat, not as occasional Enemies, but as irreconcilable Adversaries. To these We must offer no Conditions of Peace, but, like Hannibal at the Altar, swear perpetual War.

dated to it. Take Us the Foxes, those little Foxes. They are little in Size, and seem not very formidable. But they are extremely mischievous, and spoil our Vines. They prey upon our Comfort; they eat away the Vigour of our Obedience; and make all our Graces a mere Dwarf, if not a dead Shrub.

SEE, Theron! See yonder black and low-hung Cloud ! It points this Way. It is big with a Shower ! It marches on apace ; and will soon be over our Heads. We must instantly fly to Shelter.

Ther. It is well we have this Summer-house for our Shelter. The thickest Boughs would be insufficient to screen Us. I think, I never saw a more impetuous Burst of Rain, A Shower ! No, 'tis a descending Deluge. The large, ropy, reeking Drops, come down like a Torrent *.—Surprising ! What a dreadful Flash was there !

* Come down like a Torrent.—This is the Import of that strong picturesque Word ורמו Psal. lxxvii. 17. In this Manner, the Clouds poured out Water ; while the Air thundered ; and the Arrows of the ALMIGHTY went abroad. Mr. Addison, if I remember right, admires the Psalmist's Description of a Storm at Sea ; because, it dwells only upon the grand and most striking Circumstances ; without descending, like Virgil's enervated Representation, to such little Particulars, as the Cries of Men, and the Noise of Oars. Clamorque Virum, Stridorque Rudentum.—This Description of a Tempest is, I think, equally admirable on the same Account. The three greatest and most terrible Peculiarities are selected ; and expressed with all the Conciseness, yet, with all the Vigour, which Language can unite.

I have not met with any Commentator, who enters into the Spirit of the next Verse. And in our Liturgy Translation, its Majesty sinks into Meanness, its Propriety degenerates into Tautology. Whereas it is by no Means a vain Repetition ; but heightens and enlarges the formidable Idea, by displaying the Effects of what had been described in the foregoing Lines. The Voice of thy Thunder was in the Heavens ; the Vollies not only resounded, but resounded from Pole to Pole, and filled בבלבל

How sudden and vast the Exploſion ! What a deep, prolonged, tremendous Peal enſues ! It ſeems, as if the Poles of Earth, and the Pillars of Nature cracked.

See, my dear Aſpaſio ! See the direful Havock ; the horrid Effects of this elementary Tumult.—Yonder Oak, which reared its towering Head aloft, and ſpread wide its graceful Branches, is, in the Twinkling of an Eye, turned into a naked Trunk. There it ſtands, ſinged and tore ; ſtripped of its verdant Honours *, and ſurrounded with its own ſhattered Fragments. How fearful is the Artillery of Heaven !

Aſp. And why—why did not the Blow fall on this guilty Head ? Why was not the fiery Bolt, which flew ſo near, commiſſioned to pierce our Hearts ?—If our heavenly FATHER has been ſo tenderly careful of theſe perishing Bodies, will He not be much more gracious to our immortal Souls ? Will He not clothe them with that immaculate Robe, which is the only Security from the Stroke of eternal Vengeance ?—And let me aſk, can this be a Security to Us, unleſs We are veſted with it ! Could this Building, though very ſubſtantial, have ſecured Us from the ruſhing Rains, if We had not betaken Ourſelves to its friendly Covert !

Merits and Death are a sure Protection, from the Curse of the Law, and the Damnation of Hell. No Fury of the Elements so terrible as these; no Bulwark of Stone so impregnable as those.—If this is a proper Emblem of CHRIST, to what shall we liken Faith? To a Persuasion, that the Shelter of the Summer-house is free for our Use? To a high Esteem of its Accommodation, an earnest Desire after its Protection, or an habitual Tendency towards it? Would this defend Us from the Inclemencies of the Weather? Would this keep Us dry, amidst (what You call) the descending Deluge? Would this Esteem, Desire, or Tendency, unless carried into actual Entrance and Possession, be a proper Safeguard, or indeed any manner of Advantage to our Persons?

Ther. No, Aspasio; neither would a Persuasion that the Summer-house is mine.

Asp. True: but a Belief that CHRIST is mine, is like entering the Summer-house. When the Divine SPIRIT reveals the Grant of an all-sufficient SAVIOUR, made and tendered to me a Sinner—when I am enabled to confide in his Death, as the Reconciliation for my Iniquities; and in his Obedience, as the Matter of my Justification—when I live in the Exercise of this realizing, appropriating Faith—then I make that Use of CHRIST, and receive that Benefit from Him; which correspond with the Repose and Security, We now enjoy amidst this hospitable Structure. Then, as the Prophet Isaiab speaks, *I enter into the Chambers, the Chambers of Peace and Salvation, and shut the Doors about me.

Ther. May I then, from this Instant, look upon CHRIST, his glorious Person, his perfect Righteousness, and his precious Death, as my certain Inheritance? May I firmly believe, that in this immensely meritorious REDEEMER, I have Pardon of Sins, the Promises of the Gospel, and all spiritual Blessings, granted unto me without any Condition or any Reserve?

* Isai. xxvi. 20.

Asp. Why should You not believe all this firmly? You have the same Reason to believe with a steady Confidence, as to believe with any Degree of Affiance. It is the free Promise of the Gospel, addressed to Sinners, that warrants the latter; and the very same Promise, under the same Circumstances of unmerited Munificence, authorizes the former.

You have heard my Opinion, hear now what our LORD Himself says; Let Him that is athirst, come; and whosoever will, let Him take the Water of Life freely *. The Water of Life is that, which produces, maintains, and strengthens the Life of GOD in the Soul. An Office, which nothing can perform, but those spiritual Blessings, You have just been mentioning. These let the thirsty, let the Sinner, let whoever will, take; as freely, as He makes use of the most common Refreshments; as freely, as He drinks of the running Stream. This is the royal Proclamation.—

Hear his gracious Invitation. Look unto Me, and be ye saved †; saved from your disquieting Fears, by Justification; saved from your domineering Corruptions, by Sanctification; saved from every Evil, by complete and eternal Redemption. To whom is this most affectionate Call directed? Not to a few distinguished Favourites only, but to all the Ends of the Earth. None are excepted; none are prohibited; and can my Theron imagine, that He is excluded?

Nay farther; Hear our LORD's earnest Entreaty; hear his tender and repeated Importunity; As though GOD did beseech You by Us; We pray You, in CHRIST'S Stead, be Ye reconciled to GOD ‡. Hark! 'Tis the Voice of infinitely condescending Love, speaking by his Ambassador—"Sinners, accept my great Salvation. "Enjoy what I have purchased for You, by my dying "Agonies. Do not suspect my Kindness, or refuse my "Gifts. This will wound me deeper, than the Spear

“ which pierced my Heart.”—O ! the Grace of our exalted KING ! He bows from his celestial Throne. He almost kneels to his guilty Creatures. He begs, He even begs of obnoxious Sinners, not to reject his Mercies.—After all this, can You entertain the least Doubt, Theron, whether You have a Permission to believe firmly ?

Ther. This is extraordinary Goodness indeed ! I have often read these Passages, but never saw them, till this Hour, in a Light so engaging, and so encouraging.

Afp. Should not this three-fold Cord be strong enough to draw my dear Friend ; let me add (what must absolutely supersede all Objections) the plain, express, peremptory Command of the ALMIGHTY : *This is his Command, that We should believe on the Name of his Son JESUS CHRIST. Pray, examine the Language ; Not He allows only ; or barely advifes ; but He commands †. We are not only permitted, but strictly required. It is not only our Privilege, but GOD’s positive Injunction.—Upon the Discovery of such a SAVIOUR, methinks every Heart should cry ; “ O ! “ that I might be allowed to approach Him ! To solicit an Interest in Him ! How gladly would I wait, “ ever so long a Time, in ever so mean a Posture, if I “ might at the last receive Him as my Portion !”—The superabundant Goodness of GOD, prevents our Wishes, and exceeds our Hopes. “ I freely give my † Luther, at a certain Time, was violently harassed and afflicted with Temptations. Infomuch, that his Heart was rent with Anguish ; the Tears streamed from his Eyes ; and his breath was spent in Sighing. Amidst these Pangs of Distress, a Person accosted Him with the following Words ; “ My Son, why dost Thou mourn ? Dost Thou “ not know, that GOD hath commanded Thee to believe ?—When I heard that Word COMMAND, says the zealous Reformer, it prevailed more on my Heart, than all that I heard, or read, or thought on before.

Upon this Text Mr. Ambrose very properly argues : The LORD hath commanded me to believe ; therefore it is my Duty. But because I cannot believe, unless I apply the Promise to myself ; therefore it is my Duty to conclude, that the Promise belongs to me.

“ SON, saith the LORD, and all his Riches to You. “ I beseech You as a compassionate Friend, not to refuse Him. I enjoin You, as an uncontrollable Sovereign, to believe on Him.”—Gracious! most amazingly gracious is this Command! And give me Leave to hint, it is the greatest, the most important Command, that ever issued from the Throne of Glory. If this be neglected, no other can be kept; if this be observed, all others will be easy.

Now, Theron, shall We not receive CHRIST, and look upon his all-sufficient Merits, as our own? Is not our Warrant clear and unexceptionable? Nay, Is not our Obligation strong and indispensable? Shall We still displease the most high GOD, and give Him Occasion to say? *How long will this People provoke me? And how long will it be, ere they believe me, for all the Signs which I have shewed amongst them, and all the Encouragements which I have given to them.

Ther. Is this Command directed to Sinners †? Make this appear, and then I will readily own; That a fuller Proof of your Point cannot be urged; a stronger Inducement to believe, cannot be produced.

Asp. You set me a Task, as easy, as it is pleasing. If I could not demonstrate this Point, I should be at a Loss to discover any glad Tidings in the Gospel. I mention not the Jaylor of Philippi, who was prevented in the very Act of Suicide. I pass by the Woman of Samaria, who lived in a Course of Fornication. I shall exhibit one Proof only, which may serve instead of Multitudes. Our LORD's Commission to his Apostles is, Go Ye into all the World, and preach the Gospel to every Creature ‡.—Should You inquire; What is the Gospel? We cannot have a better Expofitor, than the Angel from Heaven. Behold! I bring good Tidings; or to fpeak more exactly according to the Original, ευαγγελιστομαι, I preach the Gospel. The Tenour of which is; To You is born a SAVIOUR, which is CHRIST the LORD *. A SAVIOUR, to deliver You from Sin, from Hell, from every Evil. This SAVIOUR is the LORD; the great JEHOVAH manifested in your Flesh; GOD Himself, becoming incarnate, on purpose to accomplish the marvelous Work.—Wherefore is this preached? Not to be the Subject of Speculation, but for the Obedience of Faith †. That Men may shew their dutiful Regard to the divine Testimony, by believing it for themselves. The only Obedience, that can be paid to fuch a Report. Therefore it is added, To you is born.—But who are called, thus to believe, thus to obey? All the World; every Creature. And can it be fuppofed, that all the World was holy? That every Creature was righteous? You well know, that, inftead of being all righteous, there was None righteous, no, not one. They were altogether become abominable, and guilty before GOD. Yet was this Obedience of Faith enforced on, and enjoined to them; abominable and guilty as they were.—To this agreeth the Westminster Confession. GOD freely offereth unto SINNERS Life and Salvation by JESUS CHRIST, requiring of them “Faith in Him, that they may be faved.”

Ther. Truly, Aspasio, You put all my miftruffful Apprehenfions to the Stand. Here is a Proclamation from the bleffed GOD—feceded by his Invitation—accompanied by his Entreaty—enforced by his Command—and all addreffed to Sinners. I know not what can be a fuller Proof of your Point, or a ftronger Inducement to believe.

GOD hath not only invited Us, entreated Us, and commanded Us, to live under the sweet Persuasion, that his SON is our SAVIOUR; but He has given Us the grandest Ratification of this precious Truth.—He has passed his Word; He has made Us a firm Promise; nay, He has given Us many and various Promises, of this inestimable Blessing. And GOD is not a Man, that He should lie; or the Son of Man that He should repent. Hath He said, and shall He not do it? Or hath He spoken, and shall He not make it good?* Heaven and Earth may drop into nothing, sooner than one Promise, or indeed one Jot or Tittle of his Promise, should fall to the Ground.

Besides this, He has given Us, if I may so speak, a Note under his own Hand. He has recorded his Promises in the Bible, and written them with an everlasting Pen. So that they will stand conspicuous and indelible, like a Bill drawn upon Heaven, and a Basis laid for Faith, so long as the Sun and Moon endure.

Nay, He has confirmed all, by the most solemn Sanction imaginable; by his Oath; by his own Oath; by the Oath of a GOD. Though his Word is sure, and his Promise immutable, He adds (astonishing Condescension! adorable Benignity!) He adds HIS OATH to all.—He not only speaks, but swears; swears by Himself; swears by his own eternal Existence; that his Promises belong—to whom? Mark this Particular with the most exact Attention. To whom do the Promises belong, which are ratified in this inviolable Manner?—To the Holy, the Upright, the Accomplished?—This is what Reason might imagine; but this is not what Revelation affirms. To those poor Sinners they belong, who, all obnoxious and undone, like Murderers before the Officer of Justice, having nothing to plead, fly for Refuge. Fly to the Asylum, the Sanctuary, the Hope set before them * in the Blood, the Righteousness, the ineffable Merits of CHRIST.

Ther. May I then believe; firmly believe; assuredly believe; that JESUS the Mediator, and all the Promises of the Gospel, all the Benefits of his Mediation, are mine? Pardon me, Aspasio, for reiterating the Question. I am really, with respect to the Obedience of Faith, too much like that Saxon Monarch, who, for his Remissness and Inactivity, was surnamed The Unready †.

Asp. I do more than pardon my Theron. I feel for Him, and I sympathise with Him. Not because He has not sufficient Evidence from the Word of GOD, for the appropriating Persuasion, so necessary to his Happiness; but because I also have experienced that perverse Tendency in my Heart, to mistrust the infallible Work of my GOD, as though He was less to be depended on than fallible Man.

But let Us reflect a Moment—Suppose any Neighbour of Substance and Credit, should bind Himself by a deliberate Promise, to do You some particular Piece of Service—if he should add to his Promise a Note under his own Hand—if He should corroborate both by some authentic Pledge—if He should establish all by a most awful and solemn Oath—Could You suspect the Sincerity of his Engagement, or harbour any Doubt with regard to its Execution? This would be most unreasonable in any One; and to your generous Temper, I am very certain, it would be impossible.—Let Us remember, that GOD has given Us all this Cause for an Assurance of Faith, and more. Nay; I will defy the most timorous and suspicious Temper, to demand from the most treacherous Person on Earth, a greater, stronger,

* Heb. vi. 17, 18. The Promises are confirmed, in this wonderful Manner, not to those only who have fled, but to those also who fly. Intimating, that in the very first Act of flying to CHRIST, guilty Creatures have a Right to look upon all the Promises as their own. Every one made as sure to them, as the Oath of a GOD can make it. The Original is, not οι καταπεφυγοτες, but οι καταφυγητες; and should be translated, not who have fled, but who did fly.

fuller Security, than the GOD of infinite Fidelity has granted to you and me.—After all this, one would think, Diffidence itself could no longer hesitate, nor the most jealous Incredulity demur. Can we withhold that Affiance from the unchangeable CREATOR, which we could not but repose on a variable Creature?

Ther. You rouse and animate me, Aspasio. O! that I may, with the divine Assistance, shake off this Stupor of Unbelief! Certainly, it can never be honourable to GOD, nor pleasing to CHRIST, nor profitable to Ourselves.

Asp. If it be, then cherish it; maintain it; and never relinquish it.—But how can it be honourable to GOD? It depreciates his Goodness; it is a Reproach to his Veracity; nay, the Apostle scruples not to affirm, that it *makes him a Liar. Whereas, by believing his Testimony, we glorify his Faithfulness: glorify his Beneficence: and, as John the Baptist speaks, set to our Seal, that GOD is true †.—I have been informed, that, when the late *Elect*or of Hanover was declared, by the Parliament of Great-Britain, Successor to the vacant Throne? several Persons of Distinction waited upon his Highness, in order to make timely Application for the most valuable Preferments. Several Requests of this Nature were granted, and each was confirmed by a kind of promissory Note. One Gentleman, particularly, solicited for the Mastership of the Rolls. Being indulged in his

It is this; That GOD hath given to Us eternal Life, in and with his SON. Not that He hath given the invaluable Blessing to some Persons, distinguished and peculiarly happy. Not that He hath given it to all the Saints and all the Elect. This even Men of reprobate Minds believe. Yet do they not hereby set to their Seal, That GOD is true. Therefore the proper Belief is, That GOD hath given eternal Life to lost Mankind, and to us in particular. So given it, that We, as well as They, are warranted and welcome to take Possession of it by Faith.

Desire, he was offered the same Confirmation, which had been vouchsafed to other successful Petitioners. Upon which, he seemed to be under a Pang of graceful Confusion and Surprise; begged, that he might not put the royal Donor to such unnecessary Trouble; at the same Time protesting, that he looked upon his Highness's Word, as the very best Ratification of his Suit.—With this Conduct, and this Compliment, the Elector was not a little pleased. “This is the Gentleman, he said, “who does me real Honour; treats me like a King; “and whoever is disappointed, He shall certainly be “gratified.” So, the Patriarch, who staggered not through Unbelief, gave, and in the most signal, the most acceptable Manner, Glory to GOD *. Respecting Him as a Being, of boundless Benignity, and eternal Veracity.

Is it pleasing to CHRIST?—Quite the reverse. It dishonours his Merit; it detracts from the Dignity of his Righteousness; it would enervate the Power of his Intercession. Accordingly you may observe, there is nothing which our LORD so frequently reprov'd in his Followers, as this Spirit of Unbelief.—What says He to his Disciples, when He came down from the Mount of Transfiguration? O faithless and perverse † Generation! They were perverse, because faithless.—What says He to the Travelers, whom He overtook in their Journey to Emmaus? O Fools, and slow of Heart to believe ‡! They were Fools, because slow to believe.—What says He to the Apostles, after his Resurrection? JESUS

In a Word; this distrustful and unbelieving Temper weakens every Principle of Piety, and impoverishes the whole Soul.—Whence come spiritual Inactivity and Remissness? A Forgetfulness of this grand Benefit is, to every Kind of practical Godliness, like a Lethargy to the Powers of the Body ‡, or like a Blast to the Fruits of the Tree ||.

* Mark xvi. 14. The Word is not επετιμωσεν, as in Luke xvii. 3. not ελεγξεν, as in Tit. i. 13. but ωνιδισε. Which signifies, not barely a Rebuke, but a Rebuke accompanied with keen and stinging Reflections; such as may cover the Face with Blushes, and wound the Heart with Anguish.—It is used, by the Evangelist Luke, and by the Apostle Peter, to describe those Calumnies, Invectives, and Reproaches, with which the Persecutors of Christianity endeavoured to gall and afflict the Christians. Luke vi. 22. 1 Pet. iv. 14.—Though our LORD JESUS was most amiably tender and gentle: yet, when Severity was necessary and wholesome, He knew how to be severe. Our all-wise PHYSICIAN could apply the Cautic, as well as administer the Cordial. See a most pregnant Exemplification of this Remark, Matt. xii. 19, 20. compared with Verse 34, &c.

‡ Αεγυς.

|| Ακαρπυς. The Greek, αεγυς, which We translate barren, signifies supine, negligent, slothful. This varies the Idea, and points out the immediate Cause of the Evil, which is expressed in the following Word ακαρπυς. Slothfulness occasions Unfruitfulness, and both are produced by Unbelief.

Let Us then, my dear Friend, cast away this Sin, which so easily besets Us both. It clogs our Feet; it hampers all our Powers; and hinders Us from running with Alacrity and Speed, The Race that is set before Us. What says David? GOD hath spoken in his Holiness *; hath made an exprefs and inviolable Promise, that I shall be Ruler of his People Israel. I will rejoice therefore; away with every alarming Apprehension. Notwithstanding all Opposition, I will exult in Hope. Nay more; I will divide Shechem, and mete out the Valley of Succoth; I will look upon the whole Land as my own. I will divide it, and dispose of it, just as if it was already in my Possession—Why should not you and I also say? GOD hath spoken in his Holiness; hath exprefsly and solemnly declared, The Promise of an all-sufficient SAVIOUR is to You. We will rejoice therefore; confiding in this most faithful Word, We will bid adieu to all disquieting Fears, and make our Boast of this glorious REDEEMER. Yes; notwithstanding all our Unworthiness, CHRIST and his Atonement, CHRIST and his Righteousness, are ours. GOD hath passed his Word; and his Word shall stand for ever. Amidst all the Fluctuations of our Temper, and all the Surges of Temptation, this is our Anchor. Its Hold is firm, and its Ground immoveable †.

Ther. I have heard some People distinguish, between the Faith of Reliance, and the Faith of Assurance; between the reflex and the direct Act of Faith. Methinks, I approve these Sentiments, though I dislike the Terms. The Sentiments are happily adapted, to the Relief of

* Psalm lx. 6.

† This very important Doctrine is more copiously displayed, in a Sermon of Mr. Erskine's on the Assurance of Faith, Vol. III. p. 201. —Were I to read, in order to refine my Taste, or improve my Style; I would prefer Bishop Atterbury's Sermons, Dr. Bates's Works, or Mr. Seed's Discourses. But were I to read, with a single View to the Edification of my Heart, in true Faith, solid Comfort, and evangelical Holiness; I would have recourse to Mr. Erskine, and take his Volumes for my Guide, my Companion, and my own familiar Friend.

Asp. I cannot say, that I am very fond, either of the one, or of the other. In my Opinion, they both partake too much of the Subtilty of the Schools; and are more likely to create Perplexity, than to administer godly Edifying. For which Reason, I should choose to drop the difficult Phrases, and not to dwell on the nice Distinctions. Yet, if We must not dismiss them, without some Notice, I would just remark—

That the Faith of Reliance, in its true scriptural Sense, includes or presupposes a Degree of Assurance.—Includes; for what is Reliance, but a Repose of the Mind, which is attended with Tranquility, and excludes Perturbation? How can this take place, if there be no Sort of Conviction, That the LORD is my Light and my Salvation?—Presupposes; for, who would rely on a Satisfaction made, without being persuaded, that the Satisfaction is for Him and his Iniquities? Reliance, separated from this Persuasion, seems to be neither comfortable, nor reasonable.

As to those, who insist upon what they call the reflex Act of Faith; sure, they mistake the Nature of the Thing. This, if I understand them aright, is their Way of arguing; “I am a new Creature; I love the LORD JESUS in Sincerity; I have the Fruits of the SPIRIT. From whence, it is plain, that CHRIST and his Salvation are mine.” Now, in all this Procedure, I cannot discern the least Foot-step of Faith; no not the least Trace of receiving a Testimony, or relying upon a SAVIOUR. Here is nothing more than a logical Deduction of one Proposition from another; a Conclusion drawn from given Premises. Grant the latter, and any Person, without any Aid from the SPIRIT, will infer the former. It may, therefore, more properly be reckoned an Act of Reasoning, than of Believing; it is founded on what We Ourselves feel, not upon the Record of a faithful GOD; and it is styled, styled, by judicious Writers, the Assurance of Sense rather than of Faith.

When, in Conformity to the afore-mentioned Opinion, We are advised to prove our Title to Comfort, by genuine Marks of Conversion; and taught, on this Column to fix the Capital of Assurance; I would rather propose a Question, than advance Objections.—Is not this somewhat like placing the Dome of a Cathedral, upon the Stalk of a Tulip?

Ther. No, say They; it was the Practice of the Apostle Himself; and He has left it upon Record, as a Pattern for all Posterity to copy. We know that We are passed from Death unto Life, because We love the Brethren.

Asp. Observe, Theron, the Process of the Apostle's Reasoning. It is like the Form of an inverted Cone; where You have the first Point, and from thence proceed to the Base. So the sacred Writer begins with the less, and ascends to the greater Proof. He says, in one of the following Verses; *Hereby perceive We the Love of GOD, because He laid down his Life, not merely for Sinners, but for Us in particular.—Here, You see, is Assurance by the direct Act of Faith. From this Truth believed, from this Blessing received, the Love of the Brethren takes its Rise. Which may very justly be admitted as an Evidence, that our Faith is real, and our Assurance no Delusion. As yonder Leaves may serve

* 1 John iii. 16. The Word GOD is not in the Original. It was omitted by the Apostle, just as the particular Name is omitted by Mary, when She speaks to the Gardener; Sir, if thou hast borne Him hence—And by the Church, when She addresses the sacred Object of her Affection; Let Him kiss me with the Kisses of his Mouth: John xx. 15. Cantic. i. 1.—In all which Places, there is a Language, a very emphatical Language, even in the Silence. It declares, how deeply the Heart was penetrated, how totally the Thoughts were possessed, by the beloved and illustrious Subject. It expresses also the superlative Dignity and Amiability of the Person meant: as though He, and He alone, either was, or deserved to be, known and admired by All. For which Reason, to mention his Name, or display his Excellencies, seemed as needless, as to shew Light to the opened Eye.

to distinguish the particular Species, and ascertain the healthy State, of the Trees on which they grow.

When your Tenants bring in their Rent, this affords no contemptible Evidence, that the Lands, which they respectively occupy, are yours. But this is a Proof which does not occur, either every Day or every Week ; it is occasional only, and of the subordinate Kind.—The grand Demonstration, that which is always at hand, and always forcible, is, your Possession of the Deeds of Conveyance. Thus, the Promise of GOD in his divine Word is our Charter, or the authentic Conveyance of our Right to Pardon and Salvation. Make just the same Difference between this Promise and your own Holiness, as You make between the Writings of your Estate and the Receival of the Revenues, You will then judge aright, because your Judgment will coincide with the Apostle's.

Besides ; this Method of seeking Peace and Assurance, I fear, will perplex the Simple-minded ; and cherish, rather than suppress, the Fluctuations of Doubt. For, let the Marks be what You please, a Love of the Brethren, or a Love of all Righteousness, a Change of Heart or an Alteration of Life ; these good Qualifications are sometimes like the Stars at Noon day, not easily, if at all, discernible ; or else they are like a Glow-worm in the Night, glimmering, rather than shining. Consequently will yield, at the best, but a feeble, at the worst, a very precarious Evidence.—If, in such a Manner, We should acquire some little Assurance, how soon may it be unsettled by the IncurSIONS of daily Temptation, or destroyed by the Insurrection of remaining Sin ! At such a Juncture, how will it keep its Standing ! How retain its Being ! It will fare like a tottering Wall, before the Tempest ; or be as the Rush without Mire, and the Flag without Water *.

Instead therefore of poring on our own Hearts, to discover, by inherent Qualities, our Interest in CHRIST;

* Job viii. 11.

I should rather renew my Application to the free and faithful Promise of the LORD; assert and maintain my Title on this unalterable Ground.—“ Pardon is mine, “ I would say, Grace is mine, CHRIST and all his “ spiritual Blessings are mine. Why? because I am “ conscious of sanctifying Operations in my own Breast? “ Rather because GOD hath spoken in his Holiness; be- “ cause all these precious Privileges are consigned over “ to me in the everlasting Gospel, with a Clearness un- “ questionable as the Truth, with a Certainty inviolable “ as the Oath of GOD.”

Cast your Eye into yonder Meadow. Take notice of that industrious Fisherman; how intent He is upon the Pursuit of his Business! He has just thrown his Net, and taken a considerable Booty. You do not see Him spending his Time in idle Triumphs, on Account of his Success. He does not stand to measure the Dimensions of the Fish, or compute the Value of his Prize. But having without Delay, secured the Captives; He prepares for another Cast, and hopes for another Draught.

So let Us, instead of exulting in any past Acquisitions, seek afresh to the inexhaustible Fulness of GOD our SAVIOUR. If we have been blessed with any Taste of his Goodness, or any Tokens of his Love, let Us not too fondly dote upon the Sweetness of such Experiences. Let Us not make them the Foundation of our Confidence, but only so many Encouragements to persevere and advance in believing. That, having Life and having Peace from our divine HEAD, we may have them more abundantly *. Then will be fulfilled the Saying which is written; The Just, the Righteous in JESUS CHRIST—shall live, shall not only be delivered from Condemnation and Death, but shall thrive in Comfort, and flourish in Godliness—How? By reflecting on their Sanctification, or viewing their own Attainments? No; but by the infinitely more encouraging Views of their Completeness in CHRIST, and by a fresh, a repeated, a never-ceasing Exercise of Faith *, on that HOLY ONE of GOD.

This the Apostle has testified, and this the Prophet confirms. Thou shalt keep Him in perfect Peace, whose Mind is staid in a fixed Dependance on Thee †. And why? Because, such a Person, examining his Conduct, discovers the Evidences of a living Faith? This Answer many serious People would make. But the inspired Writer has made another; which I cannot but prefer, and in which I fully acquiesce. Thou shalt keep Him in perfect Peace, BECAUSE He trusteth steadily, habitually, incessantly, trusteth in Thee. Whatever Variations may happen, within Him or around Him, in the Frame of his Heart, or the Circumstances of his Life, as to this grand Point, He is fixed and invariable. He trusteth, still trusteth in THEE—in Thee, O Thou adorable JEHOVAH; that all thy infinite Perfections are his Shield, and his exceeding great Reward—in Thee, O Thou exalted JESUS; that all thy inconceivable Merits are his justifying Righteousness, and the Strength of his Salvation—in Thee, O Thou eternal SPIRIT; that Thou wilt never leave Him, nor forsake Him; but sanctify Him throughout, and support Him to the End.

This is the Expedient, the effectual and happy Expedient, to feed that Lamp of Godliness, and to quicken that Flame of Zeal; which, having cheared Us in our earthly Pilgrimage, and animated Us in our Christian Warfare, will be brightened into a Crown of immortal Glory in the Heavens.

Here the disappointed Visitants went in; and, after a slight Refreshment, took Coach.—As they were returning Home, Theron observed, not without Concern, the changed and melancholy Aspect of Things, in the Territories of the Husbandman. The Fields of Corn, which a little while ago were gracefully erect, or softly inclining to the Breeze, lay sunk and flatted under the impetuous Rains.—Such, added, Aspasio, such I apprehend will be our Faith, if it is wholly separated from Assurance, or if its Assurance is erected on any Endowments of our own.

Ther. If this is the Case, what can be the Reason why so many People are totally destitute of all religious Assurance? Have no Notion of it, much less aspire after it? Nay; would be much surpris'd, perhaps, highly disgust'd, at the very Mention of such a Doctrine.

Asp. If People never aspire after the Assurance of Faith, or an appropriating Interest in CHRIST, I very much question, whether they are truly awakened, or really in earnest. They are like the Men of Ephraim, whom the Prophet stiles a Cake not turned *; neither Bread, nor yet Dough; neither absolute Reprobates, nor real Saints. Or, as our LORD explains the Proverb, in his Charge against the Church of Laodicea, They are neither hot nor cold †. Not frozen in Insensibility, 'tis true; at the same Time, not fervent in Spirit; but indifferent and lukewarm in the Concerns of Religion.

Among the Reasons, why so few Persons attain this eminent Blessing, We may reckon the following.—They understand not the perfect Freeness of Grace, nor the immensely rich Merits of CHRIST.—They never consider the unspeakable Value of an assured Faith; neither are they aware, that it is for the Enjoyment of Sinners. Yes, of Sinners, even before they have one Mark of Reformation to shew, or the least Evidence of any Goodness in Themselves ‡.—Either they seek it not at all; or else they seek it, where it is not to be found; from some Works of Righteousness in themselves, rather than from the gracious Promise of GOD in his Word. Which is altogether as ill judged, and as sure to issue in Disappointment, as if a Person should go in quest of Ice amidst the torrid Zone, or expect to find spicy Islands under the northern Pole.

But whether People consider it or no, the Value of an assured Faith is indeed unspeakable. When this is wrought in the Heart, Peace will stand firm, and Afflictions drop their Sting. Prayer will return laden with Treasures, and Death will approach stripped of its Terrors. The Soul will be as a watered Garden, and all her Graces bloffom as a Rose.—When this is wrought in the Heart, the Gospel of CHRIST, will appear with new Charms, and operate with new Energy. Its Hymns will no longer be a strange Language to your Ear, nor its Privileges as forbidden Fruit to your Palate. You will then, as You peruse each sacred Page, feel it to be the Power of GOD, and taste that the LORD is gracious *. You will reap a Benefit, and enjoy a Delight, as much superior to those of the doubting Reader; as the Pleasure of eating this delicious Peach, is superior to the mere Description of its agreeable Relish.

Bear with me a Moment longer, Theron. For You can hardly imagine, what an Improvement and Exaltation this will give, to every Truth You contemplate, and every Object You behold.—When You contemplate the Rise of Kingdoms, and the Fall of Empires; when You recollect the great and astonishing Events, recorded in the History of Nations; how highly delightful to say! “All these passed under the Superintendency of that Hand, “which was pierced with the bloody Nail, and fastened “to the curf'd Cross for Me.”—When You behold the Magnificence of Creation, and the Richness of its Furniture; the Grandeur of Nature, and the Variety of her Works; what a heightened Pleasure must they all impart, if, as You view the glorious Scene, your Thoughts make Answer to your Eyes! “All these were “brought into Existence by that adcrable PERSON, O ! that We may receive, by Faith, this most blessed REDEEMER ! O ! that our Faith may grow incessantly, grow exceedingly * ! Till it be rooted, like those full-grown Oaks, under which we lately walked ! and grounded †, like that well-built Edifice, which is still in our View !

Ther. Most heartily I join in this Wish. O ! that every Objection, for the future, may be superseded, as soon as started ; and silenced, or ever it open its Mouth ! I must beg of my Friend to inform me, how I may get the better of that unaccountable Mistrust and Diffidence, which I feel in my Heart ; and which have made me so easily susceptible of unbelieving Impressions.

Asp. You have entirely cured me, Theron, of making Apologies. Would to GOD, I might be as successfully instrumental, in delivering my Friend from his Doubts ! That the Gospel might come to Us both, as it came to the Thessalonian Converts, not in Word only, but in Power, and in the HOLY GHOST, and in much Assurance ‡ !

Prayer is one Expedient. Every good Gift is from above, and cometh down from the FATHER of Lights. CHRIST is not only the Object, but the Author and Finisher of our Faith. LORD, increase our Faith, was the Request of the Disciples, and should be the prevailing Language of our Hearts.

Faith cometh by hearing ||, by meditating on, by praying over, this Word of Life, and Word of Grace. Lay up therefore many select Portions of Scripture, many of the divine Promises in your Memory. Stock that

Make the Trial. Exercise Yourself in this great Secret of true Godliness. I am satisfied, it will be productive of the most beneficial Effects.—Look unto JESUS as dying in your Stead, and purchasing both Grace and Glory for your Enjoyment. D I A L O G U E XIX.

THE next Morning, Theron ordered a cold Collation to be prepared, and his Pleasure-Boat to hold itself in Readiness.—Breakfast being dispatched, and some necessary Orders, relating to the Family, given—Now, says He to Aspasio, let me fulfil my Promise ; or rather let us execute our mutual Engagement; and consign the Remainder of this mild and charming Day, to a rural Excursion.

We will take our Route along one of the finest Roads in the World. A Road, incomparably more curious and durable, than the famous Causeys raised by those puissant Hands, which conquered the Globe. A Road, which has subsisted from the Beginning of Time ; and, though frequented by innumerable Carriages, laden with the heaviest Burdens, has never been gulled, never wanted Repair to this very Hour.—Upon this, they step into the Chariot, and are conveyed to a large navigable River, about three Quarters of a Mile distant from the House.—Here they launch upon a new Element, attended by two or three Servants, expert at handling the Oar, and managing the Nets.

Is this the Road, replied Aspasio, on which my Friend bestows his Panegyric ? It is indeed more curious in its Structure, more durable in its Substance, than the celebrated Roman Causeys. Though I must assure you, the latter have a very distinguished Share of my Esteem. I admire them far beyond Trajan's Pillar, or Caracalla's Baths ; far beyond the idle Pomp of the Pantheon, or the worse than idle Magnificence of the Amphitheatre.
They

They do the truest Honour to the Empire ; because, while they were the Glory of Rome, they were a general Good * ; and not only a Monument of her Grandeur, but a Benefit to Mankind.

More than all these Works, I admire that excellent and divinely gracious Purpose, to which Providence made the Empire itself subservient. It was a Kind of Road or Causeway, for the everlasting Gospel. It afforded the Word of Life a free and expeditious Passage, to the very Ends of the Earth. The evangelical Dove mounted the Wings of the Roman Eagle ; and flew with surprising Rapidity, through all Nations.—Who would have thought, that insatiable Ambition and the most bloody Wars, should be paving a Way for the PRINCE of Humility and Peace ? How remote from all human Apprehension, was such a Design ; and how contrary to the natural Result of Things, was such an Event ! Most remarkably therefore was that Observation of the Psalmist verified : His Ways are in the Sea, and his Paths in the great Waters, and his Foot steps are not known †.

Conversing on such agreeable Subjects, they are carried by the Stream, through no less agreeable Scenes. They pass by Hills, cloathed with hanging Woods ; and Woods, arrayed in varying Green. Here, excluded from a Sight of the out-stretched Plains, they are entertained with a Group of unsubstantial Images, and the Wonders of a mimic Creation.—Another Sun shines, but stript of his blazing Beams, in the watery Concave. While Clouds sail along the downward Skies, and sometimes disclose, sometimes draw a Veil over, the radiant Orb. Trees, with their inverted Tops, either flourish in the fair Serene below ; or else paint, with a pleasing

* These Roads ran through all Italy, and stretched themselves into the Territories of France. They were carried across the Alps, the Pyrenean Mountains, and through the whole Kingdom of Spain. Some of them, towards the South, reached even to Aethiopia ; and some of them, towards the North, extended as far as Scotland. The Remains of several of them continue in England to this Day ; though they were made, it is probable, above 1600 Years ago.

Delusion, the pellucid Flood. Even the Mountains are there, but in a headlong Posture. Notwithstanding their prodigious Bulk, they quiver in this floating Mirror, like the Poplar Leaves which adorn their Sides.

Soon as the Boat advances, and disturbs the placid Surface; the Waves, pushed hastily to the Bank, bear off, in broken Fragments, the liquid Landscape. The spreading Circles seemed to prophesy, as they rolled; and pronounced the Pleasures of this present State—the Pomp of Power, the Charm of Beauty, and the Echo of Fame—pronounced them transient, as their speedy Passage; empty, as their unreal Freight.—Seemed to prophesy? It was more. Imagination heard them utter, as they ran;

Thus pass the shadowy Scenes of Life away!

Emerging from this fluid Alley, formed and overhung by Rocks and Trees, they enter the Level of an extensive Meadow. The Eye, lately immured, (though in pleasurable Confinement) now expands her View, into a Space almost boundless, and amidst Objects little short of innumerable.—Transported for a while, at the wonderful Variety of beauteous Images, poured in sweet Confusion all around, she hardly knows where to fix, or which to pursue. Recovering, at length, from the pleasing Perplexity; she glances, quick and instantaneous, across the intermediate Plain, and marks the distant Mountains. How Cliffs climb over Cliffs, till the huge Ridges gain upon the Sky. How their diminished Summits stand dressed in Blue, or wrapped in Clouds. While all their leafy Structures, and all their fleecy Tenants, are lost in Air.

Soon she quits these ærial Heights, and ranges the russet Heath: here, shagged with Brakes, or tufted with Rushes: there, interspersed with straggling Thickets, or solitary Trees; which seem, like disaffected Partisans, to shun each other's Shade.—A Spire, placed in a remote Valley, peeps over the Hills. Sense, surpris'd at the

the amusive Appearance, is ready to suspect, that the Column rises, like some enchanted Edifice, from the rifted Earth. But Reason looks upon it, as the Earnest of a hidden Vale, and the sure Indication of an adjacent Town. Performing, in this Respect, much the same Office to the Eye, as Faith executes with regard to the Soul, when it is the Evidence of Things not seen *.

Next, they rove in eager and delightful Survey, over many a spacious Tract. Where the fertile Glebe spontaneously thrives; or the cultured Field, more than answers the Husbandman's Hopes. Where Cattle, of every graceful Form, and every valuable Quality, crop the tender Herb, or drink the crystal Rills.—Here, they see in Reality, what those inimitable Lines had often shewed them in Description; Thou crownest the Year with thy Goodness, and thy Paths drop Fatness. They drop upon the Dwellings of the Wilderness, and the little Hills are girded with Joy. The Pastures are cloathed with Flocks; the Vallies also are covered with Corn; they shout, yea, they sing †.

Anon, they contemplate, with increasing Satisfaction, Cities of Opulence and Splendour. Which spread the sacred Dome, and lift the social Roof. Where the Senate-House and Exchange detain the Sight, with their majestic Dimensions; and awaken in the Mind the more venerable Ideas, of Justice administered, and of Commerce abounding. Cities, no longer surrounded with the stern forbidding Majesty, of unpassable Intrenchments, and impregnable Ramparts; but incircled with the delicate, the inviting Appendages of Gardens and

Rustics,

* This Comparison, I think, cannot appear vulgar to those Persons, who have read, and who reverence, The Book of Canticles. There, the Church, ascending continually in devout Affections to her beloved JESUS, and to her heavenly Home, is characterized by this very Similitude. Who is this that cometh out of the Wilderness like Pillars of Smoke? Cant. iii. 6.—Though it must be confessed, that this Similitude, like many of the Illustrations used in Scripture, might have a Sort of local Propriety; peculiar to the People of that Age, Country, and Religion. It might probably refer to those Columns of Smoke, which arose from the Burnt-offering, or fumed from the Altar of Incense. If so, this Circumstance must give a Solemnity and Dignity to the Idea, of which many Readers are not at all aware, and which indeed no modern Reader can fully conceive.

May I take leave to mention another Comparison of this Kind? The Enemies of the LORD shall consume as the Fat of Lambs; yea, even as the Smoke shall they consume away. Psal. xxxvii. 20.—As the Fat of Lambs; is not, to Us, a striking Representation. But to those, who attended the Altar; who saw the unctuous and most combustible Parts of the Victim, blazing in the sacred Fire; is presented a very lively Image. Which became still more apposite and significant, if this Psalms was sung, (as some evidently was, 2 Chron. xxix. 27, 28.) while the Sacrifice continued burning.—None, I believe, in such a Case, could forbear either to observe or to admire the beautiful Gradation: “The Enemies of the LORD shall perish as yonder Fat, “ which is so easily set on fire; and, when once in a Flame, is so “ speedily consumed. Nay, they shall be as the Smoke, which is still “ more transient. Whose light unsubstantial Wreaths, but just make “ their Appearance to the Eye; and, in a Moment, vanish into “ empty Air.”

How pleasing, said Aspasio, is our Situation ! How delightful is the Aspect of all Things ! One would almost imagine, that nothing could exceed it, and that nothing can increase it. Yet there is a Method of increasing even this copious Delight, and of heightening even this exquisite Pleasure.—Let me desire my Friend, answered Theron, to explain his Remark ; and not only to explain, but to exemplify.—If We view, resumed Aspasio, our own prosperous, and compare it with the afflicted Condition of Others, the Method I propose, will be reduced to Practice. Such a dark and mournful Contrast, must throw additional Brightness, even upon the brightest Scene.

With Us, all Circumstances are as easy, as the Wafure of the Boat ; as smooth, as the Flow of the Stream.—But let Us not forget those grievous Calamities, which befall our Brethren, in some remote Tracts of the Earth, or distant Parts of the Ocean. How many Sailors are struggling, vainly struggling, with all the Fury of rending Winds, and dashing Waves ! While their Vessel, flung to and fro by tempestuous Billows, is mounted into the Clouds, or plunged into the Abyss. Possibly, the miserable Crew hear their Knell sounded, in the shattered Mast ; and see Destruction entering, at the bursting Planks. Perhaps, this very Moment, they pour the last, dismal, dying Shriek ; and sink, irrecoverably sink, in the all-overwhelming Surge.—The Traveler, in Africa's barren Wastes, (pale, even amidst those glowing Regions, pale with prodigious Consternation) sees sudden Mountains rise, and roll on every Side. He sees the sultry Defart, ascending the Sky, and sweeping before the Whirlwind. What can He do? Whither fly? How escape the approaching Ruin? Alas! while He attempts to rally his Thoughts; attempts to devise some feeble Expedient; He is overtaken by the choking Storm, and suffocated amidst the sandy Inundation. The driving Heaps are, now, his Executioner; as the drifted Heaps will, soon, be his Tomb.

While We, possess the valuable Privileges, and taste the delicious Sweets of Liberty, how many Partakers of our common Nature, are condemned to perpetual Exile, or chained to the Oar for life! How many are immured in the Gloom of Dungeons, or buried in the Caverns of the Mines; never to behold the all-enlivening Sun again! While Respect waits upon our Persons, and Reputation attends our Characters: are there not some unhappy Creatures, led forth by the Hand of vindictive Justice, to be Spectacles of Horror, and Monuments of Vengeance? Sentenced, for their enormous Crimes, to be broke Limb by Limb on the Wheel, or to be impaled alive on the lingering Stake. To these, the strangling Cord, or the deadly Stab, would be a most welcome Favour. But they must feel a thousand Deaths, in undergoing one. And this, too probably, is but the Beginning of their Sorrows; will only consign them over to infinitely more terrible Torment;

To waste eternal Days in Woe and Pain.*

Some emaciated by pining Sicknefs, are deprived of all their animal Vigour; and transformed into Spectres, even before their Diffolution *. They are ready to adopt the Complaint of the Pfalmist; I am withered like Grass; my Bones are burnt up, as it were a Firebrand; I go hence like the Shadow that departeth. While Health, that staple Blessing; which gives every other Entertainment its Flavour and its Beauty; adds the Glos to all We see, and the Poignancy to all We taste; Health plays at our Hearts; Health dances in our Spirits; and mantles in our Cheeks, as the generous Champagne lately sparkled in our Glafs.

We are blest with a calm Possession of Ourselves; with Tranquility in our Consciences, and an habitual Harmony in our Temper. Whereas many, in the dark and doleful Cells of Lunacy, are gnashing their Teeth or wringing their Hands; rending the Air with Vollics of horrid Execrations, or burdening it with Peals of disconsolate Sighs. And O! what Multitudes, even amidst Courts and Palaces, are held in splendid Vassalage, by their own domineering Passions, or the Vanities of a bewitching World. Far less innocently, far more deplorably disordered †, than the fettered Madman, they are

* A very little Excursion of Thought will easily convince the Reader, that there is no Period of Time, in which some of these Calamities do not befall our Fellow-creatures, in one Part of the World or another.

† Give me any Plague, says an apocryphal Writer, but the Plague of the Heart, Eccles xxv. 13. Upon which judicious and weighty Apophthegm, Masaniissa's Speech in Mr. Thomson's Sophonisba, is a very pertinent and affecting Paraphrase.

*O! save me from the Tumult of the Soul!
From the wild Beast within!—For, circling Sands,
When the swift Whirlwind whelms them o'er the Lands;
The roaring Deeps, that to the Clouds arise, gnawed by the envenomed Tooth of Envy; they are agitated by the wild Sallies of Ambition; or feel the malignant Ulcer of Jealouty, rankling in their Breasts. In Some, Avarice, like a ravening Harpy, gripes. In Some, Revenge, like an implacable Fury, rages. While Others, are goaded by lordly and imperious Lufts, through the lothesome Sewers of impure Delight; and left, at last, in those hated and execrable Dens, where Remorse rears her snaky Crest, and Infamy sharpens her hissing Tongue. — — — — —

Why this long Pause? replied Theron. Your Observations are as useful, as they are just. We should all be acquainted, at least in Speculation acquainted, with Grief; and send our Thoughts, if not our Feet, to visit the Abodes of Sorrow.—That, in this School, We may learn a sympathizing Pity, for our distressed Fellow-creatures; and see, in this Glass, our inexpressible Obligations to the distinguishing Goodness of Providence. Which has crowned our Table with Abundance, and replenished our Cup with Delicacies; permitting neither Penury to stint the Draught, nor Adversity to mingle her Gall.—Go on, I must intreat You, with your Description of comparative Felicity. We have a large Circuit still to make, before We arrive at our intended Port. And I could wish, that your Discourse might keep pace with the Current.

Since You approve the Subject, answered Aspasio, I will pursue it a little farther.—We, the Inhabitants of this favoured Isle, breathe an Air of the most agreeable Temperature, and most wholesome Qualities. But how many Nations languish in a torrid Clime, vaulted as it were with Fire? They welter amidst those Furnaces of the Sun, till their “Visage is burnt, and black as a Coal*.”—What is far more disastrous, Beds of Sulphur and combustibile Materials, lie in subterraneous Ambush, ready to spring the irresistible Mine. Ere long—perhaps, on some Day of universal Festivity *, or in some Night of deep Repose—to be touched by Heaven’s avenging Hand.—Then, with what outrageous Violence will they burst! Rock the Foundations of Nature! Wrench open the ponderous Jaws of Earth! And swallow up astonished Cities, in the dark, tremendous, closing Chasm!

These Earthquakes, it may be, both precede and portend, the Pestilence that walketh in Darknefs, and the Sickness that destroyeth at Noon-day †. They are, at once, a fearful Omen, and a ruinous Blow. The stagnating Atmosphere, rank with malignant Vapours, becomes a Source of deadly Infection: or, replete with poisonous Animalcules, is one vast incumbent Cloud of living Bane. If the active Gales arise, they arise only to stir the Seeds of Disease, and diffuse the fatal Contagion far and near.—Unhappy People! The Plague, that severe Minister of divine Indignation, fixes her Head-quarters in their blasted Provinces; and sends Death abroad, on his pale Horse ‡, to empty their Houses, depopulate their Towns, and crowd their Graves.

Our Island is seldom visited with either of these dreadful Judgments; and has never sustained any very considerable Calamity from the former. However, let Us

* There is a remarkable Passage in Psal. lviii. 9. which seems to denote some such unexpected, but speedy and inevitable Doom. The Sense is darkened, not a little, by the Version admitted into our Liturgy. I believe, the true Translation may be seen in the following Italics, and the true Meaning learnt from the interwoven Paraphrase.—Speedily, or before your Pots can perceive the Warmth of blazing Thorns, shall HE that ruleth over all, sweep away the Wicked: sweep him away by a Stroke of righteous Indignation, as by a fierce and mighty Tempest; so that, even from the Fulness of his Sufficiency, and the Height of his Prosperity, He shall be plunged into utter Destruction.—The Word מ, which is very improperly translated, A Thing that is raw, signifies a State of Prosperity or pleasurable Enjoyment. 1 Sam. xxv. 6.—The whole Verse, in a Gradation of striking Images, gives Us a most awful Display of divine Vengeance. Vengeance quite sudden; utterly irresistible; and overtaking the secure Sinner, amidst all the Careless of, what the World calls, Fortune.

not be presumptuously secure. We have, not long ago, received an awful Warning. The Rod has been shaken, or rather the Sword has been brandished, over our Territories.—Who can forget the general Consternation, which seized our Metropolis, on Occasion of the late Earthquake? And not without Reason. For, of all divine Visitations, this is the most terribly vindictive. The Whirlwind is slow in its Progress; War is gentle in its Assaults; even the raging Pestilence is a mild Rebuke; compared with the Fury of an Earthquake.—The Earthquake neither gives Warning, nor allows Quarter. Suddenly it comes; in a most unexpected Moment; and spreads undistinguished Ruin. Amazing Blow! From which there is no Method of Defence, and no Place of Refuge. Destructive Visitation! Which rends the firmest, overwhelms the stateliest Works; and puts an End, in a few Minutes, to the Labour of Ages.

Should Almighty Vengeance stir up again those fierce subterranean Commotions: should the most high GOD bid strong Convulsions tear the Bowels of Nature, and make the Foundations of the World tremble like a Leaf: What, O ye careless ones *, What will You do? Whither will You fly!—See! the Pavement sinks under your Feet. Your Houses are tottering over your Heads. The Ground, on every Side, cracks and opens like a gaping Grave; or heaves and swells like a rolling Sea. A Noise of Crashing † is heard from without, occasioned by the rending Streets, and falling Structures. your strong Towers? They are shattered to Pieces.—To the stronger Rocks? They are thrown out of their Place.—To the open Fields? They are a frightful Gulph, yawning to devour You.—Where-ever You fly; in the Wilderness of your Distractión, where-ever you seek for Shelter: It shall be, *as if a Man fled from a Lion, and a Bear met Him; or went into the House, and leaned his Hand upon the Wall, and a Serpent bit Him.

I said, “There is no Place of Refuge.” But I retract the Expression. One Place there is; which will prove an inviolable Sanctuary, and a perfect Security. I mean; the great, the gracious, the adorable RE-whole Island. The Mischief it caused, is amazing: Fifty-four Cities and Towns, beside an incredible Number of Villages, were either demolished, or greatly damaged. Catania, one of the most famous and flourishing Cities in the Kingdom, was entirely destroyed. Of 18,914 Inhabitants, 18,000 perished.

Another Earthquake, almost as dreadful, and in the same Year, spread Desolation through the Colony of Jamaica. In two Minutes Time, it shook down, and laid under Water, nine Tenths of the Town of Port-Royal. In less than a Minute, three Quarters of the Houses, and the Ground they stood on, together with the Inhabitants, were quite sunk: and the little Part left behind, was no better than Heaps of Rubbish.—The Shake was so violent, that it threw People down upon their Knees, or their Faces, as they were running about for Shelter. The Ground heaved and swelled, like a rolling Sea; and several Houses, still standing, were shuffled some Yards out of their Places. The Earth would crack and yawn; would open and shut, quick and fast. Of which horrid Openings, two or three hundred might be seen at once. In some whereof, the People went down, and were seen no more. In some they descended, and rose again in other Streets, or in the Middle of the Harbour. Some swiftly closing, seized the miserable Creatures, and pressed them to Death; leaving their Heads, or Half their Bodies above Ground, to be a Spectacle of Terror, and a Prey to Dogs. Out of others would issue whole Rivers of Water, spouted to a great Height in the Air, and threatening a Deluge to that Part, which the Earthquake had spared.—Scarce a Planting-house or Sugar-work was left standing in all the Island. Two thousand Lives were lost, and a thousand Acres of Land sunk. The whole was attended with frightful Noises, with Brimstone Blasts, and offensive Smells. The noisome Vapours belched forth, corrupted the Air, and brought on a general Sickness; which swept away more than three thousand of those, who escaped the Fury of the Earthquake. See CHAMB. Dict. on the Word Earthquake.

DEEMER's Righteousness. Hither let Us betake ourselves. Now, before the Day of Desolation cometh, now let us betake Ourselves to this Strong-hold. Then, shall We have no Reason to fear, though the Earth be moved, and though the Hills be carried into the Midst of the Sea. For thus saith GOD, the omnipotent and faithful GOD, The Sun and the Moon shall be darkened, and the Stars shall withdraw their shining. The LORD also, amidst this deep and dismal Gloom, shall roar out of Sion; and utter his Voice, laden with Horror and prophetic Destruction. The Heavens above, and the Earth beneath, and all created Nature, shall shake. But the true Believer may stand erect and undismayed. Because the LORD, who dwells in the Darkness, and presides over the Storm; the LORD JESUS Himself will be the Hope of his People, to inspire them with a noble Confidence; and the Strength of his Children *, to be their Safeguard in every Danger.

Or, if the true Believer is involved, in the same promiscuous Ruin with the Ungodly; even this shall turn to his Gain. It shall exempt Him from the lingering Pains, and the melancholy Solemnities of a dying Bed. Like Elijah's fiery Chariot, it shall waft his Soul, with Speed and Safety, to the Bosom of his SAVIOUR. While the hideous Cavern, that whelms his Body in the Center, shall be its Chamber of Rest, till the beloved BRIDEGROOM comes, and the Day of Resurrection dawns.

We lift up our Eyes, and behold the radiant Colours, which flush the Forehead of the Morning. We turn, and gaze upon the no less beautiful Tinges, which impurple the Brow of Evening. We throw around our View, and are delighted with numberless Forms of Fertility, which both decorate and enrich our Plains.—Whereas, other Countries are darkened with Clouds, or over-run with Swarms of Locusts. Ah! what avails it, that the laborious Hind sows his Acres; or the skilful Husbandman prunes his Vineyard? That Spring, with her prolific Moisture, swells the Bud; or, with her delicate Pencil, paints the Blossom? Nor Grain, nor Fruit, can hope for Maturity; while these rapacious and baleful Creatures infest the Neighbourhood. They ravage the Gardens, and plunder the Fields. They strip the Trees, and shave the Meadows. Scarce a single Leaf remains on the Boughs, or so much as a single Stalk in the Furrows. A Fire devoureth before them, and behind them a Flame burneth: the Land is as the Garden of Eden before them, and behind them a desolate Wilderness: yea, and nothing can escape them †.

Now, let the dreadful Artillery roar from all its iron Throats, and disgorge the heaviest Glut of mortal Hail. Now, Ye Sons of Slaughter; Men skilful to destroy ‡;

* Fearful and astonishing is the Account, which Travelers have given Us, with Relation to these Animals. Thevenot informs Us; "That they fly in the Air together, all compact, like a vast Cloud; sometimes fifteen or eighteen Miles long, and about ten or twelve Miles broad. So that they quite darken the Sky, and make the brightest Day obscure. Wherever they light, they devour all the Corn in less than two Hours, and frequently make a Famine in the Country."

Their Names, in the sacred Language, are most exactly significant of their own distinguishing Properties. ארבה denotes an exceeding great, a numberless Multitude. ילק signifies to make clean and bare; as when some hungry Animal, has both devoured the Flesh, and licked the Bone.—Adored be the divine Providence! That We learn the Character of these hideous Insects, not from sorrowful Experience, but only from harmless Narrative.

† A Fire devoureth before them, and behind them a Flame burneth, Joel ii. 3. This is one of these bold and expressive Metaphors, in which the Hebrew Language delights, and by which it is eminently distinguished. It signifies a total Devastation of the vegetable Produce. Such as must ensue, if a raging and resifless Fire attended the Progress of these pernicious Animals: burning with such vehement Impetuosity, that none could quench it; spreading such extensive Havock, that nothing could escape it.

The linked Thunderbolts are turned into Stubble; the bursting Bombs are accounted as Straw. These armies of the Air, laugh at all the formidable Preparations of War: *and when they fall on the Sword, they shall not be wounded.—Surprising and awful Destination of the everlasting GOD! At once, to stain the Pride, and chastise the Guilt of Man! These are a despicable and puny Race; clad in no Coat of Mail, but crushed by the slightest Touch. They wear neither Sword, nor Scymeter, nor any offensive Weapon. Yet, in spite of opposing Legions, they carry on their Depredations, and push their Conquests. Terror marches in their Front, and Famine brings up the Rear. They spread universal Devastation, as they advance; and frequently give the Signal, for the Pestilence to follow. Potent Armies lose their Hands, and haughty Tyrants tremble for their Dominions.

Adding, among other amazing Circumstances, When they fall upon the Sword, they shall not be wounded. Which implies, I apprehend, that no Method of Slaughter should prove destructive to their Troops; or, that every Expedient, contrived for their Suppression, should be baffled. With great Significancy, and peculiar Grandeur, the Prophet applies this Expression to the LORD GOD of Hosts, influencing the most powerful Armies, q. d. “They come, without a Moment's Delay, and, from the remotest Regions of the Earth, to execute all his Pleasure. Formidable and innumerable as they are, they come—I say not, upon his repeated Intjunctions, or at his strict Command—but at the first, the very smallest Intimation of his Will.”—Such as the Shepherds used to their Flocks; such as their Bee-men, of old, to their Swarms; or such as We, in these Days, to some of our domestic Animals.—The Hebrew ישק I would not translate, At his Whistle; because this Phrase, in our Language, creates a vulgar Sound, and conveys a low Idea: but such is the Import of the Original. Instead of a calm Acquiescence in our Portion, our very Life hangs in continual Suspense.

Mercies. I might add, never to be forgotten, by any Christian, on any Occasion.—While many Kingdoms of the Earth, are ignorant of the true GOD, and know neither the Principles of Piety, nor the Paths of Felicity; the Day-spring from on high hath visited Us, to give the Knowledge of Salvation, and to guide our Feet into the Way of Peace.—While Millions of rebellious Angels, cast from their native Thrones, are reserved in Chains of Darkness, unto the Judgment of the great Day; We, though rebellious and apostate Sinners of Mankind, are delivered from the Wrath to come. Yes, my dear Theron; let me repeat your own important Words; “What are all the Benefits of external Peace, though displayed in the fairest Light, and invigorated by the strongest Contrasts—What are they all, compared with the Blessings of the Gospel?”—This brings the Olive-branch from Heaven, and proclaims Reconciliation with our offended GOD. This composes the Tumults of the Mind, and the Troubles of Conscience. This disarms the warring Passions, regulates the extravagant Desires. In a Word; this spreads such a Beauty of Holiness, through the whole personal and social Conduct, as is far more amiable, than the most engaging Forms of material Nature.

Here and there, a lonesome Cottage scarcely lifts its humble Head. No pompous Swell of projecting Steps, surround the Door: no appendant Wings of inferior Offices, skirt the Edifice: no stately Hall, slabbed with Marble, and roofed with Sculpture, receives the gazing Stranger. But white-robed Innocence, and sweet-featured Contentment, Neatness* with a Gloss on her Garments, and Health, with a Bloom on her Cheeks, adorn the Habitation. While Virtue lends her Graces, and Religion communicates her Honours, to dignify the Abode: rendering the blameless Hut superior, in real Majesty, to a dissolute Court.

At some Distance, appear the hoary Remains of an antient Monastery. Sunk beneath the Weight of revolving Years, the once venerable Fabric is leveled with the Dust. The lofty and ornamented Temple, lies rudely over-grown with Moss, or still more ignobly covered with Weeds. The Walls, where fainted Imagery stood, or idolized Painting shone, are clasped with twining Ivy, or shagged with horrid Thorn.—Through Isles, that once echoed to the Chanter's Voice, mingled with the Organ's majestic Sound, the hollow Winds roar, and the dashing Storm drives. Where are, now, the silent Cells, the vocal Choirs, the dusky Groves? In which the romantic Saints prolonged their lonely Vigils, by the midnight Taper; or poured their united Prayers, before

* Neatness—To exemplify and recommend this Ornament of social Life, is, perhaps, the Design of a Passage, which I have never seen satisfactorily explained. When our LORD gave a Treat to five thousand Men, who attended his Preaching; when He commanded them to sit down upon the Ground, in order to receive his Bounty in the most commodious Manner; it is added by the sacred Historian, There was much Grass in the Place *. Why is this Circumstance particularly remarked? To denote the Decorum of the Transaction; and to be, as I imagine, both an Example and a Recommendation of Neatness. The Seats, though very plain and simple, were far from being sordid or slovenly. It was not a dirty Place, or a dusty Spot, but covered with the Carpets of Nature. Which rendered it as cleanly, if not so sumptuous as the Sofas of Turkey; or “the Beds of Gold and Silver,” used at the Feast of King Abasuerus †.

the Lark had waked the Morn; or strolled, in ever-musing Melancholy, along the Moor-light Glade.— Surely, those mouldering Fragments now teach, (and with a much better Grace, with a much stronger Emphasis) what formerly their unsocial and gloomy Residentiaries professed. They teach the Vanity of the World, and the transitory Duration of all that is reckoned stable, in this Region of Shadows.

Behold, on yonder Eminence, the rueful Memorials of a magnificent Castle. All dismantled, and quite demolished, it gives a Shading of Solemnity to the more lively Parts of Nature's Picture; and attempers the rural Delight, with some Touches of alarming Dread.—War, destructive War, has snatched the Scythe from the Hand of Time, and hurried on the Steps of Destiny. Those broken Columns and shattered Walls; those prostrate Towers, and Battlements dashed to the Ground; carry evident Marks of an immediate Down-fal. They were built for Ages, and for Ages might have stood, a Defence and Accommodation to Generations yet unborn; if haply they had escaped the dire Assaults of hostile Rage.—But, what Vigilance of Man, can prevent the Miner's dark Approach? Or what Solidity of Bulwark, can withstand the bellowing Engine's impetuous Shock?

Those, perhaps, were the Rooms, in which licentious Mirth crowned with Roses the sparkling Bowl, and tuned to the silver-sounding Lute the Syren's enchanting Song. Those, the Scenes of voluptuous Indulgence, where Luxury poured her Delicacies: where Beauty, insidious Beauty, practised her Wiles; and spread, with bewitching Art, her wanton Snares.—Now instead of the riotous Banquet, and Intrigues of lawless Love, the Owl utters her hated Screams by Night, and the Raven flaps her ominous Wing by Day.—Where are the Violet-couches, and the Woodbine-bowers; which fanned, with their breathing Sweets, the polluted Flame? The Soil seems to suffer for the Abuses of the Owner.

Blasted and dishonoured, it produces nothing but ragged Briars, and noisome Nettles; under whose odious Cover, the hissing Snake glides, or the croaking Toad crawls.—Fearful Intimation of that ignominious and doleful Catastrophe, which awaits the Sons of Riot! When their momentary Gratifications will drop, like the faded Leaf; and leave nothing behind, but Pangs of Remorse, keener far than the pointed Thorn, and more envenomed than the Viper's Tooth.

Perhaps, they were the beauteous and honoured Abodes, where Grandeur and Politeness walked their daily Round, attended with a Train of guiltless Delights. Where amiable and refined Friendship was wont to sit and smile; looking Love, and talking the very Soul. Where Hospitality, with Oeconomy always at her Side, stood beckoning to the distressed, but *industrious Poor; and showered

* I say distressed, but industrious Poor.—Because, I would not be understood, as encouraging, in any Degree, the Relief of our common Beggars.—Towards the former, I would cultivate a tender and ever-yearning Compassion; I would anticipate their Complaints; and, as a sacred Writer directs, would even SEEK to do them Good—But as to the latter, I frankly own, that I look upon it as my Duty, to discourage such Cumberers of the Ground. They are, generally speaking, lusty Drones; and their habitual Begging, is no better than a species Robbing of the public Hive. For such sturdy Supplicants, who are able to undergo the Fatigue of Travelling; able to endure the Inclemencies of the Weather; and consequently much more able, were they equally willing, to exercise themselves in some Species of laudable Industry—For these, the House of Correction would be a far more salutary Provision, than any Supply from our Table; and Consumment to Labour, a much more beneficial Charity, than the Liberality of the Purse.

We should remember, and they should be taught, that the Law ordained by the Court of Heaven, is, If a Man will not work, neither shall He eat. If then We contribute to support them in Idleness, do We not counteract and frustrate this wise Regulation, established by the great SOVEREIGN of the Universe?—Is it not also a Wrong to the deserving Poor, if We suffer these Wens on the Body politic to draw off the Nourishment, which ought to circulate amongst the valuable and useful Members?—Money or Victuals bestowed on these worthless Wretches, is not real Beneficence, but the Earnest-penny of Sloth. It hires them, to be good for nothing; and pays them, for being public Nuisances.

showered Blessings from her liberal Hand.—But War, detested War, has stretched over the social and inviting Seat, the Line of Confusion, and the Stones of Emptiness *. Now, alas! nothing but Desolation and Horror haunt the savage Retreat. The ample Arches of the Bridge, which so often transmitted the wondering Passenger along their pensile Way, lie buried in the dreary Moat.—Those Relics of the massy Portals, naked and abandoned, seem to bemoan their melancholy Condition. No splendid Chariots, with their gay Retinue, frequent solitary Avenues. No needy Steps, with chearful Expectations, besiege the once bountiful Gate. But all is a miserable, forlorn, hideous Pile of Rubbish.

Since Riches so often take to themselves Wings, and fly away: since Houses, great and fair, reel upon their

For CHRIST's Sake, therefore, assist me to dishonour my Christian Name, and to live more base than the Beasts that perish. For CHRIST's Sake, help me to be the Reproach and the Burthen of my native Country; and to persist in the Way, which leads to eternal Destruction.”—This is the true Import of their Petitions. I trust, the Reader will be so candid, as to excuse this long digressive Note; and do me the Justice to believe, That I am not pleading against, but for the real Poor: not to harden any One's Heart, but rather to direct every One's Hand.—Give out of Gratitude to CHRIST, out of Compassion to the Needy, and be for ever blessed. But give not to incorrigible Vagrants; to maintain Impiety, and pamper Indolence; lest it be demanded, one Day, Who hath required this at your Hand? Lest, by supporting dissolute Creatures in that abandoned Sloth, which is the Nurse of all Vice, We become Partakers of their Guilt, and accessory to their Ruin.

‖ The Effects of what Virgil calls Bella, horrida Bella, were never displayed in Colours that glow, and with Figures that alarm, like those which are used by the Prophet Jeremiah, Chap. iv. 19, &c. As this is, perhaps, the greatest Master-piece of the Kind, the Reader will permit me to enrich the Notes, with a Transcript of the Passage.

First We see, or rather We feel, the Effects of War on the human Mind; the keenest Anguish, the deepest Dismay, and the wildest Amazement. All expressed in a Language, exactly suiting the Subject—vehement—abrupt—disorderly. My Bowels! My Bowels! I am pained at my very Heart. My very Heart maketh a Noise in me; I cannot hold my Peace: because Thou hast heard, O my Soul, the Sound of the Trumpet, the Alarm of War.—Destruction upon Destruction is cried; for the Land is spoiled. Suddenly are my Tents spoiled, and my Curtains in a Moment.—How long shall I see the Standard, and hear the Sound of the Trumpet?

Then We see the dismal Devastations of War; and who does not shudder at the Sight? The whole Country laid in Ruins! Deprived of all its Ornaments, and all its Inhabitants! nothing but Confusion and Emptiness. Reduced to a Solitude and a Chaos. I beheld the Earth, and lo! and lo it was without Form and void: and the Heavens, and they had no light.—I beheld the Mountains, and lo! they trembled, and all the Hills moved lightly.—I beheld, and lo! there was no Man, and all the Birds of the Heavens were fled.—I beheld, and lo! the fruitful Place was a Wilderness, and all the Cities thereof were broken down, at the Presence of the LORD, and by his fierce Anger.

less Thanks, are due to that all-superintending, ever-gracious LORD, who has dashed the Torch from her Hand; has broke her murderous Weapons; and driven the baleful Pest from our Island!—May the same almighty Goodness banish the Monster from all Lands! Banish the accursed Monster, with her hated Associate Rapine, and her insatiable Purveyor Ambition, to the deepest, deepest Hell. Branded with everlasting Infamy, and bound in adamantine Chains, there let them gnash their Teeth, and bite the inevitable Curb!—While Peace, descending from her native Heaven, bids her Olives spring amidst the joyful Nations: and Plenty, in League with Commerce, scatters Blessings from Clime to Clime. While Gladness smiles in every Eye; and Love, extensive disinterested Love, leveling the Partition-wall of Bigotry, cements every Heart in the best of Bonds.

Near those Heaps of Havock, lies the Spot, ever-memorable and still revered, on which an obstinate and fatal Battle was fought.—The Husbandman, as He breaks his fallow Land, or rends the grassy Turf, often discovers the horrid Implements, and the more horrid Effects, of that bloody Conflict. He starts to hear his Coulter strike upon the Bosses of a rusty Buckler, or gride over the Edge of a blunted Sword. He turns pale, to see human Bones thrown up before his Plough; and stands aghast to think, that, in cutting his Furrow, He opens a Grave.—The grey-headed Sire often relates to his Grandsons, hanging with eager Attention on the Tale, and trembling for the Event; relates the dismal, the glorious Deeds of that important Day.—How the

 in a Strain somewhat superior to his Character. As

* For this very striking, and most terrific Image, We are obliged

 Pomp of Horror, describes the Din of approaching War, and the Con-

Not to mention the Thunder-like Sound of the Diction; and that in a Language much less sonorous than the Original; I appeal to every Reader, whether the last Circumstance does not awaken the Idea of so tremendous a Scene, and so horrible a Dread, as no Words can express.
Virgil has imitated the Prophet's Manner, in that very delicate descriptive Touch; where, representing the prodigious Alarm, excited by the Yell of the infernal Fury, He says;

Et trepidæ Matres pressere ad Pectora Natos.

'That is, Each frightened Mother clasped the Infant to her fluttering Bosom.

No One, I believe, need be informed, that the Pannic is painted, with a very superior Energy, by the Poet of Heaven. In the Pagan's Draught, the Effect of Fear results from the Constitution, and coincides with the Bias of Humanity. Whereas, in the Prophet's Picture, it counter-acts, it suspends, it entirely over-bears, the tenderest Workings and strongest Propensities of Nature; though instigated, on one hand, by the most importunate Calls of exquisite Distress; and stimulated, on the other, by all the Solicitations of the most yearning Compassion.

though the Triumph of his Heart, had exalted his Sentiments, and ennobled his Language. Nevertheless, for calmer Scenes, and softer Delights, We willingly leave him.

The Eye is pleased with the elegant Gaiety of the Parterre; the Ear is soothed with the warbling Melody of the Grove; but grand Objects, and the Magnificence of Things, charm and transport the whole Man. The Mind, on such Occasions, seems to expand with the Prospect, and secretly exults in the Consciousness of her Greatness.—Intent upon these large and excursive Views, our Friends scarce advert to the minuter Beauties, which address them on every Side. The Swan, with her snowy Plumes, and loftily bending Head; amidst all her superb Air, and lordly State; rows unnoticed by.—Equally unnoticed is both the Array and the Action of the Duck; her glossy Neck, and finely chequered Wings; her diving into the Deep, or her darting up into Day.—The Swallow, skimming the Air in wanton Circles, or dipping her downy Breast in the Flood, courts their Observation in vain.—Nor could the finny Shoals attract their Regard, though they played before the Boat in sportive Chace; or, glancing quick to the Surface, shewed their pearly Coats, bedropped with Gold.—Thus they, engaged in sublime Speculations, neglected inferior Entertainments. And if the Sons of Religion over-look the diminutive, transient, delusory Forms of Pleasure, which float on the narrow Stream of Time, or flit along the scanty Bounds of Sense; it is only to contemplate and enjoy a Happiness in their GOD, which is elevated, substantial, and immortal. Compared with which, whatever the Eye can survey, from Pole to Pole, from the rising to the setting Sun, is a Cockle-shell, a Butterfly, a Bubble.

From this open and enlarged Scene, they enter the Skirts of a vast, umbrageous, venerable Forest.—On either Side, the sturdy and gigantic Sons of Earth, rear their aged Trunks, and spread their branching Arms. Trees, of every hardy make, and every majestic Form, in agreeable Disorder, and with a wild kind of Grandeur, fill the aerial Regions. The huge, expansive, roaming Boughs unite themselves over the Current, and diffuse “ their Umbrage, broad and brown as Evening.”

*What solemn Twilight ! What stupendous Shades Enwrap these lonesome Floods ? Thro' every Nerve
A sacred Horror thrills, a pleasing Fear Glides o'er the Mind.*

The timorous Deer start at the Clashing of the Waves. Alarmed with the unusual Sound, they look up, and gaze for a Moment : then fly into Covert, by various Ways, and with precipitate Speed ; vanishing rather than departing from the Glade.

How awful to reflect, as they steal along the shelving Shores, and the moss-grown Banks ; as they glide under the pendent Shades of quivering Poplar, of whistling Fir, and the solemn-sounding Foliage of the Oak—how awful to reflect ; “ These were the lonely Haunts of the “ Druids, two thousand Years ago ! Amidst these dusky “ Mazes, and sympathetic Glooms, the pensive Sages “ strayed. Sometimes wrapt in a sudden Reverie of Thought, sometimes engaged in Conversation on the solemn Appearance of Things, the Voyagers scarce perceive their Progress. Before they are aware, this venerable Scene is lost; and they find themselves advanced upon the Borders of a beautiful Lawn. The Forest, retiring to the Right-hand, in the Shape of a Crescent, composed what Milton styles, “A verdurous Wall of stateliest

Here, said Theron, if You please, We will alight; and leave the Bearer of our floating Sedan, to pursue his ceaseless Course—to enrich the Bosom of other Vallies, and lave the Feet of other Hills—to visit Cities, and make the Tour of Counties—to reflect the Image of many a splendid Structure, which adorn his Banks; and, what is far more amiable, to distribute, all along his winding Journey, innumerable Conveniencies for Man and Beast: acquiring, the farther He goes, and the more Benefits He confers, a greater Depth, and a wider Swell; to the remarkable Confirmation of that beneficent Maxim, There is that scattereth, yet increaseth *;

Theron and Aspasio walking across the spacious Amphitheatre, seated themselves at the Extremity of the Bend. Before them, lay a verdant Area, quite even; perfectly handsome; but far from gay. Green was all the Dress, without any Mixture of gaudy Flowers, or glittering Colours. Only, now and then, a gentle Breeze, skimming over the undulating Mead, impressed a varying wavy Gloss on its Surface. The whole seemed to resemble the decent and sober Ornaments of maturer Age, when it has put off the Trappings, and bid adieu to the Levities of Youth.—The broad, transparent Stream, ran parallel with the Lips* of the Channel; and drew, as it were, a line of Circumvallation, to guard the calm Retreat. The Water appeared, where shaded with Boughs, like a Barrier of polished Steel; where open to the Sun, like a Mirror of flowing Crystal.—The eastern Edges of the River, were barricaded with a kind of mountainous Declivity. On whose rude and rocky Sides, a few stunted Shrubs and ill-formed Trees hung. Among which the timorous Rabbit burrowed, and the bearded Goat browsed.—Not far from the Summit, two or three Fountains gushed: which, uniting their Currents, as they trickled down the Steep, formed a natural Cascade. Here, it was lost in the rushy Dells, or obscured by the twisting Roots; there, it burst again into View, and playing full in the Eye of Day, looked like a Sheet of spouting Silver.

In this romantic Retirement, said Theron, We are quite sequestered from Society. We seem to be in a World of our own; and should almost be tempted to forget, that We are encompassed with a kindred Species; did not the Music of those silver-tongued Bells, poured from a distant Steeple, and gliding along the gentle Stream, bring Us News of human Kind.

Escaped from Man, and his busy Walks, methinks, We are come to the House of Tranquility. Such a deep, undisturbed Composure reigns all around!—It is as if some august Personage was making his Entrance, or some majestic Being was upon the Point to speak, and all Nature stood fixed in attentive Expectation. No Place better fitted to cherish, or to inspire, a contemplative Sedateness..

* The Greek, which is above all Languages happy, in its beautiful Variety of compound Words, very neatly expresses this Appearance by Unwrought, hoary Grottoes, ancient as the Deluge ! Yawning, gloomy Caverns, where Fancy shudders, as she enters !—Around Us, are “ the “ Trees of the LORD.” Trees, which the Hand of the most HIGH hath planted, and which seem to be co-eval with the World. Who can forbear admiring their Simplicity and Grandeur ; the noble Plainness of their Verdure, and the prodigious Stateliness of their Growth ; their stupendous Bulk, and venerable Shades.

What a Speck are our Gardens, and what a mere Dwarf are our Groves, compared with these unconfined, vast Plantations ?—Here is none of your nice Exactness, but all is irregularly and wildly great. Here are no Traces of the Shears, nor any Footsteps of the Spade, but the Handy-work of the DEITY is apparent in all.—Give me the Scenes, which disdain the puny Assistance of Art, and are infinitely superior to the low Toils of Man. Give me the Scenes, which scorn to bribe our Attention, with a little borrowed Spruceness of Shape ; but, by their own native Dignity, command our Regard. I love the Prospects, which, the Moment they are beheld, strike the Soul with Veneration, or transport it with Wonder, which cry aloud, in the Ear of Reason, Ascribe Ye Greatness unto our G O D *.—Such, I think, in a very eminent Degree, is the Forest ;

————— *High waving o'er the Hills,
Or to the vast Horizon wide diffus'd,
A boundless deep Immensity of Shade.*

Asp. Solomon's refined Genius seems to have been fond of the same Situation, and delighted with the same Objects. Therefore, at a great Expence, and in the most curious Taste, He built The House of the Forest.—Isaiab's divine Imagination was charmed with the same grand Spectacle. More frequently, than any of the Prophets, He derives his Illustrations from it. One Comparison I particularly remember. Speaking of the Affyrian King, and his military Forces, He likens them to such an Assemblage of Trees: numerous, as their amazing Multitudes; strong as their massy Trunks. Yet, numerous and potent as they were, they should all be brought low, and laid in the Dust. For behold the LORD, the LORD of Hosts shall lop the Bough with Terror, and the High Ones of Stature shall be hewn down, and the Haughty shall be humbled; and he shall cut down the Thickets of his Forest with Iron, and Lebanon shall fall by a mighty One *.

Then He passes, by a most beautiful Transition, to his darling Topic, the Redemption of Sinners. He gives Us, together with one of the finest Contrasts † imaginable, a View of the MESSIAH and his great Salvation. When all those lofty Cedars are leveled with

* Isai. x. 33, 34. In this Prediction, concerning the Destruction of Sennacherib's Army, the Prophet is remarkably exact, and no less beautiful.—The High Ones of Stature; the Nobles and principal Officers. Who amidst all their grand Equipage and majestic Deportment, resemble the most stately Trees.—The haughty Chiefs, proud of their past Victories; presuming on future Conquests; and elated, in their own Imagination, like Cedars, towering to the Skies—These shall be hewn down from their Elevation and Dignity. They shall be humbled; deeply abased; and reduced to Dust and Worms.—And HE shall cut down the Thickets, the common Soldiers; not unlike the Shrubs and Underwood of a Forest. A promiscuous Multitude of People, who have no other Distinction, than that of being arranged into Troops.—And Lebanon; this gives Us a View of the Leaders and Soldiers united; under Arms; and formed in Battle Array. In this View, they appear formidable, and may seem invincible. Yet shall they fall by a Mighty One. The LORD, by a mighty Angel excelling in Strength, shall fell them to the Ground; shall destroy them easily and utterly—easily as the Woodman, with his sharpened Ax, lops a single Bough—utterly, as all the Twigs, when once the Trunk is severed from the Root, wither, decay, and die.

† This fine Contrast, and that artful Transition, are by the injudicious Division of the two Chapters, very much obscured, if not quite lost, to many Readers. The Chapters, I think, should by no means be separated; but, the tenth and the eleventh, as a Continuation of the same Prophecy, should be united.

the Ground, there shall come a Rod, a single, slender Twig shall spring from the Stem of Jesse *. Which, notwithstanding its mean Original, and unpromising Appearance, shall rear its Head to the Skies, and extend its Shade to the Ends of the Earth.

Ther. You do well, Aspasio, to recal my roving Thoughts. This magnificent Solitude had captivated my Imagination, and I was giving a Loose to the usual Sallies of my Fancy. But, with a willing Compliance, I turn to a more excellent Subject.—Only, I must assure you, that your Remark awakens a painful Idea in my Mind, though a joyful one in your own. For, my Hopes, which were once high and lifted up, are now too much like that devoted prostrate Forest.

Asp. My dear Theron, give me leave to say, they were never rightly founded, never built on the Foundation of the Gospel, which, instead of directing Us what to do, in order to obtain Acceptance with GOD, sets before Us all that is requisite for this great End, as already done and completed by JESUS CHRIST. Your Hopes were a mere System of Self-Dependence; and what you thought ————— A Real Good,

Nought else but Vanity misunderstood.

They were, what Shakespeare calls, the baseless Fabric of a Vision. Now the shadowy and transient are vanished, that solid Hopes and everlasting Joys may succeed. Let them rest on CHRIST, the infinitely glorious REDEEMER, and they shall never be overthrown, never be demolished any more.

Cast a Look upon yonder Ivy. What can be more feeble? It has not Strength enough to withstand the slightest Blast. Nay, if left to itself, its own Weight would crush it to the Earth. Yet, by twining around the Oak, how high it rises, and how firm it stands! An Emblem of our State, and a Pattern for our Imitation.—So let Us, who in ourselves are nothing, of ourselves, can do nothing, let us fly to CHRIST; rely on CHRIST; and, as Barnabas (that true Son of Consolation) speaks, cleave to the LORD JESUS CHRIST with full Purpose of Heart *. Let us determine to know nothing, to desire nothing, to depend on nothing, but JESUS CHRIST, and Him crucified. Let this be the Motto for our Faith, this the Language of our Souls; CHRIST is All. Then shall our Virtues, though hitherto smitten with a Blast, revive as the Corn. Then shall our Hopes, though in themselves weaker than the Ivy, mount like the Cedars.

Ther. You can hardly imagine, how a Sense of Guilt and Unworthiness oppresses my Mind. I am often discouraged, and cannot bring myself to be stedfast in Faith, or joyful through Hope.

Asp. You cannot bring yourself, but GOD Almighty's Power, by the Grace of the Gospel, can bring to pass these desirable Effects. And hear what the Prophet says farther, upon the charming Topic which introduced our Discourse. Whenever the eloquent Isaiab undertakes to display a Truth, He gives it all the Energy, all the Beauty, and every heightening Touch, which it is capable of receiving.—This humble Shoot, springing from the Stem of Jesse, shall rise to such a Pitch of Elevation; that, it shall be conspicuous far and near, and stand for an Ensign of the People. It shall be seen, not like a Beacon on the Top of a Hill, by the Israelites only, or the Natives of a single Territory; but like the great Luminaries of Heaven, shall be visible in every Country, and by the whole inhabited World.—To it shall the Gentiles seek; not only from the remotest, but from the most barbarous and idolatrous Climes. These, even these Persons, though savage in their Nature, and detestable in their Manners, shall be freely admitted: Shall find Rest and Refreshment under his Shadow.

* Acts xi. 23.

Nay, the Refreshment which He yields, and the Comfort which they receive, shall be not seasonable only, but of sovereign Efficacy; his Rest shall be glorious *, shall be attended with perfect Security; shall be productive of every Good; and issue in everlasting Joy.

From this we learn, that all the Blessings of CHRIST's Mediation are designed for Gentiles; for the most abandoned and most abominable Sinners.—That they are so full and consummate, as to create a Calm of Tranquility, a glorious Rest, even in the most troubled, afflicted, guilty Consciences.—And I dare challenge my Theron's misgiving Mind, to specify any Want which is not supplied, any Grievance which is not redressed, by the Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST. I formerly encountered your Objections, let me now combat your Scruples.

Ther. Sometimes, I have a deep and distressing Conviction of my extreme Sinfulness.—'Tis like a sore Burden, too heavy for me to bear.—'Tis like the vilest Filth, and renders me odious to myself; how much more lothesome to the all-seeing Eye?—It appears like a Debt of ten thousand Talents, and I have nothing, no, not any Thing to pay.—Then I experience, what the Psalmist so pathetically laments; My Sins have taken such Hold upon me, that I am not able to look up: yea, they are more in Number than the Hairs of my Head, and my Heart is ready to fail; my Hopes are upon the Point to expire.

Asp. Then, Theron, fly to that just and righteous ONE, who is the Strength of our Hearts; the Life of our Hopes; and our Portion for ever.

If Sin is a fore Burden; look unto CHRIST, who bore it all, in his own Body on the Tree; and removed, entirely removed that tremendous Load, which would otherwise have sunk the whole World into the nethermost Hell.—If Sin renders us filthy; let Us have recourse to that Blood of Sprinkling, which cleanses, not from a few Stains only, but from all Guilt. By which the most defiled Transgressors, become fair as the fairest Wool; nay, whiter than the Virgin Snows *.—If Sin is a Debt †; subjecting Us to Wrath, and binding Us over to Punishment; let Us confide in that gracious SURETY, who has taken the Debt upon Himself, and made it all his own. And not only so, but has paid it; paid it to the uttermost Farthing; to the very last Mite. So that Justice itself can demand no more.

Let me confirm and illustrate this comfortable Truth, by a scriptural Similitude. No Similitudes are more exact, and none so striking. I have (not you, by your penitential Exercises; but I, by my free Grace have) blotted out as a thick Cloud your Transgressions, and as a Cloud your Sins ‡. A little while ago, the whole Expanse of yonder Sky was covered with Clouds. Nothing could more strongly represent a Multitude of Corruptions besieging the Heart, and a Multitude of Iniquities overspreading the Life.—But where is, now, that immense Arrangement of gloomy Vapours? The Sun has shone them, and the Wind has swept them, clean away. There are none, neither great nor small, remaining. From one End of the wide extended Hemisphere to the other, we see nothing but the clear and beautiful Blue of the Firmament. So, saith the SPIRIT of GOD, to the Sinner that believes, so totally is

* Psal. li. 7.

† By these three Images, the Psalmist displays the horrible Nature, and destructive Malignity of Sin; together with the free Grant and invaluable Worth of the Forgiveness, which is in CHRIST JESUS. Blessed is he whose Transgression, as an insupportable Load, (נשוי) is bore or taken away; whose Sin, as being the most abominable Filth, (כסוי) is covered; unto whom the LORD imputeth not (לא יחשב) that most ruinous of all Debts, Iniquity.—It is pleasing and instructive to observe the Vehemence and the Ardour, with which the royal Penitent speaks on this favourite Topic. He breaks out with a Kind of holy Abruptness, and pours his Soul in a Variety of the warmest Expressions. As one who thought, he could not possibly enter upon the Subject too soon, or dwell upon it too long. Psal. xxxii. 1, 2.

your Guilt, however horrid and enormous, done away through the dying JESUS.

Ther. It is not possible to conceive, nor will the whole Creation afford, a more exquisitely fine Comparifon. Nothing can fo emphatically describe the moft prodigious Multitude, entirely obliterated, without the leaft Trace of their former Exiftence.—When a Stain is taken from our Garments, the Defilement is removed, but the fine native Glofs never returns. When a Wound is healed in our Flefh, the Gafh is clofed up, but fome Blemifh or Scar always remains. Whereas, when a Cloud is brushed away from the Sky, not only the tranfient Blot difappears, but the delicate Expanfe, the “living Sap“ phire,” is as glosfy and brilliant as ever*.—But I am not only chargeable with paft Iniquities; I am alfo liable to daily Mifcarriages. I relapse into Sin; and when I would do Good, Evil is prefent with me.—Nay; my beft Hours are not free from finful Infirmities, nor my beft Duties from finful Imperfections. Which, like a Worm at the Core of the Fruit, eat away the Vigour, and tarnifh the Beauty of my Services.

Asp. Because through the Frailty of your mortal Nature, You cannot always ftand upright; because even the just Man falleth daily, and daily contracteth Defilement; therefore a Fountain is opened for Sin and for Uncleanness *. The Blood and Atonement of CHRIST are compared to a heavenly Fountain. In which polluted Sinners may wash daily, wash hourly; and be constantly, perfectly clean. A Cistern may fail; may be broken or exhausted. But it is the Property of a real Fountain, never to be dried up, always to yield its Waters. Such is the Efficacy of CHRIST's Death! Not to be diminished by universal and by incessant Use. It removes the Iniquity of the Land †. It takes away the Sin of the World ‡. It is new, for our Application, every Morning; new, for this blessed Purpose, every Moment. On which Account, it makes complete Provision for our Cleansing, our Restoration and our Comfort.—Abolishing our daily, hourly, momentary Miscarriages, as thoroughly, as these Sun-beams overcome and dissipate the Shades of Night.—Especially, as this Blood is not only sovereign in its Virtue, and always free for our Approach, but is ever pleaded by a great HIGH-PRIEST in our Behalf. Therefore, the inspired Casuist directs us to this Source of Consolation, under all the Upbraidings of Conscience, and amidst all the Remains of inbred Depravity. If any Man sin, We have an Advocate with the FATHER, JESUS CHRIST the Righteous, and He is the Propitiation for our Sins ||.

We; St. John reckons Himself in the Number of those frail offending Creatures, who stand in need of CHRIST, as a perpetual Intercessor. This is written, not to encourage Us in the Commission of Sin; but that We may be the less discouraged, under a Sense of our Infirmities.—We have; not We possibly may, but We actually have. A Soul burdened with Guilt, cannot be satisfied, cannot be eased, with a bare Perhaps. It is therefore positively affirmed: as a Matter of established Certainty; of which We should not admit a Doubt.—We have for our Advocate, not a mean Person, but HIM who received an illustrious Testimony from the most excellent Glory, *This is my beloved SON.—Not a guilty Person, who stands in need of Pardon for Himself, but JESUS CHRIST, the divinely, the supremely, the only righteous One.—Not a mere Petitioner, who relies upon Liberality or Mercy; but who has merited, fully merited, whatever He asks, in Behalf of his Clients. Being the Propitiation for our Sins; having paid our Ransom, and purchased our Peace.—In Consequence of which, He claims rather than asks our renewed, our irrevocable Forgiveness.—This He claims, not from an unrelenting Judge, but from his FATHER and our FATHER—And can such a Plea meet with a Repulſe? Can such an Advocate miscarry in his Suit?—If the Prophets of old were reckoned, The Chariot of Israel, and the Horsemen thereof †; because, like their Ancestor Jacob, they had Power with GOD, and prevailed in Prayer: O! what a Defence, what a Security, is the sublimely excellent, and ever-prevailing Intercession of JESUS CHRIST.

“Your Services, You complain, are tarnished and “defective.”—Then, my dear Friend, renounce them in Point of Confidence; and gladly receive, cordially embrace, the all-perfect Righteousness of your LORD.—The Law makes nothing perfect. Your own Conformity to its Precepts, can never fit You for Heaven, never give You Peace of Conscience. Hither if We

† 2 Kings ii. 12. xiii. 14. There is a peculiar Beauty, and most apposite Significancy, in this proverbial Saying, as used by the antient Israelites. Horses and Chariots were deemed, in those Ages, the principal Strength of the Battle, the most formidable Apparatus of War. Of these the Israelites were entirely destitute. Their GOD had expressly forbidden them to multiply Horses; and We never read of their bringing any considerable Number of Cavalry into the Field.—But, so long as they enjoyed the Presence of their Prophets, they wanted not this Arm of Flesh. They had more than an Equivalent for Squadrons of Horse, and Chariots of Iron, in the fervent, the effectual Prayers of those holy Men of GOD.

look for any of these desirable Blessings; We are like those Travelers, who look for the Fruits of Eden, in the Desarts of Arabia. But our LORD JESUS CHRIST, by one Oblation, has perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

By the Oblation of Himself; which was grand, inconceivably great, and of infinite Efficacy; being ennobled by all the Glories of the GODHEAD.—On which Account, it needed no Repetition; it was incapable of any Augmentation; it is all-sufficient, though but One.—By this immensely efficacious Sacrifice He hath perfected. What are We to understand by this Expression? The Epistle to the Colossians informs Us. He hath rendered them unblameable and unreproueable in his Sight. To be free from Blame; without any Cause of just Reproof; chargeable with no Failure; Is not this a State of Perfection?—And this, not merely before a human or angelic Scrutiny, but in his Sight; before that all-penetrating Eye, which searcheth the Hearts; before that most pure Eye, which cannot behold Iniquity.—This Perfection, effected by our REDEEMER's Satisfaction, is not barely for a Day, or a Season; it knows no Intermiſſion; it continues for ever. Not like the green Hue, which vernal Suns have imparted to these Herbs and Plants; but like the blue Lustre, which the Almighty Fiat gave to yonder Expanse of the Skies.

Ther. What meaneth the following Expression? Methinks, that damps my Hopes. If I should not be in the Number of the Sanctified, this Text speaks no Comfort to me.

Asp. Those that are sanctified, says an eminent Critic, signify those who are endued with the evangelical Sanctification*. Which consists in the Holiness, the Obedience, the Death of CHRIST, imputed to them, and received by Faith. Whereby, they are cleansed from all their Filthiness, and constituted righteous in the Presence of GOD.—It is pretty evident, that the Apostle cannot intend the Righteousness of Works, or inherent Holiness; because that is always imperfect. Of that, David cries out, in the Language of Despondency, Enter not into Judgment with thy Servant. And assigns this Reason for his Request; In thy Sight, and in this Respect, no Man living shall be justified, or found perfect. No; nothing can claim that Character before HIM who dwelleth in Light inaccessible, but only the Work, the Sufferings, the Righteousness of CHRIST. These therefore, and these only, can make the Comers thereunto perfect.

I have somewhere seen, painted upon a flat Surface, an awkward and disagreeable Countenance. Nothing was regular; nothing graceful; but every Feature disproportionate. Yet this very Face, reflected from a cylindrical Mirror, has put off its Deformity; the Lineaments were reformed and well adjusted; Symmetry connected every Part, and Beauty smiled throughout the Whole.—Like the former our Virtues appear, when compared with the immaculate Purity of GOD, or the sublime Perfection of his Law. But they acquire the Amiability of the latter, when presented to the FATHER, by our divine MEDIATOR; when recommended by his most precious Oblation; and accepted in the BELOVED *.

Milton, taking this Hint from the Revelation of St. John, represents our great HIGH-PRIEST, in this glorious and delightful Attitude. Represents Him, of-

* They, the Persons and Performances of frail Men, shall come up with Acceptance on mine Altar, saith the LORD. Isai. lx. 7.—Which is explained by St. Peter's Comment; Ye are an holy Priesthood, to offer up spiritual Sacrifices, acceptable unto GOD by JESUS CHRIST, 1 Pet. ii. 5. And still farther ascertained by St. Paul's Practice. Who, when He addresses the MAJESTY of Heaven with any Petition, or presents the Tribute of Praise, presumes not to do either the one or the other, but on the appointed Altar, or in the blessed MEDIATOR's Name. Because, secluded from this grand Recommendation, they would be offensive to the awful JEHOVAH, “ as “ Smoke in his Nostrils;” accompanied with it, they are acceptable, “ as the sweet smelling Incense.”

fering up the Supplications and penitential Duties of our first Parents; purifying and perfuming them with the Incense of his own Merits; and thus interceding before the Throne.

*See, FATHER! what first Fruits on Earth are sprung
From thy implanted Grace in Man! These Sighs,
And Prayers, which in this golden Censer mix'd With Incense, I thy PRIEST before Thee bring.*

————— *Now therefore bend thine Ear
To Supplication; hear his Sighs though mute!
Unskilful with what Words to pray, let ME
Interpret for Him; ME his Advocate
And Propitiation. All his Works on ME, Good, or not good, ingraft: MY Merit those Shall perfect; and for these MY Death shall pay*.*

The Poet's Words are very emphatical. Yet Words can no more express the Prevalence of our LORD's Negotiation, than the Picture of the Sun can diffuse its Splendor, or convey its Warmth.—Though our poor Performances are rendered acceptable by this prevailing Intercessor; let Us never forget, that His Works, supremely righteous and incomparably excellent, are the Cause of our Salvation. By his Works, I am justified: by his Works, I am saved. They are my Plea; and can there be a more substantial one? They are my Boast; and can there be a more rational one?

Ther. When I look on myself, and my religious Obligations, I find, that my spiritual Wants are many. I have many Duties to discharge, and many Temptations to withstand. I have many Corruptions to mortify, and many Graces to cultivate. Yet have I no Stock, and no Strength of my own.

Asp. I rejoice, that my Theron is sensible of his own Indigence. The good LORD keep Us both, in this Respect, as little Children ; whose whole Dependence is upon their Nurse's Care, or their Parent's Bounty ! Then may we, having such a Sense of our Poverty, and having a great HIGH-PRIEST over the House of GOD, come boldly to the Throne of Grace. We may apply, through the Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST, for all needful Succour, and for every desirable Blessing.—If Solomon could say ; LORD, remember David, and all his Trouble. If Moses could say ; LORD, remember Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob thy Servants. How much more confidently may we say ; “ LORD, remember JESUS the Son of thy Love ! “ Remember JESUS, and all his Sufferings ; JESUS, “ and all his Merits. Shall they be sent empty away, “ who have their SAVIOUR's Obedience and Death “ to plead ?”—No verily. Though they are altogether unworthy in themselves, yet worthy is the LAMB that was slain, for whose Sake their Petitions should be granted, and their every Necessity supplied.

* MILTON, Book XI. l. 22, &c.

Let me repeat to you a most beautiful and encouraging Portion of Scripture. Which you may look upon, under all your Wants, as Charte Blanche put into your Hand by GOD all-sufficient. It gives You full Liberty, to ask what You need ; and good Ground, to expect what You ask. Having therefore, Brethren, Boldness to enter into the Holiest by the Blood of JESUS ; by a new and living Way which he has consecrated for Us, through the Veil, that is to say, his Flesh ; And having an HIGH-PRIEST over the House of GOD ; let Us draw near with a true Heart, in full Assurance of Faith.*

The Apostle, in this Place, and throughout this whole Epistle, alludes to the Mosaic Ordinances ; in order to shew, that the Privileges of the Christian Dispensation, were typified by, yet are greatly superior to, those of the Jewish.—Among the Jews, none but the High-Priest was permitted to set a Foot within the Holy of Holies ; and He, only on the solemn Day of Expiation. Whereas, all Christians are allowed to enter into the immediate Presence of the most High GOD; may have the nearest Access to HIM, who dwells in the Heaven of Heavens; and this, not once in the Year only, but at all Times, and on all Occasions.—The High-Priest never made that awful Approach, but with the Blood of a slaughtered Animal. We have Blood of infinitely richer Value, to atone for our Failings, and recommend our Addresses; even the Blood of the crucified JESUS.—Aaron entered through the Veil of the Temple; a Way, which was soon to become antiquated, and for ever to be abolished. We enter by a far more noble Way; by the Flesh of our blessed REDEEMER; given as a propitiatory Sacrifice for our Sins. Which Way is both new and living; such as never waxes old, will subsist to the End of Time, and leads to eternal Life.—Trusting in this Sacrifice, and entering by this Way, which are consecrated on Purpose for our Use, We may not only draw near, but draw near with Boldness, with an humble filial Confidence; and present our Supplications with Affurance of Faith—with full Assurance of Faith.

How strong is the Contrast, and how fine the Gradation! How precious the Doctrine, and how free the Privilege! What shall We fear, if we believe this Doctrine? What can we lack, if we improve this Privilege?—And why should We not believe the former, why should We not improve the latter? Since they both are founded, not on any excellent Endowments, not on any recommending Actions of our own, but purely, solely, entirely on the Blood of JESUS CHRIST.

Ther. There may come Seasons of Desertion, when all Graces are languid if not dead: When the Light of GOD's Countenance is suspended, if not turned into Darkness: and the Man is more like a lifeless Log, than a zealous Christian. These Frames of Mind I have heard mentioned, and I begin to know something of them by Experience.

Asp. Then Theron, when you walk in Darkness, and see no Light of sensible Comfort, trust in the Name, the unchangeable Grace, of the LORD; and stay upon the Righteousness, the consummate Righteousness of your *GOD. This, you see, is not barely my Advice, but the Direction of an infallible Guide.—This agrees also with the Character of a real Christian, as it is most exactly drawn by an unerring Pen. We rejoice in CHRIST JESUS, and have no Confidence in the Flesh †; no Reliance on any Thing of our own, either for present Joy, or future Glory. What CHRIST has done, is that which pleases GOD. What CHRIST has done, is that which quiets our Consciences, and cheers our Hearts. It is the glorious Robe of HIS Righteousness, which covers our Sins, and adorns our Persons; which renders Us completely and eternally righteous before GOD himself: and gives Us a sure, an unalienable Title to the Blessedness of Heaven.

To rely on the Elevation of our Spirits, or the Enlargement of our Devotion, is like building our House upon the Ice. Which may abide for a Season; but, upon the first Alteration of Weather, ceases to be a Foundation, and becomes Water that runneth apace. Whereas, to derive our Consolation from the MEDIATOR's Righteousness, and JEHOVAH's Faithfulness, is to build our Edifice upon the Rock: which may not be removed, but standeth fast for ever. The former of these, even amidst all our Changes, is invariably the same. The latter, notwithstanding all our Unwor-

We are they, who worship GOD in the Spirit; with the spiritual Homage of a renewed Heart; with Faith, Love, Resignation. And rejoice in CHRIST JESUS; in Him look for all our Acceptance with GOD; from Him derive all the Peace of our Minds; and on Him place all the Hope of our final Felicity. thinefs, thiness, is inviolably sure. Therefore, the Fruit of that Righteousness is Peace, and the Effect of this Faithfulness is; if not rapturous Joy, yet Quietness and Assurance for ever *.

So that when it is Winter in my Soul, and there lies a Dearth on all my sensible Delights, I would still say with the Psalmist; “Why art thou so disquieted, O my Soul? CHRIST is the same amidst all thy Derelictions. He is a green Fir-Tree †, which never loses its Verdure. Under his Shadow Thou may’st always find Repose.

“ We have Peace with GOD, not because We feel this or that holy Emotion in our Breasts: not because We are conscious of any Difference, between Ourselves and the most flagitious of Mankind. But because JESUS is the CHRIST, and has fulfilled all Righteousness in our Stead.—We may not always be fervent in Spirit. We may not always be free from vile Affections. But his Merit and Atonement are always mighty to save. They constitute an everlasting and infinite Basis for our Justification. The Promises of GOD, through his Mediation, are yea, and amen ‡; are unquestionably and irrevocably ours; are, amidst all Circumstances, and under the deepest Desertion, ours.”

Ther. ’Tis very probable, I may meet with Afflictions; Death in my Family, or Disease in my Person. Disappointments may frustrate my Designs. Providence may wear a frowning Aspect; as though the LORD had a Controversy with his sinful Creature, and was

‡ 2 Cor. i. 20. Yea and Amen.—Yea; that is, our own. When a poor Man presents a Petition, and his rich Friend answers, Yea; the Favour is granted; the Gift becomes his own.—Amen; sure to be performed. The Word signifies Truth or Faithfulness. Implying, that the Promises are as certain as Truth can make them; as much to be depended on, as Faithfulness itself.—All this in CHRIST JESUS. Not by Virtue of any good Works, or on Condition of any Worthiness in Us, but wholly on Account of CHRIST JESUS—of his inestimable Blood and everlasting Righteousness.

causing Him to possess the Iniquities of his Youth. And what will be sufficient to support and to cheer, in such a gloomy Hour * ?

Asp. The Righteousness of CHRIST.—An Ambassador from the Spanish Court, was once extolling, at a prodigious Rate, the magnificence and Glory of his Sovereign. He set about proving his Superiority to all other Monarchs, by running over a long Catalogue of Countries, Provinces, and States subject to his Dominion. An Envoy from the French King being present, replied to each of these petty Titles, France ! France ! never varying his Answer, but still repeating the Word France. Thereby representing this one Monarchy, as more than equivalent to all those inconsiderable Principalities.—With unspeakably greater Propriety may I constantly reiterate, The Righteousness ! The Righteousness ! The incomprehensively glorious Righteousness of JESUS CHRIST ! as a most satisfactory Answer to all Complaints ; as a most solid Support under all Troubles ; and as more than equal to all our Wants.

Nothing is so sovereign, to calm our Fears, and remove all Apprehensions of the divine Wrath. Apprehensions of the divine Wrath, would draw the Curtains of Horror around our sick Beds, and throw upon our languishing Eye-lids the Shadow of Death †. But a believing Improvement of the imputed Righteousness clears up the mournful Scene, and takes away the Sting of Tribulation.

Attending to this great Propitiation, the Sufferer sees his Sins forgiven, and his GOD reconciled. From

* The Sufficiency of CHRIST's Righteousness, to answer all these important and delightful Ends, is excellently displayed in Mr. RAWLIN'S Sermons, entitled CHRIST the Righteousness of his People. In which the Public have seen the grand and amiable Essentials of the Gospel, delivered in masculine Language ; defended by nervous Reasoning ; and animated with a lively Devotion.

† Alluding to that Description of Tribulation, and Anguish, which, I believe, no Person of Sensibility can read without shuddering ; My Face is foul with Weeping, and on my Eye-lids is the Shadow of Death. Job xvi. 16.

whence he concludes, that the severest Afflictions are only fatherly Corrections; shall not exceed his Ability to bear; and shall assuredly obtain a gracious Issue. He can fetch Comfort from that cheering Word, I will be with him in Trouble: and expect the Accomplishment of that most consolatory Promise, I will deliver Him, and bring him to Honour *.—These Supports have enabled the Saints, to kiss the Rod, and bless the Hand, which chastised them. To possess their Souls, not in Patience only, but in Thankfulness also. While they have looked inward, and discerned their absolute Need of these bitter but salutary Medicines: Have looked upward, and beheld the Cup in a most wise and tender PHYSICIAN'S Hand: Have looked forward, with a joyful Hope, to that better World; where GOD will wipe away all Tears from their Eyes, and there shall be no more Sorrow, nor any more Pain.

Ther. The last Occasion of Need is the trying Hour of Death, and the tremendous Day of Judgment. Will this Righteousness carry Us, with Safety, through the darksome Valley; and present Us, with Acceptance, at the dreadful Tribunal?

Asp. It will: It will.—This silences all the Curses of the Law, and disarms Death of every Terror. To believe in this Righteousness, is to meet Death at our SAVIOUR'S Side: or, rather, like good old Simeon, with the SAVIOUR in our Arms.—They overcame, says the beloved Disciple; they overcame the last Enemy, not by natural Fortitude, or philosophic Resolution, but by the Blood of the LAMB †. By that grand Price of Redemption, which cost the REDEEMER every Drop of his Blood: which delivers Sinners from the Wrath to come, and entitles them to the incorruptible Inheritance.

I know, adds the Heroic Apostle, whom I have believed ‡; I am assured, that my JESUS is infinitely faithful, and will not desert me; that his Ransom is absolutely sufficient, and cannot deceive me. Therefore, with a holy Bravery, He bids Defiance to Death; or, rather, triumphs over it, as a vanquished Enemy; Thanks be to GOD who giveth Us the Victory through our LORD JESUS CHRIST!* Nay, through the victorious Efficacy of CHRIST's Propitiation, Death is ours †; not our Foe, but our Friend and Deliverer. We may number it among our Treasures; and rest satisfied, That to die, is Gain.

What? Though our Flesh see Corruption. Though this Body, vile at present, be made viler still, by dwelling amidst Worms, and mouldering in the Dust; yet through HIS Righteousness, who is the Resurrection and the Life, it shall shake off the Dishonours of the Grave: It shall rise to a new and illustrious State of Existence: It shall be made like the glorious and immortal Body of our triumphant LORD.—If the Body be so refined, so exalted; what will be the Dignity, what the Perfection, of the Soul! Or rather, of Soul and Body both, when they are happily and indissolubly united, at the Resurrection of the Just?—Shall they have any thing to fear, when the Judgment is set, and the Books are opened? 'Tis probable there will be no Accusation, 'tis certain there is no Condemnation to them that are in CHRIST JESUS ‡. Who shall lay any Thing to their Charge? It is GOD—not Man, or Angel, or any Creature, but GOD—that justifies them. The GOD whose Law was broke, the GOD to whom Vengeance belongeth, He Himself pronounces them innocent, because their Iniquities have been laid upon CHRIST; He Himself pronounces them righteous, because they are interested in the Obedience of their REDEEMER; on these Accounts, He Himself pronounces them blessed, and gives them an abundant Entrance into the Joy of their LORD.

But what can express, or who can imagine their Happiness, when they take up their Abode, in the Palaces of Heaven; amidst the Choirs of Angels; and under the Light of GOD's Countenance! When they possess the Hope of Righteousness *; when they wear the Crown of Righteousness †; and receive that great, that eternal Salvation, which is an adequate Recompence for the Humiliation and Agonies of JESUS CHRIST the righteous ‡.

Come then, my dear Theron, let Us henceforth be as Branches, ingrafted into the heavenly VINE; derive all our Sap, all our Moisture, all our Consolation, from his Fulness. Let Us live upon our all-sufficient REDEEMER, as the Israelites subsisted on their Manna from Heaven, and their Waters from the Rock; and not wish for other, as we cannot possibly enjoy better Sustenance.

Ther. Is this the Meaning of our LORD's Exhortation, when he shews the Necessity of eating his Flesh, and drinking his Blood?

Asp. 'Tis the very same. A repeated and incessant Application of our SAVIOUR's Merits for all the Purposes of Piety and Salvation, is the Kernel of this Nut, the Meaning of this Metaphor.—When we habitually advert to JESUS CHRIST, as dying for our Sins, and rising again for our Justification; performing all Righteousness, that we may be intitled to an eternal Crown; and interceding in Heaven, that we may be filled with all the Fulness of GOD: Then we eat his Flesh, and drink his Blood.—When We habitually advert to JESUS CHRIST, as entirely abolishing all our Guilt; making Us whiter than snow, by his most precious Blood; and, through his transcendently noble Obedience, presenting Us unblameable before GOD. Then we derive a Life of solid Comfort, and real Godliness, from his mediatorial Offices; just as we derive the Continuance of our natural Life, from the daily Use of alimentary Recruits.

* Gal. v. 5.

† 2 Tim. iv. 8.

Ther. Your Discourse brings to my Remembrance that magnificent and beautiful Passage in Scripture, where CHRIST is called THE SUN OF RIGHTEOUSNESS. Your Doctrine sets the Comparison in a very advantageous Light; gives it the utmost Force, and the greatest Propriety.—The Righteousness of CHRIST, according to your Account, is as extensively useful in the Christian Life, as the Beams of that grand Luminary are in the material World.—The Sun fills the Air; where it sheds the Light, and pours the Day.—The Sun penetrates the Ocean; from whence it exhales Vapours, and forms the Clouds.—In the vegetable Creation, the Sun raises the Sap, and protrudes the Gems; unfolds the Leaves, and paints the Blossom; distends the Fruit, and concocts the Juices. Turn we to the animal World; the Sun lends Sight to every Eye, and awakens Myriads of Insects into Being. It diffuses those reviving Rays, in which all Nature basks; and dispenses that general Smile, in which every sensible Creature exults. Indeed, its benign Agency is universal. There is nothing hid from the Heat thereof.

Asp. Thus the LORD JESUS CHRIST, that true and only Sun of Righteousness, arises on his People with Healing in his Wings *. So various, so efficacious, and so extensive are his Influences. Like a Sun, He enlightens and enlivens: like Wings, He cherishes and protects: like a Remedy, He heals and restores. And all, by virtue of his Righteousness, on account of his Righteousness.—Nor can We doubt, nor need We wonder, if We consider its Nature and its Author. Its Nature; it is supremely excellent, has every Kind, and every Degree of Perfection. Its Author; it is the Righteousness and Obedience of that sublime PERSON, in whom dwells all the Fulness of the GOD-HEAD.

It must therefore—You will permit me to sum up in a Word, what has been displayed at large—It must be fully answerable to the Demands of the Law, even in its highest Purity, and utmost Exactness.—It is infinitely superior to the Demerit of Sin, and entirely absolves from all Guilt, entirely exempts from all Condemnation.—It is a most valid and never-failing Plea, against the Accusations of Satan, and the Challenges of Conscience. It establishes an undoubted Title to every Blessing, whether in Time or in Eternity, whether of Grace or of Glory.—It is a sure Support for the Christian, in an Hour of Desertion, and in the Agonies of Death. Casting Anchor on this Bottom, He may dismiss every Fear, and ride out every Storm. Leaning upon this Staff, He may go down to the Repose of the Grave; and neither be appalled at the solemn Harbingers of Dissolution, nor terrified at its far more awful Consequences.—The Merit of this Righteousness, and the Power of its DIVINE AUTHOR, will unseal the Tomb; will bring forth the sleeping Dust from the Chambers of Putrefaction, and build up the whole Man into Immortality and Glory. By this He will be presented without Spot *; presented faultless †; yea, be presented perfect ‡; and with exceeding Joy, before the Throne.

What a Gift then is the Righteousness of CHRIST! —“ O my Soul, what wouldst thou wish, for thy Consolation and Joy? What wouldst thou wish, to be the Stability of thy Hope, and the Strength of thy Salvation?—Wouldst thou have that, which is greater than the whole World, and all its Grandeur, and all its Treasure? Thou hast it in CHRIST.—Wouldst thou have that, which is greater than the Heaven of Heavens and all its starry Host, and all its angelic Inhabitants? Thou hast it in CHRIST.—Wouldst thou have that, which is abundantly greater, incomparably greater, immensely greater than all?—Thou hast it in CHRIST.—Wouldst thou have that, which is great as the inexorable Justice of GOD can demand; great as the unsearchable Wisdom of GOD
